When war ends, we must see that Free Enterprise is restored to her old job of making Australia a happy and secure place in which to live. There will be those who will want to kill Free Enterprise, but let us all see that no one lifts an axe to this goose of ours.

For nearly 100 years, under Free Enterprise, the A.M.P. Society has been building up its strength, the better to serve its members. Last year it paid out £8,660,000 in benefits. Its assets are now worth £141,000,000, every penny of which belongs to its members. Let them guard well their savings and their Society's freedom of enterprise.

LETTER WRITERS

SHOULD PLAY SAFE

What Censorship Means

In spite of the fact that Australia has been at war for nearly four years, there is still a large percentage of the people who do not understand what censorship means, and why it exists.

The primary reason for censorship is to prevent vital information falling into enemy hands. Vital information is a phrase which covers a multitude of subjects, a few of which are:

Information about our munitions, our weapons, our aircraft, the location of aerodromes, factories and defences, the movements of shipping and troops, our morals, and our weather.

You may ask the question: "If I write this in a letter, how is it going to reach the enemy?"

There are several ways, the most likely being the interception of a mail steamer or plane by an enemy ship. This has been done on many occasions, and you may be sure that the mails are removed for a careful perusal. A case was quoted recently of a letter posted by a woman in Coburg which arrived at its destination in Ireland after having been passed by the German censor.

Many bitter remarks about the censor are made in letters by a small section of the community who seem to regard the censor as their enemy. This attitude is hard to understand when you consider that the very people who revile the censor have friends and relations whose lives can be endangered by the pieces of information which th censor considers it his duty to delete from their letters.

Consider the case of a person who wrote: "The Military are back at—— I don't know what they are doing, but they are building a big concrete affair and have listening apparatus. It looks as though they are going to mount an anti-aircraft gun or something."

That information didn't reach the enemy, but if it had, he could have made good use of such a piece of news.

The censor is doing a job of national importance, and should be regarded as a friend rather than an enemy. His duty is to protect,not to annoy people.

Yet another point on which you may not be clear is the question: "Why should I bother to take care in what I write when the censor is there to look after it?"

There are two answers to that question. The first is that the censor is a human being, and not an infallible machine, and he can very easily miss a piece of information.

When a person has read hundreds of letters during the day—and there are few things more boring than other people's letters—there is every chance of a small apparently irrelevant item of news slipping through. The other answer to the question is that it must be rather unsatisfactory for your correspondent to try reading a letter with large pieces deleted.

So much for what censorship means. Now for what it does:—

When the censor finds an offending passage in a letter he may simply delete it and release the letter. But if the case is particularly serious he makes a copy of the offensive matter and forwards it to the proper authorities—in this case the Commonwealth Security Service. It is then up to this Service to decide whether the writer of the letter should be warned or prosecuted. National Scurity Regulations provide for a penalty of £100 fine or six months' imprisonment, or both, for breaches of the censorship regulations.

Recent prosecutions in Victoria for careless letter writing and talking have resulted in the following penalties:—

(1) A toolmaker fined £10 for writing about his work in a munition factory.
(2) A chemist fined £20 for a similar offence.
(3) A marine surveyor fined £20 for writing about shipping movements.

This is briefly what censorship means, so it's up to letter writers to play safe, not only for their own sakes, and thereby avoid a penalty, but for the sake of our fighting services, whose very lives may be endangered by careless chatter. Think twice before you write once.

Between the outbrak of war and June 4, 1943, Australian factories made 4,800,000 towels.

Before the Japanese took the Netherlands East Indies Australia got more than 80 per cent of her tea from that source.

APPEAL FOR BOOKS AND CARDS

Help the Boys

The Australian Comforts Fund is urgently appealing for books, magazines, playing cards, or any other indoor games or sporting material for the men of the fighting forces.

The men in the front line or outposts are entitled to these amenities of life, and the Fund asks residents to do their best to supply these articles.

Mr. A. W. Young, Gladstone Cash and Carry, has kindly consented to take possession of these donations, so please forward all you can without delay, and thus help the Fund to help the boys.

At the Royal estate at Sandringham 1433 acres are under cultivation. Six acres of lawn in front of the house are producing rye.

CHINA

Food Production

Few nations have a more expert knowledge of food production than China.

The difficulties which confront other nations in times of emergency is ever present in China. Her ancient agricultural economy, her enormous population, and constant preoccupation of how to feed them, have made her learn all there is to know about the production of food.

China is the oldest and largest agricultural country in the world. Her total area of farm land is 232 million acres, supporting a population of 450 millions.

The worst enemies of the Chinese farmer are floods, droughts, insect pests, and the exhaustion of lands which have been cultivated for thousands of years.

All these enemies can be defeated by modern methods. China has a huge agricultural programme, which is under way already, and the Chinese Government is advancing farmers' education, supplying cheap credit, and has started hundreds of rural co-operatives. As a result, Szechwan and the North-west have produced record crops of wheat and rice, China's staple foods, in the past few years.

Distribution of food is as important as production. As early as the 6th century the Chinese built the 1000-miles long canal known as the Shipping Food Canal. To-day China plans to build new railways and roads, and so transport food more quickly to the consuming areas.

To combat the danger of recurrent famine, the Chinese are going to bring up to date their ancient equalisation granary system.

The Governments of old China used to purchase grain from the people in the fat years and sell it to them at cost prices in lean years. The present day idea of buffer stocks is a modern version of what the Chinese were doing centuries ago.

After six years of war the food position in China has never been more acute. But the plan of the oldest farming country is in many ways a model for the world.

VEGETABLE PRODUCTION

"Grow Your Own" Campaign

The civilian population of Australia is day by day assuming a more important place in the fight to maintain the freedom of the world. A short time ago concern was expressed because of the piling up of foodstuffs due to shipping shortage. Now concern is expressed because in many directions we need more foodstuffs. The explanation, of course, lies in the simple fact that more and more people are becoming directly dependent upon Australia for food supplies.

The latest responsibility which civilians are to undertake is that of growing vegetables for their own needs in the home gardens. A campaign to stimulate home growing of vegetables was launched a few weeks ago by Mr. W. J. Scully, Commonwealth Minister for Commerce and Agriculture, under the title of "Grow Your Own."

Commonwealth and State Departments of Agriculture have combined efforts to stimulate production of home-grown vegetables in the campaign which will be conducted through the medium of the press, radio and schools. Special pamphlets giving instructions in preparation of seed, beds and the sowing and care of plants are also being distributed, and they are available to home gardeners on application to State Departments of Agriculture.

Australia's "Grow Your Own" campaign is in line with similar campaigns in Great Britain and America. Britain's "Dig For Victory" campaign was the solution to her food problems when imports shrunk to their present meagre proportions.

It was this phase of her war effort which undoubtedly enabled her to survive the blockade.

America too has turned attention to "Home Growing of Vegetables." Although America's programme for commercial production of vegetables is probably more efficient than that of any other nation, it is not considered adequate to meet her requirements, and she has launched a home-growing campaign on a large scale.

Commonwealth and State Governments which are co-operating in the Australian project indicate that householders are being regarded as part of the national planning machinery to meet requirements and that by producing vegetables at home they are relieving the commercial market for demand of that food.

The vegetables and commodities which they do not buy because they eat what they produce themselves will, of course, go to the fighting forces.

It is pointed out also that if in addition to growing more vegetables householders increase the quantity of vegetables which they now eat, their demands for meat, butter and other commodities which are so much needed foodstuffs can then be increased.

COMMERCIAL POTATO GROWERS

Must Register

Unless all commercial potato growers, irrespective of the area grown by them, are registered by September 30, they will not receive payment of any potato subsidy for old potatoes.

The Commonwealth potato controller (Mr. A. Foster) stated the Commonwealth Government's plan to sell potatoes at 5 lbs. for 6d was to offset the increase in the cost of living and it was necessary to extend registration to all commercial growers.

Growers already under contract with the Australian Potato Committee or registered with a State organisation under State legislation would automatically be registered, and need not make fresh application.

ORANGE PEEL

Rich In Vitamins

Australian scientists have proved in the last few months that the skins of Australian oranges and lemons and grapefruit—the peels everyone used to throw away—contain more of the anti-scurvy vitamin C than the fruit inside them.

They have also discovered that marmalade made in a special way from orange skins is richer in vitamin C than pure orange juice.

Because enormous quantities of citrus fruits are being processed to extract their juices for troops far away from fresh food supplies, oranges and lemons and grapefruit are not so plentiful in Australia as they used to be.

A quarter of the Australian orange crop this year is going to the troops, half the lemon crop, and all the market grapefruit. That can only mean that both troops and civilians need to make the most of all the fruit—skins and all.

Australians used to throw away thousands of tons of orange and lemon peels every year.

The new discovery that the orange skin contains twice as much vitamin C as the fruit inside it, and that the grapefruit contains four times as much vitamin as the grapefruit itself, looks like revolutionising our jam making.

The skins should be made into marmalade. As soon as possible after you have peeled your oranges, or squeezed them for their juice, drop them whole into boiling water in a jam boiler, and let them boil a few minutes. Then take them out, and without any more delay than you can help, shred them finely. Be sure you boil before shredding, because that kills the enzymes, which otherwise would destroy the vitamin when you let the air into the broken skin cells by shredding.

Then you can make your marmalade in the ordinary way. It can be made entirely of orange or lemon or grapefruit peel, provided you add plenty of lemon juice to provide an acid that will make the marmalade jelly. If you don't get acid into it that way, you will find the marmalade merely sticky or watery instead of having a firm jelly base, for the peels alone contain no acid, and you can't get jelly without acid.

AUSTERITY MESSAGES

From the wives . . .

. . . of AUSTRALIA'S LEADERS

"Saving can be exciting. I have found that out for myself and pass it on to you. In peace time we Australians were free spenders, and it was fun to buy nice things, and plan little treats, but now we're at war, and a thrifty living is necessary to the success of the War Effort. Feel that every economy and self-denial helps our boys. Be proud of the mounting total of your Bonds and War Savings Certificates, and, believe me, you'll get a thrill out of saving."

Muriel Jones.

GENFORD.—In loving memory of our dear son and brother (Jim), who passed away on the 20th September, 1941.

Deep in our hearts a memory is kept
Of one we loved and shall never forget.
A smiling face, a heart of gold,
One of the best this world could hold.
A beautiful life came to an end:
He died as he lived, everyone's friend.

CURRENT TOPICS

INCREASE IN POLICE FORCE.

An increase in the personnel of the Queensland Police Force from 1680 to 1791 is provided for in the departmental estimates of expenditure tabled in Parliament this week. This increase will bring the salary list of the force up to £591,247 for this year, compared with £531,556 last year. War conditions in this State, with the increased population and civil defence work, have necessitated the strengthening of the force.

FOOD AND RAW MATERIALS.

Dealing with the changed war position in Australia, the Premier, Mr. Cooper, said now that the threat of invasion had been removed we should take stock of our position. There was a definite call to us to make greater efforts in the direction of supplying the Allied Forces and the Mother Country with food and raw materials, but this change did not envisage nor entail any slackening of our war effort.

PAY-AS-YOU-GO TAX.

Mr. Curtin, commenting on London reports that pay-as-you-earn taxation had been recommended and was likely to be adopted, said that any workable proposal which may be developed by the British Government would be examined by the Federal Government. Pay-as-you earn taxation was rejected by the Treasurer (Mr. Chifley) in the last Parliament. There are indications that some of the new members of the Labour Caucus are well disposed to the scheme, and it may be revived as part of the post-war policy of the Government.

THANKS FOR OTTLES.

Mrs. W. R. Golding, treasurer of the Red Cross Society, recently required a large number of empty bottles for jam and pickles for the Paddy's market, and the appeal was brought under the notice of the head teacher (Mr. F. C. Thompson), who asked the school children to assist. The response was very gratifying, about 150 bottles being delivered to Mrs. Golding. The best thanks of the branch are due to the scholars for their assistance. Any further bottles may be left at Mrs. Golding's residence, Auckland Street.

PRISONERS OF WAR

IN JAPANESE HANDS

Darcy Walters and Pat Flanagan

Mr. and Mrs. W. Walters, of Auckland Hill, Gladstone, have received information that their son, Gunned Darcy Walters, is a prisoner of war in Japanese hands.

The advice came in a post card dated July, 1942, and sent through the International Red Cross at Geneva.

In a brief communication the Gladstone man said that he was safe and in good spirits, and looking forward to his return home after the war.

This is the first news received concerning Darcy since he was last seen wounded just prior to the fall of Singapore.

A fellow digger who got away at the time said that the Gladstone boy had his head heavily bandaged, and asked that his parents be advised that he was otherwise alright.

Then followed a very long and anxious period for relatives and friends, and despite close contact with names given on the radio, etc., no information could be secured.

Many feared that Darcy had succumbed to his injuries, but several staunch friends were confident that he would survive the crisis.

Gunner Walters was on the clerical staff of Swifts Aust. (Pty.) Company Ltd. at the time of his enlistment, and he was one of the early batch which went to Malaya.

Extremely popular, particularly with the younger section of town and district residents, the news of his safety was received with feelings of relief and gratitude, and the parents were the recipients of many congratulatory messages from a host of friends all over the district.

Lieut. Clive Moore, Lieut. W. ("Billy") McGeever, and the Muspratt brothers are others who have at various times been reported as prisoners of war in that area.

GUNNER PAT FLANAGAN

Mr. and Mrs. M. Flanagan, of Bramston Street, Gladstone, have received word contained in a post card, dated 20th June, 1943, that their son, Gunner Patrick James Flanagan, was a prisoner of war in Japanese hands.

The many friends of the genial Pat will be delighted to learn that he was not wounded, and was in the best of health.

It will be remembered that Gunner Flanagan went through the Malayan campaign, and was at Singapore when it fell.

On May 19 last Mrs. Flanagan was officially notified that her son had been interned in a Malayan camp.

It is to be hoped that the next mail will bring news from many other local boys who went through the Malayan campaign.

COMFORTS FUND

MONTHLY MEETING

Comforts For "Gladstone"

At the usual monthly meeting of the A.C.F. there were present: The President (Mrs. C. W. Macfarlan) Hon. Treasurer (Mrs. A. D. Hopper), Hon. Secretary (Mrs. J. W. Garrett), and Mesdames W. Chapman, C. Chapman, Richards, Turner, Wood Keller, J. Worthington, Jones, and Stewart. Apologies were received from Mesdames H. C. Smith, Beutell, and Burnham.

Accounts amounting to £50/14/9 were passed for payment.

SEWING AND KNITTING CIRCLE.

The convenors of the Sewing and Knitting Circle (Mesdames R. Jones and J. Worthington) submitted the following report for the month ended 10/9/43:—111 mess bags, 171 washers, 12 suits pyjamas, 35 handkerchiefs, 51 pairs socks.

Books and magazines were received from Mrs. Waite (Ubobo), Mr. H. Ballantine (Galloway Plains), and Mesdames Coppin, T. Dwyer, Hando, Menzies (Stowe), Patrick, Horne (Calliope), Leo Roebuck, Jas. Worthington, Blain, Dwyer, Ferguson, A. Horne (Calliope), gramophone records.

COMFORTS FOR "GLADSTONE"

The quarterly issue of comforts has been forwarded to H.M.A.S. Gladstone from this branch.

AUGUST STALL £45.

The result of the August street stall was £45.

COMFORTS TO HEADQUARTERS.

A case of comforts was packed and dispatched to headquarters, containing 68 mess bags, 4 prs. pyjamas, 263 handkerchiefs, and 48 pairs socks.

RED CROSS SOCIETY

NEW JOINT SECRETARY

Mr. Roe O'Neill Appointed

At the monthly meeting of the Gladstone branch of the Red Cross Society, Mr. Roe O'Neill was appointed joint hon. secretary (with Mr. V. A. Summers) in place of Mrs. P. F. Browne, who had to resign the position last month on account of ill-health.

In introducing the new joint secretary to members, Mr. V. A. Summers said that he felt sure the increasing work of the branch would be greatly relieved. However, the Society was urgently needing the loan of a typewriter (portable for preference) so that Mr. O'Neill could deal with some of the correspondence at his home.

The new joint secretary was welcomed by the Acting President (Mrs. A. H. Friend) and other officers, who extended their best wishes.

The resignation of Mrs. Browne was accepted with regret, reference to her excellent work in assisting Mr. Summers during recent months being placed on record.

TYPEWRITER WANTED

Any supporter able to loan or hire a typewriter to the branch is kindly asked to get in touch with Mr. Summers, 'phone 163, or the publicity officer (Mr. Connellan), at the Gladstone Agencies.

C.W. ASSOCIATION

MONTHLY MEETING

Various Matters Dealt With

The usual monthly meeting of the Gladstone branch of the Q.C. Association was presided over by Mrs. W. Chapman (vice-president) in the absence of Mrs. Phillips (president), who is ill in hospital.

There was a fair number of members present, and a few apologies were received.

The meeting opened with the singing of "My Creed," followed by two minutes' silent prayer for the fighting forces and those bereaved.

Among the correspondence were several letters conveying congratulations to the branch on its achievement of raising £50 towards the purchase of the Service Girls' Hostel, "Hollyrood," in Brisbane.

Mrs. Chandler, D.V.P., suggested that the Association should purchase a picture of Gladstone, to be hung in the Gladstone room.

Mrs. R. Woods donated a very nice cushion, to be sent to the hostel. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to Mrs. Woods.

In the absence of Mrs. Irwin, Mrs. Beale reported that the euchre evenings were very sociable.

The Secretary reported that no distress work or travellers' aid had been required this month.

"Havarest" was still occupied and in good order.

The Rest Room is engaged for two parties, and a donation was received from the V.A.D.'s per the quartermaster for same.

Hospital visiting had been carried on during the month by Mesdames Phillips and W. Chapman. Mesdames Norton and Baynton have offered to visit this month, and would be glad of reading matter.

The convenor reported that good work had been done by the camouflage netmakers. Several are almost completed, and plenty of twine is on hand.

It was proposed by Mrs. Burnham, seconded by Mrs. Gerber, that Mrs. Chapman (supervisor) be sent as a delegate by the Younger Set to the annual divisional meeting.

It was proposed by Mrs. Beale, seconded by Mrs. Norton, that the President (Mrs. Phillips) and Mrs. Baynton (V.P.) be the delegates for the branch, and Mrs. Burnham, as Council members.

Members expressed sympathy to the President and all wished her a speedy recovery from her illness. The Secretary is to convey this to her.

The mystery parcel (donated by Mrs. Burnham) was won by Mrs. Beale. Mesdames Connellan and Ricketts have in Australia.
kindly donated a parcel each.

A hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mrs. Chapman for conducting the meeting.

A dainty afternoon tea was then served.

SERIOUS CHARGES

STEALING RAILWAY PROPERTY

Defendants Convicted and Fined

Kevin William McLaughlin (24), loco. fireman, and Ray Bernard Lawes (22), acting loco. fireman, appeared in the Police Court on Tuesday before the S.M. (Mr. M. Dwyer) on a charge of conjointly attempting to steal one oil air filter, valued at approximately £2, the property of the Commissioner of Railways.

PLEADED GUILTY.

McLaughlin and Lawes elected to be dealt with summarily, and pleaded guilty to the charge. They were convicted and each fined £5, to be paid forthwith, in default one month's imprisonment with hard labour in Brisbane Gaol.

In the afternoon of the same day both men again appeared in the Police Court before Messrs. J. Donovan and C. Bycroft, J's.P., on a charge of conjointly stealing two pieces of sponge rubber and a piece of canvas, valued at £3, the property of the Commissioner of Railways.

In answer to the charge both men pleaded guilty, and were convicted and each fined £1, in default 14 days' imprisonment, the sentences to be concurrent.

A WISE HEAD.

The circumstances surrounding the first case was that about 8 p.m. on September 13, Constable Gerber was at his house, which is in the vicinity of the railway yards, when he heard an unusual noise, as if a tarpaulin was being torn.

MAN FOLLOWED.

Constable Gerber kept that portion of the railway yard under observation for a brief period, and he saw a man appear from behind the railway waggons wearing a white shirt, and proceed in the direction of the Auckland Point Jetty. The man was immediately followed by Constable Gerber, when he disappeared under a house near the railway property.

SMALL TORCH USED.

Constable Gerber concealed himself under a railway waggon for a short period, and subsequently noticed a similarly dressed man returning to that portion of the railway yard. He then investigated, and discovered a man lying alongside the railway waggon. This man jumped to his feet, and Constable Gerber crossed two lines of railway waggons, and then saw the defendants standing in a railway waggon looking under the bonnet of a military vehicle with the use of a small torch.

SPANNERS FOUND.

Constable Gerber questioned both men as to what they were doing, and they stated they were just having a look at the engine of the vehicle. They were conveyed to the Police Station, where a large shifting spanner and a small one were found in the possession of McLaughlin.

A SEARCH MADE.

Constable Gerber and Fels carried out a search of the railway waggon, the vehicle, and surroundings, and they found the oil air filter, the subject of the first charge, in long grass near the railway waggon. It was discovered that the oil air filter had been removed from the engine of the vehicle, and that an effort had been made to remove the studs that supported the carburetor. On being further interrogated, McLaughlin stated that he had only been there to get a couple of bolts.

OFFENCE ADMITTED.

Both defendants finally admitted committing the offence, and they were then arrested and charged.

SECOND CHARGE.

In respect to the second charge, the articles the subject of the charge, were found in a house by Constable Gerber at about mid-day on September 14. This was the house where Lawes was seen to disappear the previous night.

CLOSELY QUESTIONED.

McLaughlin and Lawes were closely questioned regarding this offence, and admitted having stolen the sponge rubber and canvas from the motor vehicle on the railway waggon.

CANVAS RIPPED OFF.

It was discovered that the canvas had been quite recently ripped off the seat of the military vehicle on the railway waggon.

First-class Sergeant Gill prosecuted in both cases.

A.T.C. FAREWELL

Corporal K. Flack

A very pleasant social evening was held in the Parish Hall on Monday night, when the A.T.C. entertained a large gathering of friends.

During the evening games, competitions, and community singing was enjoyed by all.

Opportunity was also taken to celebrate the eighteenth birthday of Corporal R. Flack, who is now eligible for call-up in the R.A.A.F.

A dainty supper was prepared and partaken of at 10.30 p.m. A nicely decorated cake was a feature of the setting.

Mrs. C. Ryalls, in a happy speech, proposed the toast of "Kev.," and made reference to the comradeship and kindness displayed by the cadets. She wished Kev. many happy returns, and good flying in the R.A.A.F.

Mr. Len. George supported the toast.

Kev., in real cadet style, thanked all those present for the enjoyable evening given on his behalf. Since coming to Gladstone, some four years ago, he had made many friends, and would have many regrets at leaving Gladstone when called up in the R.A.A.F. His sporting pals in hockey and other games in which he had played had proved themselves a great lot of chaps, entering into the sport for the love of the game, and taking defeat equally as well as winning. He particularly thanked the Rigby family for the many enjoyable evenings he had spent at their home.

Jim Cullen, a former air cadet, and his cobber, Bill Bushe, of Sydney, but now in the service, who were home on leave, were present, and gave an interesting talk on their experiences.

The cadets provided and carried out all arrangements in connection with the supper in real cadet fashion.

The singing of "Auld Lang Syne" concluded a very pleasant evening.

OBITUARY

MR. P. J. C. McDOUALL.

A well-known and highly respected former resident of the district, Mr. Patrick James Crichton McDouall, passed away in Sydney on September 9 at the age of 95 years.

Born at "New Freugh," Singleton, in 1848, the late Mr. McDouall spent his early life in the Hunter River district of New South Wales.

At the age of 14 years he left school to conduct his father's property, "New Freugh," and in 1882 married Miss Laura May Swanston, who pre-deceased him about three years ago.

In 1905 Mr. McDouall went into partnership with Mr. J. L. Wilson, and they purchased Calliope Station.

He managed Calliope Station, while Mr. J. L. Wilson and his son (Mr. C. McDouall) were on active service during the first World War, and in 1919 retired to live at Killara, near Sydney.

Mr. McDouall continued to take a keen interest in the pastoral industry, and up till three years ago used to visit Calliope Station and Calliungal each winter. He was gifted with a very kind and jovial disposition, and will be missed by a large circle of friends.

Deceased is survived by one son, Crichton McDouall, of Calliungal, Wowan, and six daughters, Mrs. J. L. Wilson (Toowoomba), Mrs. Elliott, and Misses M., G., E., and N. McDouall, of Sydney, also six grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

MEAT CUT IN S.A.

A 15 per cent overall cut in civilian consumption of meat in South Australia will come into force on Monday. Beef supplies will be cut by 40 per cent, but there will be 12½ per cent more mutton and lamb available.

TAXATION INCREASE UNLIKELY.

Taxpayers will be pleased at an intimation by a Government spokesman that there seems little likelihood of direct taxation being increased in the coming Federal Budget. This is the first official intimation regarding any aspect of the forthcoming Budget, and the spokesman drew attention to a statement by the Prime Minister, Mr. Curtin, during the election tour, that income taxation had reached its limit

INTEREST ON LOANS.

The Premier-Treasurer, Mr. Cooper, announced the decision of the Government to reduce the maximum rate of interest on loans to settlers to 4 per cent per annum; to apply a similar concession to loans by the State Advances Corporation for home building, and to reduce the interest on loans to local authorities to a maximum of 4½ per cent.

BATTLE OF BRITAIN

COVERED 84 DAYS

Civilisation Saved

When, in the years to come, historians review the course of this present war, many of them may be tempted to fix one particular event as the turning point of Allied fortunes.

They will have an impressive list to choose from, ranging from Dunkirk, through El Alamein, Stalingrad and Guadacanal to the capture of Tunisia. But, perhaps in the final analysis, there will be no more outstanding moment in the history of this struggle than the Fifteenth of September, 1940; the day when Goering threw the maximum might of the Luftwaffe against England in an attempt to snuff out that tiny flame of inspiration that was the hope of the world.

For five weeks the German air force had been battering at England, attacking ports and aerodromes, and launching blow after blow at the heart of London itself.

By the night of the 14th, it had lost 1651 aircraft, but the Germans knew that they had to go on, that so long as English fighters still controlled the daylight air above the channel Hitler's invasion fleet dare not venture to cross the water.

The 15th was a Sunday. Early in the morning a few reconnaissance planes came over. Then at half past eleven two hundred and fifty German aircraft crossed the coast heading towards London.

As the British fighters climbed to meet them the pilots could hear the Germans calling to each other over their wireless 'phones, "Achtung, Schpitfeuer!" . . . "Look out, Spitfires."

During the next hour that cry eachoed all over the sky, rising from a steady note of routine warning to one of gripping fear.

In that hour 88 German aircraft crashed in flames while others limped away or scampered on in desperate haste. But Goering was not finished. Early in the afternoon another 250 Heinkels, Dorniers and Messerschmits came over in two waves.

This time the Spitfires and Hurricanes accounted for 97 certainties, bringing the total to 185 enemy aircraft destroyed for sure. The German attack was split up and disorganised, the invincible Luftwaffe that had battered its way across Europe had met its match!

Altogether the Battle of Britain covered 84 days of desperate air fighting, but Sunday the Fifteenth stands out as the climax of the whole attack.

On that day the Luftwaffe was decisively defeated, and from then on showed less readiness to engage in combat or to press home the attack—the tide had been turned.

It is three years now since Winston Churchill paid his tribute to the "Spitfire boys:" "Never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to so few!" Three years, during which time the balance has swung slowly but surely against those who set out to obliterate Britain.

The fear and horror that clutched at British hearts has laid its icy grip on Germany. Five hundred aircraft aimed themselves at London on that mid-September day in 1940. 1000 have darkened the sky over Cologne. At the height of the London blitz 450 tons of bombs were dropped on the capital in one day.

Berlin received nearly four times that amount in one night last month.

It is well to remember in these days of Victory and growing confidence that Britain showed the way while the rest of the world stood wondering. We have a great tradition to guide us along the hard road that still lies ahead; we also have a bounden duty to maintain that tradition as a foundation upon which to build the future.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL

Flying Officer Stan Ashdown, who was in charge of the railway refreshment rooms prior to joining the catering section of the R.A.A.F., has retired from the services on account of ill-health, and has again resumed his position as manager of the Gladstone refreshment rooms.

The well-known solicitor, Mr. Vince Byrne, who enlisted in the R.A.A.F. last year, is now a flying officer stationed at a northern base. He spent a few days in town, returning north yesterday.

The many friends of Mrs. Ken Moore, of Gladstone, will regret to learn that she has been seriously ill in the Gladstone District. However, we are pleased to state that her health is improving. Her husband is in the A.I.F. at a southern base, and in response to an urgent message from his father, Mr. H. C. Moore, he arrived in town on Thursday.

CHRISTMAS HAMPERS

Appeal for Donations

Christmas hampers are now being prepared for packing and despatch so that every soldier, sailor, airman, nurse and service woman in the jungles of New Guinea, overseas, or in isolated areas, will receive during the festive season a hamper from the A.C.F.

Gladstone and district residents have in the past freely given to this appeal, and many have been the letters of gratitude received from recipients.

Queensland's quota is 30,000, and the price is the same as last year—7/6 for a single hamper, or three hampers for £1.

Donations for hampers may be sent to Mrs. J. W. Garrett or Mr. F. Peardon.

Each donation will be acknowledged through the columns of the "Gladstone Observer."

Don't let us kill OUR GOOSE

THAT old Fable about the Goose that laid the Golden Eggs is one that we Australians might heed just now.

The goose that has laid Golden Eggs for us is Free Enterprise. Until war put our goose largely out of the business of meeting our needs, she was prodigiously bountiful. She enabled us to develop a standard of living, and a way of life, that were the envy of other countries.

As soon as the war came, Free Enterprise turned to making 'planes and trucks and guns and munitions, and all the thousands of things that war eats up, and many of our private wants had to stand over.

When war ends, we must see that Free Enterprise is restored to her old job of making Australia a happy and secure place in which to live. There will be those who will want to kill Free Enterprise, but let us all see that no one lifts an axe to this goose of ours.

For nearly 100 years, under Free Enterprise, the A.M.P. Society has been building up its strength, the better to serve its members. Last year it paid out £8,660,000 in benefits. Its assets are now worth £141,000,000, every penny of which belongs to its members. Let them guard well their savings and their Society's freedom of enterprise.

MRS. ROOSEVELT

"Likes To Know Neighbours"

Like a blue shadow, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the U.S President has been whisking through our cities seeing as many American service men as she can, and meeting as many Australian women, war workers, voluntary workers, munition workers, and housewives as possible.

Many people have only caught a glimpse of a tall figue in azure blue uniform, or perhaps have been favoured with a fleeting smile as she sped past, but it is safe to say that she has met more people during her visit than any other visitor has done in the same time.

Mrs. Roosevelt regards Australia as a neighbouring country, and apparently she likes to know her neighbours. Her Australian neighbours too are "pleased to meet" her, and she shows real understanding of every problem she discusses.

To Service men wherever she goes them she takes the President's personal good wishes and his pride in their achievements. "Our people at home don't always realise the horror they have been spared by you men defending your country in every part of the world," she told a group of naval ratings. "I hope that before long there will come a time in the war when everyone can really see the end in sight."

To the sick and wounded, "there is no American woman who doe, not long to have her boy home when she hears he is in hospital thousands of miles away. I hope that you will all get well soon, and may you all get home."

FOR A LASTING PEACE.

Mrs. Roosevelt believes that women and men should work side by side to build a lasting foundation for peace, and wherever she goes she tells Australian women that they must exercise their rights of citizenship wisely, so that future generations will be spared the horrors that have befallen this one. She warns them that "Your Government is just as good as your individual citizen. If the average citizen doesn't care, the Government reflects that attitude."

Mrs. Roosevelt said that the President himself had suggested that she come to Australia. They were going up in the lift at the White House when he suddenly remarked, "I think it would be well if you visited Australia and the Islands next."

Australians will agree that it was indeed well for Mrs. Roosevelt to make the trip. Like a true neighbour, she "took up as she found us" in in battle dress, or doing a job of work in a boiler suit, when she called to see American boys, and to thank Australians for their hospitality to them.

BIG RAID IN BRISBANE.

Sixty three men were arrested when police from the Traffic Office raided a hut in an Allied Works Camp near Brisbane on Wednesday night. The raid was the largest in Brisbane for many years. It is alleged that games of "ins and outs" and "heads and tails" were being played in the hut.

APPEAL FOR BOOKS AND CARDS

Help the Boys

The Australian Comforts Fund is urgently appealing for books, magazines playing cards, or any other indoor games or sporting material for the men of the fighting forces.

The men in the front line or outposts are entitled to these amenities of life, and the Fund asks residents to do their best to supply these articles.

Mr. A. W. Young, Gladstone Cash and Carry, has kindly consented to take possession of these donations, so please forward all you can without delay, and thus help the Fund to help the boys.

BANKRUPT FASCISM

Out For Good

"We have not fought Fascism and overthrown it, in order that it can come in again by the back door under some other name," the British Home Secretary and Minister for Home Security (Mr. Herbert Morrison) declared recently at Woolwich.

"Bankrupt Fascism in its fall has left Italy with no alternative Government ready peacefully to take over power on a democratic basis," he said, commenting on the Italian position.

"That is one of the evils of Fascism, but we look forward, as the Prime Minister has made clear, to the time when Italy will again draw the breath of political freedom.

"We want to see freedom strike its roots deep into her stricken soil, and flower in representative political bodies, and in such democratic institutions as a free Trades Union Movement and a genuinely free press—two of the greatest safeguards of liberty and progress in any country."

A.R.P. WARDENS' HATS

Progress By Experiment

Even small items of war equipment have, in many cases, called for a tremendous amount of experimental work, very often by private firms who have been handed problems by the Government and asked to solve them.

A.R.P. wardens' tin hats, for instance, were a small item which gave research chemists at a Sydney paint firm several headaches until various paints or processes were evolved to suit different needs and purposes.

One of the chief requisites for the tin hats was that they should not reflect light. This was solved by spraying the newly painted tin hats with slate powder. The paint itself had to stand up to all climates and temperatures and prevent rust as well.

"SILENT SERVICE"

Typical Log Book Entry

A British naval officer told in a recent B.B.C. Newsreel of a strange thing that had happened during his ship's last voyage across the Atlantic. They sighted a derelict lifeboat far out in the ocean. They found it was empty but for a full bottle of champagne. They heard afterwards that those who had been in the boat had been picked up. So they decided to keep the champagne for celebrating their first success against a U-boat.

It must have been an omen, the sailor said, because early next morning a Sunderland aircraft of Coastal Command reported that she was engaging a U-boat. As their ship raced for the spot, an usnusual order was given by the captain: "Stand by for action stations in ten minutes' time." So instead of the customary scramble they had time to dress properly and were able to have a cup of cocoa.

It turned out to be what the broadcaster described as a model attack. The Canadian corvette H.M.C.S. Drum Keller had had a crack at the U-boat before the British escort ship got there. They made contact exactly when and where the captain had anticipated.

In five and a half minutes it was all over: they made only one attack and scored two direct hits. Almost immediately they saw patches of oil and wreckage coming to the surface. When they left the oil patch had extended to 600 feet in diameter. The following day an aircraft reported an oil streak in that area 1700 yards long.

Typical of the "silent service" was the entry in the ship's log: "0629 — made contact with U-boat; 0634½— sank same." Exactly five and a half minutes of their time accounted for.

They waited till they reached port before drinking the champagne that Neptune had awarded them in advance.

MEN AND SHIPS

Shipbuilding Industry

With the increased mechanisation of the fighting forces 130 ships are now required to transport each million men, as against 480 in the last war, according to a recent American report.

That is one reason why shipbuilding has to be stepped up, for apart from maintaining present lines of communication, there can be no large scale invasion of Europe without an enormous pool of shipping.

The United States shipbuilding industry constructed only two ocean-going freighters in the 15 years between 1922 and 1937. In 1942 the industry built 664.

Both England and the United States had the facilities and the population to undertake mass production of ships, but Australia has played her part, too, in keeping ships moving across the oceans of the world.

Australia had one great advantage. She had on her own doorstep the raw materials of shipbuilding—unlimited coal, high-grade steel at the lowest cost in the world, and enterprising men.

Naval vessels now serving with the R.A.N., sloops, corvettes, cargo steamers, and other craft, have all been successfully built in Australian shipyards since the outbreak of war.

A rather interesting point is that only six years ago, when the B.H.P. company needed four new ships, they were built for the company in Scotland. Now the company is building similar ships (including the engines) in their own shipyards.

ADMIRAL CUNNINGHAM

NELSON'S DIRECT SUCCESSOR

A Fighting Master

Admiral Andrew Cunningham has a unique record in the Mediterranean war. He is the one man in supreme Allied command who has endured throughout it, whose reputation has never been questioned. He is by training, both technically and geographically, a Mediterranean man, and an officer trained in the Mediterranean and in destroyers, which are the Middle Sea's prime weapon in the kind of war which has been fought there (says the "Sydney Bulletin").

Since he roved "Mare Nostrum" in the last war in the old Scorpion he had been captain of H.M.S. Rodney, one of Britain's two 16-inch ships, Commodore of the Royal Naval Barracks at Chatham, and Deputy Chief of the Naval Staff. But when war had loomed in Abyssinia he had found himself at Alexandria, rear-admiral commanding destroyer flotillas, and when Hitler struck he had already been two months at Malta as Commander-in-Chief of the Mediterranean Fleet.

So little was happening in the Mediterranean that most of his ships were taken for other seas. In November, 1929, the Commander-in-Chief took his flag ashore at Malta for want of a fleet to fly it on.

It was not till midnight on June 10, 1940, that Italy declared war. Immediate events showed that the admiral had not grown rusty. At dawn on June 11 he was at sea with the battleships Warspite and Malaya, the cruisers Sydney, Orion, Neptune, Liverpool and Gloucester, the carrier Eagle—a sturdy old bird—and a destroyer screen.

It is indicative of the fierceness of the naval war which has been fought that none of the cruisers remain save the Liverpool and Orion, and the old Eagle is on the bottom. Most of the destrayers, also, are no more.

IF CUNNINGHAM HAD LOST.

More than any man he brought about the conquest of the Mediterranean, the surrender of Italy, the change of the whole complexion of the war.

Once the Mediterranean had been closed the enemy could have taken over Africa and its resources of labour and materials; could have conquered Iran and Iraq and their oilfields; could have filled the Indian Ocean with submarines operating from African and Asiatic bases; could have struck at India and Singapore long before India and Singapore were ready; could have brought the war to the shores of this country long before Japan struck and found its defences only in a primary stage. In all these wide fields Britain could have done nothing. Loss of the Mediterranean would have intensified her own struggle.

CUNNINGHAM SAVED RUSSIA.

Russia, too, would probably have been beaten but for Cunningham's oprations of 1940-41. Had he failed, Britain and America would have had all their work cut out in the Atlantic, and would have been unable to give aid through Murmansk.

TRIUMPH AT MALTA.

All these things may be forgotten. But no doubt they were remembered with satisfaction by the little man in white uniform who stood with General Eisenhower at Malta to see the Italian Fleet come in flying black armistice pennants, led by the Warspite and Valiant (whose pet canary had hatched the songsters Pola and Zara during Matapan), with a single British officer aboard wielding the authority of the conqueror.

The General said it was "a sight. That's the way you see them in reviews in the movies."

No man who had brought it about could have viewed it without emotion. But the public reaction of Admiral Cunningham, Nelson's direct successor—for there has been no fighting master of "Mare Nostrum" since Nelson's day—was in the R.N. tradition.

The Italian admiral and his flag officers were piped down the line as their barge passed. They were received with full naval honours at the quayside.

Admiral Cunningham met the defeated foe at his door as he would have met a guest. His greeting was characteristic:—

"Good afternoon, Admiral. How do you do? Sit down."

Cunningham allowed himself only one touch of emotion as the fleet had come in sight:—

"We have met some of these twice before. I am pleased to see the Warspite leading them in."

In the Warspite he had opened his sweeps at dawn on June 11, 1940; in the Warspite he had led the saving of the garrisons of Crete and Greece; in the Warspite he had chased the Italians almost finally off the Middle Sea on March 28, 1941.

APPEAL FOR BOOKS AND CARDS

Help the Boys

The Australian Comforts Fund is urgently appealing for books, magazines, playing cards, or any other indoor games or sporting material for the men of the fighting forces.

The men in the front line or outposts are entitled to these amenities of life, and the Fund asks residents to do their best to supply these articles.

Mr. A. W. Young, Gladstone Cash and Carry, has kindly consented to take possession of these donations, so please forward all you can without delay, and thus help the Fund to help the boys.

AUSTERITY MESSAGES

From the wives . . .

. . . of AUSTRALIA'S LEADERS

"Saving can be exciting. I have found that out for myself and pass it on to you. In peace time we Australians were free spenders, and it was fun to buy nice things, and plan little treats, but now we're at war, and a thrifty living is necessary to the success of the War Effort. Feel that every economy and self-denial helps our boys. Be proud of the mounting total of your Bonds and War Savings Certificates, and, believe me, you'll get a thrill out of saving."

Funeral Notice

THE FUNERAL of the late Mr. Henry Charles Parsloe, who passed away in the Brisbane General Hospital on Monday, September 20th 1943, will move from the Church of England, Auckland Street, at 11 a.m. to-day (Wednesday) for interment in the Gladstone Cemetery. Service will commence at 10.45 a.m.

In Memoriam

LIDSER.—In fond and loving memory of our dear Mother and Grandmother, Mary Elizabeth Lakeman Lidster, who departed this life on the 17th September, 1937, at Balcomba Private Hospital, Gladstone.

Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent the voice we longed to hear;
Deep in our hearts a memory is kept,
We who loved her will never forget.
Memories are treasures no one can steal,
Death leaves a heartache no one can heal,
A silent thought brings many a tear
Of one we lost and loved so dear.

(Inserted by her loving son, daughter-in-law, and grandchildren, Glen, Gladys, Bim, Topsy and Pom, of Babinda, North Queensland).

CURRENT TOPICS

STREET STALL POSTPONED.

The Methodist Ladies' Guild advise by advertisement in this issue that owing to their street stall being previously advertised to have been held the day before Red Cross Paddy's market, it has been postponed to Thursday, October 28.

COMFORTS FUND DANCE.

The troops require a variety of services, and this work the Comforts Fund is efficiently carrying out. A dance to augment the funds will be held in the Trocadero next Friday night. Roll up and help a worthy cause.

FOR PATRIOTIC FUNDS.

Mr. Ken Neil Ballantine, of Galloway Plains, recently sent a number of fat cattle to the Rockhampton stock sale, and they brought an excellent price, as is usual with Galloway bred beasts. With his usual generosity Mr. Ballantine allotted one animal for patriotic funds, and half of the nett proceeds (£11) has been handed to Mr. Connellan for the Gladstone Prisoners of War street scheme. The balance (£5/10/-) is being donated by Mr. Ballantine to the Comforts Fund.

FREE COMPETITIONS.

The Church of England annual fete will be held in the Town Hall on Friday, October 1, and should prove an outstanding success. Several competitions will be held in connection with the flower stall, and these include: Best bowl of assorted gerberas, trophy 2/6; best bowl of white flowers, any variety, trophy 2/; best bowl of red flowers, any variety, trophy 2/; best bowl of yellow flowers, any variety, trophy 2/; best bowl of blue flowers, any variety, trophy 2/. Town and district residents are asked to note that entries for these competitions are free.

HUGE DEVELOPMENTAL WORK.

Huge developmental work which the war had brought to North Queensland would be highly beneficial in the post-war period, said the British High Commissioner in Australia (Sir Ronald Cross), who returned by air to Brisbane from his first visit to Central and North Queensland. He added that the amount of road building and other work done in those regions was extraordinary. He had wished to see for himself all that he could of Australia. One could read statistics in London as well as in Canberra, but could not get the necessary background without personal contact.

100,000 MEN NEEDED FOR INDUSTRY.

Manpower estimates submitted to Cabinet seek another 100,000 men for essential industry within the next six months. A conference will take place shortly with chiefs of staff to ascertain how and where this total can be found. The public service is to undergo close examination, as it is thought this source can still contribute some tens of thousands to the manpower reservoir. Men unfit for combat battalions are almost certain to be withdrawn to take their place at essential civilian works. This strength will be supplemented from the ranks of 18 and 19 year old youths who have been called up for service and received basic military training.

RAILWAY STATION

PROGRAMME OF IMPROVEMENTS

To Be Carried Out

Some time ago Mr. T. L. Williams, M.L.A., was advised by the Minister for Transport that a big programme of improvements, including the re-arrangement of the station yard, was to be proceeded with and a start made with minor parts of the scheme. However, it was later stated that owing to war conditions the plan would have to be held in abeyance, and work ceased on the project. Local bodies, including the Chamber of Commerce and A.L.P., pointed out that congestion was rapidly becoming worse, and that serious delays resulted from the increased traffic.

Mr. Williams again took the matter up and pressed for a reconsideration of the decision. He has now been advised by the Minister for Railways (Mr. J. Larcombe) as follows:—

"With reference to your repeated representations in favour of continuing the rearrangement of the station yard at Gladstone, I have to inform you that the Chairman of the Commonwealth Land Transport Board (Sir H. W. Clapp) expressed the opinion that the work had relation to the war effort.

"Accordingly the matter was considered further by the Commissioner and myself, and it has been decided to recommence the work in the near future."

This news will be welcomed by public bodies, and more particularly the business houses of the town. The President of the Chamber of Commerce (Mr. A. H. Friend), when advised of the news, said it was excellent, and his members would be very pleased, as the improvements were long overdue.

MR. R. H. GRAYSON

AT A SOUTHERN BASE

Leave of Absence Granted

Every Gladstone citizen knows that the Town Clerk (Mr. R. H. Grayson) has joined the R.A.A.F., and has commenced his duties at the equipment section of a southern base.

Mr. Grayson has not resigned his position of Town Clerk, but was unanimously granted leave of absence by the Council, and the hope is expressed that in the near future peace will be ushered in with Mr. Grayson once more in charge of affairs at the Gladstone Town Council Office.

Mr. Grayson has filled the position of Town Clerk for the last 12½ years, and prior to leaving Gladstone on temporary leave his services were eulogised by the Mayor and aldermen.

As an executive officer Mr. Grayson has rendered valuable service, his ability in local government affairs being fully recognised.

Mr. Grayson is a keen follower of healthy sport, and represented Gladstone, both on the football and cricket fields, playing four seasons' football and cricket with the Natives. He is also well known by followers of the "king of sports," having filled the position of secretary to the Gladstone Turf Club with credit to himself and the Club.

His large circle of friends wish Roy the best of luck, and a speedy return to Gladstone.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL

Mr. and Mrs. Andrewartha, of Gladstone, has received word that their son, Sergeant Mervyn Andrewartha, has been wounded somewhere in New Guinea.

HOUSING SHORTAGE.

Mr. Curtin has written to the Premier of Queensland (Mr. Cooper), asking him to sponsor a home sub-division scheme in Brisbane in order to overcome the big housing shortage. The Commonwealth is willing to advance a grant to the Queensland Government to enable owners to effect minor adjustments to their home. It is understood a regulation is being considered to protect owners against undesirable tenants by merely withdrawing the owner's present obligation of finding alternative accommodation for evicted persons.

GLADSTONE RED CROSS SOCIETY

PADDY'S MARKET RECORD RETURN OF £60

APPEAL TO AUGMENT P.O.W. REMITTANCES

In the absence of the President (Mrs. H. V. Phillips), who is ill in hospital, Mrs. A. H. Friend presided at the monthly meeting. There were present: Mesdames L. Rigby, L. M. Janson, N. Burnham, E. W. Johnston, J. Jones, E. Hall, L. Golding, Rev. Phillipson, Messrs. A. H. Friend D. Connellan, J. W. Rigby, V. Summers, and R. O'Neill.

MESSAGES OF SYMPATHY.

Correspondence included a telegram (outward) to the Officer in Charge, R.A.A.F., New South Wales base, asking that officer to hand a message of sympathy from the branch to Mr. and Mrs. J. Starmer on the loss of their son "Garth" in a recent plane accident in that centre.

Another message of sympathy was forwarded to Mr. A. W. F. G. Crow, expressing the sorrow of members on the loss in action of his son Keith ("Digger").

INFORMATION ASKED FOR.

The Secretary wrote headquarters asking for information concerning the parents of a hospital patient who resided in England.

EXCELLENT PROGRESS.

In reply to a telegram from headquarters, seeking information concerning the condition of a cadet, a patient in the local military ward, Mr. Summers wired that excellent progress had been made after an operation, and that every care would be taken of the patient.

SERGEANT HALLAM.

Seeking information concerning Sergeant Hallam, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Hallam, who was a sergeant observer attached to a Lancaster squadron in England, the Secretary asked the Red Cross Bureau to put the necessary machinery in motion to investigate whether the missing airman was a prisoner of war. Sergt. Hallam was posted as missing on the night of August 27-28 last, when his squadron made a flight over Germany.

REMITTANCES TO BRISBANE.

Remittances to Brisbane included £139/9/- P.O.W. street scheme, and £7/11/11 adoptions. Writing to Brisbane, the Secretary said that it was hoped to augment P.O.W. cheques this month by dances and other functions.

EMERGENCY SERVICE.

The General Secretary (Miss Richardson) advised that the Divisional Commandant (Mrs. C. Brennan) would be visiting Gladstone on October 3 to 5, and would deal with Emergency service matters whilst in town. The local Emergency Superintendent (Mrs. P. M. Jones) will meet Mrs. Brennan and make the necessary arrangements for her stay here.

PERMISSION GRANTED.

The Under Secretary, Chief Secretary's department, wrote advising that permission to run a patriotic race meeting had already been granted the Gladstone Turf Club for Saturday, October 16..

The names of Messrs. A. W. F. G. Crow (president) and D. J. Connellan (acting secretary in place of Mr. R. Grayson) were authorised as officers.

BABY COMPETITION.

In response to a letter from Miss J. Mulry, Red Cross junior president, Rockhampton, and several communications from the Secretay Rockhampton Red Cross (Mr. J. W. Henderson), urging Gladstone to take part in the baby competition for Prisoner of War funds, the whole position was thoroughly discussed

In view f the illness of the President (Mrs. H. V. Phillips), who was keenly interested in the competition, the limited time now available to launch the scheme, and the very limited number of members who were available to organise, it was reluctantly decided to advise the writers that Gladstone was unable to take part in the competition.

ART UNION.

The Secretary (Mr. Summers) mentioned that he and the Publicity Officer (Mr. Connellan) had already outlined a scheme for a monster art Art Union, and that some preliminary orgarisation had already taken place.

In view of the urgent necessity for the Gladstone branch to augment its Prisoner of War collections, he felt that the Art Union would be much more within the scope of the local organisation, and would give an excellent return if properly attended to.

CHILDREN'S BALL.

Mrs. M. Ricketts was granted permission to organise a children's ball in aid of the P.O.W. scheme. It was mentioned that since the application Mrs. Ricketts had obtained sick leave, and the date of the function would be postponed.

BENARABY SUB-BRANCH.

Benaraby sub-branch forwarded £11/18/9 remittance to the Gladstone branch. Mrs. L. Muspratt, hon sec., Builyan-Many Peaks sub-branch donated £17/4/6, proceeds of recent stall, donations and raffle.

GLADSTONE BRANCH.

The annual Red Cross report, Queensland Division, showed the high place the Gladstone branch had gained in its revenue in proportion to membership. Gladstone had contributed £2586, or approximately £30 per member. This was only exceeded by three centres in the State, Mt. Isa (£40), Charters Towers (£33), and Mt. Morgan (£32). Other cities and towns to do very well included Rockhampton (£13,995, or £27 per head), Goondiwindi (£26), Toowoomba (£21), and Bundaberg, Cairns, Dalby and Maryborough, £15 each.

SEWING CIRCLE.

Mrs. J. W. Rigby (sewing circle) advised that two cases of finished work had been sent to headquarters, containing over 300 articles, plus 30 books and magazines. Several new members had been welcomed. The circle was very busy at present, as headquarters had asked all branches to increase their output by 100 per cent. The four machines had been overhauled and were running well again. Old linen was sent in by Miss Horne and Mrs. J. S. Henderson, and books by Mrs. Friend.

KNITTING CIRCLE.

Mrs. D. J. Connellan reported that the Knitting Circle had distributed 44 ozs. wool and 4 ozs. knitting cotton. Following articles had been returned by the ladies mentioned:—Sleeveless pullover, Mrs. Dodge; 2 servicewomen's bed jackets, Mesdames F. Thompson and E. Phillips; 5 prs. socks, Miss R. Stirratt (Gayfield); 1 pr. each, Mesdames Steed, Grenfell, McDonald (Cluden), 1 pr. cotton socks each, Mesdames Quodling, Watson and Miss Liddicoat.

Thanks were due to these ladies, also Mrs. Pat Shaw, "Rawbelle," for quantity odd balls knitting wool.

Case of knitted articles sent to headquarters included 50 articles.

The Many Peaks-Builyan sub-branch sent 13 nicely knitted articles. Wool could be had from the convenor, and any lady could assist by knitting.

PADDY'S MARKET.

Mrs. A. H. Friend reported a record return of £60 from the Paddy's market.

In complimenting the organiser and committee on the splendid result, Mrs. Hall said that the amount received, £60, was a new record for Paddy's markets.

V.A.D.'s.

Miss Alma Joyner advised that the V.A.D.'s had ceased first-aid classes temporarily. Meetings and church parades had been held as usual. £6/14/- was collected at the Meatworks on September 1. Members were ready to attend the next air raid test. A special church parade was held on the day of prayer, September 5. The V.A.D.'s were always ready to assist in any way.

RECEIPTS FROM FUNCTIONS.

Benaraby sub-branch reported receipts of £11/2/3, result of functions. Mesdames W. Fallon and L. Wongung were appointed to the committee. Mr. Mann had donated 7/6. 99 articles had been sent by the Sewing Circle to Gladstone for headquarters. The departure of two valuable members in Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pike was regretted. Mrs. Pike originally formed the sub-branch, and a letter of appreciation is to be sent to her. The committee acceded to a request from the Gladstone Red Shield to hold a dance for that body on October 2 next.

HOSPITAL VISITING COMMITTEE.

Mrs. H. F. Gollnick advised that the Visiting Committee had called on 44 servicemen since August 16. Ten twin pockets had been received for use in the A.I.F. ward. Mrs. Johnston had replaced Mrs. Quodling on the regular committee. The Gladstone Sawmills, a naval patient, and an allied officer were thanked for donations. An acknowledgment was received from the parents of a recent patient, thanking the committee for its sympathy.

The work of the circle seems to be extending, as two requests were recently attended to by the branch Secretary concerning information required.

FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN

OPENS ON TUESDAY, OCTOBER 5

Liberty Loan Badges

It will be easy to distinguish subscribers from non-subscribers during the £125,000,000 Fourth Liberty Loan which opens officially on October 5, and closes on November 9.

All subscribers, including those who make advance subscriptions, will be issued with a lapel badge. The badge is neatly designed, and has an Airforce blue background against which is shown the loan symbol, comprising a red figure 4 and the leter "L." The badge bears the inscription "Subscriber Liberty Loan."

The establishment of a readily recognised symbol for a loan campaign has played an important part in Canada's outstandingly successful loan raising activities, and the use of badges in Australia has been repeatedly advocated by a large section of the public.

Badges will be distributed wherever loan subscriptions are received—at all banks, savings banks, money order post offices. When loan subscriptions are received in industrial organisations, shops or offices, the badges will be issued to subscribers by the War Loans Organisations representatives.

"We want at least 750,000 subscribers for the Fourth Liberty Loan," said the Commonwealth Loans Director, Mr. C. Banfield, "and we have enough badges to supply the lot."

SERVICE HELP.

Members of the fighting forces are to co-operate in all States with the War Loan organisation in the most comprehensive industrial canvass for loan subscriptions ever undertaken.

It will be part of a determined drive to obtain at least 750,000 subscribers, an all-time Australian record, for the £125,000,000 Fourth Libtry Loan.

The drive, embracing factories, shops and offices throughout the metropolitan area, will commence on Monday, October 4, 1943, the scope of the canvass having made it essential to begin it immediately before the loan is opened on October 5.

Members of the R.A.N., the A.I.F., the R.A.A.F., and nurses of the Royal Australian Nursing Service, will accompany loan representatives to all places canvassed and relate their wartime experiences to workers.

PRISONERS OF WAR.

Reporting on behalf of the Prisoners of War organisers, Rev. Phillipson, Messrs. Summers and Connellan, the latter advised that whilst the street scheme was functioning satisfactorily and weekly revenue maintained, other P.O.W. receipts had fallen off appreciably.

Gladstone would have to follow the example of other centres and augment street collections by other functions if the necessary amount for P.O.W. was to be raised.

Some idea of the increased finance required to send parcels to Australian prisoners of war is given in the annual Red Cross report.

With the expansion of the service to P.O.W. in Japan, the estimated cost in Queensland is now set down at £3500 per week. To date the scheme had only raised £1500 per week in Queensland, and an urgent appeal was being made to all branches to augment their P.O.W. remittances so that every prisoner could be assured of one parcel per week.

Gladstone's street scheme collection for the four weeks ending September 9 was £110. Several new collectors were required, and three additional volunteers had come forward in the past week.

RADIO FOR HOSPITAL.

It was decided to write headquarters asking that the radio for the servicemen's ward at the District Hospital should be forwarded as soon as possible.

TYPEWRITER WANTED.

Any supporter able to loan a typewriter (portable for preference) is asked to get in touch with the Secretary (Mr. Summer). Its use is urgently needed by the new joint secretary (Mr. Roe O'Neill).

FOOD FRONT

CUT OUT THE PETITION

Sign It and Send to Mr. Forde

A committee of Rockhampton citizens has decided to launch a food front campaign, and has issued the following report:—

"We believe that the food position in Australia will become extremely serious unless quick action is taken on a big scale. The food producing industries have been so stripped of manpower that it is impossible for them to reach anything near normal production in the coming twelve months.

"Our population has been greatly increased by the arrival of Allied service men. There will be a further very large increase in the near future. These facts mean food shortage of a most serious nature.

"Hunger in a country under war conditions means revolution and bloodshed. The thousands of experienced farm and factory workers who can prevent this disaster are idle in Australian army camps.

THE REMEDY.

"A nation-wide petition to the Hon. John Curtin, Prime Minister of Australia: We, citizens of Australia, request that you, in order to safeguard the nation's future food supplies—

(1) "Because of the complete absence of civilian labour, transfer a sufficient number of military personnel and equipment from the nearest camp to ensure that all foodstuffs now ready shall be harvested, transported and processed, to avoid needless loss, the difference between military and industrial pay to be credited to the soldier. (Remember the 3000 cases of pineapples at a Brisbane cannery lost because of a shortage of 110 workers.)

(2) "Ask all farmers and graziers to at once state their needs in manpower; agricultural committees to check such requests; if justified, that you transfer such labour from the services. Where practicable, men to return to their own farms or farms where they were employed.

(3) "Transfer service men and women in well organised units, under the guidance of experienced agricultural leaders, with adequate machinery, to plough and prepare land, plant and cultivate various food and fodder crops, in areas of sufficient extent to ensure adequate supplies.

"Our committee proposes to use the press, radio and pamphlets to place the facts of the food position before the people, and to organise a nation-wide petition to the Prime Minister as outlined in 1, 2 and 3, these petitions to be sent through the local Federal member in each electorate.

"We suggest the formation of small committees of citizens in any suburb or rural district in any part of Australia, where one or more persons will take the initiative and form such a body. The purpose of these committees would be to use the local press and radio, together with pamphlets and other suitable means, to place the facts re food shortage before the people of the district, and to organise the signing and despatch of the local petition. They could also collect facts re the effect of manpower shortage in their district and forward this information to us or in letters to the press.

ACTION AT ONCE.

"To be effective this campaign must be quick and nation-wide. The petition must be pouring into Canberra within a few weeks. If the people make a spontaneous request, the Government will undoubtedly take action and transfer the required manpower to food production. Such widespread quick action is quite possible. The need is clear. The request is simple and justified. No centralised organisation is required. Every person, or any number of persons, can act at once and independently.

"You can cut out the section of this report sub-headed 'The Remedy 1, 2 and 3, paste it on the top of a sheet of paper, sign your name and address beneath it, and post it to your local Federal member at Canberra. You can write it out again in different words if you wish. You can post it with only your own signature, or get your family and friends to sign it also. Better still, you may prefer to form a citizens' committee and canvas your city, town, or district for signatures. You could also take this report and have it printed in pamphlet form for distribution. The important thing is that you do sign it quickly and post it to your M.H.R.

ROCKHAMPTON AND DISTRICT.

"We ask for the co-operation of individuals and organisations. We invite you to join the committee. If you know of a case where production has stopped or is slowed down by manpower shortage, or any other cause, it will help us if you will write giving us the facts. Letters to the press will assist.

"We need funds to conduct a publicity campaign in the press and on the radio. Donations for this purpose can be sent to the hon. treasurer, Mr. T. H. Floude, Macgregor Street, Rockhampton.

"Right now cut out the petition, sign it, get as many more signatures on it as you can, and post it to your member at Canberra. Food production is vital for victory."

DAYLIGHT SAVING

MEN ON LAND OPPOSE

Reasons Set Out

Pressure from dairying and other primary industry centres grows against the restoration of daylight saving this year.

Mr. F. Nicklin, leader of the State Parliamentary Opposition, stated that last week members of his party had received sheafs of requests that representations be made to the Commonwealth Government in the matter.

All the primary producers who made these requests were against the proposal, he said.

The Country-National Organisation, at a party meeting, carried a resolution opposing the reintroduction of the scheme, for the following reasons:—

(a) That any saving of fuel for lighting purposes in the afternoon is offset by increased use of light in the early hours of the morning in various employments, and on account of persons preparing, in hours of darkness, to proceed to employment.

(b) That the return home after employment and the evening meal are mostly deferred on account of the heat in order to avoid discomfort. In this way the effect of staggered hours for transport reasons is nullified.

(c) That the advancing of the clock is detrimental to health, as there is a general tendency to retire later at night, while having to rise one hour earlier in the morning, resulting in loss of sleep.

(d) That the dairying organisation has passed a resolution of protest against daylight saving because of its detrimental effect upon production. The same reason exists in other animal industries.

(e) Generally, the majority of the people of this State are of opinion that any assistance to the war effort by daylight saving is more than offset by losses in other directions, and that, therefore, there should not be any departure from standard time.

The resolution has been forwarded to Mr. Curtin.

NEW LABOUR PARTY.

Formation of a new Labour Party in the North, in full co-operation with the Communists has been forecasted by Alderman T. Aikens, Deputy Mayor of Townsville. He said that the party would probably contest all seats north of Mackay at the next State general elections.

V.D.C. COMPLAINTS.

The Army Minister (Mr. F. M. Forde) has promised to investigate complaints by V.D.C. men that they are being conscripted into the Militia after they have been rejected by the A.I.F. and have volunteerd for full-time duty in coastal defence. "The Army only enlists those people made available by manpower officials," said Mr. Forde.

OBITUARY

MR. HENRY C. PARSLOE

Mr. Henry Charles Parsloe, of Gladstone, passed away in the Brisbane General Hospital on Monday.

Mr. Parsloe, who served in the last war, had been employed at the Gladstone Butter Factory for many years.

Deceased is survived by his widow and two children, and a brother (Mr. E. Parsloe) resides in Bundaberg.

The funeral will take place this morning at 11 o'clock from the Church of England, Auckland Street.

BOXING

REILLY OUTCLASSED.

Queensland welterweight champion, Tommy Burns (10.8) celebrated his first away from home fight at West Melbourne Stadium on Saturday night by technically knocking out Victorian Terry Reilly (10.3½) in the seventh round.

An ex-Australian welterweight champion, and regarded as the game's "Iron Man," Reilly was outclassed.

Burns gave a dazzling display of fierce two-handed hitting, and had the Victorian on the floor three times before a halt was called. He was accorded a fine ovation by a big crowd.

Reilly was down for nine in the fourth, and three more times on the canvas in the seventh. After the third knock-down referee Jack Carroll did not bother to even count, and immediately crowned Burns.

The fight should not have gone as far as it did. Burns hit Reilly with everything. Hit him back on his heels with straight lefts, and jabbed and hooked him and placed terrific rights to the body.

No boy who has fought Reilly for the first time has ever come out of the contest without a cut eye, and Burns did not prove an exception. He copped it in the fifth, but he sustained only a minor cut over the right eye.

HUDEK OUTPOINTED.

The toughness of Rush Milling, the Filipino welterweight, enabled him to outpoint the American sailor, Johnny Hudek, at the Brisbane Stadium on Friday night.

It was a great fight for the first three rounds, during which each man seemed likely to be stopped. Over the last nine sessions, however, it developed into a scrambling affair, with Milling on the attack.

McLAUGHLIN v. HUNTER

Ron McLaughlin, former Australian welterweight champion, will meet Tommy Hunter, the tough Newcastle fighter, at the Brisbane Stadium next Friday night. McLaughlin has agreed not to exceed 10.12.

Bobby Clarke was beaten in Sydney recently by McLaughlin, who is in the A.I.F.

Hunter has never turned in a bad performance in Brisbane, and should keep McLaughlin at his top.

A recent survey showed that only 60 per cent of Brisbane's homes were adequately occupied. If owners of the other 40 per cent decided to let their available rooms the housing shortage in the metropolis would be solved.

TYRE SALES RESTRICTED.

Under a new control of rubber order no person is permitted to dispose of any motor tyre or tube, including second-hand ones, except to a manufacturer or distributor.

REGISTER OF DENTISTS.

Dentists, dentists' assistants, and dental mechanics, except those serving full time with the armed and other defence services, are required to register by October 16 with the manpower authorities.

FURNITURE PRICES FIXED.

Maximum retail prices for furniture, based on fixed profit margin over wholesale prices determined in August, were ordered by the Prices Commissioner (Prof. Copland). The Maximum gross profit margin has been fixed at 55 per cent on manufacturers' invoiced price, including sales tax, or "gross profit" margin, as defined in the prices regulation.

SHORTAGE OF BROOMS.

Suggesting that farmers in the Bundaberg district might be encouraged to grow broom millet, Mr. E. K. Campbell, at the Bundaberg Chamber of Commerce meeting said there was a dearth of brooms in the city. He knew of one firm which had accumulated orders for 600. Broom millet, he understood, had been grown around Bundaberg, and was worth between £80 and £90 per ton.

COMFORTS FUND

CHRISTMAS HAMPERS

Appeal for Donations

Christmas hampers are now being prepared for packing and despatch so that every soldier, sailor, airman, nurse and service woman in the jungles of New Guinea, overseas, or in isolated areas, will receive during the festive season a hamper from the A.C.F.

Gladstone and district residents have in the past freely given to this appeal, and many have been the letters of gratitude received from recipients.

Queensland's quota is 30,000, and the price is the same as last year—7/6 for a single hamper, or three hampers for £1.

Donations for hampers may be sent to Mrs. J. W. Garrett or Mr. F. Peardon.

Each donation will be acknowledged through the columns of the "Gladstone Observer."

HEENZO IS 3 IN ONE REMEDY FOR CHEST NOSE AND THROAT AILMENTS

In addition to saving much money by using HEENZO Cough Remedy, you can also use it three different ways. You take HEENZO internally for internal ailments, viz., coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis and influenza. You use HEENZO as a nasal antiseptic, just a few drops up each nostril night and morning quickly ridding catarrh and colds in head. By gargling with HEENZO you gain instant relief from sore and smokers' throats. Remember, a bottle of Concentrated HEENZO costing only 2/- makes one pint of Family Cough Remedy, equally good for adults and children.

INFLATION
makes the £ smaller

A CONDITION of inflation may give a pretence of prosperity but, unless checked, it leads inevitably to suffering.

From the day when the spendable money in the hands of the people began to exceed the volume of goods and services they could spend it on, inflation began, that is to say, prices began to rise (despite control) and the purchasing power of the £ became smaller and smaller.

All the people suffer under inflation, and particularly—

(1) The thrifty, i.e., those who have their savings in cash, Savings Banks, War Savings Certificates, War Bonds, and Life Assurance.

(2) Civil Servants, clerks, teachers, and all on fixed salaries and wages.

(3) The aged who are living on the proceeds of investments or on pensions.

(4) Owners of houses who rely on the income from them for their livelihood.

The only way to check the suffering, the only way to maintain the purchasing power of the £, is for everyone to spend less, and to put more money into War Loans and Life Assurance. It may seem a contradiction, but it is the cold truth.

IN ITALY

Australian Prisoners of War

"From information just received by the Commonwealth Government it appears that the party of British prisoners of war recently reported as having been transferred from Italy to Germany contained very few Australians," stated the Minister for the Army (Mr. F. M. Forde).

"There is no evidence that any such transfers have occurred since the fall of Mussolini," added the Minister, "but recent advices indicate that most Australian prisoners of war were held in Northern Italy, where there are stated to be large German forces.

"We must, therefore, rely upon the Allied Commander-in-Chief, General Eisenhower, to take all possible action to release Australian and other Allied prisoners of war; but the extent to which he will be able to do this depends upon the development of the military situation in Italy.

"The Commonwealth Government is keeping in close touch with overseas authorities on this matter, and as reliable news comes to hand will make further announcements for the guidance and information of next of kin."

Mr. Forde said that no official confirmation had been received of a press report which stated that Australians were amongst 300 Allied prisoners of war who had crossed the frontier into Switzerland from Italy.

WAR POTENTIALS

R.A.F. Attack

"When the Germans bombed London and other British cities, as well as Warsaw, Belgrade and Rotterdam, they were using air power chiefly as a weapon to destroy the courage of civilians.

Bomber Command, on the other hand, is working to a definite plan of war, because in the Ruhr basin lies the great storehouse of German military power. Without it a third of their power to make war would be gone, and we have given fair warning to the men and women who tend the machines that we are out to destroy that power utterly.

The German High Command is under no illusion. It knows that this battle may well prove decisive. To the defence of the battlefield they have summoned many thousands of anti-aircraft guns; they have lighted the night skies with great batteries of searchlights, and they have called on many squadrons of night fighters to take up the challenge.

The Ruhr is the most heavily defended area in the world, and the task that Bomber Command has set itself is hard."

NEW GUINEA TO LONDON

"Thanks" To The A.C.F.

There is no branch of the Services forgotten by the Australian Comforts Fund, as many letters received at headquarters testify. From a Matron in New Guinea comes one expressing her thanks, and that to her staff, "for the many and varied comforts they had received from time to time."

Another from an R.A.A.F. Corporal, who said since he had been on the island he had received very regular issues of Comforts Fund gifts. Yet another from an Adjutant on behalf of his unit for the gift of a much-needed electric iron. "And many other favours."

From an Army Field Bakery comes a letter on behalf of the platoon "expressing our appreciation for the excellent issues of free gifts from the A.C.F. They are highly appreciated by the lads, and are always eagerly accepted."

"Words fail us to express our heartfelt gratitude towards the Australian Comforts Fund," writes a member of a Tank Corps. He and his unit had recently shared in a generous issue of comforts, and wished the Fund "all success in the great job you are doing to help the troops in these difficult times."

"The Australian Comforts Fund is about the best organisation in any country," writes an enthusiastic young Flight Sergeant from an R.A.A.F. Base in London. He continues, "They really do look after us. The other chaps from different Dominions always envy us, but we share what we get, so everyone benefits from the generosity of those at home. Thank everyone connected with the Fund for me, and tell them that although the expense must be terrific, the comforts are truly appreciated when you are away from home."

A little knowledge is a dangerous thing, particularly when it deals with ships. Gossipers who know only a little still may talk enough to furnish the enemy with the vital link in his chain of information.

HEENZO MAKES ONE PINT OF BEST COUGH REMEDY — SAVES MONEY

We guarantee that money cannot buy a quicker acting and nicer to take Family Remedy than HEENZO for eradicating coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, and influenza. HEENZO is concentrated, and costs only 2/- a bottle. In your own home you add HEENZO to sweetened water, and thus make one pint of quick acting remedy for chest, nose and throat ailments that is equally good and safe for adults and children. Order HEENZO from your store or chemist.

SAVE IT...

for Australia...

REDUCE personal spending — that means more tanks, aeroplanes, ships, munitions, equipment, to be used by our men for our defence.

Here is a vital war-time job for you — to see that not a single penny is wastefully or unnecessarily spent, and that every penny so saved goes into the total war effort. Until Victory is won, the Government needs all your savings, not only the money you have now but all that you can put aside.

LAND TAX ACTS

AMENDMENT BILL

Mr. Barnes Critical

In the Legislative Assembly last week, speaking on the Land Tax Acts Amendment Bill, Mr. J. F. Barnes, Bundaberg, made the following speech:

I liken this Bill to a headline in today's "Telegraph," reading "Charged with Theft of Handcuffs." One guy in Sydney was cheeky enough to steal a pair of handcuffs. Here are a Government who are cheeky enough to bring in a Bill to try to deceive the workers, but they will not get away with it. Not at all.

There is only one way of excluding the worker from paying all these taxes, and that is by not imposing them at all. The hon. member for Cairns said that the consumers pay these taxes. Who are the consumers? Seventy-five per cent of the consumers are workers. Even though an individual has land valued at under the minimum, £300, and is not paying this land tax, he is in reality indirectly paying the land tax of the other guy who has a bigger valuation, because of the increased costs he pays on all commodities required for his family. Therefore, it is the consumer who pays the land tax.

I say there is only one fair way to collect revenue, and that is by having one tax and one tax only, for then we know what we are doing. As a result of these roundabout methods of arriving at income people do not understand what they are paying. Suppose some company owns a mass of buildings. The land tax on it is considerable, so the landlord adds it to the price of the offices he has to let, and these offices are sometimes tenanted by workers; so even though the worker may not pay land tax on his own account, he is paying it to a certain extent in the increased rent he is charged by the landlord.

It was well explained this morning by the Leader of the Opposition why this Bill was unnecessary. He said that under the principal Act the Government could have given this concession without this legislation. How we heard the Treasurer fight, and he fought hard. First of all, I thought he was fighting on behalf of the Bill, but when I followed the interjections I found that he was fighting the charge of the ex-Leader of the Opposition that he was representing vested interests. That was the real reason.

We have to face facts, and the one fact emphasised by the Treasurer is that so many people had land of an unimproved value up to a certain amount that the Opposition want them to release that land. If that were true and the Treasurer had no other object but to help the small person, why did he not give a full concession on unimproved land?

Twenty-five per cent of the £12,000 will be given to big financiers, because 25 per cent of the land is owned by the big financiers. Why did not the Treasurer be consistent and introduce a Bill eliminating taxation on unimproved land up to a certain valuation, thereby forcing the big man to pay income tax?

The Treasurer is making a gift of £4000 to vested interests, to the people who own big lands, but he says the opposite is the case. He is only gulling himself, not me, or his "yes" men behind him. That gives the true position.

The farmer's income that has been spoken about may be nil from the taxable point of view, but under this Bill he has to pay land tax. Under the laws of this State, that is, he has to pay land tax, although he has no taxable income. Why should a man be taxed on his land—on his property—when he has no taxable income. If all taxation were on income, then the big man would pay, but the small man has to pay, whether he has income or not.

The last point is this: It is written in the Protocols that they shall so embarrass landowners by way of taxation and other embarrassments that they may get possession of the land. It is also written in the Protocols that they shall sabotage production because production sabotaged causes hunger, which in turn causes revolution. That is the real nigger in the woodpile. That is the real reason why the ex-Leader of the Opposition challenged the Treasurer about his connection with vested interests. Have those very vested interests got the Treasurer to introduce this Bill with the object of sabotaging primary production in order to bring about the revolution that apparently is coming? Was that the reason it was brought in?

If the land is unimproved, and remains so, you cannot get production out of it. We should be doing something to encourage the people to improve their land. That was the real reason the Bill was introduced. No one can tell me it came from the rank and file. It came from the Treasurer's vested interests friends in the South, whom the Deputy Leader of the Opposition chided him about associating with, and the ex-Premier boasted of his association with those people.

I am opposing the motion. I object to all the various types of taxation. There should be one form of taxation. By that means the Government could tax the big man earning colossal sums. I am also opposing it because the motive behind it is to sabotage production.

AUSTRALIAN ABORIGINES

Turning Bushcraft Skywards

Australian Aborigines are rendering valuable service co-operating with the Volunteer Air Observers' Corps.

Years of training in bushcraft has sharpened their naturally acute vision to the stage when they can detect an aircraft in the sky some time begore it becomes apparent to the average white man.

Members of the R.A.A.F. who have served on northern stations will verify the fact that the natives know when a plane is approaching the aerodrome before it is seen or heard by anyone else, and are able to warn R.A.A.F. officers.

Voluntary observers who watch our skies in the network of V.A.O.C. posts and pass on reports to the Air Force have also enlisted the Aborigines, using them as a warning system.

The native observer either sees or hears the aircraft and lets the white man know it is coming in ample time for him to get his binoculars, pad and pencil, and obtain a good look while it is in sight. Hence his report is much more likely to be accurate.

Most natives cannot be asked to stand a watch on their own, as they find difficulty in counting to more than four! The responsibility of accurately reporting numbers and types of planes is left to others.

In cases where a post is manned by one man, or members of his family, who must do their daily jobs as well, the watchers can go about other tasks knowing that keener eyes and ears than theirs are on the watch, and that they will have ample warning.

HEENZO COUGH REMEDY USED BY FAMOUS PEOPLE

Many world-famous people, including Sir Harry Lauder, Mr. Peter Dawson, Miss Gladys Moncrieff, and Captain Frank Hurley, use and recommend HEENZO as a quick acting, economical and nice to take remedy for coughs, colds, catarrh, croup, bronchitis and influenza. You save lots of money by, in your own home, adding a bottle of Concentrated HEENZO (costs 2/-, all chemists and stores) to sweetened water, thus making ONE PINT of the Best Family Cough Remedy, equally good for adults and children.

THINK BEFORE YOU SPEAK

"Easier to be Critical Than Correct"

Sir Robert Garran, one of Australia's foremost authorities on th Constitution, has given a timely reminder of the results of unthinking criticism. He remarked that the word "bureaucracy" is not only "overworked just now, but also misapplied when used to describe our system of Government."

He explains that the system provides an Executive consisting of Ministers responsible to Parliament, which in turn is responsible to the electors. Ministers administer departments staffed by public servants, who are controlled by Ministers, as Ministers are by Parliament, and as Parliament is controlled by the people.

The Prime Minister (Mr. Curtin) acknowledges that the critic, however aggressive, has his place in the ordered society of a democracy; that, indeed, the critic is an indispensable part of the democratic fabric. He makes the just and elementary point, however, that in order to fulfil his function, the critic should have the facts fairly presented from a national rather than a sectional or factional standpoint.

When ignorance goes hand in hand with gullibility, a hotbed is ready for the seeds of suspicion and prejudice. The individual becomes easily converted to ready-made argument against authority and social discipline, and by the skilful use of propaganda he can be merged into a force such as that created by the cold-blooded perversions of Dr. Goebbels.

Inspiration comes from those who criticise with reason and honest purpose. No leader of a democracy has a right to lead who has not the the ability to accept constructive criticism, and shape his course accordingly.

No true leader imagines that he has a monopoly of wisdom. A discerning community will support intelligent leadership; but an undiscerning community is the natural prey of egotistical dictatorship.

Each one of us, within the ambit of his knowledge and ability, is entitled to criticise. But as the astute Disraeli once remarked, "It is easier to be critical than to be correct," and there is need to emphasise this truth.

The people of the democracies are engaged in a bloody struggle to preserve their system of self-government. They labour and die for a way of life which includes the privilege of criticising the administration.

The least that can be expected of these democratic peoples is that they make the effort required to preserve this precious privilege, and that thy use it with understanding.

APPEAL FOR BOOKS AND CARDS

Help the Boys

The Australian Comforts Fund is urgently appealing for books, magazines, playing cards, or any other indoor games or sporting material for the men of the fighting forces.

The men in the front line or outposts are entitled to these amenities of life, and the Fund asks residents to do their best to supply these articles.

Mr. A. W. Young, Gladstone Cash and Carry, has kindly consented to take possession of these donations, so please forward all you can without delay, and thus help the Fund to help the boys.

FOR THE AMBULANCE.

The Secretary of the Ambulance Brigade (Mr. W. V. Coase) wishes to acknowledge with thanks from the Targinnie Hall Committee the sum of £10/15/1, being proceeds of dance in aid of the Ambulance held at Targinnie on Saturday night, September 11.

WOMEN'S AUXILIARY.

The Women's Auxiliary of the R.S.S.A.I.L.A. desire to return thanks to those friends who contributed donations, cakes, fruit or sweets to their street stall, held on September 21. The tray of groceries was won by J. Neil, Gladstone, and the fruit cake (made and iced by Mrs. P. Irwin) by Mrs. Stanfield, Glenlyon Street.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL

The latest casualty lists include the name of Tom Clare, who enlisted from Rockhampton. Son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Clare, the former being well known as Sergeant in charge of the Gladstone Police Station, young Tom was for many years an employee of Friends (Pty.) Ltd. drapery department.

OBITUARY

MR. A. J. BOYLE.

An old and highly respected resident of the Yarwun district, in the person of Mr. Alfred James Boyle, was found dead in a comfortable position on the verandah of his residence, "Ashgrove," on Wdnesday evening last by his niece, Miss Hazel Boyle.

The matter was reported to the police, and Constable J. Costello proceeded to Yarwun, where he found the body as stated above.

The remains were brought to Gladstone, where a post mortem was held by the Government Medical Officer, Dr. G. J. Byrne, and this disclosed that death was due to senility and exhaustion.

There were no suspicious circumstances.

The deceased, who lived in the house by himself, was 76 years of age, and his wife predeceased him some 20 years ago.

The funeral took place yesterday morning to the Gladstone Cemetery, the Rev. G. T. A. Phillipson officiating at the graveside.

MR. S. J. KEEN.

General regret was expressed in town yesterday when it became known that a well-known employee of the Railway Department, Mr. S. J. Keen, who had been stationed at Gladstone for the past ter years, had passed away in Brisbane, following a lengthy illness.

He was stationed for many years at Emerald, and was well known as a loco driver throughout the Central district.

He leaves a widow and four children, two daughters and two sons. Both of the sons are in the Airforce and one (Tom) distinguished himself early last year when he successfully parachuted from his burning plane in New Guinea and was rescued after a long trek in the jungle.

The late Mr. Keen was a prominnt Hiebernian, and a member of the Holy Name Society. For many years he kept a large apiary at his residence in Auckland Street, and was an authority on bee keeping.

PARSON'S POINT SCHOOL

REMOVAL OF THE BUILDING

Letter From Mr. Williams

After years of agitation by members of the State School Committee at Parsons Point, strongly supported by the member for the district (Hon. T. L. Williams), and later by members of the newly formed Barney Point and South Gladstone Progress Association regarding the removal of the school at that centre to a more central site on the western side of the Bundaberg line, it now appears that early action will be taken to meet the wishes of residents.

Mr. Williams has been advised that approval has now been given for the acquisition of about 3½ acres, section 97, parish of Gladstone, near the main Southern Highway, as a new site for the school, and the Department of Public Instruction is taking steps to secure the land in question. When this is finalised further consideration will be given to the removal of the buildings.

PATRIOTIC RACE MEETING.

The Gladstone Turf Club is holding a patriotic race meeting in aid of Gladstone and District patriotic funds on Saturday, October 16. Splendid nominations have been promised, and in addition to the support of worthy objects the meeting will give a welcome revival to the sport of kings. Gladstone Red Cross, Prisoner of War scheme, Gladstone Comforts Fund, Patriotic Fund, Red Shield, Calliope Comforts Fund, and Calliope Valley Prisoners of War are the beneficiaries. A race ball will be held at night, when Gladstone Red Cross will run the function for the Prisoners of War street appeal.

FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN

GLADSTONE COMMITTEE MEETING

Mr. Burrows Appointed Secretary

A meeting of the Gladstone War Loans Committee was held in the Town Hall on Tuesday night. Present: The Mayor (Ald. G. G. Dennis), and Messrs. F. Hart, H. Hall, J. Vallis, J. Gosschalk, E. G. Fordham, J. Rigby, G. McCab, A. E. Taylor, V. Summers, H. Peters, R. Tudman, C. Knight, and J. Burrows. A number of apologies were received.

The correspondence consisted of letters from the State Organiser regarding general organisation.

SECRETARY.

Mr. Peters stated that owing to pressure of other work he found it impossible to carry on, and asked to be relieved of his position as secretary.

Several members spoke in eulogistic terms of the services given by Mr. Peters.

Mr. J. Burrows was appointed to the position.

RED CROSS ART UNION.

Mr. V. Summers outlined a proposal to run an Art Union in aid of the Red Cross, the prizes for which would be war bonds.

It was decided to congratulate the Society on its enterprise, and to give the Art Union the wholehearted support of the committee.

LACK OF REPRESENTATION.

After members had expressed regret at the absence of representation of certain sections of the town, it was decided on the motion of Mr. Dennis, seconded by Mr. Hart, to make the next meeting of the committee to be held on Tuesday, September 28, a public meeting for the purpose of creating further interest in the success of the loan.

It was also decided to ask Messrs. Swifts Ltd. and the Port Curtis Dairy Association Ltd. to appoint representatives on the committee.

PENNANTS.

Advice had been received that the town had been awarded a pennant for its effort in the previous loan, and that the Parson's Point School had won a pennant in a local school competition for the sale of war savings certificates.

It was decided that the Mayor visit both the Parson's Point and Gladstone Schools for th purpose of congratulating the scholars on their efforts, and that arrangements be made for the presentation of the pennants by Mr. T. L. Williams, M.L.A.

CONTRIBUTIONS BY CORPORATIONS.

It was decided to ask various corporations having branches or interests in Gladstone to credit the town with a portion of their contribution to the loan.

PERSONAL CANVASS.

Mr. McCabe moved that the business people be personally canvassed for subscriptions to the loan. Seconded by Mr. Peters and carried.

It was decided to ask the Chamber of Commerce (through its delegate, Mr. Taylor) to appoint further representatives on the committee, and to nominate a person to canvas the business section.

SWIFTS LTD.

With a view to clearing up complications in the group scheme, which had arisen through employees leaving or being stood down in their employment, it was decided that a subcommittee consisting of Messrs. Vallis, Hart and Burrows interview the management of Messrs. Swifts Ltd.

ADVERTISING SPACE.

Offers to provide advertising space by Messrs. Friends (Pty.) Ltd. and McIlhatton & Co. were gratefully accepted, and the Secretary was instructed to make use of same.

SLOGAN.

Donations of the equivalent of three war saving certificates were made towards prizes for slogans on the loan for competition by school children in the town by the following:— Mayor Dennis £1 certificate, Mr. C. Knight £1 certificate, Storemen and Packers' Union, and Mr. H. Peters, savings stamps to the value of 8/- each.

It was decided to close the competition in two weeks time, and that Messrs. Hall and Taylor be the judges.

GENERAL.

It was decided to advise the bank that the name of Mr. J. Burrows would be substituted for that of Mr. R. H. Grayson on the authority to operate on the committee's account.

Sucessful Dance

A dance, held in the Ubobo Hall last Saturday night in aid of the B.V.P.F. proved a success, both socially and financially.

Music was supplied once again by the ever popular trio, Mrs. Dougall, Mr. L. Pownall, and Master Brian Pownall. The duties of M.C. were carried out by Mr. R. Waite.

Mr. V. A. Macartney, of Ubobo, donated a pet lamb, which was raffled, the lucky winner being Miss Val. Dahtler.

The raffle of a bag of vegetables (donated by Cannan Bros., of Builyan) was won by Miss Beverley Moran.

The Monte Carlo waltz was won by Miss Joyce Hill and Mr. Alex Colyer, the prizes being donated by Mrs. Wagner and Mr. George Draper.

The chocolate waltz was won by Miss M. Gray, the prize being donated by Mrs. W. Streeter.

A sweet stall was held in conjunction with the dance, and the rush on the sweets proved the efficiency of the sweet makers. Much credit is also due to Miss D. Muspratt, the very energetic secretary of the Patriotic Fund.

The result of the dance is as follows:—

Door takings £11/4/-, raffle of lamb £3/18/6, raffle of vegetables £2/3/6, chocolate waltz £2/7/-, Monte Carlo £1/13/. Donations: A. R. Wagner £5, Cannan Bros. £2/2/-, Mrs. C. N. Cannan £1/1/-, Mrs. Frank Cannan £1/1/-, Mrs. Sewell 8/-, Miss J. Davies 2/-, Miss M. Gray 2/-, sweet stall £3; takings £34/2/-, less expenses (hall rent) £2/2/-, nett profit £32.

PERSONAL.

The Muspratt family have received a postcard from Arthur Muspratt, who is a P.O.W. in Japanese hands.

The Macartney family have also had a postcard from Harry Macartney, who is also a P.O.W. in Japanese hands.

Both boys state they are well.

A total of 46,957 lbs. of cheese was manufactured at Bracewell and Theodore factories. Payment to suppliers was at the rate of 1/11½ per lb. butter fat, including Government subsidy of 3½d per lb., and the total distribution was £2,038/8/1.

HITLER AND TOJO

Tyranny's Greatest Foe

One of Hitler's first acts on coming to power was to order great bonfires of books written by all those who disagreed with him. It was a fiery signal to all of us, had we been alert.

The regime has continued as it began. For the honest thinker, silence or the concentration camp. For his books, the flames.

And what of Japan? There liberalism had a brief flowering, but enlightened men and women who thought for themselves were soon rigidly suppressed. To harbour "dangerous thoughts" exposed the individual to imprisonment, or even death.

Hitler and Tojo are right. Their great foes are the quest for truth, freedom of thought, independence and judgment. But tyranny cannot enslave the human mind and spirit, and the armies of freedom are already battering at the frontiers.

CHRISTMAS HAMPERS

Appeal for Donations

Christmas hampers are now being prepared for packing and despatch so that every soldier, sailor, airman, nurse and service woman in the jungles of New Guinea, overseas, or in isolated areas, will receive during the festive season a hamper from the A.C.F.

Gladstone and district residents have in the past freely given to this appeal, and many have been the letters of gratitude received from recipients.

Queensland's quota is 30,000, and the price is the same as last year—7/6 for a single hamper, or three hampers for £1.

Donations for hampers may be sent to Mrs. J. W. Garrett or Mr. F. Peardon.

Each donation will be acknowledged through the columns of the "Gladstone Observer."

CRICKET

PASTIMES-VALLEY MATCH

503 Runs Scored

A cricket match was played at the Showgrounds on Sunday last between the Pastimes and the Valley teams, and resulted in a win for the Valley team by an innings and 42 runs.

As will be seen from the scores the huge total of 503 runs were registered for the day's play, and this indicates that the game was certainly full of thrills, which the public like to see, as it retains interest in the match, and these figures can be looked forward to by the public in future games.

As this game has created so much interest locally, and as many inquiries are being made by intending players, it is asked that persons interested should contact either Mr. N. Campbell or Mr. B. Ryalls, who will gladly answer inquiries. There appears ample reasons why a meeting should be called with a view to restarting the association games, and either of these gentlemen are willing to use every effort to bring this about. Scores:—

PASTIMES.—1st Innings.

Bliss 0, Lyons 9, Tanner 21, Duncan 33, Joyce 5, Campbell 0, Costello 7, Donovan 15, Morgan 6, Johnston 0, Lyons 1, sundries 5, total 104.

VALLEY.—1st Innings.

Schmidt 14, Ryalls 68, Stitt 0, McKenzie 17, Ryalls 50, Hoy 32, Jeffery 23, Walsh 5, Soppa 18, Curran 34, O'Sullivan 13, sundries 8, total 272.

PASTIMES.—2nd Innings.

Duncan 24, Joyce 10, Lyons 8, Tanner 15, Bliss 4, Campbell 10, Costello 2, Donovan 7, Lyons 4, Morgan 28, Johnston 3, sundries 11, total 127.

GROW YOUR OWN VEGETABLES

When sowing, remember—make your rows from North to South so that each plant will get the maximum sunshine throughout the day.

More September sowings

TOMATOES: Sow seed in all parts of State now. Set out plants in protected positions in warm areas only. Plants need well-prepared, rich soil. Prior to transplanting give soil heavy dressing of complete fertiliser. Mark out rows 3 feet apart and space out plants 18 ins. apart. Tomatoes are one of the most useful crops you can grow in your garden.

LETTUCE: Sow seed all districts now. Seedbed soil should be moderate quality. Permanent soil needs to be rich and water supply ample, otherwise plants will be tough and bitter. Set out plants 12 ins. apart in rows 18-24 ins. apart. Fertilisers: Liberal dressings fowl or animal manure, liquid sulphate of ammonia or nitrate of soda, 1 oz. to 2 gals. water when hearting begins. Dislikes acid soils

BEETS: Grow well in any good soil. Prepare soil as for other root crops. Don't add too rich manure dressing or fertilisers rich in nitrogen, as these will cause them to grow to tops instead of developing good roots. Spray tops with Bordeaux mixture to control leaf spot and dust with Derris dust or similar insecticide to kill beet web-moth grubs. When harvesting cut tops 1 inch above roots; no closer or they will "bleed" when cooked

WHY YOU SHOULD GROW YOUR OWN

To win this war, much will depend on the strength and vigour of our forces. To keep this standard, large quantities of fresh vegetables are given to our own fighting men and our Allies. Because of this, adequate supplies of vegetables are not always available for civilians. Supplement your own needs by growing your own. Vegetables direct from your own garden are full of health-giving vitamins. It PAYS, too, to "grow your own"!

INFLATION
makes the £ smaller

A CONDITION of inflation may give a pretence of prosperity but, unless checked; it leads inevitably to suffering.

From the day when the spendable money in the hands of the people began to exceed the volume of goods and services they could spend it on, inflation began, that is to say, prices began to rise (despite control) and the purchasing power of the £ becamc smaller and smaller.

All the people suffer under inflation, and particularly—

(1) The thrifty, i.e., those who have their savings in cash, Savings Banks, War Savings Certificates, War Bonds, and Life Assurance.

(2) Civil Servants, clerks, teachers, and all on fixed salaries and wages.

(3) The aged who are living on the proceeds of investments or on pensions.

(4) Owners of houses who rely on the income from them for their livelihood.

The only way to check the suffering, the only way to maintain the purchasing power of the £, is for everyone to spend less, and to put more money into War Loans and Life Assurance. It may seem a contradiction, but it is the cold truth.

AUDIT BILL

AUDIT OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS

"Two-up Schools and Starting Price Joints"

Speaking on the Audit Bill in the Legislative Assembly last week, Mr. J. F. Barnes (Bundaberg) had this to say:—

In introducing the Bill the Premier said the Act had been modelled on the English Act. During a recent debate on this subject in this Parliament it was found that the principal Act of 1874 really defeated its purpose, which was that there should be an audit inspection of public account and a report to Parliament.

The Act provided for an audit inspection of public accounts, but there was no provision for a report to Parliament. We had the Premier and the Deputy Premier arguing along those lines to defend their case. The debate had gone to some lengths when I made mention of the amending Act of 1895, which forced the Auditor General to make a report to Parliament. At that time the Government depended for their case solely on the fact that the Auditor General did not have to make a report to Parliament, but I advanced the argument that the Act of 1895 said that the Auditor General had to make a report to Parliament. The debate went on, and our amendments were lost, despite the fact that our contentions were correct.

The Premier: He had to report to Parliament on all matters coming within his jurisdiction in the public service.

Mr. Barnes: He had to report to Parliament on all matters, including hospitals. We were speaking specifically about the Mackay Hospital.

The Premier: You are quite wrong.

Mr. Barnes: It was only a fluke that I found out about the deficiencies in the Mackay Hospital. If a party had not notified me it might have gone on and no one would have known anything about it. I was told that there were deficiencies on the part of the secretary of the Mackay Hospitals Board, and I brought the matter up in this House by way of a question. Finally it came before the House on a substantive motion. It was proved in that case that the audit inspector, a man named Holmes, had full power to set up a court equivalent to an ordinary magistrate's court to find out exactly how much money was missing, how it had gone, and all the details about it, but that was not done, despite the fact that the Audit Act and the Hospitals Act combined allowed him to do it.

Furthermore, the audit inspector did not visit the Mackay Hospitals Board for some time after to make his report.

Speaking from memory, I think the incident happened somewhere about Christmas time, and speaking from memory again, I think it was in February that the auditor inspector went there. There was a big deficiency in the Mackay Hospitals accounts, but there was no audit inspctor until some weeks afterwards. Then, following that, the audit inspector made a report to the Auditor General, whom we dealt with on a substantive motion, and he failed to report it to Parliament.

Now we have a further amending Bill brought before this Chamber. I am inclined to think there must be something behind it. I shall be very pleased when I am able to peruse the Bill, so that I can analyse its provisions.

You know, Mr. Brassington, that Bills have been introduced previously, and when we have been supplied with copies we have found there is a great deal more behind them than meets the naked eye. No one dreamt when a Bill was introduced last session to amend the Coroners' Act, even when it was discussed in detail, that it provided for a man being convicted twice for the same offence, until that was actually done. When introducing that Act the Attorney General did not tell us of that fact, nor were we told of it during any part of the debate.

The Chairman: Order!

Mr. Barnes: That is why I think there is a nigger in the woodpile in this Bill.

The Premier: You will have an opportunity of investigating it yourself.

Mr. Barnes: We shall be very pleased to get it and investigate it, and in the meantime we may be pardoned, in the light of experience, for fearing a nigger in the woodpile in connection with this Bill. I fear there is more in it than meets the eye. I have no illusions about it myself, particularly after what happened last year, when duress was brought to bear. It is possible that duress is being brought to bear now, and that the bearer will not bear it.

According to the Premier this Bill provides that an audit inspector shall not be allowed to carry on any other business. That is very limited. An audit inspector may go to the races every Saturday, and by virtue of his doing so it may be argued that he is engaging in another business. I am merely giving this as an illustration. Lots of people have no other business but going to the races.

The Premier: Profits from two-up schools and starting-price joints are not recognised as income by the Commissioner of Taxes.

Mr. Barnes: If a man who earns a profit from a sly-grog joint or two-up school reports it to the Commissioner of Taxes it is treated as income subject to income tax. The Commissioner is not interested in how the income is earned. If you report it he will assess you accordingly. In proof of that there is a recent case in which a woman running a brothel had to pay £3000 income tax.

The Chairman: Order! I ask the hon. member to connect his remarks with the motion before the Committee.

Mr. Barnes: Why, at this stage do the Government include that stipulation in this Bill? I should imagine that an audit inspector for the Government has a full-time job, and could not enter into any other business if he wanted to. An audit inspector would, I imagine, have one of the biggest jobs in Queensland. Being a wachdog of this State, he has one of the biggest jobs known, as he handles so much money.

We members of Parliament are the wachdogs of the people; we have to look after the people's money. That is our job. That brings me back to what the hon. member for West Moreton suggested—that the Bill should go a little further; it may, we do not know yet—and that a committee be formed from both sides of the Chamber, particularly those qualified in accountancy, to report on the Bill. When I say "qualified" I admit that if we have not the qualified men, we have partly qualified men. Then if the Bill contained any funny business it would be disclosed straight away. On one occasion we had a Government giving away £40,000 of the people's money, and Parliament not knowing of the fact until years later.

If a committee is appointd to check up on the Auditor General, then 10 years would not elapse before such a thing would be found out. I do not know why the Premier does not accept the suggestion of the hon. member for West Moreton. It was a good one, and the Premier is not above accepting a suggestion from this side if it is sound. If he does not accept the suggestion, he leaves it open to the people of Queensland to suggest things. I shall wait until the Bill is distributed to find out what is really in it.

WELCOME NEWS FOR THE CATTLE BREEDER!
"BOTTRELL" BRANDING FRAME

THE OBJECT of the MACHINE is to facilitate the Branding, Castrating and Earmarking of Calves, from any age up to twelve or eighteen months, and it has been proved a great labour-saving Machine, and no user would now be without a

. BOTTRELL BRANDING FRAME. .

The Machine consists of a Wooden Frame, which has its sides curved to receive the body of the animal, and turns on hinges fixed in the ground, with the motion resembling the opening and shutting of a book.

One side of the Frame is held upright against a fence by a latch, while the other side moves freely on its hinges under the control of a ratchet. The Calf passes from a crush or race into the Frame, which is then closed as far as necessary, leaving the head and hind parts free. The latch is raised and the Frame turned on its side. The Branding and Castrating can then be done with the greatest ease.

One man can perform the work with Speed and Certainty, thus saving the expense of extra labour and ropes. The rough usage attending the ordinary method of performing these operations, which is a fruitful cause of cancer and lumpy jaw in cattle, and consequently a loss to owners, is thus entirely avoided, and on the score of both economy and humanity the Patent Branding Frame must commend itself to all Cattle Breeders. The Machine is portable, and weights 1½ cwt.

One man can put thrugh thirty to forty head per hour, and with the assistance of two boys, sixty per hour, if the yard is properly constructed.

CAN BE SUPPLIED FOR NEAR OR OFFSIDE BRANDING.

ITALY - EMPIRE LOST

UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER

Great Allied Victory

On the fourth anniversary of Britain's entry into the war Italy made an unconditional surrender. Her exit from hostilities was a inglorious as her entrance was despicable. She has indeed reaped a whirlwind from the treacherous seed she sowed.

By th bombastic vanity and ambition of a leader who had done a great deal for Italy, but who was impelled by a dream of world conquest, the Italian people, who are normally peace-loving and have been on friendly terms with Britain, were induced to assume a role for which they were unfitted.

Now they are called upon to pay the price of the mistake they made. Their territories are to be used as operational bases by the United Nations, their greatly vaunted navy has steamed peacefully into Allied ports, their empire has been lost, and their own land is a battleground.

The Italians ought to be very chary about again making war, and if as great a retribution comes to the Germans, they too will probably learn the lesson they need to learn.

The forcing of Italy out of the war is a great Allied victory. The Allies held by their demand for an unconditional surrender, and forced Italy into submission. This affords ground for assurance that there will be no negotiated peace with Germany.

The Germans have yet to be driven out of Italy, and it is not improbable that, before long, Italy will declare war on Germany.

The gains to the United Nations from the surrender of Italy are considerable. The effect upon the morale of Germany is bound to be great, and Japanese morale cannot fail to be influenced by it.

Italian ports and airfields are now available as operational bases for attacks upon Germany and her occupied territory. The whole of Germany will now be brought within easy bomber range of British and American airfleets, and there are better prospects for landings in Greece or the Balkans.

The Mediterranean is now practically a British lake, her supply route to the East has thus been shortened by many thousands of miles, Italian merchant vessels will augment the tonnage of the United Nations, and the Italian fleet, together with the Allied vessels freed by its surrender, will be available for service in other theatres of war.

The victory over Italy is good reason for rejoicing, chiefly because it is an important and necessary step towards the conquest of Germany. We have expressed our thanksgiving to Almighty God for this victory, and now we turn with reinforced resolve and renewed courage to finish the work to which we have set our hands.

LOAN QUIZ

Q: What is the period of the £125,000,000 Fourth Liberty Loan?

A: October 5 to November 9, five weeks, during which Australia must find an all-time record loan amount, and at least 750,000 subscribers.

Q: Must I wait until the loan opens officially on October 5 before I subscribe?

A: No; advance subscriptions can be made immediately at any bank. Interest at 2½ per cent for five years, 3¼ per cent for 16 years, begins as soon as funds are lodged.

Savings stamps, war savings certificates, Commonwealth loans, are vital instruments in waging the war against the powers of darkness. You have a part to play.

RATIONING

Sharing the Burdens

The unrelenting nature of the present world struggle imposes upon everyone some measure of sacrifice, some degree of inconvenience.

Because of the nature of this struggle, its objectives, and the profound changes their attainment must involve, it is well that the demands affect all of us in some degree.

A common purpose, a common task, and a common sharing of difficulties is the only basis upon which sound progress can proceed on the widest basis.

It is in this respect that the rationing of essential commodities in Australia provides a keynote to our war effort.

Rationing is a way of ensuring that essential civilian goods in short supply can be equitably distributed. Introduced as a war-time control, it has in fact saved one section of the population from actual want.

This would have been inescapable in many cases when the purchasing power of some sections remained unchanged and that of others relatively high, with no check on indiscriminate buying of essentials in short supply.

Rationing controls have operated in Australia for more than 14 months. We can still recall the rush buying which immediately preceded the introduction of rationing—a "devil take the hindmost" process which would have left many with far less than their fair share of the goods available.

Controls introduced and exercised by the Rationing Commission have given a healthier meaning to the word rationing. Instead of implying harsh and arbitrary deprivations as some might have supposed, it has become synonymous with fair sharing, and fair sharing on a national scale.

It represents a decision in favour of a more scientific (and hence humane) system necessitated by war time emergencies, instead of chaotic conditions producing real hardship for a great many, such as Germany experienced in its inflationary period following the last Great War.

Figures prepared by the Government before the middle of last year showed clearly that drastic action was necessary if the minimum needs of the community were to be met equitably.

In the first place it was apparent that supplies then available would not suffice for minimum requirements. Thus, to ensure fair sharing of what was available, the rationing authorities took steps to obtain increased supplies. This liberalised the ration which otherwise would have been necessary.

In lifting supply out of a precarious position, the rationing authorities acted in co-operation with other Government Departments, such as Supply and Shipping, Import Procurement, War Organisation of Industry, Manpower, and all the Services.

It has been made clear that the quality of clothing cannot always be of the same standard to which buyers have been accustomed. This is inevitable, because there are great demands and a justifiable priority on the best quality goods for Australian and Allied fighting forces.

The application of controls in the case of tea, sugar and butter have also been necessary for reasons directly associated with the war effort.

This is a people's war, needing the support of the people, not only in the Services, in the munitions factories, and in subscriptions to loans, but in cheerful acceptance of minor hardships and in helping to see that these are fairly borne.

The Australian Red Cross Society spent £175,000 in 1939-40, and in 1942-43 it spent £1,145,000.

Last year 260,000 Red Cross members were mobilised in the Commonwealth. The Society handled 602,000 prisoner of war letters, and 38,000 inquiries about missing men.

UNITED KINGDOM BUTTER

No Purchases from America

Since the Commonwealth Food Control was set up in July the United Kingdom Food Mission (Mr. Banks Emery and Mr. Hinton) has been working in close co-operation with it. Housed in the Food Control Offices, the British Food Mission is kept in touch with all the factors determining Commonwealth policy in production and export of food. Food control is part of the Department of Commerce and Agriculture, which in turn is specifically interested in marketing of Australia's export commodities.

Advantages from this close link are evidenced by the promptness with which understanding upon matters of policy can now be established. Last week the United Kingdom Food Mission has removed widespread misapprehension regarding reported purchases of butter from the United States by Britain. "Actually," it stated, "at no stage during the present war has the United Kingdom imported any butter from the United States."

Misapprehension regarding purchases of butter by Britain from America arose in the first place following the publication of an article in a trade paper earlier in the year.

This no doubt was caused by the fact that a few small shipments of United States butter originally intended for another destination were unavoidably diverted to the United Kingdom. Corresponding quantities, however, have since been exported by the United Kingdom to the original destination.

It is pointed out, therefore, that there was never any question of the permanent retention of United States butter within the United Kingdom. This means that no necessity for payment by the United Kingdom for United States butter has arisen during the present war.

The United Kingdom imports considerable quantities of cheese from the United States, and the transactions are entered up in Lend-Lease accounts. Consequently no actual payment is made for the cheese. The British Food Mission also states that the amount at which the cheese is entered in Lend-Lease accounts is not so high as that which the United Kingdom pays for imports of cheese from Australia.

In commenting upon the report which raised this matter, the New Zealand Minister of Marketing has stated that Britain was also paying less for American cheese than for the New Zealand product. He said also that Britain was getting no butter from the United States.

APPEAL FOR BOOKS AND CARDS

Help the Boys

The Australian Comforts Fund is urgently appealing for books, magazines, playing cards, or any other indoor games or sporting material for the men of the fighting forces.

The men in the front line or outposts are entitled to these amenities of life, and the Fund asks residents to do their best to supply these articles.

Mr. A. W. Young, Gladstone Cash and Carry, has kindly consented to take possession of these donations, so please forward all you can without delay, and thus help the Fund to help the boys.

In Britain seven out of every ten boys and girls between the ages of 14 and 17 are working in industry.

Over 500,000 enemy troops were put out of action in the African campaigns.

CURRENT TOPICS

BUTTER SPREAD.

Brisbane is to have a new factory and additional plant to manufacture tropical butter spread, which is providing troops in torrid zones with firm palatable butter, independent of refrigeration. The plant will cost about £45,000, and plans of a dehydration plant are being obtained from England.

MANPOWER RELEASES.

A recommendation by the War Commitments Committee for the provision of 50,000 men for essential rural and manufacturing industries was discussed by the Federal Cabinet on Monday last. It is expected that decisions on the way in which vitally needed manpower will be released will be made in the next week or two.

DIPHTHERIA DEATHS.

Two of eight children of a foreign family living in South Brisbane have died of diphtheria, and two others are seriously ill with the same disease. Medical health officers state it is the worst family case on record. No previous case of two deaths in one family is on record. None of the children had been immunised. The father has been found to be a diphtheria carrier.

HOLIDAY WORK FOR GIRLS.

Plans are being drafted in Queensand N.S. Wales for girls whose holiday fall between October and May to spend them on farms and orchards working as Land Army auxiliaries. Employers are being asked to increase girls' leave to at least one month. A message from Sydney said N.S. Wales girls will be entitled to Land Army uniform, free transport to and from their employment, a minimum wage of £2 a week, and their keep.

COAL STRIKES.

"Because of strikes 80,000 tons of high-grade Maitland coal have been lost since July 25, when Mr. Curtin announced the enforcement of laws against strikes would be automatic," said the Secretary of the Northern Colliers Proprietors' Association (Mr. R. Davies). "Despite the serious loss action has been taken in the Maitland field in only three cases," he continued, "and only on one occasion against members of the Miners' Federation."

GOLDEN CASKET COMMISSION.

The total commission on the sale of State lottery tickets sold by Golden Investment Company during 1942-43 was £2122. Announcing this in the State Parliament, the Attorney General (Mr. Gledson) said that during the same period the commission paid to Brisbane agents was £88 154, and to other agents in Queensland £61,820. Mr. Gledson was replying to questions asked by Mr. Barnes (Bundaberg).

SOCIAL SERVICE BILL.

The Unemployment and Sickness Benefits Bill to be introduced in Parliament this session is described as being the most generous proposed in the Commonwealth's history. The scheme will be financed out of th National Welfare Fund of £30,000,00 authorised by legislation some months ago. Pension payments and other social services already account for about £3,000,000 of this fund, and it is believed the cost of the unemployment and sickness scheme will take most of the remainder.

RACELESS SATURDAY.

Federal Cabinet has decided to abandon the raceless Saturday, which has been enforced on the first Saturday in every month for about a year. Immediate action will be taken to rescind the regulations imposing the ban. The decision will operate from the beginning of November, so that the first Saturday in November will mark the resumption of normal weekly racing. The Melbourne Cup date may be affected by the racing concession. In addition to abolishing the raceless Saturday, Cabinet decided to rectify a number of anomalies in the operation of regulations limiting country racing.

CALLIOPE

C.W. ASSOCIATION

Monthly Meeting

The monthly meeting of the Calliope branch of the C.W. Association was held in the hall on Friday, September 17. Present: Mesdames Chandler (acting president), Whitney, Armour, Dickinson and Wheeler. Apologies were received from Mesdames Simpson, Waddell, Bentley, Aldous, Mylne, Streeter, and McKenna.

On account of her daughter's illness, Mrs. Simpson (president) could not be present, and the chair was taken by Mrs. Chandler for the meeting.

A SILENT PRAYER.

The meeting opened with the reciting of "My Creed," followed by a silent prayer for all on active service.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS.

Birthday greetings were extended to Mesdames Aldous and Courtney, and thanks received from Mrs. Wheeler for card and good wishes from members.

GENERAL.

An apology from the Boyne Valley branch, sent by telegram, for the annual meeting arrived late.

SPECIAL VOTE OF THANKS.

Mrs. Chandler extended a special vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler, Mrs. Davies, and Mr. Whitney, for their assistance at the August dance, and to the willing helpers who helped to make the annual meeting successful.

CAMOUFLAGE NETS.

It was reported that as no twine had come to hand work had been held up.

MYSTERY PARCEL.

It was decided that money collected for the mystery parcel should go towards the purchasing of war saving stamps.

DELEGATES.

Two delegates are to be sent by the branch to the Division annual meeting, and that £5 be allotted for expenses.

JOURNAL ORGANISER.

Mrs. Whitney very kindly offered to take over the job of journal organising.

CALLIOPE SPORTS.

£95 Raised

A patriotic day's sports and dance was held on Saturday, September 18, at Hazeldean, Calliope River, on behalf of the Calliope branch of the Australian Comforts Fund.

The committee is to be congratulated on the splendid success it made of the function, the total amount collected being £95.

The President of the Calliope branch (Cr. G. H. Potter), in thanking the residents of the district, said he realised the great amount of work they had done for the Calliope branch, and he also thanked the boys of the C.C.C. and all who had helped personally or financially.

Following are the winners of the sporting events:—

75 yards men's scratch race, Ben Walker.

100 yards men's scratch race, L. Potter.

GLADSTONE TOWN COUNCIL

BOYNE RIVER SCHEME - UNDER C.C.C. CONDITIONS

AMENDED ESTIMATE OF COSTS NOW RECEIVED

The fortnightly meeting of the Council was held on Monday night. Present: The Mayor (Ald. G. G. Dennis), and Aldermen J. Deveney, M. A. Busteed, W. R. Golding, R. R. Tudman, and the acting Town Clerk (Mr. V. P. Breslin).

Apologies were received from Ald. R. E. Smith and H. Anderson.

PIPES AND CASTINGS.

Minister for Public Works (Mr. H. Bruce) informed Mr. T. L. Williams, M.L.A., that there was only one firm from which it was possible to procure the pipes required for the Boyne River water supply scheme, which were to be of cast iron and cement lined. In view of the urgency of the work, action was being taken by the Director of Local Government to submit a recommendation to the Treasury Dpartment that in the circumstances no objection be taken to the ordering of the pipes and castings without the calling of tenders.—Received.

AMENDED ESTIMATE.

Mr. W. J. Reinhold, consulting engineer, Brisbane, forwarded three copies of an amended estimate of cost for the completion of the second section of the Boyne River water supply scheme to the end of the first section of main at No. 1 reservoir. The estimate was based on the use of labour from the Civil Construction Corps, and on the assumption that work would be carried out by contractors on a cost-plus fixed fee basis of remuneration. The total estimate of cost was £112,047. These estimates should be submitted to the Department of Local Government for their approval. As the amount of money now available was £100,000, comprising a loan of £90,000 and a subsidy of £10,000, it would be necessary for the Council to make further arrangements to raise the additional amount required to complete the works under these conditions.

It was decided that the estimates be forwarded to the department, and that arrangements be made in regard to the additional amount required to complete the works.

COSTS UNDER C.C.C. CONDITIONS.

Mr. W. J. Reinhold, consulting engineer, Brisbane, advised that a preliminary schedule of quantities in connection with the Boyne River water supply scheme had been prepared, and the costs under C.C.C. conditions were being discussed with officers of the Department of the Interior, and when a decision was reached on the various matters, cost figures for a preliminary estimate would be finalised. In the meantime the Director of Local Government was being asked to give his approval for the ordering of pipes without calling tenders, and quotations were being obtained for the supply of castings and valves. It was becoming urgently necessary for the Council to make a decision in regard to the recommended arrangement for the generation of power to drive the pumping machinery.

It was decided that the matters raised in the letter be discussed with Engineer Fenwick on his forthcoming visit to Gladstone.

ALTERATIONS AND ADDITIONS.

Mr. W. J. Reinhold, consulting engineer, Brisbane, forwarded three copies of amended estimates for the following:—

(a) Section 1 of the Boyne River water supply scheme, comprising the 12-inch gravitation main from Gladstone to No. 1 reservoir. Total estimate of cost £17,222/6/8.

(b) Complete schedule of alterations and additions to the Gladstone town reticulation. Total estimated cost £11,867.

The work on the town reticulation could be deferred if it were thought desirable, as it was independent of the general scheme to complete the supply from the Boyne River.—Received.

LOAN OF £90,000.

Department of Local Government, Brisbane, advised relative to the loan of £90,000 for the Boyne River water supply scheme that an order-in-council had been made dispensing with the loan procedure in respect to this loan.—Received.

NO SPECIAL BENEFIT.

Minister for Public Works (Mr. H. A. Bruce) advised Mr. T. L. Williams, M.L.A., that he had decided in reference to the loan of £90,000 for the Boyne River water supply scheme that the work would not be for the special benefit of a particular part of the area of the town of Gladstone.—Received.

SUCTION GAS CHEAPER.

Mr. J. S. Just, consulting engineer, Brisbane, submitted a report regarding the cost of power for pumping water for the town supply, and his results showed the following:—

(1) "The cheapest form of pumping to-day, including capital charges and operating costs, is by suction gas.

(2) "At pre-war fuel oil costs there is little to choose between the annual costs of pumping by either suction gas or crude oil plants.

(3) "Electrical pumping at 1½d per unit for electricity, whilst being the most convenient, is also the highest in annual cost.

"In capital cost, the oil engine plant is the lowest, followed closely by the suction gas plant. The steam and electric schemes are approximately equal in capital costs, and are greater than either crude oil or suction gas.

"In answer to your inquiry in connection with the suggested charge of 1½d per unit for electricity delivered at the Gladstone Power Station on to your transmission system, I would advise that this price, as a selling price by the Electric Authority, is most reasonable. At £15 per ton for crude oil it will cost your Electric Authority, for fuel alone, not less than 4½d per unit generated, or approximately 1½d per unit sold, and to this charge must be added a proportion of the lubricating oil, stores, maintenance, wages and other running expenses, plus a proportion of the capital charges on plant used for this purpose."

PUMP BY SUCTION GAS.

Ald. Golding said the Council's experience had shown that the pumping by electricity had been very high, and he considered it would be a wise decision to pump by suction gas, and he moved a motion accordingly.

Mayor Dennis, in seconding the motion, supported the remarks of Ald. Golding, and said they could pump cheaper by suction gas, and this had been borne out by experience.

Ald. Tudman said he was in favour of pumping by suction gas, as it had proved very economical, and he hoped the motion would be carried.

Ald. Deveney said he was quite satisfied that suction gas would do the work more economically, and that wood could be obtained for 15/- a ton.

The motion was carried.

SANITARY CONTRACT.

Department of Public Health, Brisbane, notified that the existing sanitary contract would expire on December 31, and it was requested that the new draft be submitted for approval.

To be advised that a copy of the draft agreement for the new sanitary contract was being prepared, and would be forwarded for perusal and comment.

With a view to establishing a new sanitary depot reserve, application had been made to have a certain area situated in the Calliope Shire Council area vested in the control of the Town Council.

AN HONOUR PENNANT.

Queensland Patriotic and Australian Comforts Fund (Lord Mayor of Brisbane, chairman), wrote as follows:—

"I am exceedingly happy to be able to congratulate you on the splendid effort of your town in our State-wide Battle Stations competition just concluded. The magnificent result your town achieved reflects great credit on all converned, and I should be glad if you would be so good as to convey to all who assisted our very grateful thanks for their willing help. I am pleased to be able to say that following your meritorious effort it has been decided to award a special honour pennant to your town as a memento, and this will be forwarded to you shortly. The fellow members of my committee and I are most appreciative of the excellent results you have achieved, and feel sure that all the willing band of workers who participated will feel proud that they have made a worthy contribution for the welfare of the men and women who are fighting our battles for us." The amount raised was £600.—Received.

TO BE ATTENDED TO.

Mr. F. A. Meyers, Gladstone, again drew attention to the condition of of the roadway and water channel in Central Lane, near his premises, and asked that the matter be attended to.

The matter was referred to the Works Committee for investigation and attention.

FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN

RECORD NUMBER OF AUSTRALIANS

Must Subscribe to New Loan

For the £125,000,000 Fourth Liberty Loan the Government is seeking at least 750,000 subscribers.

This means that 290,000 more Australians than have subscribed to any previous loan must contribute to the new loan, which will open on October 5 and close on November 9.

A large section of the population has not yet realised the complete soundness of investment in national security. This is particularly true in the case of many good wage-earners who have not put a penny into any of the Commonwealth's nine previous war loans.

Every penny put into Commonwealth loans is backed by Australia's immense assets and tangible wealth, estimated at £6,000,000,000. When compared with Australia's National Debt of £2,000,000,000 the soundness of the three to one security is obvious.

It is essential that the Government should be given the largest possible amount of purchasing power at the present time. Great victories have come our way, but a mighty task lies ahead of the Allies before victory can be won. The way must be paved with the most modern equipment of war. For that equipment every Australian must help to pay.

The money required for the Fourth Liberty Loan is an essential part of the nation's war plans. It will be spent on feeding, clothing and equipping the armed forces. The more material that is made available quickly to the fighting forces the sooner will decisive victory and just peace be restored to the world.

MOSQUITOES.

Trades and Labour Council (Gladstone branch) advised that the Council's letter was discussed at a Trades and Labour Council meeting, held on Friday, September 17, and was of opinion that it was evasive. While the mosquito portion was dealt with, no information was given regarding the request for information on the subject of the alleged loan or grant supposed to have been available for all councils for combating the mosquito scourge. "We again ask for information on this subject. Was, or is this loan or grant still available, and has the Council ever applied for same, or does the Council consider doing so?"

No loan has been applied for, and the work would be carried out by the Works Committee with the assistance of the Health Inspector, and all breeding grounds would be dealt with.

TOWN HALL THEATRE.

Mr. Upton, Town Hall Theatre, advised that he had purchased Mr. Clapham's half share in the Regent Theatre, and in the near future would be transferring his business to that theatre. He would remove his talkie equipment, etc., when his present agreement terminated, on November 30.—Received.

LIGHT IN TOOLOOA STREET.

Ald. Busteed reported that following an inspection by the Lighting Committee, the shifting of one light in Toolooa Street to another position had been recommended, as it would give a better light.

The recommendation was adopted, and the work would be carried out.

PORT OF GLADSTONE.

Ald. Golding considered that something should be done to forward the interests of Gladstone and its outstanding harbour. It was necessary to get a united front, all the public bodies working in harmony, to achieve success, and with this object in view he moved that a public meeting be called for Thursday, October 7, at 8 p.m., in the Town Hall, to further the interests of the port.

Seconded by Ald. Deveney and carried.

ELECTRIC AUTHORITY.

WORK TO BE CARRIED OUT.

In connection with Mr. Judd's application for the supply of electric power to his residence, which was supported by the South Gladstone and Barney Point Progress Association, it was decided at the meeting held on September 13 that an inspection be made by the Lighting Committee.

On Monday night last Ald. Busteed reported that an inspection of the locality had been made, and the Committee had recommended that the line be erected to Mr. Judd's property. Four poles would be required, and the cost would be £25.

Ald. Golding moved that the work be carried out. Seconded by Ald. Busteed and carried.

NEW GARRATT LOCOMOTIVE

HAULS 560 TONS

Economic Proposition

The powerful Garratt locomotive, recently installed in Queensland, passed through Gladstone on Monday last on its way to Rockhampton, drawing a load of 560 tons, by far the greatest on the Queensland railways. The locomotive created great interest among railway employees and the public.

Some idea of the pulling power may be gleaned from the fact that two of the present-day locomotives are required to pull a load of 470 tons. It will save the use of "double headers," thereby releasing small engines for other urgent work.

Its overall length is 100 feet, and it has a speed of 45 miles per hour. It is squat in design, and minus a smoke funnel. The engine can be operated with equal efficiency in reverse, except that the driver will be facing in the direction opposite to his controls. The following was published in the journal "Locomotive" regarding these locomotives:—

Saturation occurs when the maximum number of trains is scheduled on a given section, and additional trains cannot be squeezed through. Train crews in many cases are working long hours in an effort to move the absolute maximum of traffic over the lines, and the lengthening of hours is due in no small measure to congestion causing long delays at crossing loops and in sidings.

The best remedy is to increase the weight of the trains, and, if possible, make some improvement in the average speed. This demands more powerful locomotives, but this in turn calls for greater weight on coupled wheels to provide the necessary adhesion.

Since individual axle loads cannot be increased under present track conditions, the number of axles must be increased. Wholesale strengthening of tracks, straightening of curves and strengthening of bridges to allow heavier axle loads is not a practical proposition in war time when things must be done quickly.

Eight-coupled engines already are in use, and eight wheels coupled is generally recognised as the practical limit. It is true that engines with ten and twelve wheels coupled are hauling fast trains in the United States of America, but not over sharply curved tracks or weak bridges.

A 14-coupled type has been built in Russia for special work, but the feat has not been attempted elsewhere.

To double the power of an 8-coupled engine without increasing axle loads would mean coupling 16 wheels. Apart altogether from the almost insuperable mechanical difficulties of construction, such an engine could not be permitted over the existing bridges and could not negotiate the existing curves. It is obvious, then, that an articulated engine is the only possible choice, and the Garratt is the best form of articulated engine.

Actually, the Garatt design now under construction is the equivalent of two existing locomotives, since two engine units are coupled together, although a single boiler serves both, and there is no tender. In effect we have two 4-8-2 engines permanently coupled together, but spaced apart by the boiler unit in the centre, so that bridge loadings are reduced greatly.

The Garratt consists essentially of three units, namely, the front engine unit, the boiler unit, and the hind engine unit. The bunker and part of the water supply are carried on the rear engine unit, and the remainder of the water on the front engine unit. Notwithstanding that the terms front engine unit and rear engine unit are used for the sake of simplicity, the locomotive can run equally well in either direction, and does not require turntables.

HEENZO COUGH REMEDY USED BY FAMOUS PEOPLE

Many world-famous people, including Sir Harry Lauder, Mr. Peter Dawson, Miss Gladys Moncrieff, and Captain Frank Hurley, use and recommend HEENZO as a quick acting, economical and nice to take remedy for coughs, colds, catarrh, croup, bronchitis and influenza. You save lots of money by, in your own home, adding a bottle of Concentrated HEENZO (costs 2/-, all chemists and stores) to sweetened water, thus making ONE PINT of the Best Family Cough Remedy, equally good for adults and children.

OBITUARY

MRS. FRED BAKER.

Another link with the early days of Gladstone was broken when Mrs. Fred Baker passed away recently at the residence of her daughter (Vida), Mrs. William Davies, Davies Street, Ashgrove.

Her husband, who died two years previously, was the proprietor of the pioneer hardware and plumbing business, in Gondoon Street.

The late Mr. Baker took the business, which included the manufacture of furniture, over from Mr. H. W. Reeves, and on his retirement in 1909 the employees, under the name of the Gladston Hardware and Furnishing Co., bought the business and carried it on at the lower end of the main street. It was afterwards removed to its present site in Gondoon street.

The late Mr. Baker lived at Marooochydore for many years, and often visited Gladstone. They were fine old people, respected and esteemed by the residents of the town and district.

CORRESPONDENCE

SINCERE THANKS.

(To the Editor.)

Sir,—Would you please grant me some of your valuable space in order that I may express the thanks of our family to our many friends who were so splendid to us in our recent tragic bereavement.

Words are so futile to express our feelings under these circumstances, but on behalf of my mother, sisters and brother I offer our deep and heartfelt thanks to each and every one of those wonderful people who have helped during my dad's illness.

To those also, who, since he passed away and at the funeral, rendered invaluable assistance and sympathy to our family, I offer our sincere thanks.

It is utterly impossible to thank individually all these kind friends, societies, unions and firms, who attended our family before and since dad's death, and who sent tributes.

To all these our heartfelt thanks and sincerest regard.

Yours sincerely,
THOS. KEEN.

USED STAMPS.

Sir,—Hundreds of business and other persons throw away or destroy used Australian stamps. Why do such a thing when those stamps can be turned to good account?

Dealers, who buy them for a small sum, reject defective stamps. The perforation must be in perfect condition, and the stamps free from heavy cancellation, otherwise they are valueless.

My stamp appeal, which is becoming highly successful, was launched some months ago for the threefold purpose of helping Overseas Missions, the Red Cross Society, and the Patriotic Literature Fund.

The Stockton Methodist Church girls are collecting stamps for the Patriotic Literature Fund, which the writer is helping with stamps sent by readers of country newspapers, which have materially assisted the appeal.

Readers, if you have not a stamp club send your used stamps to the writer, per packet post, who will make the best possible use of them.

Hundreds of stamps are being received now and then from readers who previously thought used stamps worthless.

At any rate, every small amount of money helps noble organisations or associations.—Yours, etc.,

A. W. JINKS.

North Stockton, N.S.W.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL

The many friends of Mrs. H. V. Phillips, President Red Cross and C.W.A., will be pleased to learn that she has recovered from her recent illness, and has left the District Hospital for her home.

PUBLIC MEETING.

With a view to taking steps to further the interests of Gladstone, its port, and district, a public meeting will be held in the Town Hall on Thursday, October 7, at 8 p.m. A large attendance is requested.

FOR RED CROSS.

A naval patient in the servicemen's ward at the Gladstone District Hospital recently completed a very fine model of an auxiliary aircraft carrier from a block of wood. Splendid craftsmanship, detailing even the planes lined up on deck, is shown, and the ship would undoubtedly be the envy of many a small boy. The model was given to Paddy's market, to be raffled for the October function, and is on display in Friends (Pty.) Ltd. window.

COMFORTS FUND

CHRISTMAS HAMPERS

Appeal for Donations

Christmas hampers are now being prepared for packing and despatch so that every soldier, sailor, airman, nurse and service woman in the jungles of New Guinea, overseas, or in isolated areas, will receive during the festive season a hamper from the A.C.F.

Gladstone and district residents have in the past freely given to this appeal, and many have been the letters of gratitude received from recipients.

Queensland's quota is 30,000, and the price is the same as last year—7/6 for a single hamper, or three hampers for £1.

Donations for hampers may be sent to Mrs. J. W. Garrett or Mr. F. Peardon.

Each donation will be acknowledged through the columns of the "Gladstone Observer."

BLACK MARKETING.

Measures to combat black marketing which may include the provision of new powers for Commonwealth investigation officers, will be discussed this week between the Minister of Customs (Mr. Keane) and the Prices Commissioner (Professor Copland). Despite the penalties provided in the Black Marketing Act, reports indicate it continues to be a threat to wartime economic control.

MONEY YOU SAVE AND LEND FOR WAR

INCREASES AVAILABLE MANPOWER

Every penny you save helps release a man or woman for war or war production.

No one will waste manpower to produce or distribute goods for which no demand exists.

Therefore, when you refuse to buy anything unless you really need it, you help conserve manpower for urgent war work — manpower which otherwise would be dissipated in non-essential industries.

Your very act of saving thus helps provide the men and women needed to make the arms and equipment our troops need now, for attack, in ever-increasing quantities.

When you lend what you save to Australia, you make a further direct contribution to Australia's war effort. So keep on buying War Savings Certificates, or . . .

INFLATION
makes the £ smaller

A CONDITION of inflation may give a pretence of prosperity but, unless checked, it leads inevitably to suffering.

From the day when the spendable money in the hands of the people began to exceed the volume of goods and services they could spend it on, inflation began, that is to say, prices began to rise (despite control) and the purchasing power of the £ became smaller and smaller.

All the people suffer under inflation, and particularly—

(1) The thrifty, i.e., those who have their savings in cash, Savings Banks, War Savings Certificates, War Bonds, and Life Assurance.

(2) Civil Servants, clerks, teachers, and all on fixed salaries and wages.

(3) The aged who are living on the proceeds of investments or on pensions.

(4) Owners of houses who rely on the income from them for their livelihood.

The only way to check the suffering, the only way to maintain the purchasing power of the £, is for everyone to spend less, and to put more money into War Loans and Life Assurance. It may seem a contradiction, but it is the cold truth.

POTATOES AND STEEL
Speeding Sword and Plough

The more steel we can produce, the more potatoes we can grow.

The Production Executive decided in Melbourne last week on an immense Commonwealth food production plan, including 100,000,000 doz. eggs, 95,000 tons of vine fruits, 63,000,000 lbs. of fish, and 288,700 acres of vegetables.

Apart from the vegetables grown under this scheme, the Government is also relying on an appreciable amount of home-grown vegetables.

Australian food production has always depended to some extent on fertilisers, one of the most valuable being sulphate of ammonia. Pre-war, the Commonwealth imported some 50,000 tons of this fertiliser, and a serious position developed when war cut off our source of supply.

Now, however, we are producing some 28,000 tons of sulphate of ammonia ourselves. Sulphate of ammonia is a by-product of coke, and that is why the more steel we produce the more potatoes we can grow.

A very large proportion of Australia's urgently needed sulphate of ammonia is supplied by the B.H.P. Steelworks, where one ton of coal produces 13 cwt. of coke and 27 lbs. of sulphate of ammonia, as well as 12,000 cubic feet of gas 7 gallons of tar, and a proportion of benzol, toluol, and solvent naphtha.

Steelworks are also helping to feed the nation in the United States, where the Bethlehem Steel Company last year provided 85,000 tons of suphate of ammonia, which is a salt, soluable in water, and containing 20 per cent of nitrogen, which plants can assimilate. The 85,000 tons of sulphate of ammonia provided the nitrogen content for fertilising 850,000 acres of potatoes—about one-third of the United States' normal potato acreage.

So now steelworks in the States and in Australia are speeding both the sword and the plough.

An announcement, particularly important to small potato growers with less than half an acre, is made by the Commonwealth Potato Controller (Mr. A. C. Foster).

"The Commonwealth Government's plan to sell potatoes at 5 lbs. for 6d to offset increases in the cost of living, now makes it necessary for all commercial potato growers to register, irrespective of the area grown by them," he said.

In the past small growers with less than half an acre were not required to register. But now, unless such registration is effected by September 30, growers will not receive payment for any potato subsidy in respect of old potatoes.

Growers under contract with the Australian Potato Committee, or registered with a State organisation under State legislation, will automatically be registered, and need not make fresh application.

With regard to the new season's potato crop, no subsidy over and above the wholesale market price will be paid to any grower after September 30 unless he has entered into a contract with the Australian Potato Committee.

Such contracts must in future be entered into before planting takes place, but for potatos already planted and not contracted for, a contract should be arranged through the State Department of Agriculture immediately.

Contracts in respect of potatoes already planted will not be accepted by the Committee unless completed at least four weeks before the crop is ready for digging.

Applications for registration in this State should be lodged with the Deputy Potato Controller, 369 George St., Brisbane.

HEENZO IS 3 IN ONE REMEDY FOR CHEST NOSE AND THROAT AILMENTS

In addition to saving much money by using HEENZO Cough Remedy, you can also use it three different ways. You take HEENZO internally for internal ailments, viz., coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis and influenza. You use HEENZO as a nasal antiseptic, just a few drops up each nostril night and morning quickly ridding catarrh and colds in head. By gargling with HEENZO you gain instant relief from sore and smokers' throats. Remember, a bottle of Concentrated HEENZO costing only 2/- makes one pint of Family Cough Remedy, equally good for adults and children.

NATIONAL SAVINGS STAMPS
Going To Be Popular

Many inquiries received about the new 5/- National Savings stamp indicated that it was going to be popular during the £125,000,000 4th Liberty Loan campaign, which will open officially on October 5, said the Commonwealth Loans Director (Mr. C. R. Banfield).

The introduction of the stamp as a permanent feature of savings and loan campaigns was announced recently by the Prime Minister (Mr. Curtin).

Printing of the stamp and its distribution throughout the Commonwealth will not be completed for some weeks, when it will be on sale at Savings Banks and Post Offices, and through the staff of the War Loans Campaigns.

Booklets with spaces for 40 stamps will be supplied, and each full booklet may be used in payment for a £10 war bond. Single sheets of the booklets, each containing eight stamps, may be used to make deposits on £10 bonds and to pay subsequent monthly instalments, or to make deposits in a savings bank account. All money so deposited in savings bank accounts will be invested by the banks in war loans.

WELCOME NEWS FOR THE CATTLE BREEDER!
"BOTTRELL" BRANDING FRAME

THE OBJECT of the MACHINE is to facilitate the Branding, Castrating and Earmarking of Calves, from any age up to twelve or eighteen months, and it has been proved a great labour-saving Machine, and no user would now be without a

. BOTTRELL BRANDING FRAME. .

The Machine consists of a Wooden Frame, which has its sides curved to receive the body of the animal, and turns on hinges fixed in the ground, with the motion resembling the opening and shutting of a book.

One side of the Frame is held upright against a fence by a latch, while the other side moves freely on its hinges under the control of a ratchet. The Calf passes from a crush or race into the Frame, which is then closed as far as necessary, leaving the head and hind parts free. The latch is raised and the Frame turned on its side. The Branding and Castrating can then be done with the greatest ease.

One man can perform the work with Speed and Certainty, thus saving the expense of extra labour and ropes. The rough usage attending the ordinary method of performing these operations, which is a fruitful cause of cancer and lumpy jaw in cattle, and consequently a loss to owners, is thus entirely avoided, and on the score of both economy and humanity the Patent Branding Frame must commend itself to all Cattle Breeders. The Machine is portable, and weights 1½ cwt.

One man can put thrugh thirty to forty head per hour, and with the assistance of two boys, sixty per hour, if the yard is properly constructed.

CAN BE SUPPLIED FOR NEAR OR OFFSIDE BRANDING.

MAKING A BETTER WORLD
Dedication and Action

The earnest desire of all peoples to prevent war is, perhaps, the normal reaction to the horror and suffering of any war period, but this desire, in itself, has never yet proved sufficient to create an unbreakable guarantee against future violence.

To-day Allied leaders are paying great attention to the planning of post-war international arrangements and relationships.

But plans of statesmen, no matter how sincerely conceived, or how efficiently, or with what foresight, are like a magnificent new mansion without human inhabitants, unless they reflect a whole determination by the nations to see that they are carried out.

The creation of the League of Nations, after the last great war, was a splendid conception of man's desire for world peace; but it failed. Its failure was a bitter disappointment to a hopeful world, and a cynical vindication of the materialists who believed, and still believe, that life is no more than a struggle for existence, and that man is consequently born to strife and bloodshed.

WILLINGNESS TO PAY.

But its failure was not inevitable; it failed because the spiritual desires of man were not yet strong enough to outweigh the material desires of a minority. Nearly all men desired peace, and the international circumstances that would make peace a normal state of being; but the total of their willingness to pay for peace was not sufficient to withstand the demands of those who, wanting material things, were prepared to pay for them with blood.

When this war is done we shall try again. The Allied, or United Nations of to-day must provide the basis of a new and greater league of nations. Men like Mr. Churchill and Roosevelt and Stalin and Chiang Kai Shek are big enough and great enough to compromise on plans that should satisfy the leading nations of the world, and offer promise of security and self-development for the weaker nations'

But all their plans and all their great ideals will avail nothing if the ordinary people merely sit back and wait for them to work.

ARCHITECTS AND OCCUPANTS.

Plans are the blue-prints of enterprise; they are not the enterprise itself. A house on paper cannot be lived in, nor will the lay-out of a garden grow any blossoms.

So with nations. Statesmen can and will plan for a better world, but the nations must build it up and keep it; and keep it according to the spirit of the plan, not merely to the academic formula.

Allied leaders have, in the main, reflected the spirit of the nations they lead; but leaders grow old, while the nation goes on. And this spirit is the sum of all the spirit of all the people. Unless people passionately desire universal and just peace, there can be no peace.

And the same principle applies in war. Our leaders are in a position to see our needs. Plans are calculated with this knowledge. On paper they spell victory. But without the support of the people to give them life, they are worth no more than the paper on which they are written. Peace must be bought. It is bought dearly and paid for in labour and money and blood. That is the contribution demanded by humanity of humanity, for our future and the future of our children.

There can only be a better world if nations of the world fervently desire it: and there will be no peaceful end to this Pacific war until every person in Australia has joined his spirit to the spirit of the nation, and shared the common sacrifice.

RED CROSS WORK
Aid Expands

The completion of four years of war sees the Australian Red Cross Society putting forward its finest effort. What has been done during this conflict has established the Red Cross more firmly than ever in the public consciousness and regard.

The Work of the Society has grown to enormous proportions; during the past year total expenditure, in all fields of activity, has climbed almost to two million pounds.

Results of appeals in divisions have broken all previous records, and a vast and efficient organisation graduated from branch members in non-combatant areas to Field Force workers in forward operational zones has grown up.

Wherever Australian fighting forces have been, throughout the long four years of this, the most devastating war of all times, our Australian Red Cross has given service too, and the tremendous growth of the Society's activities can now be viewed through the firm perspective of statistics taken over this four-year period.

During the nine months from September 1939 to June 1940 the total Red Cross expenditure was £175,553.

In the twelve months ending June, 1941, it had risen to £599,376; from June 1941 to June 1942 it was £1,130,103; and this last year up to June 1943 it has been £1,945,074. In other words, our Red Cross activities are now nearly twelve times as great as they were at the outbreak of the war.

RARE HONOUR
For An Australian

"No man has served his nation more worthily or with greater ability," said the Minister for Munitions, Mr. Norman Makin, in speaking of Mr. Essington Lewis, Director General of Munitions and Director General of Aircraft Production, who has just been honoured by the appointment to the membership of the Order of Companions of Honour, "in recognition of great services to Australia."

The official citation reads: "No Australian has given more unreservedly of his talents and energies in the service of his country or rendered greater service in the prodcution of weapons for the defence of Australia and other parts of the Empire."

The only other Australians honoured by the King in this way have been Prime Ministers. The honour carries no title, but the recipients are entitled to use the initials "C.H." after their names.

CURRENT TOPICS

AUSTRALIAN SERVICEMEN.

More than 600 Australian servicemen in Britain have married British girls. Already about 150 of the Australians are fathers.

GUNNER A. M. BLAIN.

Gunner A. M. Blain, now a prisoner of war in Japanese hands, has been declared the elected member for the Northern Territory in the Federal Parliamnt. The final figures were:—Blain 1274, Murray 1146; majority for Blain 128.

LANG ELECTED.

Mr. J. T. Lang scored an easy win in the Auburn by-election, heading the poll from his two opponents with an absolute majority of 2363 votes. When counting ceased Mr. Lang was ahead of his Official Labour rival (Mr. Gordon Byrne) by 4789 votes.

FROM CABIN BOY TO PREMIER.

Sir John William Evans, Lieut. Governor of Tasmania, who died on Saturday at the age of 87, rose from cabin boy to premier. He was a former premier, chief secretary, treasurer, and speaker of the Assembly. He was born at Liverpool. He was also associated with Huddart Parker Ltd. as Hobart manager for more than 50 years.

MEAT FOR PETS.

Dog and cat fanciers are finding it increasingly difficult to feed their pets. Many Brisbane butchers are refusing to sell meat for dogs and cats. In Sydney pets are more fortunate, as specialists have sprung up to cater for their appetites—with horse flesh, the average price of which is 5d a lb. One man is marketing on an average 13 horses a week.

LEND-LEASE.

Lend-lease balance between Australia and the United States will be at least £100,000,000 in the United States favour by the end of the years, says the correspondent of the "New York Times," Frank Kluckhohn, who is now in Canberra. Kluckhohn says Mr. Curtin told him that Australia was prepared to provide its share of troops for the campaign to recapture the Philippines if the United Nations High Command deemed it advisable.

PEDESTRIANS WARNED.

Military and civilian authorities have so far met with a considerable measure of success in their drive to prevent road accidents in Brisbane. But their success will be limited until pedestrians are prepared to co-operate. Throughout peak traffic hours civilians still cross and re-cross key city streets, regardless of lights, safety zones, and traffic police. Authorities claim their carelessness as the cause of many accidents. The Queensland death-roll has been dangerously high, and until—both military and civiliar—tram hoppers and jay walkers fall into step, the desired improvement won't eventuate.

PADDY'S MARKET.

Once again the monthly Paddy's market is with us, and the convenor (Mrs. A. H. Friend) and her committee are hard at work organising the function, which takes place at the Red Cross grounds next Friday. Another large supply of marrow fat will be available at 8d per lb. (buyers to bring their own containers). Any person having clean used clothing in good order is asked to forward it to the convenor. Town and country supporters are again reminded that their monthly donations of fruit, flowers, vegetables, sweets, home manufactures, etc., which are highly appreciated, should be left at Friends (Pty.) Ltd. in time for the opening of the market next Friday.

WAKE UP GLADSTONE

TRADE OF THE PORT

Public Meeting, Thursday

Ald. W. R. Golding writes:—

All roads should lead to the Town Hall on Thursday night, where the Mayor (Ald. G. G. Dennis) has convened a public meeting for the purpose of forming a committee representative of all sections of the community that will have as its main functions the protection of benefits already won for Gladstone and district, and the furthering of her claims for the recognition of Gladstone's ports and harbour and the promotion of trade and goodwill with people of our own hinterland.

The need for such a committee is urgent. We have now lost trade—wool and sugar—through action taken by the powers that be. Our waterside workers are seeking pastures new, and the Central Queensland Advancement League is already out to secure the trade of Biloela and district, which so rightly belongs to us.

The poor response to public meetings in the past is only too well known. The sage who said that Gladstone's greatest bar to progress was Gladstone's own people spoke more than an atom of truth.

To assist in maintaining the trade of the port let us unite in a common cause—the welfare of Gladstone, its district and citizens.

As a native of this town, and a public man of over twenty-five years standing, I ask you to reserve Thursday for this meeting, for your own and your children's sake.

LANCASTER'S TOUR.

The Lancaster bomber, which is on a tour of Queensland on behalf of the Fourth Liberty Loan, will land at Archerfield on October 27, and leave on October 31, continuing its tour of the north over Gympie, Maryborough, Bundaberg, Gladstone, Rockhampton, Mackay and Bowen, arriving at Townsville at 1 p.m. on November 2.

PRICE OF APPLES.

An increase of 1/- a bushel to a new ceiling wholesale price of 28/- a bushel for apples has been authorised by the Prices Commissioner, Professor Copland. He said the increased wholesale price was to cover storage costs beyond September. The retail price schedule would remain unaltered with a maximum price of 1/- per lb. be secured in Brisbane.

PRESENTATION OF PENNANTS.

The Minister for Agriculture (Mr. T. L. Williams) will arrive in Gladstone on Friday next for the purpose of presenting the pennants to the Parson's Point School for winning the local schools competition for the sale of war saving certificates. The town of Gladstone will also be presented with a pennant for its efforts in the Third Liberty Loan, when a record number of subscribers contributed. The presentations will be made at the Embassy Theatre.

CERAMIC

Details of one of the wost shipping tragedies of the war—the sinking of the liner Ceramic last November without a trace—have been released for the first time by naval authorities. The Ceramic was bound for Cape Town from England. Over 500 lost their lives, some families being completely wiped out. The authorities are without official news of any of the survivors, although the Germans claim they have one in their hands.

WAR LOAN ART UNION.

The Secretary of the Red Cross branch and co-organiser of the Art Union Committee (Mr. V. A. Summers) advises that the books of tickets in the new War Loan Art Union in aid of the Prisoners of War Fund are now on hand from the printing office, and are being delivered to the local Casket agents immediately. In view of the urgent need of funds for our prisoners of war, parcels, etc., an appeal is made to the public of Gladstone and district to support this worthy cause.

AMBULANCE SOCIAL EVENING.

A social evening was held by Mesdames M. McLeod and E. Padget last Wednesday night in the Oddfellows' Hall in aid of the Ambulance, and the sum of £7/12/3 was handed to the Brigade. Mr. Dick Shule carried out the duties of M.C., and kept the old-time dancing going in full swing until midnight. Miss Gertie Ward supplied the music, and extras were played by Miss Iris McDonald and Mrs. C. Stitt. The Monte Carlo was won by Miss Alma Brown and partner (Mr. Weir), and the free spot waltz went to Mrs. M. J. O'Brien and partner (Mr. J. Farlkoulier).

PRISONERS OF WAR

CONTINUES TO FUNCTION WELL

Revenue Being Maintained

Gladstone's P.O.W. street scheme continues to function well, and thanks to the efforts of the lady collectors revenue is being maintained.

Mrs. Ricketts is still absent on sick leave, and two guides (Misses Conquest and Groundwater) did the weekly collection.

In Mrs. Clyde Smith's absence Miss Vallis, of Roseberry Street, did William and Roseberry Streets.

Scouts J. Winter and R. Baxter have been carrying on for Mrs. Ellingson at the end of Auckland Street.

Mrs. H. McCray has resumed her collections in William Street and Central Lane, which were completed by Scout Conquest and Miss Vallis for a period of three weeks.

While Mrs. Geo. Phillips is absent for a few weeks at Rockhampton her Yaroon Street book is being collected by Miss Glen Groundwater.

Happy event at home of one of the original collectors and P.O.W. organiser, Mrs. Sally Coppin, a son, and husband Keith kept up the 100 per cent Parson's Point collection, but overwhelmed with congratulations from contributors all over Gladstone.

In addition to a donation from Mr. Ken Ballantine (sale of bullock) another good supporter, Mr. Bill Jackson, has sent in a donation of £1/4/- to the scheme.

Mrs. Bennedick (West Gladstone) reports that contributors in View, Side, Scenery and Ormonde Streets are sending the weekly contributions regularly to her store at the Fiveways.

COMFORTS FUND

MONTHLY STREET STALL

Donations Asked For

The usual monthly street stall in aid of the joint A.C.F. and Patriotic Appeal Fund will be conducted in the Grand Hotel buildings on Friday, October 15.

The energetic convenors (Mesdames C. W. Macfarlane and J. W. Garrett) would appreciate donation of jam, fruit cakes, vegetables, sweets, or any other home manufacture or articles for sale on that date.

Donations may be left with the convenors, or at the ladstoGne Cash and Carry.

FOR SEAMEN'S MISSION

Worthy Cause

During the afternoon tea adjournment on Sunday, the President of the Gladstone Bowling Club (Mr. W. R. Golding) took the opportunity of extending a welcome to the Rev. W. Hoog, who was there by invitation to address the members of the club on the aims and objects of the Mission to Seamen, of which the Rev. Hoog is chaplain.

The club decided to contribute to the extension of this very worthy cause, and has set aside October 16, when the Associate Ladies' Club will participate in play, and an opportunity will be given to players to contribute to this worthy object.

VISIT OF REV. W. HOOG.

The Rev. W. Hoog, chaplin to the Seamen's Mission in Brisbane, and who served at Gladstone and Mt. Larcom as a curate for about twelve years, arrived in town on Saturday afternoon. He conducted the services at St. Saviour's Church of England on Sunday. At the conclusion of the evening service he addressed the congregation in regard to the formation of a Gladstone branch of the Seamen's Mission. It was decided to hold the matter over until a rector was appointed. During his stay in town the Rev. Hoog renewed many old friendships.

CANNED MEAT.

The release to the public of huge quantities of canned meat while fresh meat is acutely short is puzzling the southern meat trade. According to trade authorities it is another instance of the hopeless muddle which has developed over the distribution of available meat supplies in recent months.

RED CROSS SOCIETY

VISIT OF MRS. BRENAN

Many Activities Reviewed

Red Cross activities in Gladstone have received a welcome boost through the visit of Mrs. C. Brennan from headquarters. Mrs. Brenan, who is Divisional Commandant of Women Personnel for Queensland, arrived from Rockhampton on Saturday. She was met and welcomed by Mrs. H. V. Phillips (branch president), Mrs. P. M. Jones (supervisor Emergency League) and other officers.

BRANCH CONGRATULATED.

On Monday Mrs. Brenan addressed a meeting of members of the Gladstone branch in the Red Cross rooms. She dealt in a very interesting manner with various phases of Red Cross work, and cleared up many little problems confronting the ladies connected with the many circles and classes. She congratulated the Gladstone branch on its splendid work and excellent results during the year, the remittance of £2600 to headquarters being something really outstanding.

EMERGENCY SERVICE.

In view of the urgent importance of prisoner of war funds she was delighted to note that through the enterprise of local officials and the generosity of Gladstone supporters, an Art Union had been launched in conjunction with the new War Loan, and expressed the hope that it would be very successful. Although she found Gladstone very well organised in all other branches—some, the P.O.W. street scheme, Paddy's markets, V.A. D's. Hospital visiting and entertainments being 100 per cent—the Emergency service had for some reason or other never functioned. However, it should now be reorganised and resume work as carried on in other centres. Red Cross companies form an important reservoir of trained personnel, prepared to give service when called upon.

FIRST AID ESSENTIAL.

In all Red Cross company work first aid was the first essential. After that came transport, home nursing, canteens, mass cooking, catering, child management or any other subject which would fit the aid for the particular work she desired to undertake. Drill was not overlooked. Experience had proved that in an emergency, when life and death were in the balance, the trained person was most competent to assist, and would answer the word of command where the unskilled person would hesitate. Many may think that first aid was not essential to serve cups of tea and visit the sick and wounded, but yet the emergency may arise when these very Red personnel are the first who would be turned to for help.

DARWIN RAID.

In the first dreadful raid over Darwin a group of Red Cross aids with the necessary training were on the job, and rendered first aid, saving the lives of many. When the train left five of the aids went also to attend to the patients. For some reason Queensland had been slow to respond to the call for Red Cross aids, and now lagged behind the other States. Yet at present therre was more work here than anywhere else. Of 420 aids in Queensland 117 were in Brisbane.

QUEENSLAND WORK PRAISED.

Thousands of qualified women in other States would long to have the same opportunity as existed in Queensland. Young and old, married and single women were to-day giving their services through the Red Cross. Some in salaried positions in the city were working during the day, and giving their services at hospitals at night from 5.30 to 9 p.m. Even married women were assisting at the various hospitals throughout the State, some coming at very short notice in an emergency. Other members of the service were meeting planes, trains, ships, etc., and assisting with patients there. It was a wonderful opportunity to serve, but once again, only those with the necessary training could really assist.

MRS. BRENAN IMPRESSED.

Speaking to the local Secretary (Mr. Summers) and the Publicity Officer (Mr. Connellan) prior to her departure for Bundaberg yesterday, Mrs. Brenan said that she had spent a most pleasant and instructive time in Gladstone. She had admired our harbour from Auckland Hill, and had been greatly impressed with the splendid job Red Cross members were doing in this town. Mrs. Brenan is just concluding a three weeks tour which took her as far north as the Tableland.

FRUIT AND VEGETABLES

"COMMERCIALISED OCTOPUS"

Farmers Incensed

So incensed are some farmers in the South Coast and Stanthorpe districts at the unsatisfactorily unequal prices for fruit and vegetables, and gluts—which are expected to become more serious—that they are considering the formation of their own distribution agencies.

A number of meetings have already been called to consider ways and means of farmers banding themselves together to establish depots—virtual clearing houses where their produce can be passed on to the public, to provide speedier handling and the cutting out of the middleman (says "Truth").

Many of these farmers express themselves as being opposed to the Committee of Direction of Fruit Marketing, which has been described as a "commercialised octopus."

Farmers blame the present marketing system for the gluts in some produce lines, and the dearth of supplies in others. They express the fear that serious gluts in nearly all popular lines of fruit and vegetables will develop in November and continue through December.

Farmers believe that if they could establish their own distributing agencies they could regulate supplies to the public and ease the effect of the approaching gluts, striking values which would be fair to grower and consumer alike.

Another factor which is at present worrying farmers and traders is the difference between prices obtaining in Brisbane and Sydney, especially in lines like tomatoes.

Thousands of cases of tomatoes, it is claimed, by-passed the Brisbane markets, to go direct to Sydney, where they realise as much as 9/- a half-bushel case higher than could be served in Brisbane.

The result was a shortage of tomatoes in Brisbane, because agents were attracted by the much more lucrative southern market.

Same applies to beans, which were selling in Sydney and Melbourne at 2d and 4d per lb., respectively, higher than the Brisbane market.

For that reason there should be a uniform ceiling price for the whole of Australia, it is argued.

It is estimated that at least 25 per cent of the immediate diversions of manpower from the services, munitions, and other sources, will be required to go into food production.

FOOD FRONT

HIGHER PRODUCTION NECESSARY

Men To Be Released

The effect of the War Cabinet's decision on Friday was to reallocate 100,000 labour units for a reorganised Australian war effort up to June 1944 is to send a total of 20,000 extra men to rural work and food production.

This includes 15,000 experienced rural workers, to be released from the services, and an additional 5000 to be added to the existing pool of 5000 seasonal farm workers to fulfil food requirements.

It is expected that many of the extra 30,000 women to be diverted to war production will be required for food processing. Thousands of women will be needed for new canning and sion to reallocate 100,000 labour units for a reorganised Australian war effort up to June, 1944, is to send a total of 20,000 extra men to rural work and food production.

Thousands of women will be needed for new canning and dehydration plants coming into operation.

More skilled men will also be diverted from munitions production to making agricultural machinery and tools.

AMERICAN OIL RESERVES

Now Being Investigated

In response to charges that America is being stripped of vital oil reserves, President Roosevelt has announced that the Army and Navy departments have been asked to supply figures showing how much petroleum the United States is using compared to other nations.

The order to examine the situation accurately follows a move by a group of congresmen who have called for a complete investigation.

This group has alleged that America is contributing a disproportionate share of oil to the United Nations war machine, while foreign oil reserves are being conserved. Bureaucratic bungling is disrupting and killing off demestic oil production at a time when it is desperately needed, they say.

The Republican representatives' suggestion that America's oil was good only for seven years at the present rate of consumption has been advanced. They say: "If we reach the point where our oil has gone, while foreign powers still have plenty, America will be placed in the position of a beggar. With the possibility that oil will be irreplaceable, war material could be denied to us as effectively as natural rubber."

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL

Captain Eric Langevod, of Aldgate, South Australia, has been awarded the D.S.O. He is a nphew of Mrs. M. Butcher and the Vallis brothers, of Gladstone.

Private Peg Lynch, of the A.W.A.S., and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynch, Auckland Street, has received congratulations from her many friends on the celebration of her 21st birthday.

Trooper Private Baynton, of the A.I.F., and son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Baynton, of Gladstone, who has been spending leave with his parents, will return to-day (Wednesday) to rejoin his unit in the south. Kevin is looking remarkably well, and his many friends were delighted to renew old friendships.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Hallam have received word that their daughter Thelma has passed her entrance examination, and is now on the staff of the Tweed District Hospital, at Murwillumbah, N.S.W., where for the past few months she has been doing a probationary course. Thelma is making a success of her new venture, and likes her work very much.

The many friends of Mr. Charles Hadgraft, of Friends (Pty.) Ltd., will regret to learn that he is an inmate of the District Hospital, where he is receiving medical attention. Mr. Hadgraft has made excellent progress, and hopes to return home at an early date.

The Chairman of the Gladstone Ambulance Committee (Mr. Arthur Power), who has been an inmate of the District Hospital for some time, has greatly improved in health, and expects to leave for his home shortly.

BOXING

Vic. Patrick will not defend his Australian welterweight title against Tommy Burns unless the Queenslander proves his ability before the Sydney public. Patrick stated that in Sydney a few days ago when told that Burns wanted to fight him for the 10.7 title. Sloan and Laurie Peterson also are seeking Burns as an opponent.

Jerry Jerome, the one-time prominent Queensland and Australian boxer, died at Cherbourg Aboriginal Settlement on September 27, aged 70. He had a wonderful run of successes when he first appeared in the ring at the rather advanced age of 35. He puzzled the average opponent with his unorthodox style and tremendous hitting power. In his prime he weighed 11.8, and had 58 fights, winning 35 and losing 23.

CRICKET.

A double century was scored in the fastest time yet made in Q.C.A. district cricket on Saturday last, when Lindsay Hasset, playing for Toombul, run up 239 against Northern Suburbs. The innings was a Toombul record, eclipsing the late Ron. Oxenham's 182. Hasset was at the wickets only 137 minutes. Toombul scored 506 for the loss of eight wickets.

COMFORTS FUND

CHRISTMAS HAMPERS

Appeal for Donations

Christmas hampers are now being prepared for packing and despatch so that every soldier, sailor, airman, nurse and service woman in the jungles of New Guinea, overseas, or in isolated areas, will receive during the festive season a hamper from the A.C.F.

Gladstone and district residents have in the past freely given to this appeal, and many have been the letters of gratitude received from recipients.

Queensland's quota is 30,000, and the price is the same as last year—7/6 for a single hamper, or three hampers for £1.

Donations for hampers may be sent to Mrs. J. W. Garrett or Mr. F. Peardon.

Each donation will be acknowledged through the columns of the "Gladstone Observer."

"PEOPLE'S CAR"

Revolutionary Features

The "people's car," which will be manufactured after the war, will possess many revolutionary features, such as a four-wheel drive, with the engine over the back axle, and four-wheel steering, permitting a crab-like movement.

This was predicted by a leading car manufacturer, who said that the war had speeded up mechanical research out of all conception. Many of the new ideas were born from the lessons of tank and aircraft construction.

However, it would not be possible to plunge immediately into building the new models. For the two years after the war cars would probably conform to the 1939 designs.

It is expected that one-piece plastic bodies will be made, with all-round vision by "perspec" windows. Cars will have supercharged 5 h.p. engines, using 100 per cent octane fuel, on which they will be able to run 50 miles to the gallon. The bodies will be sounproof, creakless, and of featherweight.

Further emenities likely are central heating, air-conditioning laid on, radio, and even telephones. The car might even have wholly glass-roofed bodies and sliding doors, perhaps a combination of aluminium and plastic bodies, and cheaper tyres from synthetic rubber.

In fact, all costs will be so reduced by wartime discoveries that it will in the real sense be a people's car, within the reach of everybody.

ALLEGED ASSAULT

Man's Throat Gashed

Alleged to have been assaulted with a knife by a man in military uniform at a Rockhampton theatre on Saturday night, Donald Joseph Beaton, 59, usher, was admitted to the Rockhampton General Hospital with a gashed throat.

It is stated that in response to a knock Beaton opened a side door at the theatre, and informed the person outside that the house was full.

Beaton was immediately slashed across the throat, the jugular vein being narrowly missed. He was rushed to the hospital, where an operation was performed.

A search over the week-end failed to trace the attacker.

CONTROL OF VEGETABLES

Authorised Agents

An order published in the Commonwealth Gazette brings all commercially grown vegetables produced in Queensland north of Tully under strict Commonwealth control.

Varieties of vegetables affected are carrots, beetroot, tomatoes, cabbages, sweet corn, lettuce, peas, beans, and silver beet.

The order provides that no growers in the North Queensland area may sell these vegetables except to an agent authorised by the Commonwealth. Authorised agents must resell in accordance with directions of the Controller-General of Food, and growers may be called on to furnish details or estimates of their vegetable production.

INFLATION
makes the £ smaller

A CONDITION of inflation may give a pretence of prosperity but, unless checked, it leads inevitably to suffering.

From the day when the spendable money in the hands of the people began to exceed the volume of goods and services they could spend it on, inflation began, that is to say, prices began to rise (despite control) and the purchasing power of the £ became smaller and smaller.

All the people suffer under inflation, and particularly—

(1) The thrifty, i.e., those who have their savings in cash, Savings Banks, War Savings Certificates, War Bonds, and Life Assurance.

(2) Civil Servants, clerks, teachers, and all on fixed salaries and wages.

(3) The aged who are living on the proceeds of investments or on pensions.

(4) Owners of houses who rely on the income from them for their livelihood.

The only way to check the suffering, the only way to maintain the purchasing power of the £, is for everyone to spend less, and to put more money into War Loans and Life Assurance. It may seem a contradiction, but it is the cold truth.

PRISONERS OF WAR

In Japanese Hands

Information derived from the 14,000 capture cards recently received from Australian prisoners of war in Japanese hands has enabled the army already to identify 7,190 prisoners of war, of whom 4,476 were formerly posted as "missing" and 2,714 formerly posted as "missing, believed prisoner of war." Further investigation may result in additional identifications.

When the first portion of this mail reached the United States on the way to Australia the names of the senders of 6000 of the cards were cabled to the Commonwealth Government. Thus, prior to actual arrival of the mail many next of kin were advised of a change of posting of missing men to that of prisoners of war.

Later, when the full mail arrived in Australia, a large staff working at high pressure for nearly 48 hours recorded the particulars of all senders so that the mail could be promptly released.

Since then the checking of names has continued, and that explains why other next of kin are receiving advices of change of posting after they have received mail from prisoners of war.

The information obtained is evidence of the value of prisoner of war mails and supports the Commonwealth's insistence that Japan should organise a mail service on the same lines as other belligerents.

APPEAL FOR BOOKS AND CARDS

Help the Boys

The Australian Comforts Fund is urgently appealing for books, magazines, playing cards, or any other indoor games or sporting material for the men of the fighting forces.

The men in the front line or outposts are entitled to these amenities of life, and the Fund asks residents to do their best to supply these articles.

Mr. A. W. Young, Gladstone Cash and Carry, has kindly consented to take possession of these donations, so please forward all you can without delay, and thus help the Fund to help the boys.

HEENZO IS 3 IN ONE REMEDY FOR CHEST NOSE AND THROAT AILMENTS

In addition to saving much money by using HEENZO Cough Remedy, you can also use it three different ways. You take HEENZO internally for internal ailments, viz., coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis and influenza. You use HEENZO as a nasal antiseptic, just a few drops up each nostril night and morning quickly ridding catarrh and colds in head. By gargling with HEENZO you gain instant relief from sore and smokers' throats. Remember, a bottle of Concentrated HEENZO costing only 2/- makes one pint of Family Cough Remedy, equally good for adults and children.

AUSTRALIA'S POST WAR PLANS

Praised by Mrs. Roosevelt

Mrs. Roosevelt was obviously impressed with Australian and New Zealand post-war legislation, saying in an interview in Honolulu that both countries were far ahead of the United States in that direction.

"Australia," she said, "will have only to overhaul the legislation already enacted."

So far, Australia has heard little official comment on the Atlantic Charter and the Four Freedoms it embraces. We have heard even less of the Beveridge Plan, which, if it is accepted as a post-war plan for Britain, is bound to affect Australia to a very large degree.

An address on the Beveridge Plan was given in Sydney last week by Mr. S. H. Randerson, prominent Australian economist. He characterised the Plan as a great step forward in dealing with the problem of freedom from want.

"Freedom from want is definitely the responsibility of private enterprise, backed up, of course, by Government co operation," he said, pointing out the Plan's essential emphasis on private enterprise as the basis of security.

In replying to questions regarding the Plan, Mr. Randerson said that the Plan owed a great deal to the co-operation of the British Trade Unions, which were greatly in favour of the Plan as a concrete and workable basis for post-war security.

BODY ARMOUR

For Man and Machine

Ned Kelly was one of the first Australians to prove the use of body armour. Australian soldiers may have the chance of proving its value too before long, following successful tests made at the Randwick Rifle Range.

The armour (of light steel plates linked together) withstood bursts from both the Thompson .45 and the Owen m.m. sub-machine guns. The range was 25 yards, and the armour was not damaged. In fact, it was the bullets which came off worst, as most of them were broken or flattened.

Australian armour plating has already proved itself equal, if not superior to any manufactured overseas. Different types have been developed to meet different requirements. The Newcastle Steelworks is now supplying certain armour plating at one-sixth the cost at which it can be bought overseas. And moreover, the company had first of all to find the right formula. This was done at the request of the Government. Australian armour plating has been used successfully in tanks, naval craft, and other heavy constructional jobs.

Now it is being given a light job, for the body armour weighs less than half a stone, including the tunic which backs up the armour, which is strong enough to withstand bayonet thrusts, revolver bullets, hand grenade and bomb splinters.

WELCOME NEWS FOR THE CATTLE BREEDER!
"BOTTRELL" BRANDING FRAME

THE OBJECT of the MACHINE is to facilitate the Branding, Castrating and Earmarking of Calves, from any age up to twelve or eighteen months, and it has been proved a great labour-saving Machine, and no user would now be without a

. BOTTRELL BRANDING FRAME. .

The Machine consists of a Wooden Frame, which has its sides curved to receive the body of the animal, and turns on hinges fixed in the ground, with the motion resembling the opening and shutting of a book.

One side of the Frame is held upright against a fence by a latch, while the other side moves freely on its hinges under the control of a ratchet. The Calf passes from a crush or race into the Frame, which is then closed as far as necessary, leaving the head and hind parts free. The latch is raised and the Frame turned on its side. The Branding and Castrating can then be done with the greatest ease.

One man can perform the work with Speed and Certainty, thus saving the expense of extra labour and ropes. The rough usage attending the ordinary method of performing these operations, which is a fruitful cause of cancer and lumpy jaw in cattle, and consequently a loss to owners, is thus entirely avoided, and on the score of both economy and humanity the Patent Branding Frame must commend itself to all Cattle Breeders. The Machine is portable, and weighs 1½ cwt.

One man can put thrugh thirty to forty head per hour, and with the assistance of two boys, sixty per hour, if the yard is properly constructed.

CAN BE SUPPLIED FOR NEAR OR OFFSIDE BRANDING.

COUNTRY WOMEN'S ASSOCIATION

SEVENTEENTH ANNUAL MEETING CALLIOPE BRANCH

WORK FOR THE YEAR INTERESTINGLY REVIEWED

At the seventeenth annual meeting of the Calliope branch of the Country Women's Association Councillor Potter presided over a happy gathering of members and friends. Those present were: Councillor Potter, and Mesdames Chandler, Simpson, Armour, Aldous, Wheeler, Dickinson, and visitors Mr. and Mrs. Len Potter. Apologies were received from Mesdames Mylne, Waddell, Stark, Whitney, Bentley, Ferguson, Davies, Burnham, Menzies, McKenna, McKean, Miss Menzies, and the Gladstone and Mt. Larcom branches.

MEETING OPENED.

The meeting opened with the singing of the National Anthem and "My Creed" with pianoforte accompaniment, being very nicely played by Miss M. Archay. Then followed a silent prayer for all on active service.

WELCOME EXTENDED.

Mrs. Chandler (president) welcomed guests and members, and introduced Councillor Potter, who in his opening remarks said that owing to bad weather and illness and many leaving the district, only a small attendance was possible. On looking at the list of apologies it showed that there was still keen interest in the work of the Association. He also pointed out that the holding of this meeting had been made possible by the brave lads who were fighting for us, and by those who were training in different services.

Councillor Potter then asked all present to stand in silence as a token of sympathy with those bereaved.

ANNUAL REPORT.

The President (Mrs. M. E. A. Chandler) presented the 17th annual report as follows:—

This branch was formed in July, 1926, the period under review being 1st August, 1942, to 31st July, 1943. We closed our financial year with a membership of 21 full members and three family members.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The officers for the term were:—President, Mrs. Chandler; vice-presidents, Mesdames Aldous, Holder and Armour; secretary, Mrs. H. Wright; treasurer, Mrs. N. Dickinson; assistant secretary, Mrs. Wheeler; journal organiser, Mrs. Ferguson. During the year Mrs. Wright left us to live in Gladstone. We accepted her resignation with regret, and are much indebted to Mrs. Wheeler, who then took over the duties of secretary.

TEN MEETINGS HELD.

Ten meetings were held during the year, the average attendance being seven. We were pleased to welcome to our annual meeting Mrs. Burnham (then D.V.P. of this district), Mrs. Phillips (president of the Gladstone branch), Mrs. Mossman (president of Boyne Valley branch), and Councillor Potter, who very kindly presided.

BIRTHDAY MEETING.

Our birthday meeting in July took the form of a luncheon party, to which we welcomed two guests, Matron Cairncross, of the Child Welfare Clinic, and Private John Hill, who was visiting Calliope that day. Members donated the ingredients for our birthday cake, which was made and iced by Mrs. Simpson, who has our sincere thanks.

CENTRAL DIVISION MEETINGS.

The President and Mrs. Simpson were delegates to the annual meetings of the Central Division, held in Rockhampton in November, and the branch was represented at the group meeting, held in Gladstone in June, by Mesdames Chandler, Dickinson, Simpson, Wheeler and Wright.

CREDIT BALANCE.

We commenced the year with a balance of £14/4/10 to our credit in No. 1 account, and closed with a balance of £18/12/10. Three functions were held during the year, and two raffles conducted. From these we show a net profit of £26/19/11. All dues and levies have been paid to Central Executive, and we were pleased to be able to make the following donations:—To Executive £1/1/-, Emergency Housekeeper's Scheme £5, Prisoner of War Fund £3/3/-, Calliope Send-Off Committee £3/3/-, Gladstone Ambulance £1/1/-, Y.W.C.A. £1, making a total of £14/8/. No. 2, Account now shows a balance of £36/8/4.

HAPPY MEETINGS.

The work of the branch has continued quietly and smoothly. We cannot claim to have accomplished much, but we have had very happy meetings. Members have shown a keen interest in all C.W.A. objectives, and in the minutes of executive meetings. A special feature of each meeting has been a letter received from the Boyne Valley branch, telling us of their activities. This has been replied to each month, and so a friendship has been established that is valued by us all.

BIRTHDAYS REMEMBERED.

Members' birthdays have been remembered by letters and greeting cards. We have also sent letters of sympathy to sick friends and members and to those bereaved. Copies of the minutes of the meetings have been circulated amongst members unable to attend.

SIX PALIASSES FILLED.

Six paliasses were filled with corn husks and sent to Gladstone. Calico was purchased and made into paliasses in readiness for the Calliope centre.

CAMOUFLAGE NETS.

The making of camouflage nets has been carried out by members in Calliope and in Taragoola. Nine nets 24ft. x 24ft. have been despatched during the year, and five are being made.

FOR THE P.O.W. FUND.

The branch helped with the sale of the bookled entitled "Some Day," which was compiled by Mrs. M. Smith, of N.S.W., and given by her to the C.W.A. to sell in aid of the Prisoner of War Fund.

ANZAC DAY.

Members attended the Anzac service, held in Calliope, and placed a floral tribute on the Memorial Stone.

FAITHFUL MEMBERS.

We have lost some of our good faithful members, several having gone to live in Gladstone, whom we hope to welcome back when normal times return.

DEEP REGRET.

We record with deep regret the passing of our dear friend and member, Mrs. Potter, and the sorrow of our dear member, Mrs. Menzies, in the loss of her husband.

NEW MEMBERS.

We welcome to the branch three new members, Mesdames McKenna, Stark and Whitney.

A PRESENTATION.

An autographed C.W.A. cookery book was presented to Mrs. Wright on her resignation as a token of our gratitude for her friendship and willing help with the work of the branch.

THANKS.

We thank all our friends for their assistance and co-operation; Mr. Archay for the use of the hall for our meetings, Messrs. Wheeler, W. Mylne, E. D. Streeter and S. Dickenson for their splendid help with functions; our honorary auditor, the public for their continued support, the "Gladstone Observer" for publishing our reports, and a special "thank you" to our good friend, Councillor Potter, who although a very busy man, never fails to respond to our request to preside at our annual meeting.

My own personal thanks to my fellow officers, Mesdames Wheeler and Dickinson, who have stood by me so faithfully throughout the term, and to all those members whose regular attendance at meetings has given me so much encouagement.

SERVICE, LOYALTY, AND LOVE.

That the ensuing term may hold for us much happiness in our companionship, and that we may be given many opportunities to render "service, loyalty and love," in the name of our Association, is the wish of your sincere friend, Martha E. A. Chandler.

MRS. CHANDLER CONGRATULATED.

Councillor Potter congratulated Mrs. Chandler and the branch on the year's work. He said he was very pleased to see such a list of donations to various worthy causes.

The report was adopted.

The financial statement was read to the meeting by the Treasurer (Mrs. N. E. Dickinson) and submitted by her for adoption. This was seconded by Mrs. Aldous, and supported by Mrs. Armour.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—

President, Mrs. Simpson; senior vice-president, Mrs. Chandler; vice-presidents, Mesdames Aldous, Armour, Bentley, and Davies; secretary, Mrs. Wheeler; treasurer, Mrs. N. Dickinson.

NEW PRESIDENT CONGRATULATED.

Mrs. Chandler congratulated the new President, and wished her every success in her new position, and hoped she would be very happy in carrying out her work.

Councillor Potter also congratulated the incoming President, and said he was quite sure she would be very successful in her new work and do her utmost for the welfare of the branch.

A vote of thanks to the retiring officers was proposed by Councillor Potter and seconded by Mrs. L. Potter.

Mrs. Chandler moved a vote of thanks to the Chairman and visitors.

"BIGGER, BRIGHTER, AND BETTER."

Councillor Potter sincerely hoped that next year would be bigger, brighter and better than ever, and declared the meeting closed with those remarks.

MYSTERY PARCEL.

The mystery parcel (donated by Mrs. Bentley, was won by Mrs. N. Dickinson, and realised the sum of 1/4.

The Hostel Appeal Fund was increased by 2/1.

CURRENT TOPICS

LIBERTY LOAN ART UNION.

The committee in charge of the War Loan Art Union, with War Bonds as prizes and proceeds to the prisoners of war, yesterday explained that the opening rush for tickets created no surprise. With such a good proposition it is only natural that the tickets should be in demand. The Art Union is to promote interest in the Fourth Liberty Loan, and subscribers are asked to support the loan down to "your last zac," then have a ticket and thus "back the attack." Gladstone is the only place in Australia where you can get a £100 bond for 2/-, and had it not been for the enterprising donors, who subscribed £138 in a few minutes for prizes, the Art Union could never have been proceeded with.

PATRIOTIC RACE MEETING.

All roads should lead to the Gladstone Turf Club's Racecourse on Saturday next, when a splendid programme of events will be decided, the proceeds to go to seven Gladstone and Calliope patriotic funds. A working bee of members, assisted by several unionists, has made necessary improvements to the course and appointments, and everything should be in order for a bumper meeting. The Vice-president of the Club (Mr. Hugh Ballantine) said that he anticipated good country nominations, and strong support would be given the fixture from district centres. A ladies' committee will serve afternoon tea on the course, and members of the patriotic bodies will assist in running a publican's booth. Busses and cars will run out for the first race. This meeting should appeal to all sections. In addition to keeping alive the sport of kings and assisting owners to have their horses in condition, patrons will be contributing to such worthy objects as the Patriotic Fund, Comforts Fund, Prisoner of War Fund, and Red Shield Fund in town and district.

A subscription list opened by the President of the Club (Mr. A. W. F. G. Crow) with a cheque for £5/5/-, has been followed with a donation of £5 from Mr. L. Jessen, Club Hotel, and £2/2/- from Mr. Jim Nash, Royal Hotel.

Other donations will be acknowledged up to the day of the meeting.

Another working bee will be held to-morrow (Sunday), and members and friends coming out are asked to bring axes, shovels, mattocks, rakes, etc., with them, to put the finishing touches on the course.

HARBOUR BOARD

MONTHLY MEETING

The monthly meeting of the Board was held yesterday. Present: The Chairman (Mr. C. W. Macfarlan) and Messrs. W. R. Golding, J. F. Donovan, E. W. Crow, A. W. Drewe, R. S. Wilson, and the Secretary (Mr. A. D. Hopper). An apology was received and accepted from Mr. C. S. Schache, who was granted leave of absence from the meeting.

Messrs. Swift Australia Coy. (Ltd.) advised that their pile driving plant would be available in connection with certain works to be carried out by the Board.

Payments amounting to £252/-/5 were confirmed, and accounts amounting to £155/12/1 passed for payment.

It was decided that a donation of £10 be made to the Governor's special appeal for merchant seamen.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL

The Rev. W. Hoog, chaplain to the Missions to Seamen, Brisbane, who spent the week-end in Gladstone, left by the mail train on Tuesday. During his stay here he was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Barker, Auckland Street.

GLADSTONE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

SEVENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY COMMEMORATED

A PROUD DAY IN THE HISTORY OF THE CHURCH

The seventy-fifth anniversary of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Gladstone, 1867-1943, was fittingly commemorated on Sunday.

Appropriate services were held during the day, when impressive discourses were given by the Moderator-elect (Rev. D. A. Brown), the General Secretary of the Presbyterian Church of Queensland (Mr. R. S. Byrnes, B.A.), and Rev. H. MacNeil Saunders, M.A.

The members of each congregation turned out in large numbers to all diets of worship.

A souvenir brochure adequately deals with the early history of the Church, its ministers and workers, tracing its progress up to the present.

The arrangements made by the Rev. Saunders and the Committee of Management were very efficient.

VETERAN'S SERVICE.

The seventy-fifth anniversary commenced at 11 a.m. on Sunday with a veterans' service, at which 75 were present, including 26 children. The Sunday School scholars sweetly sang "Australia Hail," and Miss June Rose rendered the solo "Lord, it is a Goodly Land." The Moderator-elect, Rev. D. A. Brown, preached an appropriate sermon, the subject being "Jesus and the Thorns of Life," and from it he drew a heart-searching message. The basic idea was derived from the word "instead." Our Lord set about the task of defeating evil by planting good in the same soil. The superior vigour of the good things He planted in human lives gradually had the effect of withering up the bad things at the roots. "Instead of the thorn shall come up the fir tree, and instead of the brier shall come up the myrtle tree."

OLD MEMBERS CONGRATULATED.

The preacher then congratulated the older members of the congregation for their fidelity to the Church throughout many years, and assured them that their faith would be instrumental in the years to come of planting firs and myrtles to battle with and overcome the thorns and briers of life.

PLEASANT SUNDAY AFTERNOON.

At a pleasant Sunday afternoon there were fifty-two present, the soloists being Mr. N. V. Martin and Mrs. C. Dougall, of Miriam Vale. Favourite hymns were sung, and enjoyed by all. The Rev. H. MacNeil Saunders, M.A., presided. The Rev. D. A. Brown offered up a prayer, and the General Secretary of the Presbyterian Church of Queensland (Mr. R. S. Byrnes, B.A.), delivered an interesting lecture entitled "With the A.I.F. in the Middle East."

"CRACKER BLOKE."

Mr. Byrnes said he had seen 27 days' service in the old A.I.F. in Australia during the last war, and had two sons serving in the present war. After the fall of France and the evacuation from Dunkirk he began to take this war seriously, and although a middle-aged man, he obtained his wife's consent to enlist. He was accepted as a Y.M.C.A. welfare officer, and saw active service in the Middle East for two years. Most of his time, he said, was spent in Palestine and the borders of Syria, but he also visited and served in Egypt and the Western Desert. To the mothers present he said they should not worry about their boys, the truth being they were more worried about us. He described the voyages across the Indian Ocean, and paid a high tribute to the magnificent service of the Navy and the Merchant Marine. Comradeship, expressed in the phrase "cracker bloke" was still the greatest weapon of the A.I.F. as it was in the last war. He was proud of the way the boys of this generation had proved the falsity of the enemy's claim that the British race was decadent.

SUNDAY NIGHT.

There was a large congregation at the commemoration service at night, when the preacher was the Rev. H. MacNeil Saunders. The soloist was Mrs. C. N. Joseph. A profuse collection of beautiful flowers adorned the platform and pulpit.

HOLY COMMUNION.

The Holy Communion was administered by the Rev. H. MacNeil Saunders and the Kirk Session, assisted by the Rev. D. A. Brown, Mr. B. G. Patterson, the Deputy Clerk of the Presbytery, and Mr. R. S. Byrnes, B.A.

PROFESSION OF FAITH.

Four members were received into full fellowship upon public profession of faith. The charge to the new members was given by Mr. R. S. Byrnes, B.A., while the post-communion address was delivered by the Rev. D. A. Brown.

COMMEMORATION SERVICE.

An eloquent and inspiring commemoration sermon was delivered by the Rev. H. MacNeil Saunders, M.A., based on the text, "This day is holy unto our Lord; neither be ye sorry for the joy of the Lord is your strength."

CELEBRATE THE OCCASION.

"The text records the advice given to the people of Jerusalem, when the walls had been rebuilt," said the Rev. Saunders in his opening remarks. Their ardous and perilous labours were ended, and it was time now to keep a day holy to God to celebrate the occasion. There were to be no regrets, for their strength lay in the Devine pleasure which rested upon them.

RUINS REBUILT.

The Rev. Saunders went on to say that the rebuilding of Jerusalem was one of the grand pages of history. Without this indomitable achievement it was conceivable that the Christian Church might never have come into existence in the way that we know, as they built better and deeper than they knew. There was, however, reason for a melancholy undertone in their jubilations—they were rebuilding ruins; they were rescuing the domicile of their society and the shrine of their spiritual life from the despoliation of barbarism.

STAND FOREVER.

In the new Testament they had the Divine triumph over the despoiler. "He hath put down the mighty from their seats and exalted them of low degree." It was building rather than rebuilding. "I will build my Church and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." "Christ, with His nail-pierced hands," said the Rev. Saunders, "had laid a foundation upon which progress, or if you will, the Divine purpose, shall stand forever."

MILESTONES COUNTED.

Rev. Saunders went on to say that the Bible was full of memorials and commemorations. It would be impossible without them. Likewise the Church, in her onward journey, counted the milestones one by one, and in her spirit relives the great moments of her past experienc.

A PROUD HOUR.

"This is a proud hour for us," continued the Rev. Saunders. "We have reached to-day three-quarters of a century as a single congregation of God's believing people. Our country itself is scarcely more than one and a half centuries old, and this community of Gladstone is lacking three years of its century, and St. Andrew's has stood already for 75 years of these periods." He had carefully compiled the historical details of St. Andrew's Church in the souvenir brochure, which he hoped every member of the congregation will procure and read with care.

THREE ENQUIRIES.

In this solemn worship it was his task to direct their minds to the deeplying principles of the commemoration, and there were three enquiries—Why? When? and How? Dealing with "Why we commemorate," Rev. Saunders said a popular and a learned objection might be raised against this query. "Leave the past to itself, we live in the present." A philosopher would regard the question as an ultimate one, and hence out of place here. However, the reply to these objections was swift and irrefutable. "We cannot leave the past to itself," said the Rev. Saunders, "and more than a tree can detach itself from its roots, and what is ultimate is primary, and must be understood at the outset."

GEOGRAPHY SECONDARY CONSIDERATION.

The preacher went on to say that he began with Why? in order to show a satisfactory reason. What sort of creatures would we be if we allowed this occasion to pass into oblivion? Consider for a moment the lost pages of history, and the ensuing tragedy of that loss—the ruins of Crete and the burnt library of Alexandria. This war had been thrust upon the world by a monster who burnt the Reichstag to obliterate history and yelled for geography. However, the Church began and continues with history. Geography was a secondary consideration in the mind of Christ—"blessed are the meek for they shall inherit the earth." The Church was not mere history, the Church was History—the body of Christ.

RIGHT HAND OF GOD.

Continuing, the Rev. Saunders said he could not do better than sum up the answer to the question Why? than quote the following words "Therefore with all this host of witnesses encircling us we must strip off every handicap, strip off sin with its clinging folds, to run an appointed course steadily, our eyes fixed upon Jesus as the pioneer and the perfection of faith—upon Jesus, who in order to reach His own appointed joy, steadily endured the cross, thinking nothing of its shame, and is now exalted at the right hand of the Throne of God."

WHAT WE COMMEMORATE

Passing on to "What we commemorate," the Rev. Saunders said a satisfying reason demanded a satisfactory thesis, and this brought him to the core of the whole matter. The august convictions and traditions of the Reformed Catholic faith (a) The sovereignty of God, shown first in the covenant of life and of grace: (b) The Catholic Church, revealing Father, Son and Holy Spirit, and gospel, ministry and grace; (c) The Civil Magistrate.

NAMES IN BOOK OF LIFE.

The Rev. Saunders then dealt with hallowed influences, the union between the Church and the home. It was not so much the work of the ministry as the faith and piety of the people. He had memories of an old gentleman attending service at Mt. Larcom, and there was the work of Messrs. A. H. Wilson, W. Marley, W. H. Neilson, P. G. Knyvett, and others whose names were in the book of life.

COMMEMORATION ONE OF ACTION.

In referring to "How we commemorate" Rev. Saunders said this was the principle issue that was demanded of them all, and if they were to escape hollow display and the blowing of trumpets, the commemoration must be one of action—their faith interpreted by their life, and added "Christ loved the Church and gave himself for it," and that must be the principle and aim of their action."

PUBLIC MEETING.

At the public meeting, held in the Watt Memorial Hall on Monday night, a bright and interesting programme was submitted, which was enjoyed and appreciated. The Rev. H. MacNeil Saunders, M.A., presided, and he was assisted on the platform by the Mayor (Ald. G. G. Dennis), the Moderator-elect, Rev. D. A. Brown, Rev. W. Hoog, Rev. G. T. A. Phillipson, Rev. Father Cullen, the General Secretary of the Presbyterian Church of Queensland (Mr. R. S. Byrnes, B.A.), and Adj. Stewart (Salvation Army).

Rev. Saunders, in a few well chosen words, extended a hearty welcome to the visitors.

GOOD WISHES.

Short but appropriate reference to the 15th anniversary was made by the Mayor (Ald. G G. Dennis), Rev. W. Hoog, Rev. Father Cullen, Rev. G. T. A. Phillipson, and Messrs. H. Jansen, W. J. Garrett, R.G S. Byrnes, B.A., and they wished the Church everything that was best in the coming years.

"GOD BLESS YOU."

The Moderator-elect (Rev. D. A. Brown) said it was with great pleasure he attended the celebration of th 75th anniversary of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. He had known the Rev. Saunders and his good wife for a long time, and added, "I admire them extremely." The Church in Gladstone was going to flourish in the future, and in the Rev. Saunders they had a man with many outstanding gifts. They were looing forward with promise to the work of Mr. Janson, son of Mr. H. Janson, in the ministry. The Presbyterian Church in Gladstone had done good work in the past, and he felt sure it would continue to advance in the service of God. "God bless you in your work, and I am sure you will build more gloriously in the future—the welfare of your town and district," concluded the Rev. Brown.

EXTRACTS FROM GREETINGS.

The Rt. Revd. N. H. Jouglin, M.A. B.D., Moderator of Assembly:—

"Would you offer my apology to your congregation for my absence from your anniversary, and would you convey to the members my feelings for the congregation's 75th birthday. My prayer for you is that God will richly bless your work in the days to come."

Mr. T. L. Williams, Minister for Agriculture and Stock:—

"I should be pleased if you would convey to all present my sincere wish that every meeting will be blessed with success, spiritually, socially, and financially, and that through many more years St. Andrew's may continue to be a tower of strength to the spiritual well-being of the people of Gladstone."

The Revd. A. M. MacAllister:—

"Congratulations on having attained your seventy-fifth anniversary."

The Revd. W. Harrison:—

"My sincere wish and fervent prayer is that your meetings may have a large measure of success, and that the blessing of God may crown all your efforts."

CHURCH OF ENGLAND

ANNUAL SALE OF WORK

Successful Function

The annual Church of England sale of work was held in the Town Hall on Friday, and the function proved most successful, both socially and financially, reflecting much credit on the President (Mrs. C. T. Smith) and the Secretary (Mrs. Brawn), and their band of enthusiastic workers.

The business of buying and selling proceeded briskly, and all goods were sold out at an early hour.

Bishop Ash, who was accompanied by Mrs. Ash, in officially opening the function, congratulated the ladies on the splendid display, and felt sure their efforts would be rewarded with success.

Boquets were presented to Mrs. Ash and Mrs. Smith by the Secretary of the Guild (Mrs. Brawn).

The annual effort was brought to a close with a most enjoyable dance.

"It is about 19 years ago since I left the parish of Gladstone. To your minister, office-bearers, and other members of the congregation I send greetings. May your 75th anniversary be a happy one."

The Revd. J. Gillespie:—

"The Gladstone district is a strong Presbyterian district. I trust that the minister will have the co-operation of all, so that no matter what the charge has been able to do in the past it will be able to go still further as one of the main elevating influences in that part of our State."

Mr. H. R. Carter:—

"From my camp in Victoria I am thinking of the days spent in Gladstone, and on the celebration of the 75th anniversary I send you greetings."

Other greetings were received from the Revd. R. Bardon, B.A., Mackay, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Clarke, and Mr. P. G. Knyvett, S.M., of Brisbane.

LANTERN VIEWS.

Interesting and fascinating lantern views, "With the A.I.F. in the Middle East," were then shown, each view being described by Mr. Byrnes, B.A. The machine was efficiently worked by Master Max Garrett.

MUSICAL PROGRAMME.

During the evening a musical programme was contributed to by the Sunday School children, Mrs. C. N. Joseph, Miss E. McTaggart, and Mrs. A. Dougall (Miriam Vale), and Mrs. N. Martin.

VOTE OF THANKS.

After Mr. C. W. Macfarlan had proposed a hearty vote of thanks to all who had assisted, a dainty supper was partaken of.

SUCCESSFUL ANNIVERSARY.

This brought to a close the commemoration and celebration of the 75th anniversary of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, and all who were associated with it are to be congratulated on its success.

SERIOUS OFFENCE

STEALING FROM A SHIP

Warning Issued

In the Police Court on Tuesday afternoon, before the Acting S.M. (Mr. J. F. Donovan), Leo Funk, waterside worker, was charged with stealing seven packets of American cigarettes, six tubes of Colgate's shaving cream, and 18 packets of cigarette papers, valued at 7/4, the property of the United States Army.

Sergeant Gill prosecuted.

In answer to the charge Funk pleaded guilty, and elected to be dealt with summarily.

The Acting S.M. (Mr. Donovan), in fining Funk £2, in default 14 days in the Gladstone Lockup, stated he took a serious view of the offence in view of the trust imposed in workmen in this calling. However, as this was the first occasion in which the offender had been before the court, he had inflicted a small penalty, but should a similar offence be committed the matter would be viewed in a most serious light. He gave this as a warning, and it should be noted.

About 2.30 p.m. on Tuesday it was reported that goods were being stolen from the hold of a ship, and Sergt. Sjostedt, Constable Gregg, and Constable Flink, of the U.S.A. military police, proceeded to the jetty and made inquiries.

Funk, on being questioned, admitted stealing cigarettes, shaving cream, and cigarette papers from a case in the hold of a ship. He was immediately brought before the court and charged with stealing, and dealt with as stated above.

The property was ordered to be returned to the United States Army.

AT CALLIOPE

PATRIOTIC RODEO

Receipts Totalled £375

The patriotic rodeo held at Calliope attracted a record crowd of visitors from the Burnett, Miriam Vale, Callide Valley, and Raglan districts, the receipts totalling £375.

It is estimated that 1000 people attended the function, and the Calliope Comforts Fund, Red Cross Prisoners of War Fund, Calliope Send-off Fund, Gladstone District Patriotic Fund, and Gladstone Red Shield Mobile Canteen Fund will benefit by about £54 each.

The number of entries for the camp drafts and bullock riding competitions also constituted a record, there being as many as 50 entries for a single event. The committee ran a publican's booth, which was well patronised.

The rodeo was held in Mr. A. Hulme's paddock, and a ball at night in the Diggers' Arms Hall was well attended.

The rodeo judge was Mr. F. G. Knight, "Moorlands," Bundaberg. A loud speaker system, installed by Mr. Snell, of Biloela, was of great assistance to the committee and public.

Principal results were:—

Pony camp draft for Mr. John Campbell's trophy: F. Owbridge's Tommy (59 points) 1, P. Streeter's Glenroy (58) 2, Mick Norris' Steelrod (52) 3; 22 entries.

Maiden camp draft for Miss D. Streeter's cup: W. Devin's Bobbing (57) 1, J. Martin's Glitter (56) 2, H. Lewis' Bean and J. Bruce's Bonny Boy (54), tie 3; 48 entries.

Open camp draft: J. Martin's Quicksilver and Terry Vickers' The Joker (110 points) tie, W. Devine's Bobbing (107) 3; 19 entries.

The novice camp draft, in which there were 30 entries, had to be abandoned on account of lack of time.

Bullock riding: K. Evers (Mt. Larcom), 31 points, 1; M. Bills (Raglan Station), 30 points, 2. Six other competitors tied for third with 29 points each; 31 entries.

First pony flutter: E. Lindley's Playmaid 1, C. Ibbotson's Skeeter 2.

Second flutter: W. Wright's Daphne 1, J. Milner's Pet 2.

Bending race: Dorothy Chapman 1, C. McKean 2.

Flag race: Ken Ballantine 1, Percy Streeter 2.

Cr. Geo. Potter's trophy for the tug o' war was won by the Calliope men.

In thanking stockowners for the loan of stock, donors, and all who had assisted, the President (Mr. D. Small), the Treasurer (Mr. D. B. Aldous), and the Secretary (Mr. Jack Mylne) said the success of the function was most encouraging.

FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN

GLADSTONE COMMITTEE MEETING

House To House Canvas

A meeting of the Gladstone War Loans Committee was held in the Town Council Chambers on Tuesday night. Present: Messrs. G. G. Dennis (chairman), H. Hall, A. E. Taylor, A. E. Ambrose, W. Bentley, F. Hart, J. Vallis, Rev. Father McSherry, E. G. Fordham, V. Summers, and J. Burrows.

SLOGAN COMPETITION.

It was decided to extend the closing date for the entries to Wednesday, October 6, at 6 p.m., as two of the schools eligible had not sent in any entries.

SWIFTS LTD.

On the motion of Mr. Hall, seconded by J. Burrows, Mr. A. E. Ambrose, who was present, was added to the committee as a representative of Messr. Swifts Ltd.

PRESENTATION OF PENNANTS.

The Chairman stated he had already visited Parson's Point School, and would be visiting the Gladstone School on the following day, for the purpose of congratulating the scholars on their efforts in connection with war savings.

SWIFTS LTD. GROUP.

Messrs. Swifts Ltd.'s representative stated that to date two subscribers, through their group, had completed payment. It was decided to ask Messrs. Swifts Ltd. to make application through the Commonwealth Bank for the release of these bonds, which had been fully paid up.

CANVASSERS.

Delegates made verbal reports of their efforts to secure canvassers from within various unions and organisations. The reports were all favourable.

On the motion of Mr. Hall, seconded by Mr. Bentley, it was decided to make a house to house canvas of the town for the purpose of obtaining subscribers to the Loan, and to ask Mr. V. P. Breslin to assist in arranging zones.

NOVEL ART UNION

Aroused Keen Interest

The novel art union inaugurated by the Red Cross Prisoners of War Committee has aroused keen interest, and many people have already taken advantage of this unique opportunity to assist the new War Loan.

In the Art Union sales camp there is much speculation as to whether the town or country will top the list of ticket sales.

The branch Secretary (Mr. Vic. Summers) is of the opinion that Casket agents, Percy Jones, Jack Comino, and Albert Burrows, will put the town so far ahead that the country will not be in the race.

On the other hand, the Publicity Officer (Mr. D. J. Connellan) has a strong country combination, including the Red Cross sub-branches at Many Peaks-Builyan, Littlemore, Benaraby, etc., appealing to all their supporters.

Miss Dickinson (Calliope Valley P.O.W.) and Mr. Jack Mylne, Calliope, have also agreed to push the sales of tickets.

The Publicity Officer's trump card is expected to be the strong graziers' support, and a large team of enthusiasts in the Shaw brothers, Gordon Menzies, Don Cameron, Ken Ballantine, etc., it is claimed, will put the country first.

The next few weeks should see the solution of this interesting competition.

TARGINNIE STATE SCHOOL

Presentation of Honour Pennant

On Friday, October 1, Councillor W. Beak (chairman of the Calliope Shire Council) visited the Targinnie State School to present the honour pennant won by that school in 1942-1943 War Savings competition.

In presenting this beautiful blue pennant Cr. Beak congratulated the pupils on their splendid effort, not only in coming first in the shire, but on their excellent performance of an average of £14/2/2 for each pupil. During the nine months of the competition this small school had contributed over £250 in War Savings Certificates.

COMFORTS FUND

CHRISTMAS HAMPERS

Appeal For Donations

The packing of Christmas hampers is proceeding smoothly, and it is anticipated that by the end of this month the bulk of the work will have been accomplished.

Gladstone and district are responding well to this appeal. Donations are still well below the quota mark, so send your subscriptions to either Mr. F. Peardon or Mrs. W. J. Garrett, and it will be acknowledged through these columns.

Your name and address will be placed on a card in the hamper.

The local branch of the A.C.F. is hoping that the quota will be filled by the end of the month.

The following goods are included in the hamper:—

One tin fruit, tin cream, pkt. chocolate, 2 ozs. tobacco, pkt. papers, writing pad, envelopes, cake, 2 air-mail letter cards, shaving stick, tube toothpaste, 3 pkts. chewing gum, handkerchief, washer, hussif, pkt. mixed fruit, tin pudding.

The amount of donations previously acknowledged, £66/12/.

MONTHLY STREET STALL

The usual monthly street stall in aid of the joint A.C.F. and Patriotic Appeal Fund will be conducted in the Grand Hotel buildings on Friday, October 15.

The energetic convenors (Mesdames C. W. Macfarlane and J. W. Garrett) would appreciate donation of jam, fruit cakes, vegetables, sweets, or any other home manufacture or articles for sale on that date.

Donations may be left with the convenors, or at the ladstoGne Cash and Carry.

TRADES AND LABOUR COUNCIL.

(To the Editor.)

Sir,—It has been brought to the notice of my Council that various people in this town have referred to the Trades and Labour Council as "a bunch of Communists."

Some of those people are alleged Labour stalwarts.

I would like the opportunity of refuting these statements.

The Trades and Labour Council is not a Communist organisation. The Council is composed of delegates from affiliated urions, who gather in council with the motive of furthering the interests of the workers generally. To prevent their exploitation and keep a watchful eye on all the rights and privileges that the unions have fought for so long and bitterly to obtain.

There are those in our community who are always ready to raise the the "red bogey." To these individuals I would point out that the "great red bogey." Russia, who for years was slandered and subject to all the vilest abuse the capitalistic press could rake up, is at the present moment pouring the blood of her nation in an unparalleled effort to throw back the Nazi hordes.

To our Council it matters not if a man is red, white, or blue, if his ideals are the deliverance of humanity from the appalling morass into which it has fallen, then we welcome him.

We may not be infallible. Who is? But at least we are sincere, which is more than can be said of those who seek to cry us down.

Thanking you for publishing this letter, yours, etc.,

J. GOSSCHALK.

Hon. Sec. Gladstone Trades and Labour Council.

INFLATION
makes the £ smaller

A CONDITION of inflation may give a pretence of prosperity but, unless checked, it leads inevitably to suffering.

From the day when the spendable money in the hands of the people began to exceed the volume of goods and services they could spend it on, inflation began, that is to say, prices began to rise (despite control) and the purchasing power of the £ became smaller and smaller.

All the people suffer under inflation, and particularly—

(1) The thrifty, i.e., those who have their savings in cash, Savings Banks, War Savings Certificates, War Bonds, and Life Assurance.

(2) Civil Servants, clerks, teachers, and all on fixed salaries and wages.

(3) The aged who are living on the proceeds of investments or on pensions.

(4) Owners of houses who rely on the income from them for their livelihood.

The only way to check the suffering, the only way to maintain the purchasing power of the £, is for everyone to spend less, and to put more money into War Loans and Life Assurance. It may seem a contradiction, but it is the cold truth.

"I AM AN AUSTRALIAN"

Development of National Consciousness

One of the outstanding impressions of the Australian Press Delegation, recently returned from a visit to England and the United States, was the strong and deep personal sense of freedom and patriotism which every American feels and is not ashamed to demonstrate.

"While we were in New York," said Mr. Eric Kennedy, one of the delegates, speaking at an Australian-American Co-operation Movement luncheon in Sydney, "we were awakened one morning by bands marching to Central Park to take part in the 'I Am An American" Day celebrations. Some 750,000 people took part in that celebration in Central Park. We might think it rather an extraordinary demonstration. We can't imagine ourselves going round saying 'I Am An Australian,' or 'I Am An Englishman,' but in America it is a demonstration of their great sense of personal freedom, developed from their feeling of equality and opportunity in a new environment in a new land. So much of America's population is only one generation removed from Europe, and in 'I Am An American' celebrations they find an expression of their strong feeling of unity.

There is nothing offensive, nor anything to be alarmed at in their attitude of 'I am as good as you are.' It is merely the growth of an American national feeling, and the 'I Am An American' Day celebrations part of a continual educative system by which European immigrants are turned into good American citizens. American flags displayed at every street corner are part of the same continuing educative system.

"Patriotism has been instilled in America's European immigrants to a degree which should make us ashamed," Mr. Kennedy continued. "Take, for instance, our administration of the Italians in Queensland. We brought them out to work in the cane fields—work for which they are eminently suited—and we made absolutely no attempt to absorb them into our way of life or to show them any better way of living than they had been accustomed to. They became a self-contained community, with their own vendettas, their own newspapers, schools, and language. We should take a lesson from the Americans.

"If our children's children are to own Australia we must build up our population, and we must build it up from European stock. We are not a nation yet, and we will not become one until we can take care of ourselves. And to take care of ourselves we must increase our population.

At present 95 per cent of the people living in Australia are of British stock, but I doubt very much whether we will be able to get the necessary immigrants from Britain. In a few years' time, thanks to the ravages of two wars, over half the population of Britain will be over 60 years of age.

"Australia will have big responsibilities after the war. She understands Britain better than America does, and she understands America better than Britain does, and she can play a big part in knitting the two nations together. Australia must teach her immigrants to become Australianised just as America has taught her immigrants to become Americanised, for Australia's job will not end with peace. It will only begin then."

WARNING TO PRODUCERS

Overloading of Pig Trucks

"With the approach of hot weather it is of the utmost importance to call the attention of producers and agents to the very heavy losses which are likely to occur during transit by overloading pig trucks," said the Minister for Agriculture and Stock (Mr. T. L. Williams).

"I would point out that the raising of first-grade top weight pigs to 200 lbs. dressed weight makes it essential to revise the number previously accepted as proper loading for various waggons, because of the heavier average weight of all pigs.

It is therefore suggested that the loadings be limited as follows:—FP truck, no more than 24 to 26 pigs; L truck, 48 to 52 (24 to 26 on each deck); MGP truck, 80 to 86 (40 to 43 on each deck).

Should any extra heavy baconers be included, however, i.e., pigs dressing 180 lbs. or more, the numbers need to be further reduced. Also, if choppers, the allowance should be on the basis of one chopper being equal to two average baconer.

Bacon factories naturally prefer to have pigs held back for a later trucking, rather than run the serious risk of losses through overloading. Moreover, pigs should never be allowed to become overheated, and they should always be unloaded by means of a race. Feeding pigs, prior to loading, must be avoided, as it has been found by experience that this causes sickness in transit which frequently results in death.

It will be realised that owing to the greatly increased demand for all classes of meat, it is imperative to prevent avoidable economic losses of animals through overloading or any other cause. I urge that the greatest care be exercised by everyone concerned, as such losses cannot be afforded in view of the prevailing shortage of meat," said Mr. Williams.

POULTRY AT HOME.

The Commonwealth Government will investigate the possibility of having the number of fowls which may be kept by householders without coming under the control of egg marketing boards increased from 20 to 50. The Director General of Agriculture (Mr. Bulcock) said that raising of poultry at home would mean a substantial contribution to the Commonwealth's food target.

HEENZO COUGH REMEDY USED BY FAMOUS PEOPLE

Many world-famous people, including Sir Harry Lauder, Mr. Peter Dawson, Miss Gladys Moncrieff, and Captain Frank Hurley, use and recommend HEENZO as a quick acting, economical and nice to take remedy for coughs, colds, catarrh, croup, bronchitis and influenza. You save lots of money by, in your own home, adding a bottle of Concentrated HEENZO (costs 2/-, all chemists and stores) to sweetened water, thus making ONE PINT of the Best Family Cough Remedy, equally good for adults and children.

WELCOME NEWS FOR THE CATTLE BREEDER!
"BOTTRELL" BRANDING FRAME

THE OBJECT of the MACHINE is to facilitate the Branding, Castrating and Earmarking of Calves, from any age up to twelve or eighteen months, and it has been proved a great labour-saving Machine, and no user would now be without a

. BOTTRELL BRANDING FRAME. .

The Machine consists of a Wooden Frame, which has its sides curved to receive the body of the animal, and turns on hinges fixed in the ground, with the motion resembling the opening and shutting of a book.

One side of the Frame is held upright against a fence by a latch, while the other side moves freely on its hinges under the control of a ratchet. The Calf passes from a crush or race into the Frame, which is then closed as far as necessary, leaving the head and hind parts free. The latch is raised and the Frame turned on its side. The Branding and Castrating can then be done with the greatest ease.

One man can perform the work with Speed and Certainty, thus saving the expense of extra labour and ropes. The rough usage attending the ordinary method of performing these operations, which is a fruitful cause of cancer and lumpy jaw in cattle, and consequently a loss to owners, is thus entirely avoided, and on the score of both economy and humanity the Patent Branding Frame must commend itself to all Cattle Breeders. The Machine is portable, and weights 1½ cwt.

One man can put thrugh thirty to forty head per hour, and with the assistance of two boys, sixty per hour, if the yard is properly constructed.

CAN BE SUPPLIED FOR NEAR OR OFFSIDE BRANDING.

PORT OF GLADSTONE

LARGE REPRESENTATIVE PUBLIC MEETING

STEPS TAKEN TO PROTECT AND ADVANCE INTERESTS

The Mayor (Ald. G. G. Dennis) presided over one of the largest and most representative public meetings ever held in Gladstone on Thursday night last, the object being to further the interests of Gladstone, its port and district, through the formation of a public committee representative of all sections of the community.

"WAKE UP, GLADSTONE!"

Mayor Dennis, in his opening remarks, made fitting reference to the large and representative attendance, and added his congratulations, and reminded his listeners of the old slogan, "Wake up, Gladstone!" A good road, he said, was being built to Biloela, and the people of Rockhampton were working hard to get the trade of that district. They had a wonderful harbour, but it lacked shipping, and they had to face up to the fact that Gladstone residents, waterside workers, had to go to other ports to get work. As everybody knew, they had the finest harbour on the Queensland coast, and added, "there must be something wrong when we have no ships." The meeting represented all sections of the community, and action must be taken—a united body—to further the interests of Gladstone, its port, and district.

PAST DIFFERENCES FORGOTTEN.

Mr. C. N. Joseph said the idea was to form a representative body, something like the Central Queensland Advancement League, all working unitedly with a view to bringing trade to the port. Some time ago a Vigilance Committee was formed, but unfortunately it fell flat and ceased to exist to-day. He hoped, as a result of this public meeting, a body would be formed, non-political in the fullest meaning of the word, and all working together to advance the interests of Gladstone. This, he claimed, could be achieved if the problems confronting them were attacked through a spirit of co-operation and all past differences forgotten in a united effort to get the port utilised. The object should be: work together for the advancement of the port and district. He suggested the formation of an organisation embracing all public and semi-public bodies, with considerable representation from the various unions. It would be a large body, but in his opinion it would be necessary to have such representation in furthering their interests.

AN EMPHATICAL DENIAL.

Ald. W. R. Golding said it was most gratifying to see such a large and representative gathering. He emphatically refuted a rumour put into circulation that he was using this meeting for political purposes. He had no politics in the matter, and had no political aspiration. The reason why he had brought the matter up at a Town Council meeting was simply because the trade of the port was languishing, and waterside workers were leaving the town to obtain work at other ports, and added they were getting nowhere at present.

PROGRESSIVE BODY.

Ald. Golding went on to say that he was a member of a progressive body—the Harbour Board—and it had a most progressive works policy, but the putting of this policy into full operation for the benefit of Gladstone and the trade of the port would depend on what revenue was received, and that meant ships.

WOOL AND SUGAR TRADE.

They had lost the wool trade until after the war, and the Harbour Board had again made a determined effort to secure the sugar trade, but the difficulty was to get the Railway Department to supply the necessary trucks.

LACK OF SHIPPING.

Mr. Roach, an official of the Waterside Workers' Union, Sydney, who recently visited Gladstone, was astounded at the lack of shipping entering the port of Gladstone, while a high-ranked Allied engineer had recommended the port for the fullest development.

FORMATION OF COMMITTEE ADVOCATED.

Continuing, Alderman Golding said that the formation of a committee representing all sections of the community, with the one object of advancing the interests of Gladstone, its magnificent port, and the district, would do an immense amount of good. The Central Queensland Advancement League was doing everything possible to secure the trade of Biloela district, which rightly belonged to Gladstone. Gladstone, as in the past, had an uphill fight to protect and advance its interests, and every effort should be made to have its claims recognised.

FORM ONE BIG BODY.

Mr. A. H. Friend said he felt they would not get anywhere unless they got together as one united body. The Chamber of Commerce had worked hard to get the Biloela Road completed to Gladstone, but as everyone knew, this important highway had been delayed, men being taken off last year at a minute's notice. However, the work of construction was now going on again. There were certain interests and powers that were retarding the progress of Gladstone and its port. It was political, and with a view to overcoming this opposition they should form one big body, and thus present a united front. He hoped the meeting would forget past differences, "and let us have a live body, and we will get somewhere." The Chamber of Commerce, he added, would give the movement every support.

MUST HAVE SUPPORT OF PUBLIC.

Mr. J. Burrows said the reason that previous committees fell down was through apathy; they did not have the support of the public. However, recriminations would not get them anywhere. He considered that a committee should be formed, and he moved "that a committee be formed representing all bodies in Gladstone." This committee, he said, would derive its power from this meeting, and a sub-committee should be formed to draw up a constitution so that the movement could be started on proper lines.

READY TO CO-OPERATE.

Mr. J. Gosschalk said that his body, the Trades and Labour Council, was always ready to co-operate. However, co-operation was a two-sided agreement, and if it was to be a success the industrialists must have large representation, and they were strongly in favour of a committee being formed.

STOCKTAKING NECESSARY.

Mr. A. W. Drewe said the formation of a committee would not meet their present needs. Rockhampton had its Central Queensland Advancement League, and he thought a league or some association should be formed in Gladstone. He considered Gladstone had reached the stage of stocktaking, with a view to ascertaining, "why we were in the position to-day that we were? What were they going to offer the people of Biloela that was better than Rockhampton? Why was the harbour empty?" Some of the reasons, he said, were local, but most of them were away from Gladstone. At this stage they should consider forming a sub-committee to go into the matter.

BACK UP DEPUTATIONS.

Mr. C. Cooper said when deputations went away from Gladstone they got rebuffs, but it was up to the people of Gladstone to back up all deputations, and to keep on pressing their representations in the interests of the port.

"THE ONLY LANGUAGE."

Mr. Leo Funk, in briefly referring to the sugar trade, stated the port of Bowen was going to get the sugar from the Ayr district, and he considered that parliamentarians should be told "in the only language they understand—the ballot box—to go to hell."

"GET WATER FIRST."

Mr. L. Wolff said that shipping must have water, and if they got water everything would take care of itself. He added, "Get the water first."

WOULD STOP AT "NATURAL."

Mr. J. Vallis thought it was the biggest representative meeting he had attended in Gladstone. Gladstone, he said, possessed the best natural harbour in Australia, but he would stop at "natural." They were up against the ports of Brisbane and Townsville, which had better facilities. Rockhampton and Mackay had been developed, and men were not leaving those ports to get work.

GLADSTONE-BILOELA.

Mr. H. V. Loveday said the whole trouble was that the people of Gladstone were too apathetic. They threw cold water on every new move, and did not get behind the Council in its work. Referring to Biloela, the speaker pointed out that when the highway was completed and the mail service inaugurated, the people of that town would benefit considerably by getting their mail much earlier than by the present long route via Rockhampton and Mt. Morgan, and that was only one of the benefits that would result from the Gladstone-Biloela Highway.

ON A WIDE BASIS.

Mr. J. McCabe strongly favoured the formation of a committee on a wide basis.

ASSIST DEVELOPMENT.

Mr. W. Buettel said Gladstone had a good harbour, the second in Australia after Sydney, which had all the facilities, and while he was stationed at Gladstone he would do everything to assist in its development.

WHAT HAVE WE TO OFFER?

Mayor Dennis: What have we got to offer the people of Biloela?. He went on to say they had to show them that we can handle their goods cheaply and expeditiously, and also put into operation a passenger service. If such a service was in operation to-day the people of Biloela could visit Gladstone, but at present they had to make the long journey to Rockhampton by train via Mount Morgan, and this occupied the best best part of a day. However, to-day we have little to offer the people of Biloela, both in regard to passenger and goods traffic.

ENGINE ALLOWED TO WHISTLE.

They might have had some apathy in the past, but it must be remembered there has been a strong undercurrent against Gladstone, and he wondered sometimes when the train passed through Gladstone that the engine was allowed to whistle. (Laughter.)

"COULD NOT ASSIST."

Recently the Minister for Railways had informed the Council that he could not assist with the Boyne River water supply scheme, and that the the department was paying too much for water now. He hoped when the committee was formed it would do good work, and not die in a few weeks.

DO A LOT OF GOOD.

Mr. J. Burrows: I think a committee representing all sections will do a lot of good.

LAPSED.

Mr. L. Wolff moved an amendment that all persons attending the meeting be eligible for the committee.

The amendment lapsed for want of a seconder.

REPRESENTATIVE BODIES.

Mr. C. N. Joseph moved as an amendment that the committee consist of delegates from representative bodies, with power to elect any outside person to its membership.

The amendment was seconded by Mr. A. W. Young.

Mr. J. Daly considered that the amendment was not necessary, as each individual present was eligible for the committee.

BIG LEAGUE BODY.

Mr. A. W. Drewe: The Central Queensland Advancement League is open to all, and he would prefer the Gladstone movement to go out as a big league body.

The amendment was carried, and then became the motion.

CONSTITUTION.

Mr. A. Hopper then moved an amendment, that this meeting form a league, and that a sub-committee be elected to draft the constitution, and submit same to a further public meeting to be called.

The amendment was seconded by Mr. L. Wolff, and on becoming the motion was carried.

On the motion of Mr. Carron, it was decided that seven members form the sub-committee, and that four constitute a quorum.

SUB-COMMITTEE ELECTED.

A ballot resulted in the following sub-committee being elected: Messrs. W. R. Golding, J. Gosschalk, C. N. Joseph, C. Cooper, A. W. Drewe, H. Anderson and J. Burrows, who tied with Mayor Dennis for seventh place.

GENERAL.

It was decided that the sub-committee wait on the Minister for Agriculture (Mr. T. L. Williams) in reference to sugar shipments through the port of Gladstone.

The meeting terminated at 11 p.m.

Subsequently the sub-committee met, when Ald. W. R. Golding was elected chairman, with Mr. C. N. Joseph as secretary.

RED CROSS PARCELS SUSTAIN PRISONERS

EXTRACT FROM "COURIER":—"The Red Cross parcels we received kept up in perfect health during our internment in Germany," said Mrs. I. C. Wilshire (Sydney), who is touring Queensland giving lectures on her experiences for the Red Cross. Mrs. Wilshire was a German prisoner at Liebenau internment camp, South Germany, for 18 months.

Food issued by the Germans did not include fats, but it was supplemented by Red Cross parcels, which were distributed regularly, she said.

Mrs. Wilshire left London at the end of 1940 for Australia, but the ship was sunk in the Western Atlantic. The crew and seven women passengers were picked up and taken to Bordeaux, and then to Germany. Early this year the women were exchanged for German women taken prisoner in Palestine. They now are working for the Red Cross as a tribute to the work done for prisoners or war.

CRICKET MEETING.

Cricket enthusiasts are advised by advertisement in this issue that a meeting will be held in the Empire Hall on Thursday, October 14, at 8 p.m.

STREET STALLS.

The ladies of St. Saviour's Church of England Guild announce in our advertising columns that there will be no further street stalls this year on behalf of the guild, but will commence again on the last Friday in March next year. The members of the guild wish to convey thanks and appreciation to town and country residents for their splendid support during the year.

FOR OUTSIZE CHILDREN.

Outsize children not attending school, but who are entitled to an issue of extra clothing coupons, must not apply for them before October 15th, said the Acting Director of Rationing (Mr. J. B. Cumming). From this date the new forms R.G. 21, which they must fill in, will be available at all post offices and the office of the State Deputy Director of Rationing.

LIBERTY LOAN ART UNION.

The committee of the Fourth Liberty Loan Art Union reports satisfactory progress in ticket sales. The V.A.D's. of the local Red Cross, under the leadership of Miss Alma Joyner, have sold most, with the Casket agents second, and individual sellers doing well.

GUNNER DARCY WALTERS

Mr. and Mrs. W. Walters, of Auckland Hill, have been advised through the International Red Cross that their son, Gunner Darcy Walters, is a prisoner of war at Barai camp, French Indo China. His address is Gunner D. S. Walters, 20th Battery, 2/10 Field Regiment, A.I.F., now confirmed prisoner of war Barai camp, Indo China. Recently Darcy sent a card through the Red Cross staying that he was well and in good spirits. His many friends will wish him good fortune and a safe return to Gladstone.

INVESTMENTS COMING IN SLOWLY.

Investments in the Fourth Liberty Loan are coming in slowly. The quota for Gladstone is £32,000, and progress figures will be announced this week. Winners of the slogan competition will be announced to-day (Wednesday). Mr. T. L. Williams, M.L.A., who was unable to visit Gladstone last Friday, has arranged to visit Gladstone this coming Friday, 15th October, and will present pennants and prizes in the slogan competition at the Embassy Theatre on Friday evening. Have you invested the maximum amount you can manage? If not, do so now, and help yourself, your town, and Australia.

The prizes in the Art Union are:—First prize £100 bond, second prize £20 bond, third prize £10 bond, and five prizes of £2 each face value in War Savings Certificates. If donors come forward with the ten certificates under the present appeal it will make the prizes 100 per cent by donation. Should more than the required number come to hand arrangements have been made for the taking over of same at the cash value for the benefit of the prisoners of war. Help a worthy cause.

GLADSTONE TOWN COUNCIL

PROPOSED AERODROME SITE NEAR BEECHER

"NOT POSSIBLE TO UNDERTAKE NEW CONSTRUCTION"

The fortnightly meeting of the Council was held on Monday night. Present: The Mayor (Ald. G. G. Dennis), and Aldermen J. Deveney, M. A. Busteed, W. R. Golding, H. Anderson, R. E. Smith, R. R. Tudman, and the Acting Town Clerk (Mr. V. P. Breslin).

BOYNE WATER SCHEME.

The Treasury Department, Brisbane, advised the Minister for Agriculture (Mr. T. L. Williams) as follows:—"With reference to your personal representations relative to the debenture loan of £90,000, which is being obtained by the Council of the town of Gladstone in connection with the Boyne River water supply scheme for Gladstone, and to the request by the Council for a further loan of £26.136/6/8, being the amount by which the previous estimate has been exceeded, I have to inform you that in accordance with the practice approved by the Australian Loan Council, the request has been referred to the Co-ordinator General of Public Works for consideration. On receipt of his reply you will be further communicated with in the matter."—Received.

PUMPING PLANT.

Mr. W. J. Reinhold, consulting engineer, Brisbane, acknowledged letter advising of the Council's decision to adopt a suction gas power plant at the Boyne River instead of generating power in Gladstone and transmitting it to the river as recommended. He had instructed Mr. Axon to prepare plans and specification for the suction gas plant, and would amend the estimates of cost accordingly.—Received.

SUCTION GAS PLANT.

Director of Local Government, Brisbane, wrote in reference to the visit of Mr. Engineer Peak to Gladstone regarding the Boyne River water supply scheme, and more particularly the question of power generation for the pumping plant, and the department noted that the Council had decided to adopt a suction gas plant for pumping purposes.—Received.

SALES TAX.

The Minister for the Army (Mr. F. M. Forde) notified that he had noted from the correspondence in connection with the Boyne River water supply scheme that the Council had applied to the Deputy Commissioner of Taxation for a remission of sales tax and a rebate of the amount already paid on pipes to be used in the construction of the water scheme. He had written to the Treasurer, asking that most sympathetic consideration be given to the Council's request on this matter.—Received.

REQUEST BEING CONSIDERED.

The Treasurer (Mr. J. B. Chifley) has informed the Army Minister (Mr. Forde), relative to his representations on behalf of the Council regarding the application made for remission of sales tax on spun pipes to be used in the construction of the Boyne River water supply scheme, and he was giving consideration to the request.—Received.

ENTER PRIVATE LANDS.

Director of Local Government, Brisbane, advised that Local Government law enabled the Council to carry out works on roads and on private lands, and to enter upon private lands for the purpose of carrying out works.—Received.

SANITARY DEPOT PURPOSES.

Minister for Agriculture (Mr. T. L. Williams) wrote relative to the acquisition of an area of land in the Calliope Shire Council area for sanitary depot purposes, and advisced he was approaching the Minister for Lands (Mr. E. J. Walsh) in support of the request.—Received.

VISIBILITY DISCS.

District Engineer, Main Roads Commission, advised that during a recent visit by the Commission, it was noted that a number of visibility discs had been knocked off their posts, and also damaged in other ways. The Commissioner desired that all damaged discs be replaced.

Ald. Golding said it was shameful to see the number of discs that had been knocked off their posts, which was pure vandalism.

It was decided to replace the discs within the Council's area, and that a warning be advertised in the "Observer."

AERODROME SITE.

Following is a copy of a letter sent by the Shire Clerk (Mr. H. H. Whittle) to the Minister for the Army (Mr. F. M. Forde) regarding an aerodrome site at Beecher:—

"With reference to your letter of the 15th ult. and letter of the 8th idem from the Minister for Air (Mr. A. S. Drakeford), forwarded therewith advising that owing to extensive commitments in the war operational areas it is at present not possible to undertake the construction of further landing grounds outside such areas.

"I am directed to ask whether an investigation by departmental experts has been made of the proposed site, and if so, whether it is considered suitable.

"If such an investigation has not been made the bodies forming the deputation, which waited on you at Gladstone on July 20 last, now desire that such an investigation be made, and this Council advised of the result.

"As the proposed site is situated in the area controlled by my Council an investigation at the very earliest date possible will be appreciated, for the reason that repairs to the roads through the site are urgently needed, and if the site is suitable the proposed repairs could be of a very temporary nature, or consideration could be given to repairing alternate roads which serve the residents near the site.

"A very early investigation and decision thereon will be appreciated."

The Mayor: It took them a long time to tell us that.

Ald. Golding: We can't do anything further until we know whether an investigation and inspection has been made.

The letter was received.

AT BARNEY POINT.

South Gladstone and Barney Point Progress Association advised that the sanitary conveniences at Barney Point beach were in a shocking condition, and required immediate attention. One service at present was completely out of order, and with the hot weather approaching it was an ever increasing evil. The Association recommended that the caretaker be housed in this area for the purpose of attending to these matters.

Ald. Golding stated that Mr. Gunders would shortly be starting on the sheds on the Meatworks 'bus route, and when this work was completed he could carry out the necessary repairs to the buildings at Barney Point, and he moved a motion accordingly, which was seconded by Ald. Deveney and carried.

WORK TO BE CARRIED OUT.

Mr. A. E. Robertson, Gladstone, brought under notice the state of the drain in front of his premises, and he claimed that something should be done to this nuisance for health reasons. He asked that the matter be treated as urgent.

Ald. Golding said this was one of the next jobs to be carried out—concrete and kerb channelling, and added, "the Works Committee had not overlooked the matter."

SEPTIC SYSTEM.

Mr. P. Vock, Gladstone, made application for permission to erect and instal a septic system at his residence.

The application was granted, subject to a plan being submitted, and the work carried out to the approval of the Health Inspector.

ENGINEER'S REPORT.

The Engineer (Mr. E. W. Phillips) reported that since last meeting he had pumped for 485 hours, using 8874 units. He removed the 30 h.p. burnt out motor, and replaced it with a borrowed 35 h.p. motor. He turned up the coupling to fit the new motor, and also reconditioned the starter for same. The report was adopted.

MR. F. M. FORDE THANKED.

On the motion of the Mayor it was decided to forward a letter of thanks to the Minister for the Army (Mr. F. M. Forde) for his work in obtaining a grant of £10,000 for the Boyne Water supply scheme.

NEW ISOLATION WARD.

The Mayor reported that Ald. Golding and himself had met the delegates from the Calliope and Miriam Vale Shire Councils in regard to the erection of a new isolation ward at the Gladstone Hospital, when it was decided to write to the Works Department asking if it was prepared to submit plans and specifications for the construction of a building of four wards of two beds each, the building to be of concrete, and to be constructed so as to allow of its extension when necessary.

Ald. Golding said that unless there was an alarming outbreak of infectious cases the building in the opinion of the local authorities would be ample for all requirements.

TOWN HALL.

A sub-committee, consisting of Ald. Busteed, Smith and Anderson, was appointed to go into the question of the future letting of the Town Hall.

ACCOUNTS.

Accounts amounting to £672/4/- were passed for payment.

Electric Light Authority

PORCELAIN INSULATORS.

The State Electricity Commission advised that the Ministry of Munitions had now assumed control of porcelain insulators of all types.—Received.

INFORMATION WANTED.

Mr. J. V. Vallis, Gladstone, asked to be supplied with the following information:—

(1) The full valuation of the town; (2) the loan indebtedness of the electric light undertaking, (3) the electric light loan rate, the charges for electricity for domestic (light), domestic (power), industrial (light), industrial (power), (5) the approximate cost of generating per unit at the Power House.

It was decided to answer the first four questions, and that Mr. Phillips be asked to go into the matter of costs of generating per unit for the information of the Council.

COSTS PER UNIT.

In general business Ald. Anderson said every endeavour should be made to have the costs of generating per unit investigated and tabled. If a month was allowed the figures could be obtained, and he moved a motion accordingly, which was seconded by Ald. Smith and carried.

Ald. Anderson also asked that Mr. Phillips table a report showing whether the production costs could be reduced, and it was agreed that this be embodied in the motion.

ACCOUNTS.

Accounts amounting to £750/19/9 were passed for payment.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL

Gladstone visitors to Brisbane for the Curtis-Farnsworth wedding included Mrs. George Curtis, Miss Dorothy and Master Eric Curtis, and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Farnsworth.

PRE-WEDDING TEA.

A very nice pre-wedding tea was recently tendered to Miss Constance Farnsworth, whose marriage to Sergeant Claude Curtis, A.I.F., late of Gladstone, took place on October 9. It was given by Mrs. Keith Gesler at the Hotel Canberra. Bowls of roses and gladioli adorned the reception rooms, and a dainty afternoon tea was enjoyed.

WEDDING BELLS

CURTIS-FARNSWORTH.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated on the ninth of October by the Rev. C. B. Watts at the Park Presbyterian Church, when the marriage of Sergeant Claude Curtis, A.I.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Curtis, of Gladstone, and Miss Constance Farnsworth, daughter of Mr. Norman Farnsworth and the late Mrs. Farnsworth, of Dutton Park, was celebrated.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, wore a dainty beige street frock, with a white swathed cap and veil. She carried white accessories, and beautiful golden roses ornamented her handbag.

The sister of the bride, Miss Vera Farnsworth, wore an apple green street frock, and a tiny hat of white marguerites, with gold centres and pleated ribbons. She also had white accessories, and golden roses also adorned her handbag.

The wedding reception was held at the Portland Lounge, where the wedding guests were received by Mrs. E. Farnsworth, grandmother of the bride, who wore a black beaded sheer frock with a shoulder spray of red rosebuds.

Mrs. Curtis, mother of the bridegroom, wore a street frock of ashes of roses hue, and a dainty shoulder spray was added.

The bride's travelling dress was a penciled striped nile green jumper suit, with brown accessories.

The honeymoon will be spent on the South Coast.

RED CROSS PARCELS.

In Friends (Pty.) Ltd.'s advertisement on Saturday last, it should have read that parcels are delivered weekly to prisoners of war through the Geneva Red Cross organisation.

PLEASE NOTE.

Sportsmen are asked to note that in connection with the conditions for the patriotic race meeting, to be held next Saturday, under the auspices of the Gladston Turf Club, that only approved amateur riders will be allowed to ride in the Militia Maiden Hack and the Spitfire Hack Handicaps.

SOUTH GLADSTONE PROGRESS ASSOCIATION

MONTHLY MEETING

Many Matters Dealt With

Mr. E. T. Daley presided over a record attendance of members of the South Gladstone and Barney Point Progress Association at the last monthly meeting.

CORRESPONDENCE.

The Minister for Agriculture and Stock (Mr. T. L. Williams) forwarded two letters received from the Liquid Fuel Board regarding the Association's request for a taxi service for the suburb, and a letter received from the Minister for Public Instruction (Mr. Jones), advising that due to personal representations by Mr. Williams approval had now been granted for the acquisition of 3¼ acres of land, section 97, parish of Gladstone, as a new site for the Barney Point School.

HOUSING A CARETAKER.

The Town Council forwarded a letter advising that the request for the housing of a caretaker at Barney Point had been deferred pending an estimate of cost of alterations to the present accommodation in that area.

NEW MEMBERS.

Several new members were admitted to the Association.

CREDIT BALANCE.

The Treasurer's statement showed donations and membership fees, leaving a credit balance.

LETTER DELIVERY.

The Secretary reported that in company with the President (Mr. Daley) and Vice-president (Mr. P. Vock), he waited on Mr. Stewart (superintendent) and Mr. Edwards (district postal inspector) relative to a letter delivery to Barney Point. The deputation was successful, and residents would now enjoy a convenience they had previously been denied.

PUBLIC TELEPHONE.

A public telephone will be installed at Eggstein's corner as supplies become available.

WAITING SHEDS.

The Secretary stated that labour was now available and the Council had promised to proceed with the erection of the two waiting sheds in Tooloora Street.

GENERAL.

A further deputation waited on the Chairman and Manager of the Electric Light Authority, with the result that the Town Council had advised that Mr. Judd's residence will now be connected with electricity, and that a light would be erected at the old Fertiliser culvert in Tooloora Street.

Several matters were discussed, resulting in a decision to forward one request to the Town Council.

Mr. L. Short, on behalf of the School Committee, thanked the Association for its efforts in regard to pressing for the removal of the Parson's Point School.

TRADES AND LABOUR COUNCIL

Fortnightly Meeting

The fortnightly meeting of the Trades and Labour Council was held on Friday. Eleven delegates were present.

Among the correspondence were letters from the Harbour Board, requesting support in matters concerning the port.

A motion was put and carried "That this Council give its fullest support to these questions, and that letters be written to Mr. T. L. Williams, M.L.A., and Mr. F. Forde, Minister for the Army, in regard to same.

The main business of the meeting was the election of a delegate to the Trade Union Congress to be held in Brisbane in November.

The Secretary (Mr. Gosschalk) was elected.

Six items were sent from the Gladstone Trades and Labour Council for the agenda for the Congress.

Notice was given by one member of statements made regarding the Trades and Labour Council. One in particular from a so-called Labour man, who classed us as a "bunch of Communists."

It was moved that a letter be sent to the press dealing with such statements.

The motion was carried unanimously.

An interesting report was given by one member on the recent Waterside Workers' Union Congress in Brisbane.

ATE AND HIGH SCHOOL

HONOUR CERTIFICATE PRESENTED

otal Collected £770/9/-

n Wednesday last the Mayor (Ald. G. Dennis) attended the Gladstone te and High School to present the our certificate awarded the school having contributed over £1 for child in attendance (average). e Mayor was itnroduced by the ipal (Mr. F. C. Thompson), who l that the teachers, by collecting ey and distributing stamps and tificates, had saved the children, ir parents, and the Post Office coun- officers a great deal of trouble. welcome Mr. Dennis to the school.

THANKS FOR FINE EFFORT.

The Mayor, in his address said:— have come along this morning to nk you for the very fine effort you e made in regard to War Savings tificates and stamps. Now, we ow what these stamps are being lected for. It is to help your bro- rs and sisters far away fighting ur battles. It is better than just tting your money in the Savings nk. It is something in the way of saving effort that will be to your vantage, and remember this, every nny you put in is going to a most rthy cause in providing for your ture heritage. Now, you have a nderful country in Australia, and u can make it still better. The nderful deeds of the Australian sol- ers on the field of battle are secur- g a heritage that will be yours, and your little way you are doing your rt, and doing it very well.

WONDERFUL JOB.

"Now, in connection with this com- etition, the school children have done wonderful job. Up to June 30 no ss than £100,000 has been contribut- d; and I can assure you that the ommonwealth Government has been ry pleased with the splendid show- g that has been made.

AN AVERAGE OF £1/3/2.

"I shall give you boys and girls ome idea of your own effort. From he 1st September, 1942, to 31st July, 943, during which time the competi- on was held, you contributed £512/8/- hich averages £1/3/2 per child for he year. Before the competition com- enced—from 7th May to 31st Aug- se, 1942, £159/9/6 had been collect- d, and with £98/11/6 having been col- ected since 31st July this year, the otal amount collected from this school ince May 1942 is £770/9/. That is very splendid effort, and I can see hat you will soon reach the £1000 mark; and that will show what an ffort you yourselves and your teach- rs have made.

"You must remember that it is omething like the saying, 'Look after he pennies, and pennies will look after the shillings, and the shillings will look after the pounds; but to- day it is not quite that. The stamps will buy you certificates, and the cer- ificates will buy you bonds, and the bonds will look after themselves and you too. Now, that is something that you have to remember. A few bonds will be something to help you along in life, and it will be a very fine thing for you to be able to look back in life and be able to say truthfully that by self-denial you have assisted your country, and at the same time helped to provide for your own future.

"I am going to present you, through Mr. Thompson, an honour certificate that has been awarded you for your very fine effort.

"Mr. Thompson, I have very much pleasure, on behalf of the Common- wealth Government, in giving you this honour certificate for the obtaining of a merit by the State and High School in the recent Loan War Saving com- petition. Boys and girls, I thank you."

The function concluded with a hearty vote of thanks to the Mayor.

COMFORTS FUND

MONTHLY STREET STALL

The usual monthly street stall in aid of the joint A.C.F. and Patriotic Appeal Fund will be conducted in the Grand Hotel buildings on Friday, October 15.

The energetic convenors (Mesdames C. W. Macfarlane and J. W. Garrett) would appreciate donation of jam, fruit cakes, vegetables, sweets, or any other home manufacture or articles for sale on that date.

Donations may be left with the con- venors, or at the ladstoGne Cash and Carry.

TAXATION

"PAY AS YOU GO"

System Explained

There is considerable interest in the proposed adoption of a "pay as you go" tax scheme in Australia. The following points, explained on a ques- tion and answer basis, may help un- derstanding of the system.

What does the system mean?

It means paying your taxes on the income you earn at the same time as you get the income. For a wage earner it means that so much is de- ducted from his envelope each week to pay the tax on that week's earn- ings.

Isn't that what the Australian Gov- ernment does now under the tax in- stalment scheme?

No; what taxes are deducted from your pay each week are totalled at the end of the year and are applied to paying your tax account on the money you earned in the previous year. For instance, the weekly deductions you pay now are on account of 1942- 1943 income. You are a year behind in your payments; that is what it amounts to.

"FORGIVE" SOME TAXES.

How would the Government bring it up to date?

Under "pay as go" the Government would forgive you your income tax for a whole year, or part of a year, and so bring you up to date for pay- ing tax on current income.

That means the Government would lose a whole lot of money, doesn't it?

Yes, the Government would, on paper, although it would not forgive everyone a whole year. It may be different for deceased estates of com- panies, and there may be a sliding scal of "forgiveness" for big incomes.

But the loss of revenue would be serious, all the same?

No; the loss is largely theoretical. Current year's taxes would immedi- ately take the place of the previous year's, so that actual collections would not be lower now, nor would they be in succeeding years. The Government would lose only—if you can imagine it—the world came to an end and everybody was dead or had stopped paying taxes. Under "pay as you go" the people would be up to date in tax payments; under the old system they would still owe for a year. But you can't imagine that debt being col- lected at the end of the world.

MANY MORE WOULD PAY.

Why do they want to change, any- way?

First, because it would increase the Government's revenue at once. The present taxpayers would still be paying about the same amount, but in addition, the Government would rope in many new taxpayers—young girls and boys who this year got into taxable money.

Under the present system these young people, and there are many of them in wartime—get exemption from tax deduction this year because they didn't earn a taxable income last year. The new system would bring them in at once as taxpayers.

There is a second reason: Many people now are earning much bigger money than they will earn after the war. They may find themselves after the war with smaller wages but still a big tax bill on their previous high wages. That may cause hardship, and the Government may lose some of this tax debt. Such a lag would not happen under "pay as you go."

CAMOUFLAGE NETS

SUBSTANTIAL RESERVES

Nation Saved £437,900

The manufacture of further camou- flage nets for the Army by voluntary workers will not be required after those which are now partly completed have been finished. Instructions con- cerning the cessation of work will be issued soon by military authorities in the various States.

Announcing this, the Army Minister (Mr. Forde) said that because of the efforts of voluntary workers the Army had ample camouflage nets to meet immediate requirements, and also had a substantial reserve.

It was estimated that in one year voluntary workers making camouflage nets saved the nation at least £437,900. In the same period they had manu- factured 509,200 nets.

PATRIOTIC RACE MEETING

RECORD NOMINATIONS

Next Saturday, October 16

All roads should lead to the Glad- stone Racecourse on Saturday, when the patriotic programme set down for decision by the Gladstone Turf Club will be decided.

The nominations received by the committee at a meeting on Monday night constitute a record, there being approximately 80 horses entered for the various events.

Members of the committee, assisted by union members and enthusiastic supporters, have worked hard during the past month to get the course and appointments in order, and Mr. Jef- feris said that it never looked better.

In addition to the donation of £5/5/- from President (Mr. Goddy Crow) other donations of £5 each from Messrs. W. Jackson, Teddy Ericksen, Ludy Jessen, Alf Fry; £2/2/- from Jim Nash and A. J. Jenkinson, and £1/1/- from Viv Jenkinson, were handed in.

Other donations will be received up to the date of the meeting.

At the meeting considerable en- thusiasm was shown by a large num- ber of members, and there is every prospect of another meeting being staged in the very near future. This, it is claimed, will tend to confirm the revival in racing, and assist owners and trainers to keep their horses in condition.

Supporters of Red Cross, Comforts and Patriotic Funds, Red Shield, and Calliope patriotic bodies, are urged by their officials to make a point of at- tending Saturday's fixture, and thus help these worthy objects, and at the same time give the Turf Club a little encouragement.

Messrs. M. J. Clarris, V. Fry, V. Jenkinson and T. Leach were added to the committee.

WORKING SHIRT

NEW DEFINITION

Coupon Scale

Wtih the assistance of traders, the Rationing Commission has agreed to a new definition of a working shirt in the coupon scale.

The Rationing Deputy Director (Mr. Cochran) said that in future no shirt would be rated as a working shirt at five coupons unless it conformed with the following specifications:—

Square shoulders with single laid on yoks; laid on or inserted front; no pleat or fullness at the back; one but- ton and buttonhole at the neck, and two on the front; unlined collar and collar band; one pocket; if long sleeves, to be made with a laid on cuff and one button and buttonhole, sizes S.M., M., O.S., and X.O.S; no neck sizes to be shown.

Working shirts made or being made on or before October 1 last and con- forming to the old ruling could be sold at their present rating until De- cember 31.

Under the present coupon scale working shirts of grey, natural, or navy blue flannel were rated at four cou- pons.

From January 1 next shirts of these materials conforming to the new specification would be rated at five coupons.

Those which resemble the flannel undershirt in style would be classed as undershirts and rated at four cou- pons.

POLICE COURT

SERIOUS CHARGE.

In the Police Court on Monday after- noon, before the Acting S.M. (Mr. J. F. Donovan), an allied sailor was charged with "that without lawful oc- casion he went around in public in such a manner as to cause fear to divers of the subjects of our Majesty the King."

Sergt. Gill prosecuted, and stated the man was a member of the United States Military Forces.

Lieut. Lumpkin asked that the man be handed over to the United States Military Forces.

Mr. Donovan directed that the de- fendant be handed over to Lieut. Lumpkin, as agent, for the United States Military Forces.

No evidence was taken, and no facts were disclosed.

COMFORTS FUND

Toy and Gift Stall

The Gladstone branch of the A.C.F. will conduct a toy and gift stall about the end of November. The convenor (Mrs. C. Chapman) and an energetic committee are working hard to make this a success, and would appreciate donations of cash, remnants of ma- terial, and wool suitable for making toys and gifts, or any used toys in fairly good condition that could be renovated for sale.

Orders will be taken and donations received by the convenor (Mrs. C. Chapman), the hon. secretary (Mrs. Garrett), or call at the A.C.F. rooms, Grand Hotel buildings on Tuesday or Friday afternoons.

LOAN QUIZ

What are the essential differences between Loan Bonds and inscribed stock?

Bonds are bearer instruments on which the terms of the Loan are set out. They are issued in denomina- tions of £10, £50, £100, £500, and £1000. Each bond has interest coupons for each complete half-year attached. In- terest is paid half-yearly.

Inscribed stock is written up to the credit of the owner in the inscribed stock registry at Commonwealth Bank capital city branches and at Launces- ton (Tasmania). The owner is given a receipt, but hold no other document. The minimum amount that can be in- vested in inscribed stock is £100. Mul- tiples of £10 over the first £100 may be subscribed.

HELP THE LOAN.

The Fourth Liberty Loan Art Union is being conducted to promote interest in the loan with war bonds and certi- ficates as prizes, and profits to the prisoners of war through the Glad- stone Red Cross. Support the loan down to "your last zac," then have a ticket and "back the attack."

FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN

5/- National Savings Stamps

An important addition to the facili- ties provided for War Loan subscrib- ers is the 5/- National Savings Stamp. These stamps are now on sale at all Money Order Post Offices and Savings Banks and through War Loans Organ- isation representatives.

Throughout the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign large numbers of picture theatres in all States, by arrangement with the Government, will concentrate on the sale of the 5/- National Sav- ings stamps.

A booklet containing 40 stamps will pay outright for one £10 bond. Single sheets of the booklet, each carrying eight stamps, may be used to make deposits on £10 bonds and to pay sub- sequent monthly instalments, or to make deposits in a Savings Bank ac- count in the ordinary way.

All money so deposited in Savings Bank accounts will be invested by the Savings Banks in War Loans.

Stamps can be negotiated only in full booklets or in full pages. It is not possible to redeem them for cash or for the purchase of War Savings Certificates.

DEHYDRATION WONDERS

MILK IN SOLID BLOCKS

Many wonders in dehydration de- velopment are on show at the Low Temperature Research Station at Cam- bridge (Eng.), where scientists aim to produce dried food as near as pos- sible to the original minus only water.

"Mashed potato" is produced by simply adding hot water to a yellow- ish powder. Fresh looking carrots, beetroot, cabbage and other vegetables were produced from dried shrivelled shreds dropped into cold water.

A quart of milk was reduced to a small solid block about three-quarters of an inch thick.

It is estimated that 3,000,000 tons of water reaches the country every year in the guise of food. Its importation means the loss of valuable tonnage and cargo space in refrigerated holds, and the use of special ships in peace.

Dr. Lee, one of the scientists at- tached to the station, mentioned that a quart of fresh milk contained seven- eighths water. When dried this full cream milk would keep for several years. As soon as it was reconsti- tuted, however, it became a perish- able article.

STUCK TO HIS GUN

Story of Devotion to Duty

A story of extraordinary devotion to duty was told last week by a member of a Fighting Services unit, which with War Loan organisation representatives, is canvassing Melbourne factories for subscribers to the Fourth Liberty Loan.

The scene was the Java Sea battle. At his Oerlikon gun on one of our ships stood an Australian, training his gun on a lone Japanese torpedo bomber which circled overhead.

Just as the plane was about to make its third circle two more enemy planes appeared, diving towards the ship.

The crew of the huge turret gun or the deck above realised the difficulties of the gunner below, opend fire. The vibration and shock were so great that the man on the Oerlikon gun was thrown into the air up on to the higher deck. He was stunned, his clothes blown off, his teeth knocked out, and his arm injured.

When he regained consciousness he sprang down to his gun and finished off the torpedo bomber.

This is only one of the stories of incredible heroism which employees of factories throughout Australia are hearing from fighting men, whose one object is to get people on the home front to back to the full the men who risk everything on the battlefronts.

THE HOME GARDEN

Home Growers Assisted

The Government's appeal that, as far as practicable, civilians should grow their own vegetables during the remainder of the war period, has special cogency. There has been indifference on the part of some people to this appeal, but presumably this is largely due to fear that their efforts may be unsuccessful; that a great deal of hard work and time may be wasted for negligible results. If, however, the work is approached intelligently, it will be found that such fears are groundless.

Each State Department of Agriculture is well equipped and anxious to help the novice as well as the commercial growers. The problems in each centre differ with climatic and soil conditions. Home growers who request advice will be gladly assisted by State agricultural technical experts.

HEENZO COUGH REMEDY USED BY FAMOUS PEOPLE

Many world-famous people, including Sir Harry Lauder, Mr. Peter Dawson, Miss Gladys Moncrieff, and Captain Frank Hurley, use and recommend HEENZO as a quick acting, economical and nice to take remedy for coughs, colds, catarrh, croup, bronchitis and influenza. You save lots of money by, in your own home, adding a bottle of Concentrated HEENZO (costs 2/-, all chemists and stores) to sweetened water, thus making ONE PINT of the Best Family Cough Remedy, equally good for adults and chil-

BOMBERS AND BOMBS

Salvage Can Help

From the Allied point of view the war has gone through three phases. First, there was the period of desperate defence during which Western Europe was over-run and the people of Britain were prepared in the words of Winston Churchill, to defend every village, town and city against the expected enemy.

Then, after the battle for Britain, the tide began to turn, and gradually the Allied Nations gathered strength not only to resist, but to attack.

Now, in the fifth year of war, our armies are advancing on all fronts, and a movement has begun that will end only in the complete overthrowing of our enemies.

Each of these periods has had its own particular problems, but chief among these in every case has been the problem of production and supply.

It is impossible to over-estimate the importance of production and supply. Every scrap of metal and material that can be used against the enemy must be saved for that purpose. There can be no unlimited advance with limited equipment, no second front upon the battlefield without a second front at home. That is why salvage is essential.

The National Government realises this and has created a Commonwealth Commission to organise and promote the collection of salvage, and detailed plans are being made. Collection, sorting and allocation to factories have all been considered; system and principle have been established; efficiency and usefulness assured.

In Australia there are two million homes, each a fighting unit in our war machine and a potential source of war materials. Scrap metal, paper, rubber, glass—all have their uses.

Salvage can help to build bombers and bombs, and can provide the material for guns and shells. Almost every kind of fighting equipment can be manufactured from salvage.

Australia has a great responsibility in this Pacific theatre of war: it is the responsibility of maintainging the forces that will drive the Japanese to Tokio: it is a responsibility that demands every ounce of energy and determination, and one in which every ounce of salvage will eventually count.

WELCOME NEWS FOR THE CATTLE BREEDER!
"BOTTRELL" BRANDING FRAME

THE OBJECT of the MACHINE is to facilitate the Branding, Castrating and Earmarking of Calves, from any age up to twelve or eighteen months, and it has been proved a great labour-saving Machine, and no user would now be without a

BOTTRELL BRANDING FRAME.

The Machine consists of a Wooden Frame, which has its sides curved to receive the body of the animal, and turns on hinges fixed in the ground, with the motion resembling the opening and shutting of a book.

One side of the Frame is held upright against a fence by a latch, while the other side moves freely on its hinges under the control of a ratchet. The Calf passes from a crush or race into the Frame, which is then closed as far as necessary, leaving the head and hind parts free. The latch is raised and the Frame turned on its side. The Branding and Castrating can then be done with the greatest ease.

One man can perform the work with Speed and Certainty, thus saving the expense of extra labour and ropes. The rough usage attending the ordinary method of performing these operations, which is a fruitful cause of cancer and lumpy jaw in cattle, and consequently a loss to owners, is thus entirely avoided, and on the score of both economy and humanity the Patent Branding Frame must commend itself to all Cattle Breeders. The Machine is portable, and weighs 1½ cwt.

One man can put thrugh thirty to forty head per hour, and with the assistance of two boys, sixty per hour, if the yard is properly constructed.

CAN BE SUPPLIED FOR NEAR OR OFFSIDE BRANDING.

"WHY WE WAIT"

OPENING A SECOND FRONT

"Miserable Communist Howlers"

(By "Old Digger.")

Last week, from Italy, came a story which struck a sombre note in the midst of our rejoicing in victory.

It was the story of the Salerno landing. It told of how the British Commandos, American Rangers, and other troops first ashore, were literally cut to pieces by the point blank blast of German 88mm. tanks which literally overwhelmed the men as they tried to consolidate their pitifully exposed positions on the beach.

This story should be sent to every one of the stay-at-homes who, at the moment are in the middle of another campaign for the second front which they are prepared to urge other people to undertake, but in which they themselves are anything but eager to participate.

For it shows, as did Dieppe, that landings from the sea against an enemy in prepared positions, and an enemy who knows how to make the most of his defences, is the bloodiest of all warfare.

Yet, apparently the only thing that will satisfy the rip-snorting boys here is a mass attempt to storm the beaches and cliffs of France and the Lowlands, a mass suicide which would have the English Channel running red.

No. There are other ways. Ways which offer a thousand per cent better chance of success than any attempt to land in France and the Lowlands.

Those ways are being followed, and followed successfully, as practically every bit of news from the war zone tells us.

One stay-at-home of military age gibes that it "is not necessary to sew the last button on the last doughboy's pants before undertaking the second front."

I say that if, by waiting that long, we can be sure that the said dough boy will live to enjoy the fruits of his victory, then the delay would be more than justifiable. It would be God-like.

These miserable Communist howlers forget that in Britain they have the one nation to whom desperate forays, and successful forays, are a tradition.

They forget that the British conceived Gallipoli; were responsible for Zeebrugge in the last war. They forget the ill-starred but glorious attempt of the British Antwerp Expedition in 1914.

And they forget the Commando raids which have been going on constantly, at terrific cost, raids which began at a time when Britain herself hourly expected invasion.

This nation needs no urging to undertake desperate adventures. Therefore, the fact that she has refrained from mounting a full scale attack on the French coast, would in itself be sufficient proof of its impossibility to anybody less boneheaded than the Communists.

At the Sydney Town Hall last week the Comrades held a meeting to demand a second front.

At the meeting they sold badges; they sold "The Moscow News;" they sold "The Tribune," and they sold innumerable pamphlets, those badly written things which are turned out without regard to paper restrictions.

Finally, they took up a collection which realised over £300. So, even if the second front is not opened, the Communist officials are sure of eating money for the next few weeks!

FOOD SITUATION.

The war is not yet won. Moreover, even if it were to end in Europe sooner than we expect, the food situation, far from becoming easier, may well become more difficult owing to the urgent necessity of feeding the starving peoples of Europe. Indeed, in many ways it would be true to say that our real difficulties and our real task will only then begin.

RUSSIAN MILITARY MIRACLE

"Will To Win"

Two years ago this week an announcement came from the German military commander in Russia that the Red Army had evacuated Bryansk and that the annihilation of the Russian forces at Viazma was imminent. At the same time the Russians themselves announced that women and children were being evacuated from Moscow.

Still a year later the Germans were edging their way into Stallingrad under a hail of steel, and the greater part of Russia in Europe was in their hands.

What has happened in Russia in the ensuing twelve months almost defies analysis. To-day Bryansk and Viazma are well inside the Russian lines, and the only guns heard in Moscow now are those that signal each new Russian victory.

Students of military history point to vital battles and particular manifestations of strategy as the basic cause of this amazing change, and it would be idle to dismiss their reasoned conclusions as wisdom following the event.

At the same time, little emphasis has been placed upon the personal contribution of each Russian in relation to the organised national effort and the directing genius of their leaders.

No army could have won such victories as the Red Army unless it were imbued throughout with a victory spirit. No people could have suffered such calamities without breaking if they had not kept faith in ultimate recovery and belief in eventual triumph.

Writings now coming from Russia give some indication of the deep impassioned feelings that have given the Russians such a store of strength in their time of adversity; that has given them the courage to suffer incredible reverses without despair, and strengthened their will to win, even in the grimmest moments of retreat.

In a book recently written by a soldier writer of the Red Army there are many passages significant of this. The writer speaks of the brutal devastation inflicted upon his homeland by the Germans, and he tells how his blood ran cold at the thought that these "inhuman beasts" might stay and batten on his own native soil if they were not driven out.

The Red Army and the Russian people have performed a military miracle that cannot be explained by force or arms alone. They have been inspired by something greater than belief in their weapons, their fighting ability, and their brilliant leadership. We would do well to remember, when we read of their continued victories, that their "will to win" is the way to win.

CRICKET

POST-WAR SEASON

Future Test Matches

British cricketers are not enthusiastic over the suggestion by H. L. Collins, former Australian Test captain, that an Empire team tour Australia in the first post-war season. Typical of the comments are:—

A noted ex-cricketer, whose name is a household word in Australia, and who now is an administrator, said: "I don't see why the great test sequence should be interrupted for what might be a second rate Empire side.

"It will take both the British and Australian sides some time to recover from the war. Cricket must be allowed to settle down for at least a year after the war before a really worthy side can be sent to Australia."

Jack Hobbs comments: "The idea is premature. Nearly all the top-notchers are either fighting or doing some form of war service."

The "Evening Standard's cricket correspondent says: "I believe that Britain after the war will be able to pick a side strong enough to give Australia a run for its money. I suggest an immediate resumption of tests after the war, with an English team visiting Australia."

Meanwhile R.A.A.F. cricketers in Britain are unofficially planning, like the A.I.F. team after the last war, to tour England, South Africa, and Australia immediately after this war. This scheme, of course, would be cancelled if the R.A.A.F. men were transferred to the Pacific when the European war ends. These R.A.A.F. men say that this team might be expanded into an Empire servicemen's touring side.

OVER STANLEY RANGE

Native Boys' Loyalty

When a South Australian battalion was split up near Efogi during the initial push over the Owen Stanley Range the worth of the native boys was apparent from the manner in which they assisted small lost parties to safety.

Lieut. Robert Paine, of Adelaide, tells how a party of 110 officers and men beat starvation and the jungle with the help of about 30 natives.

They came upon the native carriers when the supply line had been cut at Naoro. Immediately the natives took over the carrying of the dozen or so sick and wounded stretcher cases, and they undoubtedly saved the lives of those men.

While the troops received from the only rations remaining one tin of bully beef among seven men, the natives got one tin among five.

It was the only means the Australians had of showing their gratitude, and at the same time maintaining the stamina of the bearers.

After three days this meagre ration was all consumed, and for another two days they struggled on without a bite, entirely in the hands of the natives, who led them and encouraged them over the steep mountains.

On the fifth day they found a native garden, and the natives secured what was, for them, a fairly hearty meal.

The trek lasted 15 days, and in all that time the food the men had would not have added up to more than one moderate one-course meal.

RED CROSS PARCELS SUSTAIN PRISONERS

EXTRACT FROM "COURIER":—"The Red Cross parcels we received kept up in perfect health during our internment in Germany," said Mrs. I. C. Wilshire (Sydney), who is touring Queensland giving lectures on her experiences for the Red Cross. Mrs. Wilshire was a German prisoner at Liebenau internment camp, South Germany, for 18 months.

Food issued by the Germans did not include fats, but it was supplemented by Red Cross parcels, which were distributed regularly, she said.

Mrs. Wilshire left London at the end of 1940 for Australia, but the ship was sunk in the Western Atlantic. The crew and seven women passengers were picked up and taken to Bordeaux, and then to Germany. Early this year the women were exchanged for German women taken prisoner in Palestine. They now are working for the Red Cross as a tribute to the work done for prisoners or war.

CURRENT TOPICS

AT THE RACECOURSE.

Mrs. E. W. Phillips, President of the Red Cross, assisted by ladies from the Red Shield, 2nd Calliope patriotic bodies, will be in charge of the afternoon tea at the Gladstone Racecourse to-day (Saturday). All arrangements have been made, and patrons can rely on good service during the afternoon. Mrs. C. W. Macfarlan, President of the Gladstone Comforts Fund, and ladies of her committee, are looking after the sale of soft drinks, etc., so that visitors to the meeting will be well catered for.

GLADSTONE TURF CLUB

RACES AND DANCE.

A large attendance, including country residents from all parts of the district and centres as far as Biloela and Thangool, is promised for the patriotic race meeting this afternoon.

The committee, in view of the record nominations, have made complete arrangements for the comfort of patrons.

These include booth, afternoon tea and refreshments, the provision of a broadcast system for relaying of the Epsom and other southern races, the operation of the tote, and the attendance of several registered bookmakers.

At night Mrs. Phillips will have charge of the race dance to be held in the Trocadero, when a bumper house is expected.

An orchestra has been engaged, and Mr. Bert Norris will act as master of ceremonies. Soft drinks, refreshments and ice creams will be sold.

Proceeds go to the Prisoner of War Fund, and this worthy object should gain wide support.

FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN

Gladstone Committee Meeting

A meeting of the Gladstone War Loans Committee was held in the Town Hall chambers on Tuesday night. Present: Messrs. G. G. Dennis (chairman), V. Summers, H. Peters, M. Clarris, A. E. Ambrose, H. Hall, G. McCabe, A. Bentley, and J. Burrows.

CANVASS OF TOWN.

The Secretary submitted a map of the town, which had been divided into nine zones for the purpose of carrying out a house to house canvass, and canvassers were appointed for each zone.

PUBLIC ADDRESSES.

The Secretary was instructed to arrange with speakers to address theatre and other audiences wherever possible.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL

Mr. R. W. Hunt, of Boles Street, who recently underwent an operation at the General Hospital, has sufficiently recovered to leave the institution, and his many friends will be pleased to learn that he is making excellent progress.

Mr and Mrs. W. H. Shapland, of Calliope, has received a letter card from their son, Lance Corporal C. W. Shapland, to say he is a prisoner of war in Japanese hands at "Moulmein," Burma. He is in hospital, and his health is poor. One of his friends is C. Bland, of Calliope.

Mr. J. W. Rigby and his daughter, Miss Nancy Rigby, have been spending their annual vacation at Montville. Another daughter, Mrs. C. Ryalls, has also left to spend a holiday at the mountain resort.

Mr. T. L. Williams, M.L.A., made his postponed visit to Gladstone this week-end, arriving by the Townsville mail yesterday morning. An invitation has been extended Mr. Williams to be present at the patriotic race meeting this afternoon (Saturday).

AUCTION SALE.

Gladstone Agencies have been instructed to offer for sale by public auction, a perpetual country lease, parish and town of Gladstone, containing 9 acres 1 rood 7 perches. The sale takes place at their rooms on Saturday, October 30, at 10 a.m. Particulars are advertised in to-day's "Observer."

AT THE RACES.

Secretary Vic Summers is losing no time in pushing the organisation of the War Loan Art Union in aid of the Prisoner of War Fund. His "Back the Attack" offensive has already penetrated well into the country centres, and he has stimulated energetic competition between the town and country agnts. To-day (Saturday) the popular Red Cross Secretary will be seen in an unusual role at the Gladstone races, where he will urge all sections to remember the boys in the P.O.W. camps overseas.

MR. H. C. MOORE.

The appeal by the committee of the War Loan Art Union for ten War Savings Certificates to complete the prizes by donation was met immediately by a well-known supporter of the Red Cross, in the person of Mr. Harry Moore, who contacted the secretary and gave the lot. This generous act was much appreciated. The Art Union, which is to promote interest in the Fourth Liberty Loan, with war bonds and certificates as prizes, and profits to the Prisoners of War Fund, has found favour in all sections, and this will help the Art Union Committee in its big job. At the moment the town is running a good first, but the country has not had sufficient time to get their sales results into the Secretary (Mr. V. A. Summers). Support the loan down to "your last zac," then have a ticket and "back the attack."

CALLIOPE SHIRE COUNCIL

OBJECTION LODGED OVER ROAD APPORTIONMENTS

TENDERS TO BE CALLED FOR NEW FERRY SERVICE

At the monthly meeting of the Calliope Shire Council there were present: The Chairman (Cr. W. Beak), and Councillors J. H. Cummings, W. Hansen, J. Schafer, H. Neill-Ballantine, J. M. Campbell, G. H. Potter, W. C. Dickinson, J. F. Drynan, and E. H. C. Steel. The Shire Clerk (Mr. H. H. Whittle) and the Health Inspector (Mr. P. F. Browne) were also present.

PATROL GRADER.

The Co-ordinator General (Mr. J. R. Kemp) advised that the release of the Division 1 patrol grader would be reviewed as soon as the re-allocation of machines for constructional work permitted. It was decided to again press the urgency for the release of the machine.

MAINTENANCE WORK.

The District Engineer advised, in reply to the Shire Clerk's letter, that he hoped to be able to make available one of the Commission's patrol graders in about two week's time to carry out maintenance work on the Maryborough-Gladstone, Calliope-Mt. Larcom, and Hut Creek-Raglan sections of the Northern Highway.

It was resolved to thank the District Engineer and to inform him the Council had no driver available for the Commission's grader.

MAINTENANCE ALLOCATIONS.

The District Engineer advised that the maintenance allocations for the year ended June 30 last were expected at an early date, which he considered would be not lower than the amount expended during the previous year.—Received.

VISIBILITY DISCS.

The District Engineer advised that the Commissioner, after his recent visit to the shire, had requested that the damaged or missing visibility discs be repaired or replaced.

The matter was left in the hands of the Chairman for attention.

The District Engineer is to be asked to forward as soon as possible the discs required for erection on the Gentle Annie section of the Hut Creek-Raglan Highway.

PERCENTAGE OF REPAYMENTS.

The Secretary, Main Roads Commission, forwarded proposed apportionment of maintenance for the year ended June 30. The total expended was £2863/11/5, of which it was proposed to apportion £825/18/- to be repaid by the shire, representing 28.81 per cent of the total expended.

The percentage of the proposed repayments by the shire were:—

	£	s	d
Mt. Larcom-Bracewell, 50 per cent	93	11	8
Yarwun-Targinne, 50 per cent	93	1	3

Calliope-Glassford Creek, 50 per cent	40	4	0
Total	£825	18	0

OBJECTION LODGED.

On the motion of the Chairman and Councillor Schafer, it was decided to lodge an objection to the proposed apportionments, and to ask that they be reduced as hereunder:—

Hut Creek-Raglan section, Calliope-Mt. Larcom, and Maryborough-Gladstone section, 10 per cent; Pt. Curtis-Callide, including all Gladstone-Calliope Main Road, 20 per cent.

The section of the Mt. Larcom-Bracewell main road, from the Mt. Larcom township to the Machine Creek Hall, and the Ambrose-Bracewell main road, from Ambrose to the Machine Creek Hall, be reduced to 20 per cent. The reduction asked for on highways would reduced the apportionment to the same percentage as it is understood charged the Fitzroy Shire on the Toonda-Bajool section of the Northern Highway.

FERRY SERVICE.

Mr. H. B. Randall stated he was agreeable to carry out the amended timetable for an additional weekly payment of £1/12/9, representing £85/3/- per annum.

Mr. Randall, in reply to the Shire Clerk's letter, stated he had not charged any person who desired to return on the Friday; that the ferry service timetable does not provide for the return service, a fare higher than that provided in the contract.

It was decided that Mr. Randall be informed that the offer submitted was too high, and that tenders would be called for a service to include a fresh timetable.

The preparation of the fresh timetable, the calling of tenders for a fresh service, and the termination of the existing contract with Mr. Randall, was left in the hands of the Chairman, Cr. Cummings, and the Shire Clerk, with power to act in the best interest of the Council and those served by the present service.

FOR TRAVELLING STOCK.

The Secretary, Land Administration Board, advised it was the intention of the department to make available under perpetual lease tenure, portion 42, parish of Boyne, but before doing so it had been agreed to ask whether it proposed to proceed with its intention to widen the road by five chains abutting on the Northern Highway through the portion, so as to afford improved access for travelling stock.

On the motion of Crs. Ballantine and Campbell it was decided to advise that the Council still desired the road widened as previously suggested, and in view of the alignment in question appearing to be designed instead of surveyed the department be asked to widen the road by design without cost to the Council.

SHEEP STATION CREEK BRIDGE.

The District Engineer advised that the timber in the Sheep Station Creek bridge, after being demolished, could be purchased by the Council at an estimated cost, and that Mr. Pitter would advise when the timber was available.

On the motion of Crs. Schafer and Hansen the action of the Chairman and Clerk in advising Mr. Pitter that the Council would purchase the material when available was endorsed.

DECK PLANKS.

From the District Engineer, advising, in reply to the Shire Clerk's letter, that application should be made to Mr. Pitter for the 120 discarded deck planks from the toll bridge at the Boyne River, Benaraby.

Mr. Pitter advised, under date of 29th September, 1943, that the Council could have the planks without payment.—Received.

AERODROME SITE.

Mr. F. M. Forde, Minister for the Army, forwarded a letter from Mr. A. S. Drakeford, Minister for Air, stating that in view of extensive commitments in operational areas, it was not possible at present to undertake the construction of further landing grounds outside such areas unless it could be shown that such were of an urgent operational requiremtnt.

The Shire Clerk's letter to Mr. Forde was read, asking that an inspection be made of the proposed site, and the Council advised if considered suitable.

The action of the Shire Clerk was endorsed.

A COMPLAINT.

The Secretary, Dairymen's Organisation, Ubobo, complained of sawdust being deposited in the watershed of Deception Creek at Builyan, which was carried by storm waters into the creek and polluted the waterholes.

It was decided that unless the party responsible remedied the cause of the complaint the matter be referred to th Department of Irrigation and Water Supply.

SCHEDULE OF PRICES.

The schedule of prices for the removal and disposal of nightsoil and garbage as entered into between the Council and Mr. V. A. Davis, is as follows:—

Nagoorin and Ubobo: Nightsoil, increase from 10d to 1/2, and garbage from 1d to 2d.

Littlemore, Builyan and Many Peaks: Nightsoil only, increase from 11d to 1/3.

APPLICATION APPROVED.

Mrs. A. E. Callanan, Grand Hotel, Many Peaks, asked that the Council approve of her application to the State Electricity Commission for a renewal of the license to supply electric energy from the Grand Hotel to the entertainment hall, Many Peaks.—The application was approved.

LEFT TO CR. CUMMINGS.

Mr. R. R. Nothling, secretary Hut Creek School Committee, asked that the road near the school be brushed so as to permit of better visibility for traffic. The request was left in the hands of Cr. Cummings for attention.

APPROACHES TO CALLIOPE POST OFFICE.

The Secretary Dairymen's Organisation, Calliope, asked that the approaches to the Post Office, Calliope, be repaired.—It was decided to refer the request to Mr. Pitter for attention as part of the maintenance work.

REPAIRS EFFECTED.

The Secretary Dairymen's Organisation, Calliope, asked that repairs be effected to the road from the Taragoola Railway Station to the Taragoola Post Office.

Cr. Potter stated repairs had already been effected.

CHARTER'S CROSSING.

Cr Potter moved that Mr. R. E. Brown give further attention to the repairs recently effected to Charter's Crossing.—Seconded by Cr. Ballantine and carried.

FOURTEEN DAYS' NOTICE.

On the motion of Cr. Steel it was decided that Messrs. Bond and Trihy and Mr. Walter Ferris be given fourteen days' notice to complete the licensed gate and grid up to standard specification on the Calliope-Many Many Peaks Road, on the boundary separating portion 60 from portion 18v, parish Wietalaba. Failing that the existing licensed gate, fence and grid be removed by them without cost to the Council within three days after the expiration of the foregoing fourteen days' notice; that Mr. Walter Ferris be given fourteen days' notice to effect suitable repairs to the approaches on either side of the grid separating his property from that owned by Mr. W. A. F. McDonald; that Mr. McDonald be given fourteen days' notice to effect suitable repairs to the approaches on either side of the grid near Morris' cultivation; that the Manager of Milton Station be given fourteen days' notice to effect suitable repairs to the approaches of the grid on the Milton Station side of the boundary between the Milton Station property and Camping Reserve R-45, parish Wietalaba.

ACCOUNTS.

Accounts amounting to £966/6/4 were passed for payment.

CAR MILEAGE APPROVED.

The Chairman's claim for £16/8/- car mileage under by-law No. 28, was approved.

GENERAL.

The employment of Mr. J. G. Lawson by Cr. Steel to effect road repairs was endorsed.

Cr. Campbell reported that satisfactory arrangements had been made with representatives of the graziers to enclose the small area of land in portion 55, parish of Booroom, owned by Miss A. B. Davies, for a camping ground for travelling stock.

It was decided to purchase an iron gate for the sanitary depot, Builyan, and Mr. Davies to be asked to furnish the width between the gate posts.

It was decided to write to the Forester, Kalpowar, asking if the department's tractor, grader and operator could be made available for about a month to effect road repairs in the vicinity of Ubobo.

The Shire Clerk stated that Mr. P. A. Friend had made a verbal complaint of the dangerous turn in the approach to the Calliope River crossing bridge.

It was resolved that the complaint be referred to the District Engineer.

The members for Division 2 agreed to its patrol grader operating for a month on shire roads in Division 1, and the Chairman to arrange for the work to be carried out.

It was decided to apply to the National Service Officer for two suitable men for maintenance work on main and shire roads.

On the motion of Crs. Campbell and Schafer, Cr. Potter was authorised to examine and certify in terms of section 42, subsection 20, of the "Local Government Acts 1936-1943," all stock impounded at Calliope before being sold.

In reply to the Shire Clerk, stating the difficulty experienced in procuring spare parts for the Council's road plant, Cr. Hansen moved that he communicate with Mr. F. M. Forde, asking him to be good enough to make representations to the Federal Minister controlling the importation of spare parts from overseas, with the object of procuring an increased supply of parts.

The motion was carried.

GLADSTONE LOAN FIGURES.

Gladstone subscriptions to the 4th Liberty War Loan amount to £14,520, representing 78 applications. The amount includes Swifts allocation of £5000 and the State Government Insurance £2500. Gladstone's quota is £32,000.

GRAZING PROPERTY SALES.

Mr. Lance R. Weiske, agent, Gladstone, advises having received quite a good demand for grazing properties, and recently he sold two well-known properties in the Gladstone district. In conjunction with Messrs. Winchcombe Carson Ltd., "Stowe," previously owned by the estate of the late F. F. Menzies, has been sold to Mr. Harold Burnham, of Wooroolin (Kingaroy district). "Stowe" is a well improved freehold property, beautifully watered, and was sold on a stocked basis. "Woodstock" has also been sold to Mr. H. R. Boys. This property is also well known, and is situated only a few miles from Gladstone.

AMATEUR RIDERS.

Sir,—I wish to clear up the anomaly which appears to exist in connection with conditions obtaining as to amateur riders at our race meeting to be held to-day (Saturday).

Only approved amateur riders can ride in the Militia Maiden Hack Handicap and the Spitfire Hack Handicap.

Approved amateurs may ride in any of the other events, subject to R.J.C. rules. Your, etc.,

A. W. F. G. CROW,

SUCTION GAS PLANT.

Sir,—You will agree with me that the Gladstone public has suffered many hardships and knockbacks during the many years those who have settled and made home here have been struggling for the realisation of the Boyne River water scheme.

To the people throughout the district the project, when completed, represents itself in security, industry, health, and last but not least, the comfort they have been forced to do without, resulting from a Mr. Nobody's shortsightedness many years ago.

Others see the presentation of the scheme as a project of national importance, which will be of the greatest assistance in promoting Central Queensland to a par with the flourishing efficiency of other parts of Australia, and also of vital bearing on Australia's post war economy.

With this in mind, I feel it my privilege to query the wisdom of the Gladstone Town Council, as reported in your journal in two recent issues.

September 15 reports the rescinding of a minute referring to electric pumping from the Gladstone Power House. Now, it is obvious to anyone that such a minute would only be placed on the book after some engineer's report had given reason for its adoption. The fact that the decision to rescind the portion of the minute was not by any means a unanimous one also gives one the impression that more could have been reported on the matter.

In a later issue of your paper, September 29, the Council is reported to have received a report submitted by Mr. J. S. Just, consulting engineer, Brisbane, which showed to the satisfaction of the Council, that a suction gas plant was the cheapest form of pumping water. I have noted, however, that you do not report Mr. Just as stating that suction gas was the most economical. On this you have reported that the Council then carried a motion favouring pumping by suction gas.

I do not question the fact that suction gas may be cheaper, as the report shows this very clearly. I do question it being the most economical over a period. Wood is quoted at 15/- per ton, but wood at times has a happy knack of not remaining at the desired price, or even being easy to get.

We are also moving into a period where suction gas plants for these purposes appear to me to be becoming somewhat antiquated. Towards a post-war period in which efficiency will demand electric power in as many places as it can be used. Why ask the people who have and will continue to fight for this most necessary water, to have erected a pumping plant which will become an antique a year or two after being installed? I for one, Mr. Editor, would certainly like to see reported more fully the reasons of the Council in making the decision to substitute a suction gas plant for what was at first quite obviously intended to be an electrical pumping plant for the water.—Yours, etc.,

MERV THOMPSON.

Little Bramston Street, Gladstone.

PORT OF GLADSTONE.

Sir,—Your paper, under heading Wednesday, October 13, Port of Gladstone. . . . Large Representative Public Meeting. . . . "Wake Up, Gladstone! says the Mayor." As a seafarer I would say the same. What about your lines of communication? Have you taken any steps to augment your lines since National Security has prevented wireless messages being sent from ship to shore? I will answer that for you in capital letters—NO!

Just think what the view of a foreign going master is, arriving off your port, and no means of communicating with you.

It is true you have some sort of a laughable radio-telephone, whereby some person on each end calls the other up, and in their own prearranged code try to tell each other what is doing in the departments which you are all moaning about.

You may be annoyed at this being called laughable, but if you will only stop and think. Except for your ordinary peace time routine calls, "nobody can talk to anybody" in between, and if a ship arrives at any of these in-between times (22 hrs. out of 24) a mere trifle of 22 hours in every day, he thinks Gladstone the most godforsaken place he has ever seen from the fairway.

As an advocate for the port of Gladstone as against Rockhampton, I think you should look to your lines of communication between ship and shore.

Undoubtedly, vessels bound in to your port will eventually come in, but the trouble and delay occasioned by your faulty communications stick to you like mud thrown at a brick wall.

Yours, etc.,

G.R.B.

(Steps have at last been taken by the powers that be, and certain lines of communication should be in operation in the very near future.—Ed "Observer.")

New Instalment Plan for Liberty Loan Investors Makes it Possible for ALL to—

BACK THE ATTACK

It's best, of course, to pay cash for your Bonds, for thus money is made available at once for Australia's needs—but if you believe you can increase your savings in the future, buy as many Bonds as your present funds allow and as many more by instalments as your expected savings make possible.

This is the plan for those whose present savings are small but who intend to "back the attack" by a real saving effort in the next few months. Pay 10% deposit now and the balance of your subscription on 1st February, 1944.

Perhaps it would suit you best to make more regular instalments. Plan (3) allows you to pay 10% deposit and three separate monthly instalments of 30% each on 1st December, 1st January and 1st February.

Plan (4) provides for your bond purchase by five equal payments. The deposit is 20% and the instalments four of 20% of your subscription on 1st December, January, February and March.

Here's a commonsense plan which enables you to buy your Liberty Bonds by instalments and to increase your lending power much beyond the scope of your present savings. Remember, when you buy Liberty Bonds, you do not give your money, you lend it at good interest, and its repayment is guaranteed by the Commonwealth of Australia.

Study the purchasing plans on the left and choose the one which suits you best.

THIS IS THE NEW 5/- NATIONAL SAVINGS STAMP

Just buy one every time you find a spare 5/-. It's wonderful how quickly savings mount up, and how easy it really is to accumulate deposit or instalments for your Liberty Bond investment.

SPECIAL CONVENIENT FACILITIES AT YOUR PICTURE SHOW . . .

Buy 5/- National Savings Stamps at the booth in the foyer. Get a Savings Booklet free! Each page has room for 8 stamps—£2 worth. The filled page or pages can then be used for:—
(1) Payment in full on a bond.
(2) Payment of a deposit.
(3) Payment of an instalment.

Wear this badge proudly. It points you out as a subscriber to the 4th Liberty Loan—one who is backing the attack.

4TH LIBERTY LOAN

Make your Subscription at any Bank, Savings Bank, Money Order Post Office, or Stockbroker. Good interest is paid half-yearly. If you invest your money for 5 years the rate is 2½%, or for 16 years 3½%. Interest starts from the day of subscription. Pay cash or buy bonds on convenient instalments.

AT CALLIOPE

Ambulance Dance

The usual monthly Ambulance dance was held at Calliope last Saturday night, and, as usual, a large crowd assembled. Dancing was kept going in full swing, being in charge of Hon. Bearer G. Curran, and the music was supplied by Miss M. Archay and Mr. F. Moran, while extras were played by Miss Brown and Mr. Ken Rooney. The Monte Carlo was won by Miss B. Brown and Mr. S. O. Henney, and the spot one-step by Mrs. V. Gunston and Mr. Hauston.

The parcel of groceries (raffled) was won by Mr. J. McMahon (Calliope) with ticket No. 2586D, and the 1d raffle by Des Day (Calliope), with ticket No. 1010.

Ticket selling was in the hands of Mr. Frank Farmer, assisted by Messrs. Sam Dickinson and Stan and Ritchie Brown.

Euchre was again in the capable hands of Mr. S. Dickinson, and the lady's prize was won by Mrs. Sam Dickinson, and the gent's by Mr. Dave Small.

The next Ambulance dance will be held at Calliope on Saturday night, November 13. Come along and assist the Brigade.

PRESBYTERIAN STREET STALL.

The ladies of the Presbyterian Guild will conduct a street stall next Thursday, October 21, in the Valley, next to the Niagara Cafe. Donations of jams, cakes, produce, sweets, etc., will be appreciated, and all goods can be left at the Manse.

P.O.W. FUND.

Red Cross and P.O.W. supporters are reminded that the funds will benefit from the race meeting to be held to-day (Saturday) by the Gladstone Turf Club, and all are asked to assist the committee by patronising the fixture.

VICTORY GARDEN

Use of Compost

Essential to the successful Victory Garden is a compost heap. All garden or kitchen waste that normally goes up in smoke or into the garbage tin can be converted into compost. This compost is nature's best fertiliser.

It lightens poor, heavy soils and makes sandy soils fertile and water-retentive.

All green kitchen and garden refuse, lawn trimmings, fallen leaves, and weeds, can go to make it. Dig a small pit, line the bottom with straw or roughage to absorb moisture, and then throw in the refuse.

This should be moistened regularly. A regular sprinkling of lime and commercial fertiliser, if either is obtainable, hasten decay and enrich the compost.

Compost will decay in two months in the summer and four months in winter.

When used for vegetable plots it should be well dug in. When used for seedlings or boxes it should be sieved.

FOOD PROBLEM

One of Australia's increasing problems of the war is how she is going to feed all the servicemen and women, both Australian and Allied, and all the civilians now in her care.

And when you consider a little table of figures drawn up recently by the "New York Sunday Times" it's not surprising that the food problem has given Australian politicians, farmers and consumers more than a few headaches.

The New York paper reckons that an average soldier eats about 5½ lbs. of food daily. This means that an army of 5,000,000 men will eat the terrifying amount of 27,500,000 lbs. of food every 24 hours. And soldiers don't have it all their own way. Civilians can get through a fair amount too.

It takes 155 acres to feed the workers who build one bomber, and 43 acres to feed the men who build one medium tank. And as for the workers who construct a 35,000 ton battleship, they need the produce of 42,000 acres.

COUNTRY LOAN COMMITTEES

Work Appreciated

Gratitude for the ready manner in which employers and shop stewards are co-operating with his organisation in the drive for Fourth Liberty Loan subscriptions in industrial organisations was expressed recently by the Commonwealth Loans Director (Mr. C. R. Banfield).

Employers had been asked by the Prime Minister (Mr. Curtin) to form internal loan committees representing managements and employees, said Mr. Banfield. Many hundreds of these are functioning. They facilitated the work of visiting Service units and War Loans representatives, and in every way gave practical support to the Government's drive to obtain 750,000 loan subscribers—an all-time record.

Mr. Banfield also expressed appreciation of the enthusiasm with which country loan committees had got early into the job of raising their local loan quotas.

FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN

Back Fighting Men

The Prime Minister (Mr. Curtin) paid a worthy tribute to our fighting forces at the official opening of the Fourth Liberty Loan in the Sydney Town Hall this week.

"In a war of this character," he stated, "the balance of sacrifice must rest with the men in our fighting forces. Those of us who serve at home are assured of everything we need."

In the light of that statement it must surely be clearer than ever to us who have sacrificed nothing to protect the safety of this country that it is our most solemn moral obligation to back our fighting men, who have made such supreme sacrifices for our sake.

"I say to you inflexibly and determinedly," stated Mr. Curtin, "that the amount we seek must be subscribed, because a lack of money cannot be allowed to cause casualties on the fighting front. So the men at home, to whom the nation gives money, must give it back. This is all we ask for the preservation of liberty."

That is all that is asked of us . . . that we place our money at a high rate of interest in the best possible investment . . . the future of our country.

Our debt to our fighting men could not be paid more easily. For what have we to sacrifice if we do lend our money? We aren't asked to jeopardise our lives. We aren't asked to lose our limbs, to lose our sight, to suffer from the ravages of malaria. We are asked merely to go without some of those pleasures which make life more pleasant. Actually we are being paid to go without those pleasures, for every penny we lend carries a high rate of interest, while our money itself is being held for us till we have real need of it when peace comes once more.

NEW ZEALAND'S CONTRIBUTION

A Wonderful Effort

At the outbreak of the war New Zealand, one of the smallest of the Allied Nations, had a population of 1,632,000—only a little more than the population of Sydney. One man out of two—approximately a quarter of the adult population—has seen full time military service. But in spite of this production of equipment and food has been on the increase ever since the first day of war.

When the war began there were practically no heavy industries in New Zealand. To-day the Dominion is manufacturing Bren gun carriers, mortars and mortar bombs, shells, grenades, aeroplane and tank parts, and thousands of other items of war equipment. The steel necessary for these manufactures was sent from Australia, for the high-grade Newcastle steel is still the cheapest in the world.

Employers and employees tackled the problems of new production necessities and methods in a fine spirit of co-operation, and in a recent booklet, "New Zealand at War," issued by the New Zealand Government Publicity Directory, a tribute is paid to the enterprise and initiative of these men. The value of factory production in New Zealand has increased by 35 per cent since the outbreak of war. Most of the output is for military purposes. In 1942, for instance, 84 per cent of engineering products, 84 per cent of the sawmilling; 81 per cent of biscuits, and 71 per cent of clothing, were all for the armed forces.

New Zealand has also been fighting on the home front to keep up supplies to Great Britain. Before the war New Zealand was the United Kingdom's chief supplier of butter, cheese, mutton and lamb, and on the outbreak of war Britain's need was even more pressing.

In spite of the large number of men and women in the services and essential industries, New Zealand's agricultural and pastoral production has been maintained above pre-war figures in almost all commodities. More than 2,000,000 tons of food have been shipped to Great Britain since the war, as well as 3,250,000 bales of wool.

New Zealand was also asked by the British Government to cultivate linen flax fibre. This was a crop new to New Zealand, but 17 processing factories are now in operation. For home consumption the farmers were also asked to grow more wheat, and last year they increased the yield by 55 per cent to 8,500,000 bushels.

APPEAL FOR BOOKS AND CARDS

Help the Boys

The Australian Comforts Fund is urgently appealing for books, magazines, playing cards, or any other indoor games or sporting material for the men of the fighting forces.

The men in the front line or outposts are entitled to these amenities of life, and the Fund asks residents to do their best to supply these articles.

Mr. A. W. Young, Gladstone Cash and Carry, has kindly consented to take possession of these donations, so please forward all you can without delay, and thus help the Fund to help the boys.

EMPLOYMENT AFTER WAR

Improved Living Standards

Full employment after the war is one of the aims for which we are fighting. Full employment, like any other convenient label for a basic policy, can mean several things. It is the task of Australia's leaders and planners to see that it means more than a job for the individual, to see that it is not merely an unreal attempt to build Utopia in Australia without regard to the rest of the world.

Our approach to the problem of full employment must be that we have to provide an environment into which the individual can fit, in which his job is useful to the community as well as satisfying to himself. This realisation that the individual and his environment are the two halves of the reconstruction problem aroused the need for planning the full use of our material and financial resources as well as our rsources in man power.

The war has taught us how we can direct our monetary policy and the use of our resources towards achieving victory. These war-time lessons can be used to win the peace if we are determined to make the same sacrifices for reconstruction as we are to free ourselves from Axis domination.

Plans for training and re-training our servicemen and war workers for peace-time production are well advanced.

The short-term reconstruction problem of swinging our national economy from war to peace is being faced and the first step, a listing of the things Australia will need as soon as victory is won, is being compiled by the investigatory commissions in the rural, housing and public works fields.

Shortly there will be set up a body to investigate the problems of secondary industry. These are among the essential short-term reconstruction tasks that we have to face now.

The long-term tasks of providing improved living standards in a stable and secure economy would depend to a large extent on how well we carry out this immediate transition from war to peace. They will depend also on the men who frame the conditions of world peace in London, Washington, Moscow and Chungking.

Seen against this international background it is apparent that our domestic goal of full employment is a policy that must be followed by every nation. It cannot succeed in one country if the rest of the world is reverting to the restrictive trends we experienced before the war.

Full employment at home and abroad means planning just as winning the war has meant planning, but democratic planning need not mean regimentation. Indeed, it is the only way to a greater individual freedom through improved facilities for living.

It can mean the realisation of things people want—better communications, education, health, and social services—but cannot achieve as individuals.

It has been said that the plain people of this world know what they want after the war—they want to be wanted; they want a choice of work and to be useful. This is what our policy of full employment can achieve if we are as determined to win the peace as we are to win the war. Both goals entail sacrifices, but both are worth the cost of attaining them.

POST-WAR TRADE

Basic Factor in Farming

Farmers as a whole are now too closely engaged with day to day wartime demands to give full consideration to post-war problems, and if they had the time it is doubtful whether they could accurately forecast the trend of trade. Nevertheless, they possess one means of fortifying themselves against the future by improving the quality of their live stock.

Live stock improvement can be begun without seriously dislocating the ordinary routine of farm operations.

Better sires can be introduced into flocks and herds in substitution of the nondescript rams and "scrub" bulls that are all too commonly used.

While Australia can boast some of the world's highest yielding dairy cows, and the heaviest cutting sheep, there is nevertheless a wide disparity between the higher and the lower levels of production.

Average yields can be substantially increased, but the basis of improvement must be the wider infusion of good blood into the lower grade live stock.

Accompanied, as circumstances permit, by adequate and appropriate feeding, marked results will quickly follow. Breeding, however, is the foundation of economic production.

Remarkable progress has been made in the development of Australia's wool industry.

Natural advantages, such as climate and the excellence of much of our native grass and herbage have played an important part in building up the framework of the merino, but these factors have been exploited by the stud-breeders in moulding the form of the animal and increasing the density and the quality of the fleece.

Throughout Australia, in all departments of live stock—merino and British breeds of sheep, dairy and beef cattle, pigs and poultry—stud farms have been established, and they are the reservoir from which blood lines can be drawn to grade up Australia's animal industries.

Breeding should not be a haphazard process, but should be based on careful study and the adoption of a systematic basis of improvement.

For a few years, no doubt, all our surplus foodstuffs will find eager demand in the famished countries of Europe and Asia. But after rehabilitation has been achieved, and with contracting markets, quality, as in pre-war days, will become a vital factor.

Shortly before the war, when Australia was expanding her fat lamb exports, the Australian Meat Board issued the definite warning that the British market was rapidly reaching saturation point, and that quality carcases were more than ever necessary. Suppliers who cater for specific demands of taste and fashion fare better than those who followe their own devices.

EXPANDED PRODUCTION.

During the war period Britain has so expanded production that she now provides more than 60 per cent., as against 40 per cent., of her own requirements.

Much of that increase has been based on the improvement of farm technique—the improvement of large areas of country for permanent pasture, and the mechanisation of arable farming.

British farmers naturally want preference on their home market.

If new markets are to open up in Europe, those countries that establish a reputation for quality products will stand a much better chance, after the immediate post-war needs have been met, of retaining a foothold, than those which do not. It is well, therefore, to make the fundamental readjustments in the light of those factors.

A little knowledge is a dangerous thing, particularly when it deals with ships. Gossipers who know only a little still may talk enough to furnish the enemy with the vital link in his chain of information.

CURRENT TOPICS

GLADSTONE FIGURES.

At the close of banking business yesterday subscriptions in the 4th Liberty War Loan amounted to £16,800, representing 149 applicants. Gladstone's quota is £32,000, with 431 subscribers.

MEAT RATION.

The new Australian meat ration, which begins early in January, will be 2¼ lbs. of butcher's meat per week for every person aged nine and over on June 13 last, and half that amount for children then aged less than nine.

VISIT OF MR. F. M. FORDE.

The Minister for the Army (Mr. F. M. Forde) will arrive in in Gladstone on Friday next, October 29, and will depart the following day for Brisbane. On Friday evening the Deputy Prime Minister will address the audience at local picture theatres in support of the 4th Liberty Loan.

TOWNSVILLE LABOUR.

At a conference of Australian Labour Party branches in Townsville and district, the question of the Hermit Park breakaway was discussed, and a resolution carried unanimously inviting those who had been members of the deregistered branch to apply for membership in the registerd branch at Hermit Park.

PATRIOTIC RACE MEETING.

The gross receipts of the patriotic race meeting amounted to £262/4/7, and the nett profit was £207/16/9 (not £226 as stated in the report of the function). Of the £207 the sum of £203 has been distributed in cheques of £29 each to seven Gladstone and Calliope patriotic organisations. The small balance of £4/16/9 was applied to the costs of tickets, tote, etc., supplied by the club. The club has applied for Saturday, November 27, as the next date for the proposed patriotic meeting.

NEW PARTY.

The Lord Mayor of Brisbane (Ald. Chandler) stated it was unlikely that any assurance would be given to any present parliamentarian of selection as a People's Party candidate for next election as a condition of his joining the new organisation. The Secretary (Mr. Mitchell) said that offers to join the party and organise branches had come from as far north as Townsville.

BUTTER MANUFACTURED

1/7 PER LB. CHOICE

Total Pay £68,831/11/6

Particulars of butter manufactured by the Port Curtis Dairy Association and payments made to suppliers for the month of September are as follows:—

MANUFACTURE.

Choice quality 270,960 lbs., first 524,139 lbs., second 85,862 lbs, pastry 50 lbs., total 881,011 lbs.

PAYMENTS TO SUPPLIERS.

Choice quality 258,799 lbs, first grade 534,222 lbs., second 77,060 lbs., pastry 45 lbs., total 890,136 lbs.

The rate of pay was 1/7 per lb. for choice, 1/6½ first, and 1/5½ second grade qualities, the total pay being £68,831/11/6. This rate of payment included Government subsidy payment of 3½d per lb.

A total of 45,618 lbs. cheese was manufactured at Bracewell and Theodore cheese factories, and payment to suppliers was at the rate of 1/11½ per lb. butter fat, including Government subsidy of 2½d per lb., the total distribution being £2878/13/3.

Payment to Mackay and Rockhampton suppliers on account of pasteurised milk amounted to £3523/3/10.

In addition to the above payments a distribution of one half penny per pound on commercial butter and butterfat supplied during the period 1st January to 30th June, 1943, was made. The Association was enabled to make this payment owing to increased receipts from the Commonwealth Equalisation Committee due to a stepping-up of the interim equalisation values for the period mentioned.

The total amount distributed to dairymen for the month was £94.181/16/4.

Savings stamps, war savings certificates, Commonwealth loans, are vital instruments in waging the war against the powers of darkness. You have a part to play.

PT. CURTIS DAIRY ASSN.

WORK FOR YEAR CHECKED

Auditor Summers' Report

At the annual meeting of shareholders of the Port Curtis Co-operative Dairy Association Ltd., the auditor (Mr. V. A. Summers) presented the following annual report:—

I desire to advise having completed the audit of the Association's books and accounts for the year ended June 30, 1943, and now take pleasure in presenting my report to the shareholders as follows:—

During the year a continuous audit has been conducted in terms of my appointment, and I have furnished quarterly reports to the directors.

As apart from matters of a minor nature, all referred to in my reports to the Board, all moneys received appear to have been properly accounted for, and all payments have been supported by vouchers or other satisfactory evidence of payment.

All known liabilities accrued and outstanding at the 30th June, 1943, have been provided for in the accounts.

BOOK DEBTS.

I carefully inspected all balances as at the 30th June, 1943, and found it necessary to direct attention to some matters for adjustment.

The bad debts reserve of £2251 appeared ample, while it is possible to maintain the present supervision.

Included in the debtors was an amount of £277/17/1, representing an over payment on account of cheese subsidy to suppliers. In my opinion, when cheese subsidy is over paid at balance date, provision should be made by debiting milk purchases and crediting the over payment in the debtors, otherwise the future is mortgaged for the benefit of the accounts just closed. A reversing entry may be necessary after balance date.

STOCKS ON HAND.

I have accepted the certificate of the general manager as to stocks on hand at June 30, 1943, after having performed the usual duties of audit. It would appear that the value placed on butter stocks properly safeguards the Association, but in respect of the £2872 cheese stocks on hand the position is not so sound, as due allowance has not been made to cover full selling costs. The amount in question, however, is not serious, and I mention it with a view to correction in the future. Other stocks were tested and values appeared in order.

EXPORTS.

Consignments not finalised at balance date have been treated as sold for the amounts actually received.

FACTORY PROPERTIES.

I have inspected the deeds and leases of the various properties, and they are correctly controlled.

DEPRECIATION.

The usual rates to cover depreciation through use were written off the various assets, and your present directors are watching the position in regard to obsolescence at every opportunity. Taxation, however, precludes the building up of reserves from current profits.

INTEREST.

Interest paid amounted to £2847, as compared with £5628 for the previous year, a decrease of £2781, and further reductions should follow.

DIRECTORS' FEES AND EXPENSES.

The vote of £1700 more than covered an expenditure of £1485.

PROVISION FOR TAXATION.

Taxation provision amounted to £4000. This is to cover taxes based on income derived during the years ended 30th June 1942 and 30th June 1943, two years.

LOANS ON MORTGAGE.

The Commercial Banking Co. of Sydney Ltd. loan (£65,000) remained steady, while the Bureau of Rural Development reduced £828 to £1757. At the present rate of reduction the loan from the Rural Development should be liquidated within two years.

LOANS ON CHEESE FACTORIES.

The £24.952 from the Cheese Production Expansion Sub-committee covered Bracewell £12.497 and Theodore £12.465. Interest £786 accrued at the 30th June, 1943, is additional, and was included with the ordinary trade creditors.

FORFEITED SHARES ACCOUNT.

Voluntary surrenders resulted in a gain to Forfeited Shares Ac. of £237 on 172 shares.

CAPITAL.

New capital issued over and above surrenders re-issued totalled 985 shares, with receipts of share capital £1166, but dry shares numbering 6193 were purchased by the Association from dry holders, and the paid-up value of £6186/13/1 refunded.

The directors' report of 1942 set aside £6000 for the purchase of dry shares, and it is trusted the increase to £6186/13/1 to purchase all offers will meet with the approval of shareholders.

ADDITIONS AT FACTORIES.

Capital expenditure in the nature of buildings and plant at the various branches is detailed in the schedules to the balance sheet, and may be set out as follows:—

Gladstone factory £2657, laboratory £45; Biloela £471, Bundaberg £2199, Mackay £1972, Monto £1029, Rockhampton £3149, Wowan £473, Bracewell £2502, Theodore £4478, various centres to cover pig purchasing scheme £469, total £19,444.

TRADING AND PROFIT AND LOSS ACCOUNT.

The published accounts set out the trading and profit and loss results for your consideration, and you are referred to same for the detail.

The following information will assist you:—

Sale of goods and retinning cans, £1355/10/3, is a net item after a retinning loss of £59/4/5. The retinning loss is most satisfactory when compared with previous years.

Net loss cheese and milk, £2347/1/8, as per the profit and loss account, must be considered in the light of the following additional information:—

(a) The loss is net after a profit from milk, i.e., cheese loss £2797/17/10, milk profit £450/16/2.

(b) Subsidy has ben overpaid £277/17/1 without any adjusting entry.

(c) Cheese stocks, £2872, were taken very little below selling price, and certainly do not allow for selling costs and losses.

(d) The overhead in the milk and cheese profit and loss account, with the exception of levies and insurance, has been taken from general accounts covering butter, cheese and milk, the apportionment being on a commercial butter basis.

In my opinion this is favourable to cheese, as items such as interest in the milk and cheese profit and loss account was £110/13/7 only.

(e) Cheese in considerable quantities has been marketed through the Association's various butter factory branches without any charge for handling against the cheese accounts. I would have expected some allowance.

After providing £16 566/6/7 for deferred pay the accounts closed without disclosing any net profit.

RESERVES.

The reserves remained the same throughout and closed as per the opening balances.

COSTS.

The production and costs per pound of butter manufactured have been checked. The costs are exclusive of war damage insurance and pay roll tax in addition to the other items stated.

CREAM PRICES.

The average all-grade pay to suppliers was 1/3'951d per pound commercial butter (say 1/4), including deferred pay.

REVOLVING FUND.

The revolving fund increased £17,772 on the year's production to £33,558. The fund is reflected in the improved position of the accounts, and if the rules governing same are not interfered with smooth working must result. It may not be many years before the fund commences to revolve.

INSURANCES.

I have reported, from time to time, on the Association's insurance cover, and it would appear that the policy of the Board is being maintained.

CONCLUSION.

The books of account and records of the Association have been well kept, under most trying war-time conditions, and reflect credit on the responsible officers.

The Board of Directors has at all times offered me co-operation and assistance, for which I am grateful. Also, I desire to thank the Association's officers and staff for courtesy and assistance in the conduct of the audit.

I have received all the information and explanations required.

Assuring you that any further information is at your command.

RAILWAY DISPUTE.

A mass meeting of Australian Railway Union members, held on Monday morning at Townsville, and attended by about 600 men, carried a resolution supporting the enginemen's demand for one Sunday off in three; also insisting on a refund of fines imposed by the General Manager on the men for not working on Sunday. The meeting decided that unless these demands were acceded to within 10 days action would be taken to call a general strike throughout the northern division.

TOWN COUNCIL

BOYNE WATER SCHEME

Straying Dogs Be Destroyed

The fortnightly meeting of the Council was held on Monday night. Present: The Mayor (Ald. G. G. Dennis), and Aldermen J. Deveney, M. A. Busteed, W. R. Golding, H. Anderson, R. E. Smith, R. R. Tudman, and the Acting Town Clerk (Mr. V. P. Breslin).

12IN. CAST IRON PIPES.

Mr. W. J. Reinhold, consulting engineer, Brisbane, forwarded a quotation from the Australian Iron and Steel Ltd. for 12-inch centrifugally cast iron pipes, cement lined, for the Boyne River water supply scheme. Production could not be started before January, and deliveries were estimated to be at the rate of 250 tons a month, which would take eight months to complete the contract. However, it was quite likely that this rate of manufacture might be exceeded. He recommended the Council to pass a motion accepting the quotation for pipes for rubber ring joints, if available, and otherwise for pipes for lead jointing, and forward the quotation to the Local Government Department, asking for its approval.

It was decided that the matter be gone into with Engineer Fenwick before asking for the approval of the Department of Local Government.

ESTIMATE £63,000.

Mr. W. J. Reinhold, consulting engineer, Brisbane, forwarded copies of the proposed drafts of documents required for the arranging of a contract under the cost plus fixed fee system between the Council and the General Constructions Ltd. for the construction of the water supply main from the Boyne River to Gladstone. This company has been selected by officers of the Allied Works Council as a suitable company to do this work. The total estimate was approximately £63,000 with a fixed fee of £2415. This rate is adopted by the Allied Works Council on jobs costing from £60,000 to £70,000. If the arrangement has the Council's approval the Local Government Department should also be asked for its approval.

It was decided that before asking for the approval of the Department of Local Government that the matter be gone into with Engineer Fenwick.

SALES TAX.

The Treasurer (Mr. J. B. Chiefly) notified the Council, through the Minister for the Army (Mr. F. M. Forde) that he was unable to accede to the request to waive the payment of sales tax in respect to spun pipes to be used in the construction of the Boyne River water supply scheme.—Received.

ISOLATION WARD.

Department of Local Government, Brisbane, acknowledged letter in reference to the Department of Public Works undertaking the preparation of plans and specifications, and an estimate of cost for an isolation ward to be erected at Gladstone by the Town Council and the Calliope and Miriam Vale Shire Councils, and advised that the matter had been referred to the department concerned.—Received.

MAINTENANCE OF ROADS.

Main Roads Commission, Brisbane, advised that the Commissioner had decided to make £250 available during the current financial year for the maintenance of roads within the Council area.—Received.

CONCRETE GUTTER.

S. Corones, Orion Cafe, made application for permission to erect a wood crossing over the concrete gutter at the side of the shop.—To be advised that only a concrete gutter could be permitted.

A PETITION.

A petition signed by 12 ratepayers asked the Council to give consideration to the question of providing a cement drain down the full length of Oaka Lane. "We feel," said the petitioners, "that the Council would save money in the long run by providing this drain, as the Works Committee had to inspect this roadway after every heavy storm. We feel we can claim to have the roughest surface of any street in Gladstone, and this should be given attention."

To be advised that the work would be included in next year's budget, and temporary repairs would be carried out in the meantime.

CEMENTING FOOTPATH.

Mr. F. Williams, Port Curtis Motors, advised that they were considering cementing the footpath in front of the premises occupied by Mr. H. P. Tweed, the approximate distance being 78 feet, and asked if the Council was prepared to do the work on the usual share basis.

To be advised that the Council had not budgeted for the cementing of footpaths on a 50-50 basis, but it was prepared to accept the responsibility for the work to be carried out on a share basis, and have it included in next year's budget.

NO OBJECTION.

Mr. Eric E. Barker, Gladstone, asked permission to place over the concrete gutter in front of his residence a small footbridge and a large one, the latter to be in front of the big gate to enable vehicles to enter. There would be adequate clearance in each case. He also requested permission to plant small shrubs along the edge of the footpath, which would not interfere with the proper use of the footpath.

It was decided that Mr. Barker be informed that the Council offered no objection.

TO BE ATTENDED TO.

A.M.I.E. Union (Gladstone branch) complained of the state of the road between the Meatworks turn-off and the railway crossing, and asked that it be attended to.

The matter was referred to the Works Committee for attention.

SANITARY DEPOT.

The Chairman of the Health Committee (Ald. Smith) reported that since last meeting he had sent the following telegram to the Sanitary Contractor (Mr. R. Hunter): "Position at depot not satisfactory; complaints from various sources; additional man reqflired immediately; expect you to treat the matter as urgent."

Ald. Smith said he had recently visited the depot, and it was in a bad condition, with millions of flies about.

Mayor Dennis said when he visited the depot recently it was in a clean condition.

Mr. Hunter replied by telegram as follows:—"Applied for suitable man, both Manpower Officer at Gladstone and Brisbane three weeks ago."

It was decided that Mr. Hunter be asked to meet the Council.

TO PROSECUTE.

The water inspector (Mr. D. D. Jackson) reported that a ratepayer in Auckland Street had permitted a hose to run unattended.

The Council instructed Mr. Jackson to prosecute.

6 DOGS MUST BE REGISTERED.

The Mayor stated that the registration of dogs had fallen away, and action would have to be taken immediately to have all dogs registered.

Ald. Busteed said that no other town in Queensland had so many straying dogs, and the time had arrived to take definite action in regard to this nuisance.

The Mayor said he would issue instructions to the poundkeeper to see that all dogs were registered, and those found straying without the necessary registration tag would be destroyed.

Electric Light Authority

ELECTRIC POLE.

Mr. J. A. Prizeman, Gladstone, offered 5/- for a condemned electric light pole which was lying in Eden Street. He claimed it was only fit for firewood.—To be informed that the Authority required the pole.

CLAIM NOT RECOGNISED.

Mr. Jack Hopper, Gladstone, asked the Authority to reconsider the matter of his claim for damage sustained to his wireless on account of high voltage.

It was decided to inform Mr. Hopper that his claim could not be recognised.

NATIONAL FITNESS ACTIVITIES

Mr. Harris to Visit Gladstone

Mr. Eric Harris, Queensland organiser of National Fitness activities, will be in Gladstone from Friday afternoon, October 29, to the following Monday morning.

Mr. Harris is well known to sporting enthusiasts as an ex-international footballer and a skilled physical culturist. He has already organised many fitness activities throughout the State. Grants of money are made by the Commonwealth Government and expended by the Queensland Department of Public Instruction.

Local control is in the hands of a National Fitness Committee. At present there is no such committee in Gladstone. There was a committee for over a year, and physical fitness classes for men and women were in operation. However, the response was not good on the part of those who would benefit; and the project came to an end.

The purpose of Mr. Harris's visit is to stimulate interest among all people (not attending school) up to 21 years of age in all out-of-door and indoor fitness activities.

He hopes to get in touch with those interested in the promotion and success of such activities.

DAIRY ASSOCIATION

£1146/19/3 PAID TO SUPPLIERS

Deferred Pay £16,566/6/7

At the annual meeting of the shareholders of the Port Curtis Co-operative Dairy Association Ltd., held on Friday last, the Chairman of Directors (Mr. G. B. Mouatt) presented the following annual report:—

On behalf of the Board I have pleasure in presenting for your approval the Directors' annual report, balance sheet, and statement of accounts for the period July 1st, 1942, to June 30th, 1943.

PRODUCTION.

The season was good until March, when production fell rapidly owing to dry weather. Winter conditions were not good, and production was low. However, the amount of butter manufactured for the year was 7284 tons, an increase of 458 tons over the previous year. If we take into account the amount of milk diverted to the manufacture of cheese, and pasteurised milk sold, equal to about 249 tons 13 cwt. of commercial butter, the output would have been 7618 tons of butter.

The output of each Branch is shown with a comparison of the previous year:—

	BUTTER. 1943 Tons	Cwt.	Increase Tons	Cwt.	Decrease Tons	Cwt.
Biloela	1449	11	40	4
Bundaberg	747	19	170	5
Gladstone	799	10			46	9
Mackay	356	14	39	1
Monto	1518	18	327
Rockhampton	751	9	64	4
Wowan	1102	5	52	4

CHEESE.
Bracewell	301 tons	Theodore	141 tons

CREAM PRICE.

The average price paid for choice cream was 16.517 pence per lb. for commercial butter, the average for all grades being 15.95 pence. The total amount paid to suppliers was £1,146,193.

BUTTER SALES.

The British Government increased the price for export butter by 5/7, and cheese by 3/9 per cwt, Australian currency. The quantity of butter sold locally and interstate reached the high level of 3137 tons, an increase of 1122 tons over the previous year. Butter rationing is now in force, and will affect local sales.

CHEESE FACTORIES.

The loss on the two factories is £1909/19/10, deferred pay not included. The average pay for butterfat was 21.843 pence.

PASTEURISED MILK.

During the year pasteurising of milk was commenced at Rockhampton and Mackay, mainly to supply Milk to the troops, 428,451 gallons of milk being diverted for this purpose. The profit was £450/16/2.

SUBSIDY.

Representations made to the Prices Commissioner for an increase in the price of butter did not bring about the increase that the industry considered it was entitled to. However, in October the Commonwealth Government decided to subsidise dairy products to the extent of £2,000,000 per annum, to commence from the 1st of July, 1942. After further consideration this amount was increased to £6,500,000, dating from 1st of April, 1943. Subsidy payments have been made regularly each month to suppliers.

EQUALISATION SCHEME.

This has been of great assistance to the dairying industry in maintaining a stabilised price throughout Australia.

FACTORY BUILDINGS AND PLANT.

Factory buildings are in good order. Owing to two iceworks closing in Mackay and our own works becoming over loaded, we erected a cold store and iceworks, three extra ice tanks being installed. We anticipate that these will cope with the demand.

Plants generally are in good order, despite the difficulty of securing labour and material. "Vacreator" pasteurising units have been installed at Bundaberg and Gladstone, and these are doing excellent work. Another unit will shortly be installed at Rockhampton.

COLD STORES.

We must consider ourselves fortunate in having so much cold storage space at Gladstone. Without this we would have been in danger at one period of having to close down owing to shortage of refrigerated ships to take the butter away.

MANUFACTURING COSTS.

These have increased slightly, being 1.272 pence as against 1.212 pence last year.

PIGGERIES.

These show a profit of £1180/9/4; Biloela £1091/1/8, and Monto £89/7/8.

DIRECTORS.

The regulation suspending elections of directors lapsed in April, and it is anticipated that regular elections for directors will now be held.

The following directors retire by effluxion of time:—

Bundaberg zone: Graham, Robert Finley; Thiele, Charles William.

Monto zone: Bulow, August Herman; Mouatt, Graham Buchanan.

All the above gentlemen are eligible for re-election, and offer themselves accordingly.

GLADSTONE ZONE.

An election will be held to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. H. Robinson.

We regret to record the death of the late Mr. W. D. Moore, who represented the Bundaberg area for six years. His genial nature endeared him to all.

An election was held to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Moore's death, and Mr. R. F. Graham was elected.

Mr. J. C. Galletly, who represented the Mackay factory so ably since the factory opened, resigned, as he had accepted a business appointment which prevented him attending Board meetings regularly.

An election was held to fill this vacancy, and Mr. H. E. Hewitt was elected.

AUDITOR.

Your auditor, Mr. V. A. Summers, has carried out a continuous audit, and submitted quarterly reports to the Board. His certificate as to the correctness of the accounts is attached, and a detailed report will be made available prior to the commencement of the meeting.

DRY SHAREHOLDERS.

£5000 has been set aside for the purchase of "dry" shares from those who offer to surrender them. Shareholders whose shares were "dry" prior to June 30, 1939, will receive first consideration. If more than 5000 shares are offered for surrender, then selection will be made by ballot in a manner to be decided by the directors. Those shareholders who desire to surrender "dry" shares must notify the Secretary in writing at the registered office of the Association, Gladstone, not later than October 31, 1943.

PROFIT AND LOSS ACCOUNT.

After making provision for expenditure, as shown by the various statement of accounts, no profit is shown

DEFERRED PAY.

A deferred pay, amounting to £16,566/6/7, will be paid out within the next few months to suppliers as follows:—To suppliers of milk for pasteurising purposes, one halfpenny a gallon; to suppliers of milk for cheese making, halfpenny per lb. butterfat. The balance will be paid to cream suppliers.

STAFF.

We are pleased to record the fine spirit of co-operation between the directors, management and staff.

The past year has not been an easy one, as a very severe strain has been thrown on the staff due to war conditions. On behalf of the Board I wish to express our appreciation of their loyal and efficient service during a very trying time.

We trust that we may meet next year with the world at peace.

COMFORTS FUND

Toy and Gift Stall

The Gladstone branch of the A.C.F. will conduct a toy and gift stall about the end of November.

The convenors (Mesdames C. Chapman and W. Keller) and an energetic committee are working hard to make this a success, and would appreciate donations of cash, remnants of material, and wool suitable for making toys and gifts, or any used toys in fairly good condition that could be renovated for sale.

Orders will be taken and donations received by the convenors (Mesdames Chapman and Keller), hon. sec. (Mrs. Garrett), or call at the A.C.F. rooms, Grand Hotel buildings, on Tuesday or Friday afternoons.

BOYNE VALLEY

C.W. ASSOCIATION

Monthly Meeting

The usual monthly meeting of the Boyne Valley branch of the C.W. Association was held in the Ubobo Hall on Thursday, October 14. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. F. G. Mossman, and those present were: Mrs. Russell (vice-president), and Mesdames Birchley, Davies, Steel, Metten, Pownall, Sister Hudson, and Mrs. Wedge (secretary-treasurer).

SILENT PRAYER.

The meeting opened with all present reciting "My Creed," followed by a silent prayer.

Apologies were received from Mesdames Muspratt senr., W. Streeter, McLachlan, and Wagner.

DENTAL INSPECTOR.

As the result of inquiries the branch has been notified that the school dental inspector would be unable to visit schools in the Boyne Valley this year, but all Boyne Valley schools would be visited by the dental inspector next year.

GROW HERBS.

The President asked members if they would grow herbs for the Australian Forces Herbs Auxiliary.

Several members offered to do so, and are exchanging plant roots.

GENERAL.

As all members are unable to get away, the branch will not be represented at the forthcoming annual meeting to be held in Bundaberg.

It was decided to postpone the branch birthday dance from November to some time during the Xmas vacation.

PATRIOTIC FUND

SUCCESSFUL DANCE.

The Bayne Valley Patriotic Fund held its usual monthly dance on Saturday, October 16, in the Ubobo Hall. Music was supplied by the popular trio, Mrs. Dougall (piano), Mr. L. Pownall (cornet), and Master Brian Pownall (drums). The duties of M.C. were carried out by Mr. R. Waite.

SWEET STALL.

A sweet stall run by the ladies of the committee did a roaring trade till the sweets were all sold. The variety and quantity of sweets were a credit to the local ladies, who make them for each dance.

A case of oranges (donated by Mr. W. E. Muspratt) was raffled, and Mr. M. Jacobsen proved to be the winner.

Monte Carlo prizes were donated by Mrs. A. E. Edey, the winners being Miss Dot McKee and Mr. Ron Hayward.

The chocolate waltz was won by Mr. R. Lindley, the donor of the prize being Mrs. W. West.

The spot waltz was won by Miss R. Punter and Mr. H. McDougall. The prize was donated by Mrs. E. Steel.

Result of the dance was as follows: Door takings £10, raffle £4/9/-, chocolate waltz £1/13/-, Monte Carlo £2/1/-, spot waltz 11/6, sweet stall £2/14/-, donations: The people of Nagoorin £9, Ubobo State School children £1/15/6, W. H. Smith 10/-, Mrs. Duffey 6/- Miss J. Davies 2/-, Miss M. Gray 2/-, making a grand total for the month of £32/4/.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL

Chief Inspector C. J. Perrin, who will be remembered locally when he was in charge of the Gladstone Police Station, is spending a day in town en route to Brisbane.

The President of the C.W. Association (Mrs. E. W. Phillips), Mrs. Baynton, Mrs. W. Chapman, and Mrs. G. Hughes left for Bundaberg to attend the Central Executive conference of the C.W.A., as delegates representing the Gladstone branch.

Another old Gladstonite who spent a day in town was Mr. J. D. McLean, now Stipendary Magistrate at Townsville. Mr. McLean was police magistrate and warden here for many years, and his son Max, who was posted missing on an overseas flight, enlisted from Gladstone.

The District Inspector of Schools (Mr. G. C. Pestorious) will be in town, staying at the Bluebell Hotel, as the guest of Mr. A. W. F. G. Crow, during the visit of Mr. Harris, physical fitness activities organiser. The District Inspector represents the Department of Public Instruction in physical fitness plans in the Bundaberg-Rockhampton district.

COMFORTS FUND

CHRISTMAS HAMPERS

Appeal For Donations

The packing of Christmas hampers is proceeding smoothly, and it is anticipated that by the end of this month the bulk of the work will have been accomplished.

Gladstone and district are responding well to this appeal. Donations are still well below the quota mark, so send your subscriptions to either Mr. F. Peardon or Mrs. W. J. Garrett, and it will be acknowledged through these columns.

Your name and address will be placed on a card in the hamper.

The local branch of the A.C.F. is hoping that the quota will be filled by the end of the month.

The following goods are included in the hamper:—

One tin fruit, tin cream, pkt. chocolate, 2 ozs. tobacco, pkt. papers, writing pad, envelopes, cake, 2 air-mail letter cards, shaving stick, tube toothpaste, 3 pkts. chewing gum, handkerchief, washer, hussif, pkt. mixed fruit, tin pudding.

The amount of donations previously acknowledged, £66/12/.

SHODDY HOMES

Government Bungling

Permits to build "temporary" homes costing not more than £400 are being favourably considered by the Department of War Organisation of Industry, the Minister for Local Government (Mr. McGirr) announced in the N.S. Wales Legislative Assembly last week.

After the war, when housing shortage will be even more acute than now, those occupying "temporary" homes will at least have a roof over their heads, and will no doubt be told to be content while others ever less fortunate are catered for. That is one reason why these "temporary" homes being built to accommodate Government factory workers, such as in Lithgow, are not designed for disassembly and reassembly at Government projects elsewhere. They are made of ferro-concrete, so even if they are disassembled their salvage value will be practically nil.

"The Government housing scheme at Lithgow is the best example of what we may expect from sub-standard homes," said Mr. J. H. Tonkin, M.L.C., A.M.I.E., a Council member of the Town and Country Planning Institute of N.S.W. to "Industrial News."

"During the last few months," he continued, "the Government has built hundreds of these £400 homes at Tweed Mills, just out of Lithgow. When I saw them last week the roofs were so red with rust that I thought they had been newly painted. Deterioration of the cheap roofing material has set in so quickly that it will be only a matter of months—not years—before leaking roofs will add to the general discomfort of these homes. Already the area is developing into a slum.

"A decent home could be built at present for £650, but for £400 you could build little decent except four walls," Mr. Tonkin said emphatically.

"These Lithgow homes are built on private property, for which the Government pays a rental. They are of fibro cement—a very permanent building material. Had the Government been sincere in its suggestion of 'temporary' homes they would have built them in sections so that they could be removed and set up to house men working on big post-war construction jobs, such as the Snowy River Hydro scheme.

"The best sites in Lithgow have been ruined with the building of these shoddy places, and now the Government announces that between now and Christmas 1000 men will be taken away from the district'"

MEAT RATION.

It has been announced that a system of meat rationing for civilians will be introduced next January. Details of the working of the scheme will be announced later.

SUBMARINE SUBMERGED

No Cooking Allowed

The conditions under which the cook has to work in a submarine were described, during a spell of leave, by Petty Officer Cook Joe Lawrence, D.S.M., recently.

No cooking while the submarine is submerged is the order, so before they dive at dawn he cooks a hot breakfast for the men, and it has to be kept hot and served only when they are submerged and set for safety. He has to cook for 64, and do it in a kitchen two square yards in size. It's all done by electricity, but owing to the special conditions only two hot meals can be served in the 24 hours. So, as Lawrence said, "they've got to be good."

He gave a typical day's procedure after his "sub" had left the parent ship and was on its way into enemy waters. Breakfast: Fruit juices (necessary to make up for the lack of sunshine), cereal, bacon and egg, and fried bread, tea, coffee or cocoa. And all must be dished up without clattering pots or plates, for fear of giving their position away to the enemy while they are submerged. And it's got to be cleared away just as quietly.

Then there's a short sleeping time, and cook himself lies down for a bit. Then lunch (cold) must be got ready for the middle of the day; cold meats (all tinned), any cold vegetables left over, and tinned fruit (essential for the health of submariners). They are still submerged when they eat it, so again no preventable sound must be made.

ABANDONS LOAVES TO FIRE GUN.

After that many of the crew, including the cook, have to do watches.

At tea in the afternoon he supplies bread of his own making. "And," he says, "we all look forward to fresh bread. When we leave the parent ship I have a stock of flour and yeast. I keep the yeast in the 'frig.' I've found that you can make a decent loaf with the addition of spuds. I also use the water they were boiled in—you get the starchiness you need. I start mixing the dough about a couple of hours before surfacing. The pressure inside the submarine is just another problem the ordinary baker doesn't have to worry about." Before they surface the cook has to have all the components for a hot dinner ready to cook—a fairly elaborate meal of, say, soup, roast beef, Yorkshire batter, roast potatoes, cabbage and tinned peas, with prunes and custard to follow. As soon as dinner is dished up the bread must go into the oven.

They don't stay very long on the surface, and there's a lot of work to be done: Batteries to be charged, and so on.

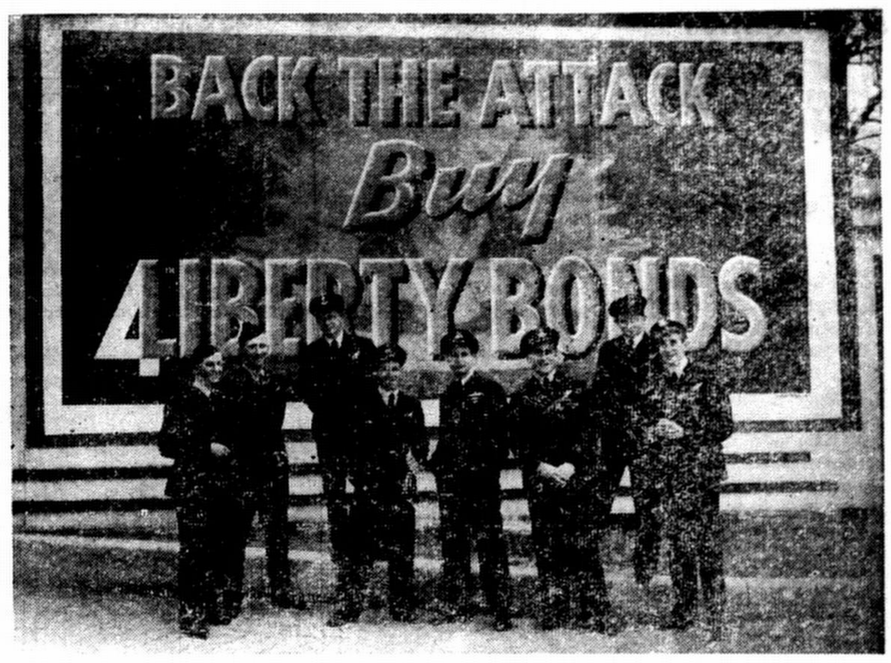
"My kitchen," Lawrence said, "is just at the back of the control room, and before the engine room, so when the Diesels are running there's a tremendous draught. That's why I make my dough down below, ready to put in the oven as soon as the hot dinner is served on the surface.

"When I've got the bread out of the oven there's no time to rest, because I've got to get a start with the hot breakfast, which we all eat when we submerge. So here we are again at the start of the daily routine of a submarine on patrol.

"But it isn't always as smooth going as that. If the alarm sounds, cook has to drop everything in the galley and stand by to man a gun. When the action is over, Lawrence prides himself on "being able to do a couple of tricks and not lose my bread."

PRAISE FROM BLAMEY

"Superior equipment, superior troops, superior Air Force, and our initiative, have changed the Japs' opinion about their own invincibility," said General Sir Thomas Blamey, Commander-in-Chief of Allied Land Forces in the South West Pacific, in Melbourne recently. "Among the said equipment is Australian-made radio such as this portable transmitting and receiving set."



The crew of the giant Lancaster bomber (including the commander, Flight Lieutenant Peter Isaacson, D.F.C., A.F.C., D.F.M.), which will fly over Gladstone on Monday, November 1, at 10.30 a.m. in support of the 4th Liberty War Loan.

IN GERMANY

Australian Prisoners

The Minister for the Army (Mr. F. M. Forde) has announced that the Department of the Army had arranged with the Australian Red Cross Society to forward a parcel direct from London to each Australian prisoner of war transferred to Germany from Italy immediately advice is received of his transfer. These parcels would assist our men to replace items of clothing and kit which some are stated to have lost during their transfer.

Mr. Forde added: "The Commonwealth Government greatly appreciates the ready co-operation of the Australian Red Cross Society in this matter, and has advised the Australian High Commissioner in London that the Society authorises its London Committee to make any necessary arrangements at its discretion.

"The free issue of underwear and other garments which the Commonwealth Government recently made available for inclusion in the next quarterly parcel to be sent by next of kin to prisoners of war in Europe will be invaluable to many of the men transferred to Germany from Italy. Next of kin who have not availed themselves of this offer are advised to consult the nearest capital city branch or the Australian Red Cross Society, or the Prisoners of War Relatives' Association."

BECAUSE SHE GETS 33 TIMES AS MUCH VITAMIN B1 BY HAVING UNCLE TOBY'S OATS FOR EVERY BREAKFAST!

SHE READ THIS:

A plate of a pre-cooked, ready-to-eat breakfast food without milk gave 2 units of Vitamin B1, while a plate of porridge of rolled oats gave 66 units—33 times as much!

Extract from article in "Australasian Baker" (July, 1942, issue) by Professor Priestley, of Sydney University.

If UNCLE TOBY'S OATS is not as readily available at your grocers these days, remember it is but a temporary inconvenience, due to present day conditions. There is no shortage of Uncle Toby's Oats.

CLOTHES MUST LAST LONGER

Darning Needle Weapon of War

From November 15 next "B" clothing coupons in the ration book can be used, said the Minister for Trade and Customs (Senator Keane). This will not affect the life of "A" clothing coupons, which can be used after November 15 together with "B" clothing coupons.

Senator Keane pointed out that the period for which both "A" and "B" clothing coupons will have to last cannot be decided yet, as it depends entirely upon the future clothing supply position. If overseas supplies are maintained and textile demands of the fighting forces do not increase the clothing system will be the same as last year.

In his announcement at the beginning of the present ration year on June 7, he had pointed out that Australia was facing a critical year, and no promise could be given that the rationing period would be 12 months, Senator Keane said.

More than ever now it is vital that every person plans his or her coupon spending. Coupons spent unnecessarily not only harm the war effort by creating a greater drain on existing stocks, but are liable to have unfortunate results for the individual who may find himself short of coupons just at the time when he really needs them.

"Necessity for clothes rationing should prove the mother of invention for thousands of Australian housewives. Clothes must be made to last longer than ever before, and I believe that the average Australian housewife will take the opportunity provided by clothes rationing to display even greater initiative in mending and making do with clothes which normally would be discarded.

"As the Prime Minister has already observed, the darning needle is a weapon of war.

"I know that whatever rationing restrictions may be necessary in the future, or whatever additional sacrifices may have to be made, the Australian people will continue to give the full and ready co-operation they have given in the past," Senator Keane added.

APPEAL FOR BOOKS AND CARDS

Help the Boys

The Australian Comforts Fund is urgently appealing for books, magazines, playing cards, or any other indoor games or sporting material for the men of the fighting forces.

The men in the front line or outposts are entitled to these amenities of life, and the Fund asks residents to do their best to supply these articles.

Mr. A. W. Young, Gladstone Cash and Carry, has kindly consented to take possession of these donations, so please forward all you can without delay, and thus help the Fund to help the boys.

A little knowledge is a dangerous thing, particularly when it deals with ships. Gossipers who know only a little still may talk enough to furnish the enemy with the vital link in his chain of information.

CRICKET

PASTIMES-PARSON'S PT. MATCH

First Innings Win

In the second match of the first round of cricket fixtures, Pastimes and Parson's Point met for the first time, the former proving superior on the first innings by 127 runs.

The outstanding feature of the match was the batting display by J. Allenby, a new-comer to Gladstone cricket. His score of 128 was mainly responsible for Pastimes success.

A notable feature of Gladstone cricket is the absence of the Hunt brothers from the Parson's Point team. Surely old age is not keeping players such as these out of the game?

The general opinion gained from the two matches already played is that cricket in Gladstone is as keen now as prior to the war. What with "Player's" weekly comments in the "Observer" and our "grandstand" critic at the game, we feel sure players will have to look to their practice days to hold their places in their teams, and Gladstone's cricket lovers will be spending their sunday afternoons at the local cricket grounds. AUSTRALIA'S COMMUNICATION LINES

Nerves of War

Communications are the nerves of war. Australia, in particular, in these last four years, has realised to how great a degree the vitality of a total war effort depends on the tough, flexible, and adequate functioning of these nerves.

Much of the continent that had to be garrisoned was open wasteland, without roads, railways or telegraph and telephone lines. Being separated by oceans from America and Canada on the east, and from India, the Middle East and Britain, made our problems of communication more difficult.

Australian civil aviation, before the war, was adequate for our needs. But war put new and heavy burdens on our internal civil air resources. The first great war task of civil airliners was to evacuate civilians and valuable material from the Dutch East Indies, New Guinea, and adjacent Pacific islands.

Including periods when planes were chartered for military duties, civil aircraft during the most recent comparable half-yearly period carried 87,026 passengers, compared with 46,230 during the half-year ended June 1939; flew 37,043,535 passenger miles, compared with 20,636,788; carried 1,245,212 lbs. of mail, compared with 87,781 lbs; and 3,220,056 lbs. of freight, compared with 787,447 lbs.

INCREASED POSTAL BUSINESS.

Enormously increased business has been handled by all branches of the Postmaster General's Department since the outbreak of war. Telephone calls (local) have risen from 596,000,000 in 1938-39 to 664,000,000 in 1941-42, and trunk line calls from 41,152,000 to 45,317,000 over the same period.

Telegraph traffic within the Commonwealth increased from 17,252,000 messages in 1938-39 to 23,662,000 in 1941-42, to approximately 33,000,000 in 1942-43. International telegrams to and from Australia rose from 1,462,000 in 1938-39 to 2,475,000 in 1941-42.

The first airgraph mail was received in Australia from overseas in June, 1943. In two months to the end of August more than 180,000 airgraph letters have been delivered from the troops overseas. Outward mail over a month totalled 260,000 letters.

Despite this huge increase of work, the post office is carrying on with an additional 5000 women recruited to replace the 7000 postal employees now in the fighting forces.

The State-owned railway systems have also been integrated in the war effort to facilitate the movement of troops and supplies over Australia's huge distances. With staffs depleted by enlistments, they are operating something over 30 per cent more freight miles than in pre-war years.

Completing the communications task of making Australia one strategic piece are the spectacular transcontinental roads that have been pushed through desert and wilderness in record construction periods.

War in Australian waters has reduced the nation's coastal shipping fleet, while simultaneously imposing a greatly increased transport burden on the ships that remain in service.

Every available vessel, almost irrespective of its age, has been pressed into service to help make up this serious deficiency which still remains, even though Britain has released for service on the Australian coast as many ships as can be spared from other areas.

Savings stamps, war savings certificates, Commonwealth loans, are vital instruments in waging the war against the powers of darkness. You have a part to play.

What Red Cross is Doing!

Wherever Australian Fighting Forces have been, throughout the long four years of this, the most devastating war of all times, our Australian Red Cross has given service too, and the tremendous growth of the Society's activities can now be viewed through the firm perspective of statistics taken over this four-year period.

During the nine months from September 1939 to June 1940 total Red Cross expenditure was £175 553. In the twelve months ending June, 1941, it had risen to £599,376; from June 1941 to June 1942 it was £1,130,103; and this last year up to June, 1943, it has been £1,945,074. In other words, our Red Cross activities are now nearly twelve times as great as they were at outbreak of war.

Analysis of the total shows a gradual expansion in every field of the Society's work. Service to sick and wounded, which includes provision of comforts to individual sick men and women of the Forces, in hospitals, convalescent depots, and on hospital ships, as well as provision of supplementary equipment for medical purposes, has risen from £113,731 in 1940 to £683,293 in 1943. Red Cross stores have been despatched and distributed to every zone in which Australian fighting men penetrated.

A Red Cross Unit was sent to the Middle East with the first Contingent of the A.I.F., which went overseas, and by 1941 personnel of this Unit consisted of 51 men and 11 women, giving service in the operational area. This service was maintained efficiently throughout campaigns in Palestine, Syria, Greece, Egypt, and Libya. Red Cross men and Red Cross stores were in Tobruk during the siege, and in the forward lines when the great desert battles were raging.

In January of 1941 another Red Cross Unit left for Malaya, with our A.I.F. men, and service was carried on in this area up to the time of the Japanese influx. Red Cross men are amongst the prisoners taken by Japan and held in the Far East to-day.

When the 9th Division returned to Australia from Egypt at the beginning of this year, Red Cross forces were also withdrawn, and since 1943 service to sick and wounded has been mainly restricted to New Guinea and operational areas in Australia. However, provision has been made for Red Cross service to be given by other national societies to sick men of the Australian Forces in England, Scotland, South Africa, Canada and India, and an Australian Unit is still maintained at Ceylon.

STERLING WORK AND BRAVERY

GLADSTONE BOYS MENTIONED

Official Citations

In official citations of sterling work and examples of bravery of Central Queenslanders in the Salamau area, three Gladstone boys are mentioned.

The first is Lieut. Gordon Friend, who, when his company commander was out of action, took charge and led the lads in to the attack. Lieut. Friend, who was highly praised by fellow Australians, did outstanding work at Tambu, firing grenades from his rifle, and accounted for many of the enemy.

Lieut. Friend is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Friend.

Referring to Private A. C. Brown, of Dawson Road, Gladstone, the message says: The enemy, a good 50 strong, outnumbered our men, and the Jap. had picked a good time to attack, as only a few were in camp that day, our chaps having just finished digging in the centre of the perimiter. Private Brown dashed around the enemy's flank to get assistance, and he just left his pit when a Jap. dashed into it. Pte. Chas Lee, of Rockhampton, spotted the Jap., and hit him with a grenade.

Another patrol, which included Cpl. H. Clarke (who was an employee of Friends (Pty.) Ltd. grocery department before he enlisted), and Pte. F. Malcolm (Gatton), was putting a signal line through, and heard the Japs. approaching. They waited by the side of the track and opened fire when three Japanese came within a few yards. Clarke got one. Pte. Barnes (of Rockhampton) another, and Cecil Dingwell another.

The highest yield from all forms of taxation in any one year of the last war was £45,000,000, or less than one-sixth of what was raised during 1942-1943.

RED CROSS SOCIETY

MONTHLY MEETING

Good Work Continues

The monthly meeting of the Gladstone branch of the Red Cross Society was presided over by the President (Mrs. Phillips), when 18 members attended.

SEWING CIRCLE.

Reports included the Sewing Circle by the convenor (Mrs. J. W. Rigby), who said that the attendance had been very satisfactory. A number of articles had been completed and were ready for depatch to Brisbane. Work returned included three dressing gowns by Mrs. A. Watson, 3 prs. pyjamas each Mesdames Malpas and Thompson, 1 quilt Mrs. Butterworth, and 1 box of tin foil was sent in by Mrs. Menzies.

KNITTING CIRCLE.

Mrs. D. J. Connellan reported that the Knitting Circle had distributed 52 skeins of wool and 8 ozs. white cotton. The following were thanked for work returned:—Miss Horne (Rockfield), 1 servicewoman's bed jacket; Mrs. Joseph and Miss Butterworth, 1 sleeveles cardigan; Mrs. Norris, 2 prs. socks and 2 prs. cotton socks; Misses J. O'Neill, M. Liddicoat, and Mrs. Watson, 2 prs. socks each; Mrs. W. A. F. McDonald (Cluden), 1 pr. socks. Wool is available for knitters at the Red Cross rooms.

HOSPITAL COMMITTEE.

Mrs. A. F. Gollnick, reporting on behalf of the Hospital Committee, advised that 46 servicemen had been visited. Mrs. C. Brennan was impressed with the local work, and agreed to assist in securing razor blades, which were in short supply. The wireless recently purchased by the branch had been installed and was most satisfactory, giving great pleasure to patients. Reading matter was still required. The boys will read anything they can get, and never seem to have too much.

BENARABY SUB-BRANCH.

Miss D. M. Colyer advised that Benaraby sub-branch had raised £7/7/- for the Gladstone Red Shield canteen funds from a dance. Messrs. D. Pershouse (two 10/- notes), C. Mann (tin honey), Mr. and Mrs. Broszat (mystery parcels), and Mr. Thring (10/- redonated) were thanked for assisting raffles. Over £8 nett had resulted from the August dance. The War Loan Art Union tickets had been received from Mr. Summers after the meeting, and five committee members had taken a book of tickets each. The attendance at the monthly meetings was satisfactory. One meeting and dance had been postponed for a week on account of the Calliope rodeo.

P.O.W. STREET SCHEME.

Reporting on behalf of the organisers (Rev. Phillipson, Messrs. Summers and Connellan), the letter stated that despite many difficulties and the temporary loss of many valuable collectors, the P.O.W. street scheme continued to function satisfactorily, and the revenue for the month, £126, was the highest yet.

Mrs. C. Brennan had agreed to endeavour to obtain an issue of coupons for lady collectors to enable shoes to be replaced.

Mr. J. H. Reid, the Rockhampton organiser and publicity officer, had written a very encouraging letter offering any possible assistance. In fact, both Bundaberg and Rockhampton organisers, who were doing splendidly with their schemes, were very helpful. Mr. Reid hoped to visit Gladstone and address members on various aspects of the scheme.

Lady collectors, who had read in the press that returned repatriated prisoners landing in Britain had stated that Red Cross parcels had saved their lives, and that some had lived for over seven months on the contents of the parcels, were greatly encouraged in their work.

It was hoped to reorganise some of the streets in the near future and utilise offers of limited assistance from ladies who had contacted the organiser.

V.A.D's.

Miss Alma Joyner, Commandant of the V.A. Detachment, reported that the unit was well trained with members ready to undertake any necessary service. It was stated that Miss Joyner and her members were rendering splendid aid in selling War Loan Art Union tickets.

VISIT OF MRS. BRENNAN.

Following reports by Mrs. Jones and Mr. Drewe on the recent visit of Mrs. C. Brennan, in which Mr. Drewe detailed the whole position, it was decided that the service to hospital trains, etc., be rendered through V.A. D's., as in the past with a call on all Red Cross members if necessary, and that headquarter be advised that at present there was no need for the separate formation of emergency service units.

RADIO SET AT HOSPITAL.

Major Eggling is to be advised of the purchase of the radio set for the military ward at the Gladstone Hospital, and also that the set was giving splendid performance and was very satisfactory.

GOOD IDEA.

Mr. Drewe referred to a very satisfactory scheme in operation at Swifts Ltd. plant, Gladstone, for some time. It was termed the "coppermine," and briefly meant that the small change in coppers from all pay was put aside for special purposes. This was done with the co-operation of all members of the staff and employees who actually donated any balance in pennies. The amount received over a period was astonishing. He felt that the scheme was such a success that it could be used by the Red Cross throughout the State. Members agreed, and it was decided to bring the idea before headquarters.

SERGT. R. H. HALLAM.

The Secretary Red Cross Bureau (Miss K. Weller) acknowledged receipt of Mr. Summers' letter concerning Sergt. R. H. Hallam, who had been posted as missing. An inquiry had been sent to Melbourne headquarters, and on receipt of any information the branch would be immediately advised. However, all information and details obtained by the Red Cross are immediately handed over to the Air Board, who in turn advise the next of kin. "Please tell the parents of this young airman that we will do all that is possible to get news for them, which we trust will be of a reassuring nature."

THANKS.

The Bureau also wrote thanking the Gladstone branch for information and kind attention to a Mildura cadet, who was operated on in the local miliary ward. The thanks of the mother, who lives in Sydney, were also tendered.

APPEAL FOR LINEN.

The General Secretary (Miss Richardson) sent along an urgent appeal for clean old linen for issue to medical units in the northern area. Radio appeals had been made for this also. Another appeal was for gramaphones and records for issue through the Red Cross field force to military medical establishments.

GESTURE OF APPRECIATION.

As a gesture of appreciation of the assistance given the branch in the War Loan Art Union, tickets Nos. 1 and 2 were forwarded to Messrs A. H. and P. A. Friend, who provided the first prize of £100—a Fourth Liberty Loan Bond.

BEST WISHES.

Headquarters, in acknowledging the appointment of Mr. Roe O'Neil as joint hon. secretary to Mr. V. A. Summers, tendered best wishes during his term of office.

A DONATION.

Mr. W. Walters, Auckland Hill, forwarded a cheque for £5 as a donation to the Prisoner of War Fund, from self and wife. This was acknowledged with thanks.

OTHER DONATIONS.

Other donations were acknowledged from Miss Joyce Ottway, Taragoola, £1; the Secretary Local Producers, Ubobo, £2/10/10; Mrs. Muspratt, secretary, sub-branch, Builyan, £17/4/6; Mrs. H. Dougall, £1.

GENERAL.

Mr. Ken Neil Ballantine, Galloway Plains, acknowledged receipt of Art Union tickets, and promised to assist in every possible way.

It was decided to remit the sum of £250 to headquarters.

Reference was made to the excellent work of the President (Mrs. Phillips) in arranging the dances in aid of the Prisoners of War Fund on race night, when a very successful function realised a profit of £28.

INTEREST-FREE LOAN.

The Manager of the Gladstone branch of the Commonwealth Bank (Mr. W. H. Hall) advises that for purpose of publication, we desire to advise the sum of £50 has been received from Mrs. Dulcie Bedsor, Glenlyon Street, Gladstone, as an interest-free loan to the Commonwealth Government.

BEER POSITION ACUTE.

Gladstone is again faced with an acute shortage of beer, and many complaints have been made by industrial workers unable to obtain a drink on ceasing work in the afternoon. It is understood that representations have been made to the authorities to remedy the situation, and a deputaion to Mr. F. M. Forde has been arranged by Mr. Geo. Wyatt, president of the waterside workers. This deputation will consist of representatives of the Trades and Labour Council and affiliated unions.

GLADSTONE POLICE COURT

DEFENDANTS PLEAD GUILTY - CONVICTED AND FINED

SEVERAL SERIOUS CHARGES OF STEALING

Carl Broszat (17), sleeper cutter, appeared before the Acting S.M. (Mr. J. F. Donovan) in the Police Court on two charges of stealing, and one of being in possession of property suspected of having been stolen.

THE CHARGES.

The first charge set out that between June 10 and 15, at Catfish Scrub, Calliope, he stole one Tecalmit grease gun, 1 shifting spanner, 3 Champion spark plugs, 4 gallons of motor oil, 2 gallons of motor spirit, valued at £5/12/2, the property of the Allied Works Council.

The second charge was that on August 2, 1943, at Benaraby, Broszat stole one 10 x 12ft. calico tent, valued at £3/10/-, the property of the Main Roads Commission.

The third charge was that on October 5, 1943, at Benaraby, he had in his possession 3ft. of 2-inch rubber hosing, suspected of having been stolen.

Donald Patrick Kennedy (21), farm labourer, was also charged with stealing at Catfish Scrub, Calliope, one Malco fuel pump, 5 lbs. of mobil lubricant, 4 gallons of motor oil, 3 spark plugs, 1½ gallons of power kerosene, and one spanner, of a total value of £5/5/9, the property of the Allied Works Council.

PLEADED GUILTY.

Both defendants elected to be dealt with summarily, and pleaded guilty to the charges.

BROSZAT QUESTIONED.

The facts, as related to the Court by Sergt. Gill, who prosecuted, were that subsequent to complaints made to the police, Constable Gerber accompanied by Constable Ferrell, of Calliope, proceeded to Benaraby on the afternoon of October 5, where Broszat was located. He was closely questioned in connection with two charges of stealing, and admitted having stolen the property, the subject of the first charge, and portion of the articles were found in his tent. The constables also questioned Broszat regarding the tent, and he admitted having stolen it.

BROSZAT ARRESTED.

In respect to the third charge, said Sergt. Gill, the article mentioned was also found in Broszat's tent. On being further questioned by Constable Gerber he admitted having stolen the rubber hosing from a railway waggon at Benaraby. Broszat was then conveyed to Gladstone, where he was arrested by Constable Gerber.

KENNEDY AT TARAGOOLA.

On the night of October 5, Constables Gerber and Farrell proceeded to Taragoola, where they located Kennedy, and questioned him regarding the property of the Allied Works Council, as reported stolen, and he admitted stealing the articles, the subject of the charge. The Malco pump was found at his place of employment. At an early hour on the morning of October 6, Kennedy accompanied the police to his previous place of employment, about 10 miles from Calliope, where a portion of the other articles mentioned in the charge, were found. Kennedy was brought to Gladstone, where he was arrested.

CONVICTED AND FINED.

Broszat, on the first charge, was convicted and fined £4/9/8, to include restitution of £1/9/8, in default two months' imprisonment in the Brisbane Gaol.

On the second charge Broszat was convicted and fined £3, in default one month in the Brisbane Gaol, and on the third was convicted and fined £1, in default 14 days' in the Brisbane Gaol, the sentences to be concurrent.

Kennedy was convicted and fined £5/11/9, to include restitution of £1/11/9, in default 6 weeks' imprisonment in the Brisbane Gaol.

The articles recovered were ordered to be returned to their respective owners.

SWEET POTATOES STOLEN.

William Peter Carmichael (41), farmer, was charged with stealing two bags of sweet potatoes, valued at £1, the property of John Jensen and Alfred William Winkleman.

Carmichael elected to be dealt with summarily, and pleaded guilty. He was convicted and fined £4, to include restitution of £1, in default two months' imprisonment in the Brisbane Gaol.

FACTS DISCLOSED.

The facts, as disclosed by Sergt. Gill, were that the potatoes were dug from the property of Jansen and Winkleman between September 26 and October 3. A complaint was made to the police, and while Constables Gerber and Farrel were investigating another matter at Taragoola at a late hour on October 5, ascertained that two bags of sweet potatoes had been disposed of to a Gladstone business man. Carmichael was questioned, and he admitted having stolen the potatoes and sent them to Gladstone by a Taragoola resident, where they were sold for the sum of £1.

Carmichael was requested to come to Gladstone, where he was arrested and charged.

FOUR CHARGES OF STEALING.

Joseph James Dicker (19), meatworker, was brought before the Court on three charges of stealing:—

(1) 8ft. of air hose and two quarts of S.A.E. 50 motor oil, valued at 17/4, the property of Frederick Williams, trading as Port Curtis Motors (Pty.) Ltd.

(2) One Lucas motor cycle battery, valued at £2, the property of Harold Percy Tweed.

(3) One motor cycle battery, valued at £3, the property of Fred, Naegele.

(4) Three spark plugs and one Delco Remy distributor cap, valued at £1/12/6, the property of Frederick Williams, trading as Port Curtis Motors (Pty.) Ltd.

THE FACTS.

The facts, as disclosed by Sergt. Gill, showed that a complaint was made to the police that the hydraulic ramp section of the premises of the Port Curtis Motors were entered on the night of October 4, access having been gained by forcing two battons off the rear of Tweed's garage, thence through a window of the section mentioned. Eight feet of air hose had been cut from a length of 30 feet, and the hose and the oil were found to be missing from the premises.

SECOND CHARGE.

With respect to the second charge, the complainant, who is a garage proprietor, missed the battery between October 1 and 5, while the third charge disclosed that two American soldiers were on leave at Gladstone, and stayed at the Young Australian Hotel. The complainant left his motor cycle at the kerbing, near the hotel, at 7.30 p.m. on the night of September 30, and on returning several hours later discovered that the battery and a quantity of tools were missing from the motor cycle.

AIR HOSE FOUND.

On the afternoon of October 18 Constable Gerber interviewed Dicker, who denied having committed any of the offences. However, he accompanied Constable Gerber to a house at Barney Point, where a battery was found. Dicker claimed the battery as his property, and made several explanations as to how it came into his possession, which included having stolen it at Rockhampton. Dicker was then accompanied to his residence in Roberts Street, where Constable Gerber found the air hose in his bedroom. After further interrogation Dicker admitted having stolen the hose, also the oil and the battery.

MOTOR CYCLE BATTERY.

On the morning of October 19 Dicker was again questioned by Constable Gerber regarding the battery installed on his motor cycle, and he admitted having stolen it off the motor cycle on the night of September 30. He was then arrested.

HOME SEARCHED.

Subsequent to Dicker being dealt with by the Court, Constable Gerber accompanied him to his home, where a search was made of his duchess drawers, and the spark plugs, which had not been used, also the distributor cap, were found. Dicker, on being questioned, admitted having stolen them from the counter of the premises of Port Curtis Motors during business hours.

PLEADED GUILTY.

Dicker elected to be dealt with summarily on the four charges, and pleaded guilty.

CONVICTED AND FINED.

On the first charge Dicker was convicted and fined £2/17/4, to include restitution of 17/4, in default two months' imprisonment in the Brisbane Gaol.

On the remaining three charges Dicker was convicted and fined £2, in default two months' in the Brisbane Gaol on each charge, the sentences to be concurrent.

Mr. Donovan ordered that all articles recovered be returned to the respective owners.

(We do not necessarily identify ourselves with the views expressed by correspondents.)

"WHY WAIT?"

Sir,—As one of the "Miserable Communist Howlers," I would like to reply to an article entitled, "Why We Wait," by "Old Digger."

"Old Digger" must be suffering from a serious decline of his mental faculties, either from old age or from bigotry. His antipathy to the "stay-at-homes" shows a completely erroneous view of the relative importance of the armed forces and the forces of production.

The army of workers in this war, more so than in any previous conflict, is of the utmost importance to a warring nation. The country with the highest production of war materials has the initial advantage. A war can only be carried on if there is a steady supply of war materials available, and is regulated by that supply.

For over two years a second European front has been promised. Since Dunkirk Britain has been building up formidable armed forces; her production of war materials is constantly increasing; the men and materials necessary for an invasion have long been available, yet this second front has yet to materialise. Why?

The opening of a second front is no military impossibility. It is the logical strategic move for a speedy defeat of Fascism and the shortest and easiest road to Berlin.

The invading forces would not be alone, but would have the support of the down-trodden masses of occupied Europe, and this support would be an invaluable factor in making easy the landing and consolidation of the invading forces.

The Red Army destroyed the myth of the invincibility of the German army, and by determination and courage, has hurled Hitler's Fascist hordes back and back, almost from Russian soil. The ultimate defeat of the German armies in Russia is only a matter of time, but this will not mean the defeat of Germany.

A heavy blow by the Allied forces in the west, in conjunction with the mighty advance of the Red Army, would result in a speedy collapse of Germany, and the defeat of Germany would be an important factor in the bringing about of a successful termination of the war with Japan.

Food for much thought lies in the fact that most of the reaction to the opening of a second front comes from anti-Sviet forces. Again why?

Is this the feeling of friendship and co-operation that should exist between Allied Nations.

Yours etc.,
W. J. RABNOTT.
Oaka Lane, Gladstone.

SECOND FRONT.

Sir,—Impelled by seemingly disruptive motives, to-day there are sections of the community who attempt to distort the necessity of opening a second land front in Europe. Our recent victorious landing in Italy demonstrate to us the numerical and qualitive superiority the Allied Nations have over the Fascist-Axis. The hasty conclusion of the war is bound up with the opening of the second front.

"We have not yet made a real assault on Europe," said Colonel Knox on October 5, 1943.

Why is this? Have we not had two years, and more, to produce every kind of weapon for the second front, to train our millions of soldiers to the highest pitch?

We have contributed much, but not yet made a real assault, because there are small but influential groups in the Western Democracies who are doing so well out of the war that they are not anxious for it to end.

Because great financial industrial groups, feeling that the danger of defeat has passed, are scrambling for advantage over their business competitors, placing their selfish ambitions before the interests of the democratic cause.

Because the appeasers, who sold Czechoslavakia and other peoples to strengthen Germany's hand against Russia, wish to see the workers' Soviet Socialist Republis weakened. The men which are throwing in their whole power to delay decisive blows against Western Europe to achieve this contemptible aim.

If these influences succeeded what would it mean?

It would mean that the war would be prolonged in the Pacific as well as in Europe. The people of all countries, not the appeasers and big financial groups, would have to pay a terrible price in death and misery.

It would mean that Australia's gallant 17,000 captured at Singapore would languish in the barbaric concentration camps of Japanese fascism.

It would mean that the prospects, so near to-day, of Australians uniting to create a decent life in conditions of peace and security would recede into the distant future.

Those who oppose the second front now know very well that the only second front is a front in Western Europe, which would draw 60 to 80 divisions from the Russian front.

They know very well Hitlerite Europe would crumble beneath the weight of the blows struck in the East by the Red Army, by the blows in Italy, from the air and the west, and that victory over Japan could follow speedily.

They know that the only reasons for delaying the blow are political reasons.

They have no arguments left. They fear that the people's demand will win, and their last cry is "Leave it to the brass hats."

But any soldier will tell you how often the brass hats have been wrong and the rank and file (the people) right.

Because this is a people's war against Fascism, the people have a right and a duty to play a leading part in formulating the outlines of the military and political strategy of the war.

It is in our interests that the second front be launched at once.

For our own sakes, for our own flesh and blood, for our children's sakes, we, the people, cannot be silent.

We must end the criminal delay.

We must win the immediate invasion of Western Europe.—Yours, etc., on behalf Gladstone Branch Communist Party.

LEN SHORT.

FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN

SLOGAN COMPETITION

Prize Winners

The Mayor (Ald. G. G. Dennis) and Mr. T. L. Williams, Minister for Agriculture, recently presented the pennants and certificates won by local schools in connection with the National Savings State School competition.

The Mayor's pennant was won by the Parson's Pt. School, which gained the honour with an amount per capita of £2/14/5, and thus took the blue ribbon of the local school competition.

Gladstone State School, with an amount per capita of £1/3/2, won a certificate of merit.

The handsome pennant, on a dark blue background, won by the Town of Gladstone in the 3rd Liberty Loan for exceeding the number of subscribers, has also been received by the Mayor, and is on view at the Council Chambers.

SLOGAN WINNERS.

The judges (Messrs. W. H. Hall and A. E. Taylor) reported as follows:—

The slogan competition sponsored by the Gladstone War Loan Committee in connection with the 4th Liberty Loan, and open to children attending any of the schools in Gladstone, attracted 127 entries, 70 from the boys and 57 from the girls.

Unfortunately, many of the competitors, missing the point that the slogan was to be in connection with the loan, confined their efforts to War Savings Certificates, War Savings Stamps, and other activities related to the war effort, which, of course, excluded their entries from consideration by the judges. Had this not been so the work of the judges would have been considerably more difficult, as many of these were exceptionally good.

Although it rarely happens in prize giving for either scholastic attainments or competitions of this nature, that the boys take the honours, their efforts on this occasion were generally much superior to those of the girls.

The ideal slogan must be short and pithy, but the majority of the entries from the girls, although expressing excellent sentiments, were more in the nature of a discourse in rhyme rather than a slogan.

While it may be admitted that as a general rule the use of many words is the female's prerogative, this is not acceptable so far as a slogan is concerned. Hence, when their entries were whittled down, very few were left to choose from, and the prizes have been awarded as follows:—

Mary Comino, with "Save and Lend to Make the War End" 1
Aileen Power, with "To Help the Boys to get back Home Invest Your Savings in the New War Loan" 2

To choose the winner from the dozen entries selected as being the better ones received from the boys, presented a major difficulty, however, and in the final analysis the judges were inclined to favour those which epitomised our present-day spirit of aggressiveness. It will be remembered that the country's logan for the last loan was "Lend to Defend," but on this occasion it is "Back the Attack." Hence the prizes have been awarded as follows:—

William Noon, with "Pound the Enemy with your Pounds" 1
Rober Phillips, with "By Buying Bonds You're Buying Bombs" 2

An entry with a local appeal, comprising a poster and slogan combined, attracted the judges' attention, and they have decided to award the competitor a special prize of war stamps to the value of 10/. This entry was in the form of a map of Queensland with Gladstone marked conspicuously, and showed aeroplanes across the face with bombs falling, and a caption reading:—

"Put Gladstone on the map
Destroy Tojo the Jap
By buying War Bonds."

Although the competitor did not make use of Prime Minister Curtin's threat during the last loan, "Fill the loan or else——!" something of that nature was inferred, as both the aeroplanes and bombs are heading south. The competitor is Colin Gosschalk.

Would you want HIM to know you said..."I can't afford to invest in the LIBERTY LOAN?"

What is your share of the war? Doing your daily job—in factory, in office, in home? Fine! Australia needs men and women who work for victory in countless ways. But how does your job compare with that of the digger in the jungle, the airman, the sailor? Yours is more pleasant—and more profitable. Nothing you can do can measure up with his difficult task . . . no sacrifice of yours can compare with what he is freely offering. It's up to you—to deny yourself so that you can afford to invest in the Liberty Loan.

Back the Attack!

GERMAN SOLDIER

"Bestial Young Fanatics"

In the great volume of war reporting coming from the Italian front there has recently been some reference to a new type of German soldier. Although not given outstanding prominence, these references have provided a glaring spotlight on the varying principles that inspire the combatant nations.

One report speaks of "bestial young fanatics who are probably the most vicious individuals yet produced by Nazism," and members of the Allied forces who have interrogated these boys, most of them no more than seventeen, express horror at their "poisonous mentality."

These children, for they are little more, are said to be mainly responsible for many ghastly atrocities committed against Italian women and girls by the retreating German forces. If this be true, and there seems little reason to doubt the evidence, then the complete destruction of Nazism is indeed a humar duty apart from political and military considerations.

The creation of this inhuman species demonstrates conclusively and fearfully that the future peace and progress of the world depends almost entirely upon the education and development of the world's children.

In the democracies we have so far not attempted a forced growth, and our education has been directed generally towards producing individuals with adequate ability to maintain themselves and sufficient ethics to live together as a community.

So far democracy has worked, but if it is to continue working our future generations must apply its principles more earnestly, for without a firm faith and unshakeable conviction that our way is right, there can be no survival in this age of mental revolution.

The totalitarian States have shown that it is possible to develop a new faith in one generation, and to create a people whose morality is based on one common principle.

In the case of Germany the result has been a nation of lustful neo-pagans, believing that might is right.

On the other hand, the Russian youth believes in Russia, and asks no more than to be left alone to develop its own destiny.

We, the democracies, have accepted for many generations that the principles of Christianity are the basis for all human contact and relationship. We believe that all men are equal in the sight of God, and that our duty is to develop humanity as nearly as possible as one family. If this ideal is to become a real belief and driving force it must be inculcated in our children.

LOAN QUIZ

When does the Fourth Liberty Loan close?

The Fourth Liberty Loan closes on Tuesday, November 9.

Why is the Fourth Liberty Loan a good investment?

Because bonds are backed by the vast natural resources and large national revenue of Australia. Interest is high (2½ per cent for five years, and 3½ per cent for 16 years), and, if necessary, bonds are convertible at any time.

ACROSS THE OCEANS

Floating Steel Islets

Steel has one big post-war job already lined up for it—the construction of floating steel islets to act as seadromes. The Pennsylvania-Central Airlines have plans already formulated to carry out "just as soon as steel is available."

These steel islets will be complete with refueling airport and hotel facilities, and will be spaced at 800 mile or three hours by air intervals.

Each one will weigh 64,000 tons, with 70 feet of steel above the water and 160 below. They will be equipped with vertical buoyancy tanks supporting the landing decks.

These ready-made plans are particularly interesting in view of the attention now being given to post-war aviation. The Lord Privy Seal, Lord Beaverbrook, announced in London last week that the recent Empire air conference had reached unanimous decisions.

"We hope to forward at once to an international conference," Lord Beaverbrook added.

Australia must be ready to attend this coming conference with concrete plans, and she must see that her views are put forward by an aviation expert.

At the empire conference Australia was represented by her High Commissioner, who cannot be expected to be an aviation authority.

Australia is no longer at "the other end of the world," and the planning of internal airways will not be enough if Australia is not going to be submerged in the post-war world.

SUGAR CANE

Harvested by Machine

To save manpower, Louisiana Sugar Bowl sugarcane is now being harvested by machine.

Three types of machine are used. Two merely cut the stalks, but the third not only cuts the cane, but loads it as well. This is the heaviest of the machines. The others are light enough to be pulled by a medium sized tractor. They can cut cane at the speed of seven or eight miles an hour, with a saving of from a half to two-thirds of the labour usually employed.

APPEAL FOR BOOKS AND CARDS

Help the Boys

The Australian Comforts Fund is urgently appealing for books, magazines, playing cards, or any other indoor games or sporting material for the men of the fighting forces.

The men in the front line or outposts are entitled to these amenities of life, and the Fund asks residents to do their best to supply these articles.

Mr. A. W. Young, Gladstone Cash and Carry, has kindly consented to take possession of these donations, so please forward all you can without delay, and thus help the Fund to help the boys.

A little knowledge is a dangerous thing, particularly when it deals with ships. Gossipers who know only a little still may talk enough to furnish the enemy with the vital link in his chain of information.

NEWCASTLE STEELWORKS

Press Delegates Impressed

"The marked industrial adaptability of Australian workmen and technicians is well demonstrated at these steelworks," said Mr. Samuel Storey, Conservative M.P. for Sunderland, a member of the British Press delegation which inspected B.H.P. Steelworks at Newcastle last week. Mr. Storey is chairman of the Portsmouth and Sunderland Newspapers Ltd., and a former chairman of Reuters.

"We are all impressed," Mr. Storey added, "by the fact that Australia has acquired so much industrial efficiency with so little assistance from overseas. The steelworks are remarkably self-contained.

Two other members of the delegation, Sir Walter Layton (chairman of the London "News-Chronicle" and "Star") and Sir Neville Pearson (chairman of C. Arthur Pearson Ltd.) also inspected the steelworks, climbing over girders, shielding their faces from the glare of furnaces, dodging shunting engines and swinging crane loads, to gain first-hand knowledge of this vital industry.

"The immensity of the works undertaken in these steelworks far exceed my expectations," said Sir Walter.

The three delegates were particularly interested in the work of a group of young scientists who evolved the first Australian process for the making of tungsten carbide products. The process was formerly regarded as a monopoly of the German Krupps armament firm.

PEOPLE OF GREAT BRITAIN

Get the Plainest of Food

Since the outbreak of war the people of Great Britain have been subsisting on the plainest and the minimum of food capable of maintaining health and energy.

From October, 1939, up to the present time their meat ration has been about 1 lb. per week per head—actually the amount that can be bought retail for 1/2.

During four years of war the weekly ration scale, apart from meat, has been: Bacon 4 ozs., fats (butter, margarine, cooking fats) 8 ozs., sugar 8 ozs., tea 2 ozs., cheese 3 ozs, and preserves 1 lb. (per four-week period).

This has been supplemented by wholemeal bread, potatoes, and fresh vegetables, not in superabundance, but sufficient to satisfy hunger and meet the demands of health.

It is a Spartan diet under any conditions, but under four years of sustained and extremely hard physical work, of bombing and the destruction of cities, that have deprived the people of the ordinary comforts of life, it is an epic illustration of the resolution and endurance of the British character.

BRITAIN'S STERN TEST.

Now the people of Great Britain are still faced with a stern test. Lord Woolton, Britain's Food Minister, recently stressed the likelihood of the meat ration being endangered during the coming year.

"I am afraid," he stated, "that next year, in the case of meat, we shall be even more dependent on our overseas suppliers than before; but this I know for a certainty, that those countries will leave nothing undone to give us physical strength to carry us through the struggle that lies ahead.

Circumstances in the past have prevented Australia from sending greater quantities of food. At the outset of the war diversion of shipping restricted export, and, with Japan's entry into the war the obligation was forced on the Government of feeding the Allied services in the South-West Pacific.

The shifting of the population from a peace footing to a war basis, as everyone knows, involved the dislocation of transport, shortage of labour in every industry, secondary as well as primary, and the recasting of production objectives.

INTERNATIONAL RED CROSS
AID TO RUSSIA
JUST A SECTION OF RED CROSS WORK

The following amounts have been subscribed by the Red Cross Society direct to Russia:—British Red Cross Society £3,100,000. Canadian Red Cross Society 1,000,000 dollars. American Red Cross Society 3,500,000 dollars. The shipments consisted of drugs, medical supplies and clothing to U.S.S.R.

THE AUSTRALIAN RED CROSS SOCIETY has already sent 60,000 sheepskins, medical equipment, and clothing worth £30,000, and also £18,000 in cash direct to Russia. The Red Cross gives succour in all countries to the members of the Forces who may be sick, wounded, or prisoner of war.

Sheepskins for Russia -- Appreciation from Moscow

Received May 15, 1943.

Acknowledgment of a donation of 30,000 sheepskins has been cabled from Moscow to the Australian Red Cross Headquarters by Dr. Kolesnikov, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies. The cable states:—

"The Executive Committee of the Red Cross and Crescent Societies informs you of the arrival of a shipment of 30,000 sheepskins at Vladivostock. The sheepskins and woollen clothing, as well as the sheepskins received before, have been handed over for distribution. I am expressing our sincere thanks for your brotherly help." . . . It costs the Red Cross Society

£1 per week to send a Parcel a week to every Australian Prisoner of War

THE AUSTRALIAN RED CROSS is now sending 10,000 Food Parcels per week to our boys who are prisoners of war in Germany and Italy. This alone is costing the Red Cross £10,000 per week. By the time contact is secured with all our men who are held by the Japanese, the total cost to Australia for our prisoners in all theatres of war will exceed £1,000,000 per year.

When Australia's Prisoners of War return how will you feel if you haven't contributed in some way towards the Prisoners of War Fund?

CURRENT TOPICS

INTEREST-FREE LOAN.

The Manager of the Gladstone branch of the Commonwealth Bank (Mr. W. H. Hall) advises that the sum of £100 had been received as an interest free loan to the Commonwealth Government by Mr. A. J. Jenkinson, of William Street, Gladstone.

GLADSTONE LOAN FIGURES.

Gladstone subscriptions to the Fourth Liberty War Loan yesterday totalled £20,090, representing 245 applicants. The loan closes next Tuesday, and Gladstone is still short of its quota by £12,000.

PATRIOTIC RACE MEETING.

The Hon. Secretary of the Gladstone Turf Club (Mr. Connellan) has received a telegram from Mr. T. L. Williams, M.L.A., advising that the Premier (Mr. F. A. Cooper) had approved of Saturday, November 27, as the date for the patriotic race meeting to be conducted by the club Added money amounting to £80 has been allotted, and programmes are now in the hands of the printers.

SWIMMING CLUB.

All persons interested in the formation of a swimming club in Gladstone are requested to attend a meeting in the Public Baths to-morrow night (Thursday), when the necessary steps for the functioning of a club in our midst will be put before the meeting. It is hoped a good attendance will reward the promoters, and that competitive swimming will again be a feature at the baths. It is also notified that a practice swim will take place to-morrow night.

FOR THE AMBULANCE.

A social evening was held in the Empire Theatre last Wednesday night in aid of the Ambulance by Mesdames M. McLeod and E. Padget, and the sum of £7/3/4 was handed to the Brigade. Mr. R. S. Schule carried out the duties of M.C. in a most capable manner. The Ambulance Committee appreciates the action of the ladies. Music was supplied by Miss Iris McDonald, and extras were played by Miss Brown, Miss V. Bennedick, and Miss Brooks. The free waltz was won by Miss P. McArdle and Mr. J. Imlay.

PADDY'S MARKET.

Mrs. A. H. Friend advises that arrangements are already well forward for the November Paddy's market, which will take place at the RedCross grounds on the 12 th inst. Once again there will be a good supply of marrow fat (purchasers being asked to bring their own containers). There will also be a nice collection of second-hand clothing, and a large supply of fruit and vegetables from country supporters. The monthly dinner basket and the auxiliary aircraft on display in Friends (Pty.) Ltd. will be raffled that day.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL

Private T. Wyatt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Wyatt, of Gladstone, is spending a few days with his parents.

Corporal Minnie Edey, W.A.A.A.F., who has been spending leave with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Edey, left for the south on Saturday to rejoin her unit.

Private Pat Breslin, A.I.F., has returned to a southern base after spending a short leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. P. Breslin, West Gladstone.

Sister E. Coase, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Coase, Gladstone, has been appointed matron of the Cracow District Hospital. Sister Coase, who has been on the staff of the Maryborough Hospital, will leave that city shortly to take up her new duties.

Sergt. Pilot G. L. Hando, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. N. Hando, of Gladstone, has received his "wings" in Canada, his pass being an excellent one. The young flyer expected to be drafted to England. Prior to enlisting he was an officer in the Bank of New South Wales.

In a letter to Mr. Arthur Friend, the Rev. W. E. Boyldew, who was in charge of St. Saviour's parish, Gladstone, for many years, writes interestingly from New Guinea, where he was awaiting his posting to a unit. The padre was in good health and spirits, and wished to be remembered to all kind friends in town and district.

COMFORTS FUND

CHRISTMAS HAMPERS

Appeal For Donations

The packing of Christmas hampers is proceeding smoothly, and it is anticipated that by the end of this month the bulk of the work will have been accomplished.

Gladstone and district are responding well to this appeal. Donations are still well below the quota mark, so send your subscriptions to either Mr. F. Peardon or Mrs. W. J. Garrett, and it will be acknowledged through these columns.

Your name and address will be placed on a card in the hamper.

The local branch of the A.C.F. is hoping that the quota will be filled by the end of the month.

The following goods are included in the hamper:—

One tin fruit, tin cream, pkt. chocolate, 2 ozs. tobacco, pkt. papers, writing pad, envelopes, cake, 2 air-mail letter cards, shaving stick, tube toothpaste, 3 pkts. chewing gum, handkerchief, washer, hussif, pkt. mixed fruit, tin pudding.

The amount of donations previously acknowledged, £111/11/6.

TOWN AND DISTRICT

PUBLIC MEETING

United Action Necessary

The public meeting held in the Town Hall on October 7 last was probably the most representative and enthusiastic public meeting that has been held in the town for many years.

At this meeting it was decided to form a elague to encourage the development of the district, and a sub-committee was formed to draft a constitution.

Tis constitution has now been drafted, and another public meeting is to be held in the Town Hall to-morrow night to consider the draft.

The importance of a league of this sort cannot be over emphasised, and, as every citizen is vitally interested in the prosperity of the district, it is essential that the public again show its interest by attending, and thus assist in the formation of a body truly representative of the whole community.

Politics have no concern in matters of this sort, as we are all working for the same end, the progress of the district.

Let us all unite to show a firm, combined front, for there is no truer saying than "United we stand, divided we fall."

Come to the meeting at the Town Hall to-morrow night (Thursday).

GOLF NEXT SUNDAY

For P.O.W. Fund

All roads should lead to the Gladstone Golf links on Sunday, when play will be for the Gladstone Prisoners of War Fund.

The committee, headed by Mr. Jim O'Donnell, and assisted by associate delegates, have completed all arrangements, including the provision of luncheon, at the club house at 12.30 p.m., and afternoon tea later in the day.

Novel trophies have been presented for the mixed Canadian foursomes.

The first prizes are a paper knife each, made and donated by the professional (Mr. Albert Klemm), who sent these down from New Guinea. Made from cartridge shell and parts of a Jap Zero, they should attract unusual interest.

Mr. Harry Moore has generously donated a pair of towels for the runners-up, so that competition should be keen.

The draw for partners will take place immediately after lunch, when the first pairs will hit off No. 1 tee.

Servicemen and sportsmen generally are cordially invited to attend the function.

COMMONWEALTH EGG CONTROL

FEDERAL BUNGLING

Criticism By Minister

As a result of his recent visit to the Upper Burnett district, when he inquired into the unsatisfactory position in which egg producers in that area were being placed as a result of a recent Commonwealth decision regarding the marketing of eggs produced, the Minister for Agriculture and Stock (Hon. T. L. Williams, M.L.A.) has issued the following statement on his return to Brisbane.

The statement indicates his concern in the matter, and at the same time shows his prompt action in bringing to the notice of the Federal authorities the dissatifaction that exists as a result of the decision in question:—

Already at an inadequate level to meet requirements during certain periods of the year, Queensland's egg production is treatened with a reduction if the Commonwealth authorities persist in compelling farmers in the Upper Burnett district to send eggs to Brisbane instead of allowing them to send the eggs to Rockhampton, where they were formerly marketed.

When the Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Williams) was in the district at the week-end farmers with flocks of from 200 to 400 head of layers pointed out to him and to Mr. P. Rumball (State Poultry Expert) that their activities had been built up upon the Rockhampton markets, and if they were not allowed, under Commonwealth control of eggs, to continue to use these markets, they would reluctantly be compelled to sell their flocks for slaughter.

Cases of the reduction of flocks by slaughter and the cancellation of orders for chickens were noted by the Minister.

The Minister said that its geographical position and also rail services made Rockhampton the natural market for eggs produced in the Monto and Eidsvold shires, and as eggs had to be sent from Brisbane to Rockhampton these two shires at least should be excluded from the control area. He would make representations in that direction to the Commonwealth authorities.

Poultry raising as an adjunct to general farming was capable, under certain conditions, of expansion in the Upper Burnett area, and a means of increasing the supplies of eggs, the Minister said.

Commonwealth control of egg supplies was extended beyond the area controlled by the Queensland Egg Board, the Minister explained.

The inclusion in Commonwealth control of areas in which the industry had been built up on markets other than Brisbane inflicted hardship upon farmers in such areas.

BOXING

Hunter Knocked Out

Tommy Burns went a little further in the direction of "making himself known," as suggested by the Vic. Patrick camp, when he knocked out Tommy Hunter for the full count in the tenth round at the Brisbane Stadium on Friday night.

Excluding a fluke that could never be repeated, when Young Day dropped him with the first punch of the fight in Newcastle some years ago, Hunter was knocked out for the first and only time in his career.

Burns was having his 44th fight, and Hunter became his 28th short-cut victim. For the further benefit of Patrick's admirers, who may be interested in statistics, it made the Queensland champion's 39th win.

Four of his contests have been drawn, including one with Hunter, another with Lisle Law, and his only defeat was a 10-round t.k.o. suffered at the hands of Law for the State lightweight title.

Since that set-back Burns has had a winning sequence of 16 fights.

Burns' performance on Friday night was that of a first-class fighter, only a few minor imperfections which escaped general notice marring his exhibition.

Hunter had one chance, in the third round, when he came mighty close to putting the champion down, but thereafter he was subjected to one of the most systematic, artistic and merciless beatings ever administered in any ring.

FOURTH LIBERTY LOAN

GLADSTONE'S QUOTA £32,000

"Amount Can Be Raised"

The Deputy Prime Minister and Minister for the Army (Mr. F. M. Forde), in his address to the audience at the Embassy Theatre on behalf of the Fourth Liberty Loan Committee on Friday night, said that after the audience had seen the magnificent film "Battle For Britain," it seemed hardly necessary for him to stress the great importance to Australia, to the Empire, and the other democracies, of continuing to throw every ounce of energy into the war effort, to see that the world struggle was brought to a successful conclusion.

SAVED FROM INVASION.

The picture, "Battle For Britain," showed scenes in England during the German bombing raids on London and other cities, and it recorded how the Royal Air Force had saved Britain from invasion.

SPEND £570 MILLION.

Mr. Forde said that for the current financial year Australia would spend £570,000,000 on the war. This was spending at the rate of more than £1,500,000 a day. For the month of August last £47,000,000 had been spent on the war. "This money," said Mr. Forde, "is being used to train, feed, clothe and equip with weapons of war the 842,000 men of the Australian Fighting Forces. When Japan came into the war there were 450,000 men in the Fighting Forces. This number had practically doubled since then, and war expenditure had risen correspondingly.

BATTLE FOR BRITAIN.

"You know what happened during the Battle for Britain. You have seen graphically illustrated what the people of Britain suffered and how 60,000 men, women and children were brutally murdered by the German airforce, which came over England day and night in an attempt to bomb the British into submission.

AUSTRALIAN FIGHTING MEN.

"Australia has been saved that, and a great debt is owed to the gallant men and women of the Australian Fighting Services. The Australian fighting men have made great sacrifices. They have made a name for Australia in the Middle East and in Malaya, New Guinea, and other places that will never die. Our men have also manned Spitfires over Britain, and have taken British bombers over Germany in the raids that are now being made.

SUBSCRIBE TO THE LOAN.

"A few weeks ago I spoke to General Blamey, who had just arrived from New Guinea. He said the people of Australia hardly realised the gallant deeds being performed and the hardships being suffered by our soldiers in the jungles of New Guinea—both A.I.F. and Militia alike. Now, it is up to the people of Australia to see that these men do not lack for anything. They must be given every support and co-operation. They must be provided with better guns, better ammunition, better fighters and bombers. All branches of our fighting services must get an increasing supply of modern implements of war. That is why it is up to every individual who can possibly do so, to subscribe to the present War Loan and to future loans.

FINANCING THE WAR.

"There are no magical ways of financing a war. There are three sound ways to finance this war, and the Government is using them. They are:—Taxation, loans, and the judicious use of the national credit. The loan programme for the current financial year is for £300,000,000, an amount which is well within the capabilities of the Australian nation to raise. The present Fourth Liberty Loan is for £125,000,000.

WAR PROGRAMME.

"The Commonwealth Government, after close consultation with General Douglas MacArthur and the chiefs of the Australian Fighting Services, has laid down a war programme for the current financial year involving an expenditure of £570,000,000, and of this £300,000,000 must be found by raising loans.

TOWN OF GLADSTONE.

"The town of Gladstone, with a population of approximately 6000, has been set a quota of £32,000 for the Fourth Liberty Loan, and that amount can be raised. Up to the present about £18,000 has been subscribed, which leaves £14,000 to be subscribed before November 9. The town will have to make a special effort to raise the £14,000 before that date. The people are not being asked to give their money away. They are merely being asked to lend it to Australia at a good rate of interest.

BACK THE ATTACK.

"The money for the Government war loans is here in Australia. Because of the grand performances of the Fighting Forces, Australia is enjoying a total national income now of £1,300,000,000 a year. The national income was only £700,000,000 a year before the war. Moreover, there is now £380,000,000 deposited in savings banks throughout Australia earning interest at 2 per cent per annum. The rate of interest in the Fourth Liberty Loan is 2½ per cent a year for five years, or 3½ per cent a year for 15 years. It is an advantage to withdraw money from savings accounts and invest it in the loan. Why not do that? By investing in the loan you are backing the attack being made by the Army, Navy, and Airforce.

WAR NEWS.

We are all glad that the war news has shown a wonderful improvement in the last twelve months. It has given great heart to the men and women of the services and the people generally. That position has been brought about not only by the fighting ability and determination of the democracies to defeat the aggressors, but by the improved industrial organisation supplying equipment to the fighting men of Britain, Russia, the United States, Australia, and the other United Nations.

ON ROAD TO VICTORY

"But do not misunderstand the position. Do not imagine that the war is practically over. We would be living in a fool's paradise if we believed that. We can be certain that we are on the road to victory, but there is a long, hard road ahead. We have to prepare ourselves for years of war yet. We cannot relax. Full support for all war loans is one way of seeing that there is no let-up in Australia's determination to play her part in bringing the war to a successful conclusion at the earliest possible time."

CORRESPONDENCE

(We do not necessarily identify ourselves with the views expressed by correspondents.)

HORSE SOME EAGLE.

The letter of "Fair Play," Gladstone, is printed as received.

In furnishing a detailed report of the Gladstone races, held on Oct. 16, there appeared an article on the racehorse Some Eagle, owned by Mr. A. Hulme, of Calliope, a very misleading and damaging article appeared on the ability of his qualifications as a racehorse.

Some irresponsible person, with the lack of real knowledge regarding the horse, has done quite a good deal of damage, and has served no good purpose by his statements.

In fairness to everybody, including Mr. Hulme, I would appreciate it very much if you would allow a little space in your valuable paper for this little comment.

I know for certain he has only ever won one race, and that a hack race in Calliope, and then he was only opposed to a mediocre lot of hacks. Also, the time of the race was in keeping with country hacks. Certainly, he won, so why all this rot about him being an Ajax?—Yours, etc.,

"FAIR PLAY."

(The meaning of the word "article" is a literary composition forming an independent portion of a newspaper, and the only thing wrong with "Fair Play's" letter is that it is not true, as no article appeared in the "Observer" regarding Some Eagle. What did appear was a paragraph in the introduction to the patriotic race meeting that Some Eagle, claimed to be the best horse in the district, was scratched by Mr. Hulme on account of the threatening conditions early on Saturday morning." No more and no less, but certainly no article. The horse did win at Calliape, and also registered a "third" at Gladstone. Despite that some racing men still claim Some Eagle to be the best horse in the district. They may be wrong, but are entitled to their opinion. Again, no mention was made, either directly or indirectly to that Australian champion, Ajax. What "Fair Play" lacks is a full understanding of the words he uses. Strange how the English language is abused.—Ed. "Observer.")

GIFT STALL.

The gift stall, conducted by the Paddy's Market Committee during the past two months has been very successful, and every effort will be made to expand it during November and December. All Red Cross supporters are asked to assist in any way possible.

MINISTER FOR ARMY

MR. FORDE VISITS GLADSTONE

Several Deputations

Mr. F. M. Forde, M.H.R., Deputy Prime Minister, arrived in Gladstone on Friday afternoon, accompanied by other officers of his department. Mr. Forde, who looked exceptionally well, has had a particularly busy period since he last visited the electorate at Federal election date. He is now campaigning in connection with the Fourth Liberty Loan, and addressed the audience at the Embassys Theatre on Friday night, when he strongly urged the filling of the loan.

From the moment of his arrival Mr. Forde was besieged with deputations and interviews on various subjects from the local shortage of beer to more weighty problems facing local bodies. Members of the Waterside Federation, A.M.I.E. Union and the Trades and Labour Council also met Mr. Forde, and brought several matters connected with the industrial field under his notice.

BEER SHORTAGE.

Mr. George Wyatt, President of the Gladstone branch of the Waterside Workers' Federation, headed a deputation of 40 watersiders and representatives of the Trades and Labour Council, who had assembled at the pick-up hall in Oaka lane.

Speakers included the Chairman (Mr. Wyatt), Messrs. L. Funk, J. Gosschalk, D. Lewis, R. Smith, A. Force, C. Boles, M. H. Sammon, and M. Vallis.

Matters dealt with included the shortage of beer in Gladstone, many workers being unable to obtain a drink on ceasing work on account of the influx of service personnel.

It was also stated that the quota allotted the town had been drastically reduced, hotelkeepers having to do with some 1300 gallons per month less than that available five months ago.

Mr. Forde admitted that such a reduction was too severe, and said he would take the matter up immediately with Senator Keane.

TOWN AND PORT.

Messrs. Gosschalk, Funk and Lewis referred to the recent formation of an Advance League in Gladstone to further the claims of the town and port. It was hoped that some progress would be made by combined action, and the industrial unions were ready to pull their weight.

Mr. Forde commended this, and said it was a step in the right direction. It would bring people in who had not previously had a chance to co-operate, and make Gladstone's case far more effective.

WATER SCHEME.

Mr. Funk claimed that Gladstone's progress was bound up in the question of the new water scheme, as shipping and other activities depended on a good supply of water

GOOD WATER ESSENTIAL.

Mr. Forde said a good water supply was essential. He reminded members of his efforts in connection with the Boyne scheme. He had first secured the Council a "B-2" priority, and finally an "A-2" priority, which put the work next to military undertakings. He had also obtained a grant of £10,000 from the Federal Government for the scheme, and despite present difficulties in connection with material and labour, it should now be completed. No doubt, the delay in the past two or three years (Mr. Boles: Over 15 years) had caused anxiety.

MR. FORDE INTERESTED IN SCHEME.

Mr. Forde felt that the Federal Government had done all that was possible, and it now rested with the local Council and State authorities. Personally, he would not rest until he saw the scheme completed and the town given a good water supply, and he would again confer with the Mayor and aldermen.

TRADE OF THE PORT.

Mr. Lewis dealt with the loss of pre-war trade to the port, which had been practically lost, and the small amount of military activity did not nearly compensate. He offered a practical solution by a rearrangement of shipping and cargoes along the coast.

This was supported by Mr. Gosschalk, who pointed out that cattle were being railed past two Central Queensland Meatworks to Brisbane, involving a loss of coal, manpower and rolling stock. At the same time the local canning plant was idle.

Mr. Forde said he understood that the higher ceiling prices for cattle in the south was one of the causes, but he understood that action was being taken to remedy this.

FISHING INDUSTRY.

Mr. Alf. Force referred to the difficulties of local fishermen, who could not purchase nets, twine or lines. The catches of fish to the port were falling considerably, and even the professional fishermen were giving it up. Something should be done to make these lines available to all fishermen, so that more fish would be available to the public.

Mr. Forde asked where the fish were caught, and was told principally the Barrier Reef and rivers. He also asked for a description of Heron and other islands, and their distance from Gladstone. He promised to make representations into the provisions of fishing material, as it seemed most logical for the Government to supply this when they were asking for an increase in fishing catches.

TRADERS AND DOCKETS.

Mr. Dick Smith referred to the practice of certain traders in town refusing to give dockets with articles purchased. He claimed this was a cover for profiteering. "A Yank has a tabby," said Mr. Smith, and paid an exorbitant price for an article. We were then asked to do the same.

Mr. Boles mentioned that Mr. Pollard (price fixing representative) had discussed the matter on a visit to Gladstone some time back. Several local traders absolutely refused to give a docket to the purchaser.

Mr. Forde said he would note this and have inquiries made.

SUGAR TRADE.

The railage of sugar to Brisbane when the port of Gladstone was much nearer, the meagre use of the port despite an enviable local record in turning ships around, and the casual employment for watersiders—some having been five weeks without employment—were referred to by various speakers, who all pointed out the huge waste of effort in linking shipping and rail.

Mr. Forde took a note of the number of waterside workers, their periods of employment, the cargoes which could be shipped here, but were now railed to Brisbane, and other relative matters, and promised a complete investigation.

TO BE INVESTIGATED.

Mr. Sammon handed Mr. Forde an identity card holder of inferior material, for which he had been charged 10/6 at a local store.

Mr. Boles tendered a half-pound of a well known brand of tea, which he said was unusable. Several similar packets had been tried, and no one could drink the beverage.

The two articles were taken by Captain Arthur so that the Minister could investigate the position.

AN HONORARY MEMBER.

In thanking members of the Federation for the opportunity of addressing them and listening to their complaints, the Minister mentioned that he had been a member of the Waterside Workers' Federation for 26 years, having been elected a honorary members by Rockhampton in 1917.

Th President (Mr. Wyatt) thanked Mr. Forde for his courtesy and consideration, and the many informative points given the deputation.

MEAT RATIONING.

A deputation from A.M.I.E. Union, consisting of Messrs. Peter Vock, T. Caterson, and J. G. Darling, met Mr. Forde, and strongly objected to meat rationing, and the allowance of 2½lb. which they claimed was insufficient for industrial workers in a tropical climate.

The speakers pointed out that there was a large waste of meat, and rationing in Central Queensland was not really necessary. Pigs heads and trotters, comprising excellent meats, were melted down for tallow at present.

The deputation also advicated the zoning of cattle to save unnecessary travel, trucking and bruising, and conserve coal and manpower. These cattle should be treated at the nearest works instead of being railed hundreds of miles south.

Mr. Forde was also asked to give priority to the erection of certain buildings at the Gladstone Meatworks.

During his stay in Gladstone Mr. Forde and party visited the Gladstone District Hospital, where they were shown over the institution by the Secretary (Mr. Jas. Burrows).

APPEAL TO PUBLIC

Commonwealth Bank Open Until 8 p.m.

The local War Loans Committee had hopes of its canvassers being able to visit each house in town, but now find that this is not possible, and it has been decided to ask the public to act without the aid of a canvasser.

The investment can be made at any bank, and for the purpose of receiving applications the Commonwealth Bank will remain open all next Friday afternoon until 8 p.m.

The committee, in appealing for this prompt investment, wish to point out that the loan closes next Tuesday.

Full information can be had from any bank, and as Gladstone is a long way behind in its quota, especially in the number of subscribers, full co-operation from every citizen is required.

FOOD SHORTAGE

RELEASE FARMERS' SONS

Quick Action Necessary

The Chairman of the Rockhampton Committee, Australian Food Front Campaign (Mr. J. E. Harding) writes:

This statement is being posted to members of Parliament, to newspapers, to various organisations, and to individuals in all parts of Australia, by the Rockhampton Committee of the Australian Food Front Campaign. If you are a Parliamentary representative, we ask you to voice it on the floor of the House, and to also make your wishes known to the Ministers concerned. If you are an editor, we ask you to publish it in your paper. Secretaries of organisations, we ask to have it read and considered at the next meeting of your members. Every person who reads it we ask to write to your member of Parliament, or direct to the Minister concerned, supporting the requests made below.

The very great drain of manpower from the rural industries to the Army and secondary industries has so reduced present and potential production of foodstuffs, while the use of Australia as a main base for the war in the Pacific has so vastly increased consumption, that a shortage of essential food has become a menacing danger. The seriousness of that menace has not yet been realised.

The decision of Cabinet to release 15,000 men from the Army for rural work indicates that the Government is to some extent aware of it.

We suggest that every organisation, no matter what its nature, should write to the Federal Government, requesting:—

(1) That the men be released at once, so that food crops can be planted in time for this season. That all usual time-taking formalities be cut out. That telegraphic instructions be issued for the release of the men and plane transport be provided. That every facility be made available for production, such as spare parts for machinery, fuel for tractors and trucks, tyres if necessary, fertilisers, wire, netting, poisons for pest control, etc.

(2) That only experienced men be sent to farmers, such as owners of farms, the sons of farmers and graziers, and former employees.

Regarding request (1), the men should have been released more than two months ago to get the best results for this season. The useful time left is so short that not one day should be lost in getting the men on to the farms.

Relative to request (2), it will be fatal to send men without experience. They would be useless. A farmer needs a lot of actual experience. Every farm has particular needs, which only the man who has worked that farm can know, and they alone can get the best results from it. To release fifteen hundred sons of farmers or former employees, and return them to the farms from which they were enlisted, will certainly achieve greater production than would fifteen thousand men without experience, or even with good farm knowledge but without experience of the particular farm to which they were returned.

There are thousands of farms where valuable plant and land is idle because one or more sons or employees have volunteered or have been called up. On these farms the release of the one or two sons or employees will greatly increase production in a short time. The release of strangers will not do the job. It must be the man or men who have worked on that farm. The extreme importance of this factor cannot be too strongly stressed. Even if these men are right in the battle line, they can do a far more useful and urgent job on the farm they know, while another man takes their gun or plane. For the same reason, any expense that will get them back to their farm a little more quickly is fully justified.

This is for the sake of the Nation, not for the benefit of the farmer. We suggest that the Government should appoint a special staff to at once review every application that has been made by a farmer or grazier for the release of a son or employee, and in every case that appears genuine the man be released at once.

We advise every farmer who has work for his son or former employee to at once make another application to the local War Agricultural Committee. We would like a copy of your application.

The urgency of this matter will be brought home to the Government if every organisation (and individual too) will write to their local M.H.R., or direct to the Federal Government, making the two requests named above.

The danger of food shortage in Australia now is as grave as the danger of Jap invasion was twelve months ago.

COMFORTS FUND

Toy and Gift Ctall

The Gladstone branch of the A.C.F. will conduct a toy and gift stall about the end of November.

The convenors (Mesdames C. Chapman and W. Keller) and an energetic committee are working hard to make this a success, and would appreciate donations of cash, remnants of material, and wool suitable for making toys and gifts, or any used toys in fairly good condition that could be renovated for sale.

Orders will be taken and donations received by the convenors (Mesdames Chapman and Keller), hon. sec. (Mrs. Garrett), or call at the A.C.F. rooms, Grand Hotel buildings, on Tuesday or Friday afternoons.

IN NEW GUINEA

BEST "SECRET AGENT"

Australian Wireless Equipment

Good news continues to come in from New Guinea.

"In my opinion, our present success in New Guinea has been made possible by the superiority of Australian-made wireless equipment," said the aviator and engineer, Ray Parer, now back in Sydney after serving six months in the New Guinea area as an engineer with a U.S. service.

"In New Guinea," he went on, "it's not strength that counts as much as knowledge. Air and land superiority would be of little use if we did not know how to place it, and the Lae and Salamaua actions proved conclusively that we have the upper hand as far as transmitting information goes.

"To be prepared is essential, and without wireless, preparedness is impossible, for we are dependent on listening posts to send in warnings of coming air attacks.

"These posts can give the number of enemy planes and other vital information long before any aircraft is actually in sight.

"Once when I was at a certain base we were told by the listening post to stand by for a raid in a quarter of an hour. It came in a quarter of an hour, too, but by then we had had time to take precautions.

"Secrecy, of course, is almost as important as efficiency in wireless operation," Ray Parer went on. "And I must say," he added with a grin, "that the Aussies are past masters when it comes to hiding their installations. I did a lot of wandering round during the six months I was in the New Guinea area, and never once did I come across one of their 'secret' observation posts.

"I've had many opportunities of realising just what good radio contact means," the famous aviator went on. "And like all our chaps up north, I felt a real thrill of pride every time I saw our wireless operators leaning over their instruments and carrying on with their job under fire.

"I remember one occasion in New Guinea when I came across an apparatus I had actually inspected in Sydney, where I'd been very interested in its performance. I little thought then that I'd run across it again in a corner of the jungle! I had reached an advanced station, so far advanced in fact that nothing had been established except the wireless tent and the mess hut. But the wireless outfit had managed to take a loud spaker with them. I sat on a log with my mess pannikin on my knee and listened to a news broadcast from home. It was the first news from outside that most of the boys had heard for months. You've no idea what a great sensation it gave us—and what emotion it stirred up. It's an experience I shall never forget.

"But going back to actual warfare. Practically every move in New Guinea is dependent on radio. Australia seems to be able to supply increasingly superior equipment, and so long as this continues we can't help being a jump ahead of the Japs. Whatever they do we can be ready for them. Our wireless has a way of knowing how many and how soon they will be against us. It is the best 'secret agent' in the world."

GLADSTONE PEOPLE THANKED.

(To the Editor.)

Sir,—I have been instructed by the Gladstone War Loans Committee to thank the people of Gladstone who assisted in various ways in making the recent War Loan a success.

The work in connection with the War Loan, whether done by the Committee or any person whose services have been co-opted, was all honorary, and not one penny was received or expended by the Committee.

The Committee does not wish me to particularly mention names of individuals, whose efforts were so generously given in support of the Loan, but it does wish to record its appreciation of the efforts of the press, clergy, theatre proprietors, speakers and firms.

The courtesy shown to the canvassers by the general public is also appreciated.

Yours, etc.,
J. BURROWS, Secretary.

AT BEECHER

A Sports Meeting

Residents of the Beecher district and members of the C.C.C. met last Tuesday night to discuss arrangements for holding a day's sports in aid of the Red Shield Mobile Canteen, on Saturday, November 20th.

A committee was formed, Mr. E. Jefferis being elected chairman, Mr. Michel treasarer, and Mr. Kirkwood secretary.

A programme of horse and pedestrian events, with prize money totalling £20, was drawn up, with a dance to follow at night.

Programmes will be printed and distributed throughout the district.

Any donations will be gratefully acknowledged by the secretary, Mr. J. W. Kirkwood.

Savings stamps, war savings certificates, Commonwealth loans, are vital instruments in waging the war against the powers of darkness. You have a part to play.

DECENTRALISATION OF POPULATION

60 PER CENT IN CITIES

Country Industries Essential

Emphasising the urgent importance of taking action in Australia to bring about a proper balance between primary, secondary and commercial activities, the Leader of the Australian Country Party (Mr. Fadden) said that for some considerable time past he and other members of the Country Party had recognised the need for the decentralisation of industry.

Mr. Fadden's remarks were prompted by a statement by the Minister for Customs (Senator Keane) that it was atrocious that more than 60 per cent of the people should be concentrated in cities when great areas in the country awaited development.

Mr. Fadden said that decentralisation of industries was the policy which the Country Party had pursued. It was outlined in his Country Party policy speech, and would have been pushed forward had members of the party been returnd to power.

"As far back as May, 1939, I advocatd in Parliament the necessity for the decentralisation of our population," said Mr. Fadden. I stated that at that time records revealed that while our population had increased by 38.4 per cent over 20 years, the population of the six capital cities had grown by 58 per cent., whereas that of country districts had increased by only 24 per cent.

Now, in Senator Keane's own statement that more than 60 per cent of the people are concentrated in the cities, the position has become considerably worse.

This state of affairs calls for immediate remedial action. The position cannot be allowed to drift, otherwise it will become very dangerous.

The Australian Country Party stands for the stimulation of country development and a wider distribution of population by decentralisation of industry, more intensive land settlement, and the provision of all facilities essential to modern civilised life and an opportunity for profitable occupation.

There is an urgent need to adopt measures to ensure the dispersal of our population over wider areas, both now and in the future. Since the war with Japan brought about an expansion of war industries located in and near the cities, the drift of population from rural areas has been such that to-day our cities are far too over-crowded for the national good.

Therefore, it is of first-rate importance that the Government should do something towards bringing about a more even distribution of population. To this end it is essential there should be formulated comprehensive water conservation and electricity supply schemes.

Water conservation is highly important, not only for rural industries, but for the promotion of secondary industries in country districts. Similarly, the provision of large supplies of cheap electricity, and intelligent revision of rail freights and motor transport control are also important to the success of any decentralisation plan.

The country people of Australia have justifiable claims for a better distribution of industry. In considering the question, the Government should regard as its prime objective the establishment of a well-balanced State, in which a due proportion is maintained between primary production, secondary production, and trade."

PRISONERS OF WAR

REPATRIATED TO ENGLAND

PRIVATE LIEPER said: "We would have starved but for RED CROSS PARCELS. When we were first captured we were given twice a day potatoes and water. On this I had to work hard in a stone quarry."

One man said: "At one stage some of our chaps lived for seven months on RED CROSS PARCELS. The food the Germans gave us was simply spuds and bread. Once seven of us had to live for a day on a loaf weighing 3 and 1/3rd lbs. The bread consisted largely of wood shavings and sawdust.

"The Germans really fear the Russians and are treating their prisoners badly. In the winter of 1941 as many as 50 were dying daily in a camp. The bodies were thrown into cesspits. We used to throw scraps of food to the Russian prisoners wherever possible."

SERGEANT FRED BUTTERFIELD, from Fairfield, N.S.W., expressed deepest appreciation for everything done for the men. He said: "We cannot say enough for what the Red Cross has done for us. Without their help I do not think we would be here alive to-day. Everyone with relatives in German prison camps can be assured that, thanks to the Red Cross, the boys will be looked after. Everyone will get home."

CAN ANYONE TURN A DEAF EAR

CURRENT TOPICS

CHRISTMAS TRAINS.

The Railway Commissioner (Mr. P. R. T. Willis) has announced that no special Christmas trains would be run on the Queensland railways this year. He said the decision not to run extra services was due to circumstances over which the department had no control.

REAL ESTATE AND LOANS.

Investors in real estate will have to satisfy the Commonwealth Treasury they have invested a required amount in war loans before consent will be given to purchase real estate. Homes being bought for the use of the purchaser and other properties under the value of £500 are excluded from these restrictions.

DIMMING OF STREET LIGHTS.

An immediate investigation has been ordered by the Commonwealth Electrical Controller (Mr. Moss) into the action of the Sydney County Council which decided to ignore the Government's order to dim street lights. The Council directed its general manag : not to proceed with the dimming of street lights, and passed a resolution protesting to the Government against the enforcement of the order on the grounds that badly lighted stree's were dangerous to the community. Mr. Moss said that he was having the matter investigated to decide what action should be taken.

CHURCH AND STATE.

"Relations between the Church and State are obviously important, and it is the complementary nature of these two authorities that leads to a happy national life," said the Archbishop of Brisbane, the Most Rev. R. C. Halse. The Archbishop was speaking at a civic reception given him by the Lord Mayor (Ald. Chandler). "I will be very happy," he said, "to do anything I can to help the State or city to further its functions. I want to learn all I can about the problems confronting us in the Church and State, and to get to know the needs of these bodies."

LADY COLLECTORS.

The hon. organisers of the P.O.W. Committee have decided to endeavour to canvass some short sections of the town not yet in the scheme. With this end in view lady collectors are asked to assemble at 2 p.m. this afternoon at the residence of Mr. Connellan. The streets to be canvassed are Toolooa Street, from the Railway Station to Eggstein's Store; Short Street, and some other short sections and lanes in the Valley. Mrs. Watson will be in charge of the canvass, and ladies will be conveyed by car to the various points necessary. Any lady able to assist is asked to get in touch with the organiser as soon as possible.

The number of taxpayers paying Commonwealth income tax has risen more than fourfold since war began, and now stands at approximately 1,500,000 compared with 335,000 in 1938-1939.

WAR LOAN ART UNION

APPEAL FOR MORE SALES

"You Must Back a Winner"

The committee reports that there is still a long way to go before the sales equal the prize money, and the Secretary over the last two days has made a wide distribution of books to the various shops and busines houses. Several of the small shops in the past have asked how they may assist the prisoners of war, and it is anticipated that the Art Union will provide the answer. The cause is good, and the organisers thank a generous public in anticipation.

The V.A.D's. continue to sell well, and yesterday handed in the sum of £22/18/- from sales.

The greatest fillip to date, however, from any one individual, came from Mr. Herb Peters, who took seven books at the conclusion of the loan meeting on Tuesday night, and late the following morning 'phoned the Secretary for more books, after having handed in £14. Surely this must be an all-time record, and several inquiries have been lodged as to how it was done. "Hard work," no doubt, will be the finding when the stewards complete their inquiry.

Talking in racing terms, a good sport has drawn attention to the fact that in the Art Union the odds are 1000 to 1 (or £100 to 2/-), with various other prizes thrown in for good measure, and the punter must back a winner. This should pale the odds now being offered about the Melbourne Cup, where there is no guarantee. Do not miss the point in the Art Union, as you must back a winner.

GLADSTONE SUBSCRIPTIONS

£2890 Short of Quota

At the close of banking business yesterday Gladstone subscriptions to the Fourth Liberty War Loan totalled £29,110.

The amount represents 428 applicants, while the number allotted is 431, with Gladstone's quota standing at £32,000.

Further subscriptions will be accepted by the banks up till the closing of business to-day (Saturday).

CHRISTMAS CHEER.

Christmas cheer in cash amounting to about £2000 will be distributed to people receiving relief assistance from the State. About 1400 recipients will benefit. The distribution will be on the same basis as in previous years.

FOR THE AMBULANCE.

The Secretary of the Ambulance Brigade (Mr. W. V. Coase) wishes to acknowledge with thanks the sum of £7 received from the Pastimes Cricket Club, per N. Campbell (captain), being proceeds of a dance held at the Empire Hall in aid of the Ambulance. Mr. W. Ross acted as M.C., and Miss Keane supplied the music. The committee appreciates the kind action of the club.

AMATEUR SWIMMING CLUB.

At a further meeting of the Gladstone Amateur Swimming Club, held on Thursday night last, further appointments of officials were made as follows:—Treasurer, Mr. P. Crow; handicapper, Mr. F. Janson; timekeepers, Messrs D. Groundwater and H. Ringuet; starter, Mr. A. Scheskie; assistant starter, Mr. W. McKenzie; judges, Messrs D. Ritchie and Mr. A. Jenkins; diving judge, Mr. A. Scheskie. Immediately after the meeting a club swim took place, details of which will appear in our next issue.

FOUREX FOR XMAS.

In response to many inquiries concerning supplies of Fourex for the Xmas holidays, the local agents for Messrs. Castlemaine Perkins Ltd. (Gladstone Agencies), advise that their principals have agreed to make a quantity available through local hotels to regular Fourex clients. During the past six months the brewers of this popular ale have not been able to supply it to local hotels, and conditions in the industry have been such that difficulty has been experienced in even forwarding restricted quotas of draught Castlemaine. Shortage of malt and manpower and increased service demands are the factors contributing to this. However, as stated above, a small quantity of Fourex is being distributed in town on Monday next, and early next month about 300 dozen will be delivered. Clients are, therefore, asked to get in touch with their supplier and ask that small quantities be reserved. The Fourex is definitely for local civilian consumption, and not for service needs.

OBITUARY

Mr. E. W. Crow

The death occurred at the Gladstone Hospital at an early hour on Wednesday of a well-known and highly respected citizen in the person of Mr. Ernest Wilfred Crow, after a brief illness, in his 76th year of his age.

Born at Theddlethorpe, Lincolnshire, England, he came to Australia with his brother Duncan as a lad of 16, and his first job was on a station with the Beak family in the Rockhampton district. He then went to Mt. Morgan, and was in the mining centre when the famous mine was opened up.

Afterwards he travelled to Bundaberg and commenced a business connected with the sugar industry when labour was indentured from the Islands. He then went north to Halifax, where he kept a store in the sugar area.

Ultimately he returned to Bundaberg, where he took over the baths from his father, Mr. Robert Crow. He ran these for many years, and when his brother "Sid" went into business at the opening up of Many Peaks he conducted a shop and saloon adjoining the hotel.

Finally he came to Gladstone, where in partnership with his brothers, I. S. and Duncan, and the late Mr. W. J. Prizeman, he obtained a franchise to instal the first electric light plant in the town. He assisted in erecting the plant, and was engineer in charge until it was subsequently sold to the Gladstone Town Council.

Mr. Crow took an active part in assisting the then member for Port Curtis, the late Mr. George Carter, in urging the construction of the Boyne Valley railway line, and had the satisfaction of seeing the railway completed to Monto.

Mr. Crow took a warm interest in public affairs, and was a member of the Harbour Board for 16 years, and was chairman in 1935, and his services were highly appreciated, both by his colleagues and the community.

He was a strong supporter of the plan submitted by Engineer Lindon W. Bates, of London, which was presented to the Queensland Parliament in 1898, the building of a sea wall from Auckland Point to Barney Point, and filling in behind the wall by hydraulic dredge, thus reclaiming valuable land. Some years ago the whole scheme and plan was published in these columns.

As a member of the Harbour Board Mr. Crow was a good worker for the advancement of the port and the progress of the town, rendering valuable service, and he "carried on" with the good work right up until the time of his death.

In politics Mr. Crow was a strong supporter of the Labour Party, a member since its inception, and was an active member of the Gladstone branch of the A.L.P. Mr. Crow was also a foundation member of the Mulgrave branch of the I.O.O.F., Bundaberg.

The deceased is survived by his wife (nee Miss Jones, of Bundaberg), a son, Sergt. J. Crow, in the R.A.A.F., who is now convalescing after an operation in Melbourne, and a daughter, Mrs. R. James, of Biloela. There are two surviving sisters, Mesdames Ralston, Sydney (Edith), and Smith, Sydney (Ada), and one brother, Mr. H. M. Crow, of Rockhampton. Brothers who predeceased him are Duncan (Bundaberg), H. A. B. C. (Childers and Bundaberg), and I. S. ("Sid"), Gladstone. One sister, Mrs. Spence (Clara), of Bundaberg, died some years ago.

The body was conveyed from the parlour on Wednesday night to the Railway Station, en route to Bundaberg for burial. The pall-bearers at the parlour and station were: The Chairman of the Harbour Board (Mr C. W. Macfarlan), the Acting Town Clerk (Mr. V. P. Breslin), the Manager of the Power House (Mr. E. W. Phillips), and the Town Council Water Foreman (Mr. D. D. Jackson).

The funeral took place in Bundaberg on Thursday.

HARBOUR BOARD REFERENCE.

At the Harbour Board meeting, held yesterday, the Chairman (Mr. C. W. Macfarlan) made feeling reference to the death of Mr. E. W. Crow, who had been a member of the Board for sixteen years, and during that time had rendered valuable service in all phases of port development work. He moved that a record be made in the minutes of the Board, and a letter of sympathy be forwarded to the widow and family.

The motion was seconded by Mr. Schache, all members standing in silence for one minute.

HARBOUR BOARD

INTEREST RATES REDUCED

£20 For Development League

The monthly meeting of the Board was held yesterday. Present: The Chairman (Mr. C. W. Macfarlan), and Messrs. W. R. Golding, C. S. Schache, R. S. Wilson, and the Secretary (Mr. A. D. Hopper).

Apologies were received from Messrs A. W. Drewe and J. F. Donovan, who were granted leave of absence from the meeting.

INTEREST RATES REDUCED.

The Treasury Department notified a reduction in interest rates from 5 to 4½ per cent.—Received.

AUDITOR.

The Treasury Department advised that Mr. L. S. Johnston had been appointed auditor for the Board for 1944.

CIVIL DEFENCE.

The Treasury Department, through Mr. T. L. Williams, M.L.A., advised that a further subsidy of £15/3/3 in connection with civil defence expenditure had been made available to the Board.—Received.

DEVELOPMENT LEAGUE.

A letter was received from the Port Curtis Development League, explaining its objects and inviting the Board to become a member.—It was decided to become a member, that Mr. A. W. Drewe be the Board's representative on the League, and also to mak a donation of £20 to the funds of the League.

Payments amounting to £650/1/8 were confirmed, and accounts amounting to £310/4/6 were passed for payment.

LAND COURT

CROWN RENT CLAIMS

Disallowed by Mr. Payne

Claims by the Crown for increased rents for grazing selections of indifferent quality land were disallowed by Mr. W. L. Payne at the Bundaberg sittings of the Land Court.

Mr. Payne said that he had been impressed by the efforts the lessees in the cases concerned were making to get from their country the best production possible, and by the continuing expense to which they were put to maintain their carrying capacities. He was continuing the existing rent for a further seven years, as an encouragement to the tenants. In such cases, if any doubt about rental value existed, he thought that it should be resolved in favour of the tenant.

Rents of Crown tenures were always determined by the Land Court on the unimproved value of the country, plus consideration as to its potentialities. Although rents might be based on developed carrying capacities, it was essential to make full allowance for all expenditure by the Crown tenant on improvements and development. Increasing development of the public estate must be encouraged, and no Crown Land should be rented at a higher rate because of the tenant's own work of development.

ST. ANDREW'S CONCERT

Varied and Interesting Programme

The second annual St. Andrew's Concert will be held in the Town Hall, Friday, 3rd December. The central feature of the varied and interesting programme is the contralto singer, Mrs. C. W. Ewald, of Bundaberg, whose talent is well known at eisteddfodau and celebrity concerts. Items of the children's concert will be repeated, and besides local artists there will be community features. Tickets are on sale from Sunday School children, at the Manse, or at P. M. Jones, where reservations can be made.

COMFORTS FUND

MONTHLY STREET STALL

The usual monthly street stall in aid of the Joint A.C.F. and Patriotic Appeal Fund will be conducted in the Grand Hotel buildings on Friday, November 19.

The energetic convenors (Mesdames C. W. Macfarlane and J. W. Garrett) would appreciate donation of jam, fruit cakes, vegetables, sweets, or any other home manufacture or articles for sale on that date.

Donations may be left with the convenors, or at the Gladstone Cash and Carry.

AUCKLAND CREEK

SCHEME OF BEAUTIFICATION

Friends Offer Appreciated

At the monthly meeting of the Harbour Board, held yesterday, the following letter was received from Mr. A. H. Friend, managing director of Messrs. Friends (Pty.) Ltd., Gladstone:—

"I have to inform you that my directors have considered your request to purchase the small strip of freehold land on Auckland Creek owned by us, being allotment 38a, and part of allotment 37, section 1, town of Gladstone.

"Our decision is that when the Gladstone Harbour Board has given to us in writing that it is committed to the reclamation of the foreshores of Auckland Creek, between Marine Parade and the Creek, and that the work has been put in hand, my company will be pleased to hand over to the Harbour Board free of cost title deeds of the property under review as a gift towards the improvement and beautification of Gladstone, which has so often been described by visitors as one of the picked beauty tourist spots in Queensland, if not Australia.

"We are of the opinion that much good will eventuate from such a progressive view, and we trust the initiative shown by the Board will be followed by other local authorities. The Board is to be congratulated.

"Gladstone has never had an opportunity like the present to place its natural advantages as a port and tourist resort before its visitors than it has to-day.

A FINE GESTURE.

The Chairman (Mr. Macfarlan) said the offer made by Messrs. Friends (Pty.) Ltd. was a very fine gesture, one of extended co-operation, which he felt sure would be deeply appreciated by all members of the Board.

THANKED FOR OFFER.

Mr. W. R. Golding, after endorsing the remarks of Mr. Macfarlan, moved that Messrs. Friends (Pty.) Ltd. be thanked for their offer, and informed that the Board was definitely committed to a scheme of improvement and beautification of the foreshores of Auckland Creek, and hoped to submit a sketch in the near future outlining the Board's proposal.

The motion was seconded by Mr. R. S. Wilson and carried.

WAR LOANS COMMITTEE

GLADSTONE MEETING

Swifts £5000

A meeting of the Gladstone War Loans Committee was held in the Town Hall on Tuesday night. Present: Messrs. G. G. Dennis (chairman), J. Vallis, A. E. Ambrose, E. Fordham, H. Hall, H. Peters, V. Summers, R. Tudman, and J. Burrows.

REPORTS OF LOAN PROGRESS.

State Government Insurance Office advised that a further £1500 had been allocated to Gladstone's quota, making a total of £4000 from that office.

Mr. Hall stated that at the the moment the number of investors in Gladstone was approximately 30 short of the quota, and it was agreed that a special effort be made to reach the quota.

GENERAL.

Members of the committee expressed disappointment at the absence of representation on the committee of certain sections of the community, and it was resolved that when the next loan is mooted a sub-committee be appointed for the purpose of enlisting further support from the business section of the town.

The Secretary was instructed to thank Messrs. Swifts Ltd. and the State Government Insurance Office for allocating £5000 and £4000 respectively of their contributions to the Gladstone quota.

Speakers stated that with very few exceptions the Committee had received generous and whole-harted support, and the Secretary was instructed to thank all those who had supported both directly and indirectly in making the loan as successful as it was.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL

Mr. Mick Spencer, of the R.A.A.F., has been spending a few days leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Spencer, of Gladstone, and has now returned to his unit. His many friends wish him the best of luck.

CRICKET

VALLEYS-PARSON'S POINT

FIRST INNINGS WIN

At the Showgrounds on Sunday last Valleys met a much improved Parson's Point team, the latter winning by 103 runs on the first innings.

Valleys won the toss and decided to bat, Clohessy and McKenzie being the opening batsmen. McKenzie, however, was soon out.

Lester joined Clohessy, and were enterprising for a short time, taking the score to 54, when Clohessy was out l.b.w.

Then the collapse came, four more wickets falling for the addition of only 15 runs, which was due to a fine bowling burst by L. Dennis.

Valley's tail wagged slightly, and eventually they were all out for the small score of 126.

Dennis, with six for 39, was the best bowler.

Parson's Point opened with Stitt and Mason, and both batted freely, scoring 72 before the first wicket fell.

G. Hunt joined Mason, and scoring continued at a fast rate, 152 being on the board, when Mason, due to smart fielding, was run out, his score being 59.

G. Hunt continued to score freely, until he also was run out for 62.

King and A. Hunt were the only other batsmen to reach double figures, 12 and 34 respectively.

Parson's Point total reached 229, and the best bowler for Valleys was C. Schmidt, with five wickets for 50.

Valleys batted again, and soon were in trouble, Dennis bowling Clohessy and Mackenzie for ducks, and Lester for 4.

Valleys were now up against it, as three of their best bats were out for 11, and six runs later C. Griffiths, who is having a lean time with the bat at present, was out, making it four for 17.

B. Ryalls was then batting, and he was joined soon after by C. Schmidt, who held his end up, while his captain scored from anything that was loose.

Valleys eventually were all out for 160, Ryalls 72 and Jefferis 36 making Valley's total, and saving the latter from an outright defeat.

Dennis again was the best bowler, with six wickets for 63.

(By "Player")

Last Sunday I witnessed a game of cricket that rather astounded me, for reasons you may glean for yourself.

Valleys, playing against Parson's Point, had one down for 50, and then what a collapse! All out for 126.

Surely a dose of pick-me-up is needed.

Of the players, more to follow.

The Valley captain (Ben Ryalls) is trying hard to get a partner for Clohessy to open with, and on Sunday he tried W. McKenzie. Well, the trier Mac. may be all right, if he would only learn to face the bowling and not draw away like a plaster on a boil, but keep his wicket covered.

Mark Lester, in the first innings, batted well, but in the second——! Nuff said.

Charlie Griffiths must be getting in ahead of meat rationing, hence the "ducks."

Cliff Schmidt tried out some new footwork, and other Valley players should watch, learn, and practise.

Tim Curran batted well until he got a straight one, and then he departed. Tim, play the straight ones and hit the loose ones.

Joe Jefferis gave his usual safe display before and behind the wickets.

Claude Soppa should remember that the bat is 4 inches wide, not 4 feet.

Pat Johnstone bowled well, but had no support from the other end. This player will improve if taken in hand.

Of the Parson's Point team, it is wonderful what a difference two men can make to a team, to wit, the two Hunts, "Turk" and "Skinno."

"Skinno" played a great knock for 62, and only for bad running between the wickets he would almost certainly have got the century. The run-out showed very poor cohesion between Hunt and Mason, and a few minutes later Mason was also run out.

Did "Tubby" King try to put one on the railway line? His wicket certainly looked sick after that try.

"Turk" Hunt put Charlie Griffiths over the fence for two "zacs," and Charlie was not pleased about that.

Of the balance of Parson's Point team, Les Dennis bowled very well indeed, and deserved his success.

One wonders how Daniels got into the team. For pure tiredness he should win easily, for every movement he made was an effort. This is not in the best interest of the game, and should be looked into and stopped. Either play the game or do not play at all.

Next Sunday Pastimes and Parson's Point meet, and from the rumours going around, about new batsmen, bowlers, etc., one wonders if we are at last to see cricket in this town rise to a high level.

It has also been rumoured that Swifts intend to have the old Meatworks wicket graded level and fenced, and if that is correct one wonders when the Showgrounds will get a dose of the same mixture.

Well, folks, until next week, when I will be with you again, I wish you all good cricket next Sunday, and an exciting game.

BOWLING

HOGAN WINS SINGLES

Pairs to Young-Golding

The well-known bowler, Joe Hogan, won the coveted handicap singles over the week-end, when he met and defeated Mick Busteed in a good game, which went to 44 ends before the former triumphed. Hogan won 31-23, and annexed the trophy presented by Mr. Busteed for the title.

In the pairs contests Young-Golding just beat Joyner-Loveday in a splendid game 25-23, and Comino-Jackson had a comfortable win over Garrett-Busteed 30-19.

SOCIAL GAMES.

Comino, Graham, Mackay and Wilson v. Garrett, Bloss, Friend and Golding 34-22.

Schmidt, Ladner, Archay, Greasley v. Bycroft, Tennant, Browne, Humphries 26-26.

Pring, Tennant, Dahl, Johnston v. Bycroft, Weeks, Matthews, Humphries 30-13.

Seaton, Gardner, Cameron, Cooper v. A. Friend, Smith, Chapman, S. Wilson 20-14.

SERVICES APPRECIATED.

At a meeting of the Gladstone Town Council recently the Acting Town Clerk (Mr. V. P. Breslin) was directed to write to the Minister for the Army (Mr. F. M. Forde), expressing appreciation of his efforts resulting in a grant of £10,000 by the Commonwealth Government for the Boyne River water supply scheme. Mr. Forde has received the letter with thanks.

WATERSIDE WORKERS

PERISHABLE FOODSTUFFS

In Ships' Holds

Delegates at the triennial conference of the Waterside Workers' Federation stated that perishable foodstuffs for military and civilian use had been placed in dirty bilge water in ships' holds.

The conference decided that in the interests of national health the Commonwealth and State Governments should immediately take steps to establish standards of cleanliness to be observed in the holds of all ships where food was stored; that unhygienic practices should be prohibited by regulation under penalties, and that branches of the federation were asked to bring every case before the local health authorities.

It was stated that ships had carried obnoxious cargoes, including soda ash, phosphates, and acids, and had been loaded with food without first being fumigated. Food for the tropics were not adequately protected against contamination.

The General Secretary of the Federation (Mr. J. Healy) said that the health authorities would not tolerate for one minute the same practices that were adopted as a matter of course aboard ships.

MILITIA IN NEW GUINEA

Active and Efficient

More than 40 per cent of the Australian troops used against the Japanese since active fighting began in New Guinea in August, 1942, have been Militia, announced the Prime Minister (Mr. Curtin).

His statement follows allgatons by Opposition members that A.I.F. divisions have been called on to carry most of the fighting in New Guinea, and that the Militia are being withheld from front-line service.

Mr. Curtin said the Militia played an active and efficient part in the fighting against the Japanese in New Guinea.

SMALL HOSPITALS

Abolition Urged

The abolition of small private hospitals as part of Commonwealth-wide plans for the standardisation and improvement of hospital facilities was advocated by Dr. Allan Bruce Lilley, General Superintendent of the Royal Prince Alfred Hospital, in evidence before the Social Security Committee.

He submitted a statement on conclusions of a recent survey in Sydney by a special committee. It disclosed Australia had too many hospitals, many of which were too small to provide adequate service.

The survey recommended that capital cities should have large hospitals, with medical schools as the core of the system, each served by a ring of district hospitals of 200 beds.

A.R.U.

Abolition of State Parliaments

Abolition of State Parliaments and the vesting of powers on all affairs of national concern in the Federal Parliament was urged in a resolution carried at the State conference of the Australian Railways Union. Other resolutions carried urged that:—

Proposals for the extension of Commonwealth powers were urgently necessary to facilitate wartime organisation and to set up the framework of an Australian-wide organisation to deal with all problems of post-war reconstruction.

An immediate campaign be launched by conference to compel State and Federal Governments to adopt as a post-war plan the complete co-ordination of railroad, air, and sea transport within Australian boundaries.

A policy of equal pay for equal work be applicable to the employment of women in the Railway Department and outside industry.

Conference endorsed the action of the union's State Council in accepting the Government's terms in the Townsville dispute, and decided to send congratulations to the Soviet Government on the attainment of its 26th year in power.

TENANTS' RADIOS

Landladies Responsible

Women who have let rooms, because their husbands are in the services, are responsible if their tenant has a wireless set for seeing that the tenant also has a listener's licence.

This was emphasised by officials of the Postal Department, who added that a similar obligation rested on the proprietors of boarding and guest houses in which boarders operated their own sets.

Prosecutions, particularly against boarding house proprietors, had been launched, and more would be made. The liability to prosecute rested on both the tenant and the owner.

Where separate wireless sets are operated by tenants or guests the full annual fee of £1 is payable, but where loud speakers are operated in separate rooms from a master set, a full fee is paid only for the master set, with an additional 10/- for each speaker.

Your personal Post-War World

6 practical things you can do to make it a happy one

A COMFORTABLE home, good food and clothing, education for your children and a feeling of security.

Doubtless that is your idea of a personal Post-War world. How can you attain it?

Here are 6 practical things that you and your family can do:

(1) Buy and hold War Bonds to the limit of your capacity.
(2) Pay willingly your share of the taxes—even of increased taxes.
(3) Work as hard—and as long—on your job as you can so as to keep down the cost of the things or services you are producing.
(4) Provide for your own and your family's future by adequate life assurance. (Most of the money you put into Life Assurance will go into War Loans and so serve a double purpose.)
(5) Buy only what you need and make what you have last longer.
(6) Live faithfully by the rationing Rules and the Price Fixing codes.

If you do these things you will play your part in avoiding the tragedy of inflation and in making your personal Post-War world a happy one.

IMMIGRATION AND AUSTRALIANS

Jewish Settlement

(By "Old Digger")

Very few of us want to face the future as a nation of seven millions, trying to hold on to this continent in the face of all comers.

We need, and must have, immigration, but we must be sure of one thing first. We must be sure that Australians with a legitimate stake in the country are not pushed about to make room for the newcomers. There should be no need for this. The country should be big enough to absorb anything up to twenty million immigrants.

But one sure way of causing trouble over immigration will be to settle people on foreign communities which will never be absorbed in the framework of Australia.

So that the feverish denials by the Federal Government that it had ever granted permission for a Jewish settlement in the Kimberly District after the war, have got many Australians doing a bit of hard thinking.

It scarcely seems possible that Dr. Steinberg, who came out here to arrange that very project, would announce that he had been successful unless he had something to go on. He went as far as naming the Australian who had worked out the scheme.

So that if the Government has been monkeying with the scheme of converting the Kimberleys into a foreign Jewish settlement, it should forget the idea, for nothing but trouble will result.

We must remember this. Many Australian servicemen, after the war, will want to go on the land. Many did after the last war, and a good deal of the land handed out to them was so poor that failures were more plentiful than successes.

Now, the Kimberleys represent some of the most desirable agricultural and pastoral country in Australia, and the sole reason that they have not been opened up before this lies in the fact that they have been inaccessible. But that should be changed after the war. The North-West has been really discovered this time, and its possibilities have been realised by many a land-hungry digger.

So before we give over some of our best areas to foreign immigration it might be a good idea to give consideration to the men who have fought, or been ready to fight, to keep them in Australian hands.

There will still be plenty of chances for the foreign immigrants, after we satisfy our obligations to our own people.

HEENZO COUGH REMEDY USED BY FAMOUS PEOPLE

Many world-famous people, including Sir Harry Lauder, Mr. Peter Dawson, Miss Gladys Moncrieff, and Captain Frank Hurley, use and recommend HEENZO as a quick acting, economical and nice to take remedy for coughs, colds, catarrh, croup, bronchitis and influenza. Preference in Labour

Action planned by the Federal Government to secure the return of labour for work on food producing farms was outlined by Mr. Scully, Minister for Commerce, during the last sitting of Parliament.

Mr. Scully said that because the dairying industry had suffered severely from loss of manpower, and because it was now called upon to make "spectacular advances in production," preference would be given to that industry in the release of labour.

"The task ahead of the industry is a colossal one," he said. "The demands for all classes of dairy products for the United Kingdom civilians, for Empire and Allied Fighting Forces, and for our own people, call for a total milk production of more than 1300 million gallons throughout Australia."

The Minister outlined the following four policy decisions which have been taken to set the course for a great upward movement in dairy production:—

A large body of nominated labour to be returned to permanent work on farms, with additional seasonal workers to be made available.

A big improvement already under way in regard to provision of engines, implements and machinery.

Greatly increased supplies of mill offals to be available as animal fodder.

Everything possible to be done to improve inland transport, so that farmers' requirements of materials, fodders, etc., can be carried to them without delay.

TENDERS CREAM TRANSPORT.

The Port Curtis Co-operative Dairy Association Ltd., by advertisement in this issue, invites tenders for the transport of cream by road from Ambrose and Mt. NEW AUSTRALIA

Industrial Self-Sufficiency

It is difficult for those of us not actively concerned with any branch of war-time industry to realise the tremendous transformation that this country has undergone in the past four years.

Before the war Australia was popularly conceived as a land of vast open spaces, with an economy based mainly on the exchange of her agricultural output for the manufactured products of the northern hemisphere.

At the time of Munich our automobile industry, for instance, was confined almost exclusively to the manufacture of bodywork and the assembling of imported mechanical parts, and when, under the stress of war's urgency, it was considered necessary for Australia, literally as well as metaphorically, to take wings and produce bomber aircraft, the same system was inevitably and modestly envisaged.

In the early days of 1940 plans for the assembly of Beaufort bombers were developed, but the dramatic turn of events that culminated in the fall of France destroyed any possibility that they could be brought to fruition. Since England was no longer able to supply the parts for assembly in this country.

It was at this stage that Australia decided to "give it a go" and manufacture her own Beaufort bombers, with the result that to-day this aircraft is made of 90 per cent Australian materials by 100 per cent Australian labour.

During this period other types of aircraft have been developed and produced for service in the Pacific war zone, including the Boomerang and the Wirraway, which have proved valuable front line aircraft acting in close co-operation with the ground forces.

Early this month the 500th Beaufort bomber to be built in Australia left the factory, and speaking on that occasion, the Minister for Aircraft Production (Senator Cameron) announced that plans were in train for the manufacture of still more modern types of aircraft.

These facts are but one indication of the amazing industrial development of the past four years, and but one illustration of our newly discovered potentialities.

In the field of munitions, armaments and shipbuilding, we have proved ourselves capable of at least supplying our own needs, and after the war of turning the present machinery over to the production of domestic and national necessities.

There is no suggestion that our standing as a food-producing nation will be weakened as a result of this revolutionary trend; neither is it to be considered that a growing measure of industrial self-sufficiency will permit us to adopt isolationist tendencies after the war.

Rather should our newly developed industrial and economic strength equip us, as a nation, to play a fuller role in the future of the world in general and the Pacific in particular.

GROWTH OF FRUIT TREES

Russian Discovery

While the Russians have been fighting flat out all along the tremendous Russian front, Russian scientists have not been neglecting home-front research.

They have proved by recent experiments that butylene gas has a stimulating effect on the growth of trees, particularly fruit trees such as apple, apricot, cherry, plum, peach and pear.

The trees are enclosed in tents for two weeks before the normal leafing period and butylene gas is passed into the tents in the proportion of one part butylene to 100,000 parts of air for periods of one to two hours.

JAPANESE FLEET

Kept in Reserve

Referring to the war against Japan, Lord Selbourne, Britain's Minister of Economic Warfare, said in an interview in London on October 19:—

"The Japanese fleet is being kept in reserve. Before we can invade there will have to be a great naval battle, with Japan having the advantage of being near her home bases. But, added to our naval strength, we shall have a great preponderance of air strength. Japan's aircraft industry cannot compete with Britain's and America's.

"Do not underestimate the tremendous nature of this operation of defeating Japan. All thinking people among us realise that the forces of Britain will be every bit as much engaged in it as they are against Germany now.

"Just as our Australian and New Zealand fellow subjects fought side by side with us in the Middle East, so our soldiers, sailors and airmen will go to the Far Eastern front to defeat Japan.

"The war against Japan is just as urgent and just as serious as that against Germany. There can be no thought of our packing up and returning to a peace footing until Japan has unconditionally surrendered."

SHORTAGE OF VITAMIN A

Found in Sharks' Livers

There is a world shortage of vitamin A, which is found in the livers of snapper sharks, and so the shark liver oil industry is being developed in Australia.

Britain urgently needs supplies of vitamin A, and has asked for some of our output. In Australia the oil is being injected into chocolates for the troops.

It is also mixed with wet mashes to make hens lay more eggs. The chocolates get the oil from the male sharks, which has a higher vitamin A contact than the oil from livers of female sharks. The latter is used for making a substitute for cod liver oil and for poultry wet mashes.

These industries are now firmly established, and will remain after the war to be further developed. Their products are not, in the true sense of the word, improvisations or substitutes. They are competitive goods.

NEW ZEALAND ELECTIONS

RESTRICTIONS ON PRIVATE ENTERPRISE

Caused Marked Swing Against Labour

"The regimentation of the individual and the restrictions on private enterprise were the chief reasons for the marked swing from Labour in the recent New Zealand elections," said a prominent Wellington professional man in an exclusive interview with Industrial News Service.

"Labour was returned by the soldiers' votes," he continued, "and the large Labour majority amongst these votes was due to the propaganda visits of Labour politicians to Egypt and other battle fronts, and to the promises made by the newly appointed Minister for Rehabilitation (Major Skinner).

"The swing from Labour by the farming community was another interesting feature of the elections.

"Everyone connected with secondary industries—both employers and employees—is most pessimistic about the future of New Zealand if Government restrictions are continued. People in general are much antagonised by the internal marketing restrictions, which have made supplies poor and prices high. Practically every commodity has to be purchased through the Government. For instance, if a man runs a restaurant and keeps fowls, he can't supply the restaurant direct with his own eggs, but has to sell them to the Government and buy them back again. The Minister responsible for internal marketing, by the way (Mr. Barclay), lost his seat at the last elections.

"Another cause of much heartburning," the visitor went on, "is that in spite of all promises made before the introduction of Social Security, the public hospitals are supported largely by levies made by local bodies on property owners.

"All enterprise is so cramped by restrictions that no one will risk putting any capital into any concern, thereby damaging New Zealand's future prospects. There is no encouragement for enterprise or thrift. If a man has managed, by good honest toil, to save a certain amount of money, he is ineligible to benefit from old age, disablement, or invalid pensions.

"And if he has put his savings into property, his tenure is threatened by a most unpopular measure rushed through just before the elections. This is the Land Sale Bill, whereby under the guise of helping the returning soldier, all sales of land, homes or town properties were taken over by the Government. Under this Bill it is possible for the Government to subdivide a man's property into uneconomic sizes and to leave him with nothing but his homestead and a property too small to work.

"As the Government has arbitrary powers to force sales, no land, home or town property can any longer be regarded as a personal asset.

"In Mr. S. G. Holland, the Leader of the Opposition, the Nationalist Party has a leader of more statesmanlike qualities than has offered for many years. He is at present in Australia, to obtain first-hand information on Australia's war efforts, and in view of the fact that he is inspecting many engineering works, it is interesting to know that he himself runs an engineering factory on profit-sharing lines."

Employment in Government and semi-Government munitions, aircraft and shipbuilding works has now reached its required peak of about 90,000. These establishments employed 11,000 men when war broke out in Europe, and 59,700 when Japan came in.

In Memoriam

WRIGHT.—In loving memory of my dear husband and our father, Harry Wright, who passed away on 24th November, 1934.

He bade no one a last farewell,
His memory so sweet and dear
Is treasured with love sincere
A silent thought brings many a tear,
For one we loved and miss so dear.

(Inserted by his loving wife and children, Mary, Walter, Colin, and Dorothy.)

LUSK.—In loving memory of my dear daughter, Elizabeth Isabella, who passed away 24th November, 1942.

May she rest in peace;
No one near to say good-bye, dear.

(Inserted by her mother and father, sisters and brothers.)

LUSK.—In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Elizabeth Isabella, who passed away on the 24th November, 1942.

It's just a year ago to-day
Since our dear mother passed away
She was a mother, one of the best,
And in our hearts her memory rests.

(Inserted by her loving son, daughter-in-law, and granddaughters—Edward, Nell, Alma, and Joyce.)

LUSK.—In fond and loving memory of my darling sister, Lizzie, who passed away on 24th November, 1942

Forget her? No, we never will,
For in my heart she liveth still,
Her memory is as fresh to day
As on that day she passed away.
Peace, Perfect Peace.

RED CROSS DANCE.

Mrs. Phillips (president of the Red Cross Society) advises that she has arranged to run a dance in aid of the branch funds on Thursday (to-morrow) night, in the Trocadero Theatre. Good music will be provided, and dancers are asked to make a note of the date, to-morrow night.

PORT CURTIS DAIRY ASSOCIATION.

At the first meeting of the directors of the Port Curtis Co-operative Dairy Association since the elections and the recent annual meeting, Mr. A. H. Bulow, of Mulgeldie, representing the Monto zone, was elected chairman of directors. Mr. Bulow succeeds another Monto resident, Mr. G. B. Mouatt, who was defeated at the elections last month.

A.C.F. TOYLAND.

Don't forget the A.C.F. gift and toy stall, which will be opened at 11 a.m. on Friday, December 3, in the A.C.F. rooms in the Grand Hotel building. A fine selection of toys will be offered for sale, and parents would be well advised to get in early to avoid disappointment. Donations of cash or kind would be much appreciated by the convenors (Mesdames C. Chapman and W. Keller). Town and country residents are asked to note that all donations of toys must be left at the A.C.F. rooms not later than Tuesday, November 30.

WOMEN'S AUXJLIARY.

The Women's Auxiliary of the R.S.S.A.I.L.A. desire to return thanks to the kind friends who contributed to their last street stall. The tray of groceries (which was raffled) was won by Miss Estelle Gardiner, West Gladstone, and the iced cake by Mr. Ken Drewe, c/o Mrs. Taylor, Roseberry Street. Next month a beautiful dressed doll (donated by Mrs. L. M. Walker) will be one of the raffles.

P.O.W. NOTES.

Following last week's canvass of the lower end of the Valley and main Bundaberg Road, official books have now been left at Mrs. Eggstein's store, and contributors in and around that locality are asked to kindly leave their amounts with this lady, who has kindly consented to collect. Miss L. Watson has taken over Toolooa Street from the Railway Station to the Anglican Church, and Miss Pek Bruce is to collect Eden Street and Off Lane. Any other resident of the outlying portion of that end of the town not already canvassed can have their names added to the books by contacting Mrs. Eggstein or any nearby collector.

There are 44,707 women serving in the service. At the outbreak of the Pacific war there were only 3638.

TOWN COUNCIL

HARBOUR BOARD VACANCY

Mr. L. R. Weiske Elected

A special meeting of the Council was held on Monday night. Present: The Mayor (Ald. G. G. Dennis), and Aldermen J. Deveney, M. A. Busteed, W. R. Golding, H. Anderson, R. E. Smith, R. R. Tudman, and the Acting Town Clerk (Mr. V. P. Breslin).

The business of the meeting was to appoint a qualified person to represent the town of Gladstone as a member of the Harbour Board, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. E. W. Crow.

Ald. Busteed, in nominating Mr. S. C. Wilson, said he was a very able man, and as representatives of the Board from time to time visited the district in connection with trade matters, he contended that Mr. Wilson would fill the position excellently, as he was in close touch with the people of the hinterland.

Ald. Anderson nominated Mr. R. L. Weiske, as he had faced the public, he said, in the recent election, and was next on the list.

On a vote being taken Mr. Weiske was elected by 4 votes to 3, the voting being:—

For Mr. Weiske, the Mayor (Ald. Dennis), and Aldermen Anderson, Deveney and Smith.

For Mr. Wilson, Aldermen Busteed, Golding and Tudman.

C. Smith, A. D. Hopper, W. Buettel, W. Keller, G. Gordon, and F. F. Pope.

Accounts amounting to £123/12/- were passed for payment.

The convenors of the Knitting and Sewing Circle (Mesdames J. Worthington and R. Jones) reported the following for the month:—

32 prs. socks, 97 handkerchiefs, 44 mess bags, 13 suits pyjamas, and 16 washers.

Donations of books and magazines were received from Mesdames J. A. Mills, Jefferis senr., W. Dwyer, R. S. Wilson, A. Beak, and Jas. Worthington.

The convenors of the October street stall reported a net profit of £42/10/-

The convenors of the toy and gift stall (Mesdames C. Chapman and W. Keller) reported that the manufacture of toys was progressing very well, and fixed the date for the sale of the toys, etc., for Friday, December 3, and the stall will open at 11 a.m.

Games and articles of furniture were sent to the naval patrol quarters, and were much appreciated by the men.

The Xmas hamper appeal closed with a total of £140/1/6.

FLY MENACE AT GENERAL HOSPITAL

ACTION TAKEN EXPEDITE NEW SANITARY SITE

PRESENT DEPOT CONDEMNED BY DR. BYRNE

In connection with the fly menace at the General Hospital, the following additional correspondence was read at the Council meeting, held on Monday night:—

TELEGRAM TO MINISTERS.

On November 17 the following telegrams were sent to the Minister for Lands (Mr. E. J. Walsh) and the Minister for Agriculture (Mr. T. L. Williams):—

"Relative to applications of September 27, to Land Ranger, Gladstone, and November 15 to the Land Administration Board, Brisbane, for the vesting of portion 22, parish of Auckland, county of Clinton, under control of Council for sanitary depot purposes. Owing to fly menace at Gladstone Hospital have wired the Acting Premier and Minister for Lands, urging early action enabling the use of the new depot."

COVERING LETTER.

The covering letter to both Ministers stated: "As there is an infestation of flies at the present time in Gladstone, and with a view to lessening the menace at the Gladstone General Hospital, it is considered that the abandonment of the present depot, which is in close proximity to the Hospital, for the new site, would be in the best interests of the community."

"MATTER EXPEDITED."

Minister for Lands (Mr. Walsh) forwarded the following telegram:—

"Your telegram relative to application for portion 22, parish of Auckland, in the Calliope Shire, for sanitary purposes. Calliope Council and Department of Public Health consulted, and now asked to furnish their views urgently. Matter is being expedited as much as possible."

LETTER FROM LANDS MINISTER.

Minister for Lands (Mr. Walsh), through the Minister of Agriculture (Mr. Williams), has written the Council as follows:—

"With reference to your further representations on behalf of the Gladstone Town Council, relative to the Council's desire to have portion 22, parish of Auckland, set apart as a reserve for sanitary purposes, under the Council's control as trustee, I desire to say that as the land concerned is in the Calliope Shire Council, it was necessary that the views of the Calliope Shire Council be ascertained.

"The proposal was referred to the Shire Council on November 4 for advice as to its views. A reply has not been received to date, and a telegram has been despatched to the Shire Council, asking for early advice.

"The proposal has been referred to the Department of Public Health, also for advice as to whether the site meets with the approval of that department for the purpose required. This is done in all such cases before reservations, under the Land Acts for sanitary purposes is decided upon.

"Oral inquiry has been made, and it has been ascertained that the Department of Public Health is awaiting advice from its Health Officer, which is expected to arrive at any time now.

"Consideration of the proposal will be expedited in every way possible by this department after receipt of advice regarding the views of th Calliope Shire Council and the Department of Public Health."

DR. SKINNER.

The Medical Superintendent of the Gladstone Hospital (Dr. H. B. Skinner) wrote:—

"A few days ago I forwarded a personal letter to each member of the Council regarding the plague of flies and the accompanying epidemic of gastro-enteritis in the town, and I also pointed out two obvious breeding grounds for flies.

"To-day (November 18), on his return from a country trip, I further discussed the matter with Health Inspector Browne, who informed me that his recent inspection of the slaughter yards and an adjacent piggery in the hospital end of the town showed these to be swarming with flies, and that, in his opinion, all are in an unsatisfactory condition.

"These also may be breeding places for flies, and I urge immediate inspection of these places, followed by any necessary action.

"A copy of this letter has been sent to the local Stock Inspector, under whose jurisdiction, I understand, such places come."

HOSPITALS BOARD.

Gladstone Hospitals Board (Mr. J. Burrows, secretary), wrote:—

"In view of reports received, particularly from its Medical Officer, and from personal observation of its members, this Board is gravely concerned about the dangers, both actual and potential, arising from this fly menace, and gave the matter serious consideration at its meeting held last night.

"Mr. Woodley, senior inspector of the Health Department, who is highly regarded as an authority on these matters, has made certain suggestions regarding improvements in drainage disposal at the Hospital, which the Board has adopted.

"Although no evidence of fly breeding was apparent at the Hospital, this Board has a letter from the Health Department which states, inter alia, 'the conditions at the sanitary depot were unsatisfactory and insanitary, and that fly breeding was apparent, and the danger of fly borne disease very real.'

"The following resolution relating to the above was carried:—

"That the Town Council be asked to take immediate steps to remove the sanitary and rubbish depots, and failing immediate action the Health Department be petitioned with a view to affording immediate relief.

"The Board understands that steps are being taken by your Council to remove the sanitary depot, but in view of the increased danger, the removal should be carried out immediately, and your Council can be assured of the fullest co-operation from the Board."

A DEPUTATION.

Representatives of the A.M.I.E. Union (Messrs. T. Caterson, P. Vock, and J. G. Darling) attended the meeting, and put their views before the Council in regard to health matters, more especially the fly menace at the General Hospital.

The President of the Union (Mr. Caterson) drew attention to the unsatisfactory state of the sanitary depot, the garbage dump, and also the big drain through the Valley, apart from back yards. The most important, of course, was the fly menace at the General Hospital, and the action taken by Dr. Skinner should have been taken years ago by the Council. His members considered that no action had been taken by the Council to rectify these health matters, and he hoped that immediate steps would be taken in the interests of public health to protect the people.

Mr. Vock, who endorsed the remarks of Mr. Caterson, said he would like to see Mr. Woodley's report published, and the members of the Union would also like to see all matters appertaining to the health of the town speeded up.

SHOULDER TO THE WHEEL.

Mr. Darling said that Dr. Skinner had practically told the Council what to do, and with a view to speedier action members of the union had suggested the holding of a stop work meeting in connection with the fly menace at the General Hospital. He suggested they should get their shoulders to the wheel and get the town cleaned up from a health point of view.

STATEMENT REFUTED.

The Mayor definitely refuted the statement that nothing had been done. The Council had done everything possible, and at present they were held up by the Land Administration Board in regard to the new sanitary site, which was Crown land.

NEW SITE.

The Mayor went on to say that as soon as the Council got control of the land the new sanitary depot would be established. It must not be overlooked that at the present time the fly menace was Statewide, and the present depot was not responsible for all the flies that had invaded Gladstone. At present it was practically impossible to get all the liquids for spraying purposes, and that was a serious drawback.

NOT LOST SIGHT OF.

He assured the deputation that the matter had not been lost sight of, and everything had and and would be done to get the land and establish the sanitary depot at the new site.

INSPECTION MADE.

Ald. Deveney said he had made an inspection of the Hospital in company with Ald. Anderson, and he found the institution invaded with flies. He also made an inspection of the sanitary depot, and he was convinced it was breeding flies.

SITES INSPECTED.

Ald. Golding said that from the remarks of members of the deputation it was apparently thought the Council had not concerned itself with the present epidemic of flies, but this was not the case. He had inspected three probable sites for a new sanitary depot last September, and the Council had selected an area, portion 22, parish of Auckland, containing 21 acres.

CROWN LAND.

Ald. Golding went on to say that he had taken the Crown Land Ranger and the Health Inspector out to view the site. The land in question, he said, was Crown land, and an application had immediately been made to the Lands Department for this area, and a covering letter had been sent to the Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Williams), asking him for his assistance in the matter.

ACTION TAKEN.

As a satisfactory reply had not been received up till the previous meeting of the Council, it was decided to write again on this matter. In the absence of Ald. Smith, Dr. Skinner had interviewed him on two occasions. He (Ald. Golding) had also visited the Hospital, where he noticed the flies were very bad. He had then issued instructions to the Acting Town Clerk (Mr. Breslin) to wire the Lands Department, asking that their application for the block of land for the new sanitary depot be expedited in view of the fly menace at the Gladstone Hospital. A copy of the wire had also been sent to the Acting Premier (Mr. Hanlon), and the Minister for Agriculture (Mr. Williams).

MINISTER OF LANDS.

Continuing, Ald. Golding said, last Friday they had received a reply from the Minister of Lands to the effect that the matter had been taken up with the Calliope Shire Council, asking if it had any objection, and that the Health Department had been requested to report on the suitability of this site. He had made an inspection of the sanitary depot, which, mainly due to the humid atmosphere, was not in a good condition, and flies were plentiful. There was, however, no evidence of any refuse having been freshly dumped there.

GARBAGE TIP.

The garbage tip had got out of hand, and he had put on the works gang to clean it up, and had issued instructions to them to see that all refuse dumped there was well covered.

INTOLERABLE POSITION.

Everyone, he said, appreciated the earnestness of Dr. Skinner's letters, and his concern for the welfare of those in his charge, and every decent minded citizen would put himself or herself out to remedy this intolerable position.

The Mayor: We hope the menace will be cleaned up as soon as possible.

AIR CLEARED.

Mr. Caterson suitably returned thanks for the manner in which the deputation had been received. The air, he said, had been cleared considerably, and the members of his union were only too pleased to come along and assist the Council.

It was decided to notify Dr. Skinner and the Gladstone Hospitals Board that definite steps had been taken to expedite the securing of the land for the new sanitary depot.

LATEST DEVELOPMENTS.

Yesterday morning the Chairman of the Health Committee (Ald. R. E. Smith), accompanied by the Medical Officer of Health (Dr. G. J. Byrne) and the Medical Superintendent of the General Hospital (Dr. Skinner), made an inspection of the depot, and Dr. Byrne condemned it as unfit for further use.

A TEMPORARY SITE.

The Health Committee has selected a temporary site, situated some two miles out of town, which it is proposed to use until the new site has been made available by the Lands Department.

TOWN COUNCIL

BOYNE WATER SCHEME

Tenders for Pipes and Castings Approved

The fortnightly meeting of the Council was held on Monday night. Present: The Mayor (Ald. G. G. Dennis), and Aldermen J. Deveney, M. A. Busteed, W. R. Golding, H. Anderson, R. E. Smith, R. R. Tudman, and the Acting Town Clerk (Mr. V. P. Breslin).

TENDERS APPROVED.

Minister for Public Works (Mr. H. Bruce) wrote relative to the Boyne River water supply scheme, and advised that he was submitting to the next meeting of the Cabinet a recommendation that the tenders of certain firms for the manufacture of pipe line and the supply of valves and castings, be accepted. The prices were £24,842/16/3 and £2253/12/7. A later letter stated that the Governor in Council had approved of the acceptance of the foregoing tenders.—Received.

PUMPING.

Director of Local Authority Affairs, Brisbane, wrote relative to the Boyne River water supply scheme, and more particularly to the question of power generation for the pumping plant. The report of Water Supply Engineer Mortley supported the Department's contention that electric pumping was preferable, and the Department considered the Council should reconsider its decision to instal suction gas.

Ald. Busteed intimated his intention to move at the next meeting that the motion standing in the books of the Council to carry out the work of pumping by suction gas be rescinded.

AUCKLAND STREET CROSSING.

General Manager, Central Queensland Railways, wrote stating that the railway crossing at Auckland Street was in need of renewal. It was proposed to take up the rails and sleepers and renew these with new material, and thoroughly reballast the railway so that it should not require attention again for many years.

After the railway was finished it was intended to make a good roadway, and it would be necessary to rebitumenise the part that had been disturbed, and he would like to know if the Council could do this, and if so at what cost. If not, would the Council supply two drums of bitumen, and the department would carry out the work, but on account of the Council having the plant it would be better if the work was carried out by it.

It was decided that no objection be offered to the work at the railway crossing. The Council was prepared to supply two drums of bitumen, and the department could carry out the work, or the Council would do the work and charge the cost to the department.

NEW ENGINE SHED.

General Manager, Central Queensland Railways, advised that work had commenced on the construction of the new engine shed for the new locomotive depot at Gladstone. The water supply from the railway dam had already been connected to the depot, but it would be necessary to have an auxiliary supply, and in this regard it was desired to connect the town water supply to the coal stage and to the 10,000 gallon tank.—No objection offered.

A PENNANT FOR GLADSTONE.

Queensland Patriotic and Australian Comforts Fund, Brisbane, advised that following the Statewide battle stations competition, it was forwarding a special award (a pennant) as a small but lasting token of appreciation of the meritorious help which Gladstone afforded.—Received.

PORT CURTIS DEVELOPMENT LEAGUE.

Port Curtis Development League notified that a league had been formed in Gladstone, the objects being to encourage the development and watch the interests of the Port Curtis district and its hinterland. Naturally, a league of this sort would require considerable funds to carry out its purposes, and if the Council could see fit to make a donation towards the funds it would be greatly appreciated.

It was decided to become a member, give a donation of £10, and Ald. Golding was appointed the Council's representative.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK.

Gladstone Fire Brigade Board advised that in connection with Fire Prevention Week, it was proposed to give a public demonstration at the town dam, and asked if the Council would agree to participate.

It was agreed to participate, and the various units, under the control of the Council, would be made available.

FOUR REQUESTS.

South Gladstone and Barney Point Progress Association made application to the Council to accept a deputation for the purpose of discussing the following:—

(1) A previous request by the Association, that of draining flood water that caused inconvenience to Mr. Geo. Doble and residents in that locality.

(2) Relief for Mr. T. Jenkinson and Mr. F. Salgado for inconvenience caused as a result, it was stated, of the Council diverting water, which now flowed through their properties.

(3) An offer by the Association to act as caretakers of the waiting sheds in its area.

(4) A suggestion regarding a certain strip of land in their suburb at present owned by the Council. The land referred to is between Bonar and Walsh Streets.

Messrs. H. E. Daly (president) and J. O'Malley (secretary) appeared and supported the requests on behalf of the Association.

In regard to requests 1 and 2 it was decided to make an inspection.

No. 3.—The offer was accepted.

No. 4.—It was decided to obtain a legal opinion.

GENERAL.

It was decided to give the Railway Department one month's notice that no more water could be supplied, as same was being conserved for the use of consumers. However, if rain fell in the meantime the present arrangement would be continued.

The Mayor stated that the tags for dogs had arrived, and residents who refused to register their dogs with the Herdsman would be proceeded against.

It was decided that the retiring age of all Council employees be 65, and employees after ten years' continuous service be given three months' holiday on full pay.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

St. Andrew's Concert

The second annual St. Andrew's concert, to be held in the Town Hall on December 3, will provide a first-rate popular entertainment which the public of Gladstone has been expecting since the first concert last year.

Owing to call-up for national services, the pipers will not be available on this occasion. But the committee has much pleasure in introducting to Gladstone the noted singer from Bundaberg, Mrs. E. W. Ewald. The fine talent and highly trained technique of this artiste is highly appreciated wherever she goes. Her repertoire has been carefully selected to provide a widely varied selection of excellent solos.

Children under the direction of Mrs. Bryan will repeat several of their pleasing items given at a former concert.

Shirley McCrae's Youth Troupe will also appear in numbers specially arranged for the occasion.

There will be other pleasing features rendered by local artists, and a popular quizz will be presented.

Intending patrons are advised to book early at P.M. Jones, to avoid disappointment.

The yield from income tax on individuals has increased by 281 per cent. from £25,900,000 in 1938-39 to £98,700,000 in 1942-43. Increases in uniform income tax on individuals adopted in February, 1943, are estimated to produce an addition £40,000,000 in a full taxation year.

GLADSTONE TURF CLUB

PATRIOTIC RACE MEETING

Saturday Next, November 27

The Gladstone Turf Club is to race again on Saturday for the combined Gladstone and Calliope patriotic bodies, including the Red Cross, Prisoner of War, Red Shield, Patriotic Fund, and Comforts Funds of both centres. Splendid nominations, approaching those of the record October meeting, have been received, and the handicappers (Messrs. Clarris and Burrows) have issued the weights.

The two big handicaps should provide attractive racing. The President of the club (Mr. Hugh Ballantine) is running his well-known mare Lady Gladstone, holder of a record at Callagan Park, Rockhampton, and making its first appearance on the Gladstone track. Beverley, which annexed a double at the October meeting, has gone up into open company, and has many admirers.

As usual, the hack events have brought many nominations, there being as many as 12 in one race. Taken all round, the fields should be among the best balanced seen in recent years.

With good racing assured town and country residents have the added incentive to help the patriotic effort, as the proceeds go to the same funds as the October fixture, which brought over £200 to the various organisations.

The committee members have gone to considerable trouble to give patrons of the meeting added facilities. The track has had attention from two working bees, and water has been provided at the grandstand. The Gladstone Patriotic Fund will again control the liquor booth, while a combined committee of Comforts Fund and Red Shield ladies, supervised by Mrs. C. W. Macfarlan, will look after the afternoon teas. Mrs. Phillips, of the Red Cross, and a committee of ladies, will run a soft drink booth.

Mr. Vic. Summers, of War Loan Art Union fame, will again have Messrs. A. Hopper, E. W. Phillips and Herb. Peters running the grocery wheel in a patriotic drive. Mr. A. Andrews will again provide the broadcast system on the course, so that patrons can listen to the running of southern events.

At least two local and several visiting bookmakers, including Mr. Johnny Walters, of Thangool, will field, and Messrs. V. P. Breslin, Alec Stabb, J. Shepherd, etc., will be in charge of the totalisator.

Mr. H. Rolleston has again arranged to run his busses from town to the course, and guided by the attendance at the last meeting, he is providing additional busses for Saturday. These will leave Meatworks Road at 1 p.m., Club Hotel corner 1.15 p.m., and Queen's Hotel 1.30 p.m., whilst a final bus will leave the Grand Hotel just prior to 2 p.m. to land passengers for the first race. Popular prices of admission will be gents 3/- ladies 2/-

RACE DANCE AT NIGHT.

A committee, consisting of Messrs. R. Power, V. Fry, and Jenkinson were appointed by the club to run the dance at night. This function will be held in the Trocadero Theatre. Mrs. H. V. Phillips, who already had the hall booked for her usual Saturday night dance in aid of the P.O.W. fund, generously handed over the booking to the race club, and is co-operating with the committee in organising the function. Ladies of the Red Cross, Comforts Fund, and Red Shield are also to assist. Soft drinks will be on sale. A good orchestra is available, and a pleasant night's dancing is assured. Proceeds go to the combined patriotic funds.

NOTES.

(Received by whisper.)

New faces are the order of the day or night at the swimming baths each Thursday night, and gradually the old-timers are creeping back and toeing the mark.

Mick Norris bucked somewhat when they stood him back, but he'll be there with them before many swims.

Long Jack has been along to see us, and promises to swim next start. Really, Jack, they should stand you back to the baths wall to give the other boys a chance in that first jump.

In any case, every new face is welcome, and do not think you are hard done by if for the first night the handicapper sees fit to stand you back. Remember, size doesn't count in the art fo swimming: it's the performance.

Now, I would like to see the ladies and girls come along in greater numbers; there's no need to be shy. Join the club now. The more competition we get from the girls the greater the game.

Your personal Post-War World

6 practical things you can do to make it a happy one

A COMFORTABLE home, good food and clothing, education for your children and a feeling of security.

Doubtless that is your idea of a personal Post-War world. How can you attain it?

Here are 6 practical things that you and your family can do:

(1) Buy and hold War Bonds to the limit of your capacity.
(2) Pay willingly your share of the taxes—even of increased taxes.
(3) Work as hard—and as long—on your job as you can so as to keep down the cost of the things or services you are producing.
(4) Provide for your own and your family's future by adequate life assurance. (Most of the money you put into Life Assurance will go into War Loans and so serve a double purpose.)
(5) Buy only what you need and make what you have last longer.
(6) Live faithfully by the rationing Rules and the Price Fixing codes.

If you do these things you will play your part in avoiding the tragedy of inflation and in making your personal Post-War world a happy one.

JUNGLE TROOPS

Food in Tablet Form

A new kind of vitamin tablet has been prepared, and millions of them have arrived in India from England. The tablets are a combination of several existing forms of concentrated vitamins, and are the result of many months of experiment by Allied scientists.

One tablet daily keeps a soldier fit almost indefinitely on non-flesh food and gives him the extra nourishment which he would otherwise have to get from fresh meat, fruit and vegetables.

The result is that he can operate for long periods in isolated areas, and the problem of food supply inthe jungle is much simplified.

But this has created another problem—how to make the conservative Tommy and sepoy swallow the tablets.

A senior medical officer at Indian general headquarters said that his staff would try to popularise the tablet, but "if the worst came to the worst we will have to order special pill parades."

India herself is now producing many specialised foods for the army, such as meat extracts and shark liver oil, and imported vitamin powders are being made into tablets in Indian factories.

From 431,300 at the outbreak of war in the Pacific, the number of men who have enlisted in the three fighting services has increased to 842,160.

V.D. MENACE

Church View Outlined

"The large increase in venereal disease among civilians and those serving in the forces since the war began has brought ruin and unhappiness to thousands of homes and become a grave danger to the health of the nation," declare the Archbishops of Canterbury (Dr. Temple) and York (Dr. Garbett) in a joint statement.

"The problem is moral as well as medical. The chief cause of the spread of the disease is fornication, or, as it is sometimes called, promiscuity.

Christian teaching fully recognises the right to use sex as a contribution to happiness as well as to life, but its demands should be treated with reverence and respect, as the means God has ordained for the creation of children.

"It therefore condemns fornication as a sin, for it misuses for momentary pleasure what is intended both as an expression of abiding love and for the creation of new life. It thus degrades personality.

"We therefore call on all who claim to be followers of Christ to take their stand against this sin. In loyalty to their Master they must bear witness against practices, amusements, and conversations that assume that fornication is natural and of slight significance. They must be loyal to the Christian standard, namely, that all sexual intercourse, except between man and wife, is sin.

"But while we condemn the sin, we understand how great are the temptations to which many are now subject. Therefore, we would remind them that God will help those who pray to Him, and to those who have yielded to temptation He offers pardon if they are truly penitent.

"We also make our appeal to men and women of goodwill who do not call themselves Christians to help in withstanding the present drift in the direction of moral laxity. Promiscuity threatens to destroy home life. It leads to great physical and mental agony, and may inflict on innocent and unborn children long years of terrible suffering.

"No mere physical precautions can give any guarantee of safety. Moral self-control is essential if the spread of this evil is to be checked."

The statement welcomes the instruction given by the Ministry of Health, provided it is made plain that moral resistance is of greater value than physical precautions.

It urges: (1) Increased provisions for healthy recreation in barracks, camps and stations.

(2) More women police.

(3) More clinics.

(4) Intensification of education of the national conscience against moral laxity.

KINDERGARTEN OF THE AIR

DOES YOUR CHILD LISTEN?

EVERY weekday morning at 9.30 all over Australia children are united in one big Kindergarten. They join in the songs, enjoy the stories, interpret music and learn to observe and appreciate nature. The songs, music and play activities all have an educatonal value. Children live and learn by play, and the play activities are planned to help them to get the best out of living.

If you have not already done so, tune in to this session. Clear a space in front of the wireless and help the children to enter into the activities by joining in yourself. They like to share their pleasures and you will learn to understand something of their feelings as they gather around their unseen teacher.

The Parents' Session, at 1.30 p.m. (E.S.T.) every Sunday on the National Stations, is planned specially for you. For 10 minutes the problems that all parents have with their children will be discussed and advice given on the handling of those situations that so often confront parents.

BECAUSE SHE GETS 33 TIMES AS MUCH VITAMIN B1 BY HAVING UNCLE TOBY'S OATS FOR EVERY BREAKFAST!

SHE READ THIS:

A plate of a pre-cooked, ready-to eat breakfast food without milk gave 2 units of Vitamin B1, while a plate of porridge of rolled oats gave 66 units—33 times as much!

Extract from article in "Australasian Baker" (July, 1942, issue) by Professor Priestley, of Sydney University.

If UNCLE TOBY'S OATS is not as readily available at your grocers these days, remember it is but a temporary inconvenience, due to present day conditions. There is no shortage of Uncle Toby's Oats.

APPEAL FOR BOOKS AND CARDS

Help the Boys

The Australian Comforts Fund is urgently appealing for books, magazines, playing cards, or any other indoor games or sporting material for the men of the fighting forces.

The men in the front line or outposts are entitled to these amenities of life, and the Fund asks residents to do their best to supply these articles.

Mr. A. W. Young, Gladstone Cash and Carry, has kindly consented to take possession of these donations, so please forward all you can without delay, and thus help the Fund to help the boys.

WOOL INDUSTRY

Greatest Asset To Humanity

"The advance of synthetic fibres can't be kept back any more than you could keep back the Pacific Ocean with a mop," said Mr. O. G. Doepel, managing director of Impression Textiles (Pty.) Ltd., of Alexandria, commenting to "Industrial News" on the threat of synthetic materials and imitation wool to Australia's wool industry.

"But," he added, "there is no reason why something can't be done in regard to the wool industry, which is marketing the greatest asset to humanity.

"To-day 10,000,000 men and women in the Allied forces are wearing woollen uniforms because it has been proved repeatedly that wool is the healthiest fabric under all conditions. Wool has hygroscopic qualities, which is not an attribute of synthetic fibres, and by this quality wool is able to absorb body perspiration and therefore keep the body at a fairly even temperature. That is why common colds are so rare in the army.

"Despite the boasts of enemy countries that they have produced synthetic fibres for their troops and don't need the wool they formerly imported from Australia and other wool producing countries, it is significant that one of the first acts of robbery when German troops occupied countries was to commandeer all woollen goods from blankets and rugs to socks and scarves.

"One wool authority stated that more Germans on the Russian front during the winter months died of pneumonia and cold through lack of woollen clothing than from Russian bullets.

"What Australia can do," Mr. Doepel continued, is to take advantage of every scientific means to have wool more readily worn because of its worth rather than for any sentimental reason.

"One means of increasing its popularity is by printing wool fabrics in attractive colours, for one reason for the success of artificial silk was the fact that it was printed in multi-coloured designs varied to suit the fashion of the season.

"Actually, the printing of Australian wool is the reason for the existence of Impression Textiles, which was established in 1940. At present the factory is printing material for the defence forces, but it will undertake the printing of Australian wool for markets at home and overseas as soon as the war is over."

PAYMENT OF TAXES.

The Federal Treasurer, Mr. Chifley, warns taxpayers that extension of time for the payment of assessments due at an early date couldn't be granted in every instance. He said the volume of work to be dealt with would be beyond the taxation department's capacity. With the lowering of the taxable minimum to £104 the number of assessments to be issued this year would be 2,000,000, an increase of 500,000 over last year.

RADIO IN NEW GUINEA

Jungle-Born Problems

Radio operators in New Guinea have had a good many headaches to contend with, but they would have had far more if technicians in Australia had not solved a good many of their possible difficulties beforehand.

For many years radio sets have been manufactured in Australia to suit the humid conditions of Northern Queensland and the islands of New Britain, New Guinea, and the Solomon Islands.

Sometimes unforeseen troubles arose. For instance, mice were found to have a strong liking for the wax on the coils, which they ate with gusto, and nibbled through the delicate wires as well.

Cockroaches like eating wax too, but the technicians had discovered and encountered these little peculiarities long before the war.

But war brought plenty of problems of its own. One of these was ensuring that sets would function successfully when they were drenched when men leapt ashore with them from landing barges, or set up their posts under eternally dripping trees.

A.W.A., under Mr. C. P. Healy, head of their materials test laboratory, set up a radio research department to deal with these and other jungle-born problems, including the very serious problem of fungus covered sets. The fungus, which attacks jungle sets in New Guinea, had already been divided into two main groups; one is a white hairy growth about an inch long, and the other a green felt-like growth. Under the best conditions the fungus grows all over a set in a night.

A.W.A.'s progress to combat this problem would in peace time be on the secret list. Now all their experiments are passed on to the Council of Scientific and Industrial Research, through whom any Government Department or radio firm can obtain copies free of charge.

£1,000 FOR WRITERS

A.B.C.'s COMPETITION FOR RADIO SCRIPTS

THE A.B.C. announces a Writers' Competition, with prizes totalling £1,000, for original literary work dealing with Australian life, history or characters. The Competition awards separate prizes for novels, plays, documentary features, short stories, poems, and discussions.

In addition to thirteen prizes, the Commission will award special bonuses.

Nationals of all English-speaking countries are eligible to compete. Entries for the Novel Section will close on September 30, 1944. Entries for the other sections will close on June 30, 1944. Entry forms, with full conditions of the Competition, may be obtained from the A.B.C. Offices in each State.

Announcing the Competition, the General Manager of the Australian Broadcasting Commission, Colonel Charles Moses, said: "The Commission's object is to secure material of a quality that will be readily acceptable for broadcasting over stations as well as in Australia, but that will be thoroughly Australian in all respects.

GLADSTONE GOLF CLUB

1943 SEASON TERMINATED

Presentation of Trophies

The Gladstone Golf Club terminated its 1943 season on Saturday, when members and associates gathered at the club house for the annual presentation of trophies.

The afternoon competition, a Canadian mixed foursomes event, attracted a large field, and resulted in a win for Mrs. H. C. Moore and R. F. Power, who returned a nett 60 from a gross 86.

The low markers, Mr. and Mrs. H. O'Sing, had the best gross (78), including a 37 over the final nine. The winners received a handsome pair of towels, donated by Mr. Harry Moore.

WINNERS CONGRATULATED.

Introducing Rev. Father Cullen, who presented the trophies, the President (Mr. D. J. Connellan) said that since coming to Gladstone he had assisted the club materially. His trophy for the best four ball pair had resulted in some excellent golf, and would be completed early next season.

Father Cullen then handed each winner a war savings certificate or stamps in an envelope, and tendered his congratulations.

Other speakers included Mr. H. C. Moore, who congratulated the committee on being able to carry on under difficult circumstances.

Mr. Jas. O'Donnell (vice-president) and Mr. W. H. Hall referred to the splendid work of Miss L. Burrows and her associates, and Mr. Frank Peardon (captain).

The awards were as follows:—

Mrs. H. O'Sing, two war savings certificates for winning seven monthly events including eclectic, monthly medal and sticker competition.

Mrs. J. Starmer one war savings certificate, six events.

Miss L. Burrows, President's and Captain's trophie, two events.

Mrs. H. C. Moore, war savings stamp, three events.

Mrs. Fitzgerald, delegates' trophy.

Mrs. Burnham, Vice-president's trophy.

MEMBERS.

R. Elliott, two certificates for seven events, including eclectic.

H. O'Sing, one certificate, five events and eclectic.

F. Peardon, three events and Secretary's trophy.

H. C. Moore, three events and V.P. trophy.

L. Collins, two trophies and eclectic.

M. Clifford, two events.

"WALNUT" SEARCH-LIGHT

Rescue Airmen From Sea

A searchlight fitted to a band round the head, like a miner's cap, has been designed by Westinghouse engineers to help in rescuing airmen forced down at sea. The searchlight is only the size of a walnut, but it is powerful enough to send out a 1500 candle-power beam for 60 nautical miles.

Each member of the plane crew will wear one of the lamps, which are wired to hand-cranked generators, and have a "life" of about 100 hours; that is, about ten nights. Half the lamp bulb is silvered so as to reflect the rays in a beam.

STATE ELECTIONS.

The prospect of an early State election has disappeared, and the general feeling in political circles now is that it will be held towards the end of March or early in April. It is expected the Government will adhere to the decision to meet next month. The sitting, however, will be brief, as the Labour-in-Politics Convention will be held in February.

THE AUSTRALIAN RED CROSS SOCIETY

ORIGIN

RED CROSS in Australia came into being in 1914 as a branch of the British Red Cross Society. Early in 1914 some quiet preliminary work had been done in New South Wales towards the forming of a Voluntary Aid Organisation and the promotion of classes for training, but it was not until August 13th, 1914, at a public gathering in Melbourne called by Her Excellency Lady Helen Munro-Ferguson, the wife of the Governor General of Australia, that the Australian Red Cross Society was acutally formed.

A CENTRAL COUNCIL was appointed to direct the Society, machinery was put into action to organise Red Cross in all States, in the Northern Territory, and in Norfolk Island.

LADY HELEN MUNRO-FERGUSON was appointed the first President of the Society. In each State the wife of the Governor became President of the State Division.

Very soon 2200 Branches were working throughout the Commonwealth, with a membership of 82,000 women and 20,000 men and boys.

THE WAR OF 1914-1918

During 1914-1918 more than £3,500,000 was collected and spent on Red Cross service to the Australian Forces and Empire Forces.

Items of expenditure on Red Cross work in Australia and overseas included:—

Money remitted to the Commissioners, England, Egypt and Cape Town, including special donations for prisoners of war	£979,007
Money expended in providing in Australia for sanitoriums, rest homes, invalid equipments, etc	£465,746
Money donated for and remitted to the British Red Cross Society	£253,920
Money donated for and remitted to Allied Societies	£64,530
Value of goods supplied to transports for use of sick and wounded	£103,905
Value of goods exported to Commissioners abroad	£1,266,731
Value of goods supplied to military hospitals in Australia	£462,697

The present War is making much larger calls on the Red Cross. You can helpon FRIDAY NEXT, 10th at CHRECEE-DRAKE.—The engagement is announced of Iris May Chrecee, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Chrecee, Tank Street, Gladstone, to Corporal Arnold Frank Drake, second son of Mrs. P. Shepherd and the late Mr. Drake, of Somerville, New Jersey, U.S.A.

Thanks.

MRS. J. GRANT and Family, of Glenlyon Street, Gladstone, wish to thank Dr. Skinner, the Matron and Nursing Staff of the Gladstone District Hospital for medical and kind attention to her dear husband and their father during his illness.

Please accept this as our personal thanks.

MRS. J. GRANT and Family, of Glenlyon Street, Gladstone, desire to thank all kind relatives and friends for their floral tributes, telegrams, letters, cards, and expressions of sympathy in their recent sad bereavement.

Please accept this as our personal thanks.

In Memoriam

WRIGHT.—In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, James Wright, who departed this life on 5th December, 1942.

It is just one year ago to-day
Since our dear dad was called away.
The blow was hard, the shock severe;
We little thought his end was near.
He went to bed in perfect health
Not knowing death was near.
He hadn't time to say good-bye
To those he loved so dear.

(Inserted by his loving son and daughter-in-law, Roy and Kath, also grandchildren, Delores and Julie Anne.)

FRY.—In loving memory of my dear husband, our dear father and grandfather, George Henry ("Bob") Fry, who passed away on December 9th, 1942.

God's greatest gift, Remembrance.

CURRENT TOPICS

RAIL AWARD REVIEW

Hearing began in the Industrial Court on Monday of applications by the Railways Commissioner, Combined Railway Unions, Amalgamated Engineering Union, and other metal unions for review of the Railway Award.

CHRISTMAS MAIL DELIVERY.

The Postal Department advises that to obviate disappointment in the delivery of mail matter before Christmas the public are advised that all mail matter should be posted not later than December 18.

BOY CHOKED BY CHEWING GUM.

A verdict of death from asphyxia while playing a game was returned at Auckland (New Zealand) at the inquest on a schoolboy, Patrick Dillon, 11 years. The bay was chewing gum while engaged in a game. The gum lodged in his windpipe, and he died in a few minutes.

PADDY'S MARKET.

The final Red Cross Paddy's market of 1943 will be held at the Red Cross grounds next Friday, December 10, when the usual assortment of high grade fruit, flowers, vegetables, jams, cakes and home manufactures will be available to patrons. A special feature of this function will be the Xmas gift and toy stall. There will be something here for the boys and girls for Xmas, filling a unique want for the festive season. A supper set donated by Mrs. C. Davidson will be raffled, also the special Xmas dinner basket. Mrs. A. H. Friend and her committee are already hard at work organising the maret, and town and country supporters are asked to kindly send consignments in to Friends (Pty.) Ltd. in good time for the morning sales.

COMFORTS FUND

MONTHLY STREET STALL

The usual monthly street stall in aid of the joint A.C.F. and Patriotic Appeal Fund will be conducted in the Grand Hotel buildings on Friday, December 17.

The energetic convenors (Mesdames C. W. Macfarlane and J. W. Garrett) would appreciate donation of jam, fruit cakes, vegetables, sweets, or any other home manufacture or articles for sale on that date.

Donations may be left with the convenors, or at the Gladstone Cash and Carry.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

PROCESSION AND DEMONSTRATION

An Educational Display

In common with other centres throughout the State, Fire Prevention Week was held in Gladstone, terminating on Saturday with a grand display by the Fire Brigade at the old town dam, preceded by a procession through the main street.

The weather may have prevented some from attending, but despite the threatening condition the number to take part in the procession and in attendance at the site of the display was disappointing.

CIVIL DEFENCE UNITS.

All Civil Defence units had been invited to take part in the procession, but whereas the heads of the several branches of civil defence were present, only three wardens and three W.N.E.L's. took part, and it would appear that the others have lost all their keenness in these activities.

HOWE FIRE ENGINE.

In the procession all Fire Brigade vehicles and two Ambulance cars took part, the new Howe International fire engine, making its first appearance, being at the head of the procession.

The body of this engine was built by the Chief Officer of the Fire Brigade and his staff, and reflects great credit on their workmanship, much favourable comment being made by officials of the Board and onlookers. Altogether the Brigade now has three fire engines and four trailer pumps, capable of pumping in the aggregate 2000 gallons of water per minute.

PUBLIC ADDRESS SYSTEM.

During the procession and at the demonstration a public address system was in operation, giving, first of all, useful hints to, the public on fire prevention, and later explaining the several items of the demonstration.

INTERESTING DISPLAY.

The Chairman of the Fire Brigade Board (Mr. M. A. Busteed) and the executive officer of all Civil Defence units (Mr. J. F. Donovan) congratulated the Brigade on the interesting and educational display given. Mr. Busteed stating that, following the personal call of members of the Brigade to every house and business place in the town during the week, when a card containing useful information was handed in and useful advice give on fire prevention, he felt sure the week would have the desired results.

Mr. Donovan expressed the appreciation of the Government in the action of the Fire Brigade Board in co-operating in the week, and stated he would make a very favourable report to the Government on the display given by the Brigade.

FIRE RESCUE METHODS.

During the demonstration the public was shown how a fireman would rescue a person from a burning building, method of resuscitation, use of soda acid, foam, and C.T.C. extinguishers, stirrup pump and knapsack pump, special fires being prepared to demonstrate the use of each of these means of fire extinction.

EXTENSION LADDER USED.

The Brigade's extension ladder was used to show how water would be pumped into a second story of a building or over one building into another.

The fog nozzles, fire gun and foamite machine were also demonstrated.

PUMPING DIRECT.

A turnout of the Brigade, with the unit pumping direct from a water supply followed, and the public were able to appreciate the pressure of water these pumps can supply through several lengths of hose, three units at one stage sending out a good pressure of water through eight lines of hose. To demonstrate that the Brigade, by means of using one pump as a relay or booster pump, could fight a fire at a good distance from any available supply, 900 feet of hose was then run out in a matter of moments, and the Dennis engine sucking water from the dam pumped it through this 900 feet of hose, where it was received by one of the trailer pumps, which pumped it through a further 200 feet of hose, sending a great stream of water high into the air.

ONE COMPLAINT.

Altogether the display was most interesting. Those present had only one complaint to voice, and that was that more people had not shown sufficient interest to witness the display and learn something about fire fighting equipment and its uses in combatting fires of varying types.

RAILWAY STATION

"WHY THERE IS NO CLOCK"

Vibration Effects

The Secretary of the Gladstone branch of the Trades and Labour Council (Mr. J. Gosschalk) writes:—

"The enclosed letter was received in answer to our request for a clock to be installed for the convenience of travellers at the Gladstone Railway Station.

"We would point out that electric clocks installed at every other major station give satisfaction, and we have taken the matter up with the Commissioner for Railway.

"We consider this letter may be of interest to your readers."

THE LETTER.

"The letter from the General Manager of Railways, Rockhampton, stated: 'The reason why there is no clock on the platform at Gladstone is that vibration seriously affects the works of a clock, and I feel sure you will admit that it is better to have no clock than one which does not keep the correct time."

OBITUARY

MR. JAMES GRANT

The death occurred at the Gladstone District Hospital of a well-known and highly respected resident in the person of Mr. James Grant, after a short illness.

Deceased, who was 73 years of age, commenced work in the early days carting and hauling bridge timber and mine timber for the Mt. Morgan mine.

Afterwards he went to Baffle Creek, where he punted sugarcane to the mill.

His next job was running the mails. This took him between Gladstone, Kroombit and Galloway Plains, and then back by horse to the contractor, the late Mr. James Boles.

It included the Turkey Station mail to Rosedale and Bundaberg twice a week by pack horse and saddle horse.

Mr. Grant's next attempt was deep sea fishing around Bustard Heads and Baffle Creek. He made some fine hauls of mackerel, which were railed from Rosedale to Brisbane markets.

Deceased then came to Gladstone with his wife and faimly, and entered the deep sea fishing properly, running a boat to the Barrier Reef. For years large hauls of mackerel, salmon, red emperor and other reef fish were brought in to the Gladstone Fisheries. He held the record for the largest mackerel to be caught on a line. It weighed 84 lbs. He was an excellent navigator, bringing many small vessels into the uort from Sydney and Brisbane in the early days

Deceased is survived by his wife, one son (Donald), two daughters (Mrs. Albert Burrows, Gladstone, and Mrs. Sid Lewis, Gladstone), and four grandchildren.

WHITE AUSTRALIA

"Is Not Just"

"In China we do not like your White Australia policy," said Mr. Andrew Kwong, addressing Rotarians at their luncheon in Brisbane on Monday.

"You have done me the honour of inviting me to speak at your luncheon," he continued, "and I am sure you would wish me to speak the truth.

"China looks forward to the future with confidence. We have found our strength, and for you to have a policy of racial distinction against us is not just.

"Among the Chinese you see here now, none misbehaves himself in the streets, and that, after all, is the mark of good citizenship."

Mr. Kwong, who is a student of Hangchow University, spoke of China's post-war problems, and mentioned the progress that was being made in industry, education, and international relationships.

"The food problem is one of the most dangerous things in China," he said.

"There is only enough food for nine-tenths of our population, and foreign trade only feeds one-fourth of the remaining tenth.

"One reads where Australia must play an important part in the feeding of the people of the starving countries, and this should contribute to a spirit of mutual helpfulness between our two countries."

GLADSTONE SHOW SOCIETY

ANNUAL MEETING

Mr. Ballantine President

The annual meeting of the Gladstone Show Society was held on Friday night. Present: The President (Mr. H. N. Ballantine), and Messrs. C. Golding, A. Watson, D. Hardy, C. N. Joseph, L. B. Cameron, E. Jefferis, L. S. Johnston, W. J. Wyndham, G. Crow, A. Cameron, C. W. Macfarlan, and the Secretary (Mr. A. E. Easterby).

ANNUAL REPORT.

The President (Mr. H. N. Ballantine) submitted the 56th annual report and financial statements of the Gladstone Show Society as follows:—

In common with other similar organisations, no annual show was held, and it is not anticipated that a show will be held in 1944.

PATRIOTIC RODEO.

The Society held a patriotic rodeo, which was well supported. The total receipts were £483/13/4, and payments £140/19/2, leaving a credit balance of £342/14/2. This amount has been equally divided between the following five bodies:—Gladstone and District Patriotic Fund, Gladstone Branch Red Cross Society, Gladstone Branch Australian Comforts Fund, Calliope Branch Australian Comforts Fund, and Red Shield Fund.

I take this opportunity of thanking all who gave donations, assisted in the running of the function, patronised same, or in other ways assisted in making the rodeo the success it undoubtedly was.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.

Members were again appealed to to pay their annual subscription. It is pleasing to report that of the 124 members who paid in 1942, 98 have paid in 1943. Several have also paid for 1944, and one member has paid his subscription up to 1946. To all these members I express my thanks. It is a matter for regret that 25 of last year's members have not seen fit to renew their subscription for this year. Two additional members have joined the services, thus making the number of members with the services 19.

CREDIT BALANCE.

At the commencement of the period under review we had an overdraft of £25/5/11. We have since met all commitments, and the year has closed with a credit balance of £21/16/1.

DEEPLY REGRETTED.

Death claimed two old and valued members in the persons of Mr. J. E. Rideout and Mr. F. F. Menzies. Their passing is deeply regretted.

THE GROUNDS.

Our grounds have not been utilised by the usual sporting bodies, but we now have an application from the Cricket Association for the use of the grounds for the current season. The Military have, on several occasions, made use of the grounds.

GENERAL.

I will not be seeking re-election as president, and I take this opportunity to thank all members for their very loyal support. During my term as president we have carried out many building improvements, and have also greatly improved the financial position of the Society.

In conclusion, I thank the chairman and members of the committee, and our honorary secretary, for the work they are doing, and for their continued interest in the Society.

COUNTRY PEOPLE.

Mr. G. Crow contended that the town was not pulling its weight, and the Society was being kept going by the country people.

POSITION IMPROVED.

Mr. Ballantine, in moving the adoption of the annual report, said there were dozens of citizens who should be members of the Society. However, credit was due to those loyal Gladstone citizens and the country people who had from year to year renewed their subscriptions. They had improved the position of the Society, and had finished the year with a credit balance of £21. The rodeo, in aid of patriotic bodies, was a great success, the financial result being really wonderful. He did not wish to seek re-election as president, and would like to see someone who lived closer to the town elected to the position. He took the opportunity to thank all those who had loyally assisted him to carry out his duties, the willing band of workers who had performed a good job, and especially Mr. Easterby, who had carried on in an honorary capacity.

WONDERFUL GESTURE.

Mr. Crow, in seconding the motion, endorsed the remarks of Mr. Ballantine. He (Mr. Ballantine) had brought in 70 head of cattle for the rodeo, which was really a contribution of £70. It was a wonderful gesture on the part of Mr. Ballantine, and he had carried out a magnificent job. However, the support given by the town for this patriotic function was not sufficient.

ACT APPRECIATED.

Mr. Jefferis said Mr. Ballantine's effort was wonderful, and very few people knew that in bringing the cattle to Gladstone Mr. Ballantine had remained with them for four days, sleeping with them, which in itself was an act that should be appreciated on all sides.

CATTLE KNOCKED ABOUT.

Mr. Ballantine said he was disappointed at the time that no mention was made that he had donated the cattle for the patriotic rodeo. He had travelled some considerable distance to get the cattle, but all he could get was twenty-five, and Mr. Jefferis had promised some. He then decided to donate the cattle for the rodeo, and it must not be overlooked that cattle are knocked about in bringing them in. All of the townspeople did not appreciate the work in bringing the cattle in to Gladstone, concluded Mr. Ballantine.

The motion for the adoption was carried.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted:—

Patron, Mr. T. L. Williams, M.L.A; president, Mr. H. N. Ballantine; vice-presidents, Messrs. E. Jefferis and A. Watson; treasurer, Mr. C. N. Joseph; country members, Messrs. A. L. Dahl, W. F. Whitty, A. H. Mann, G. B. Rideout, P. A. Friend, R. S. Wilson, W. J. Wyndham, A. D. Cameron, J. Bruce, R. C. Hoddinott, C. Gill, A. Chapman; town members, C. H. Golding, L. S. Johnston, G. Crow, A. D. Hopper, L. B. Cameron, C. W. Macfarlan, R. F. Power, D. Hardy, J. Burrows, J. Busteed, A. E. Easterby; auditor, Mr. L. S. Johnston.

COMMITTEE MEETING.

The first business at the committee meeting was the appointment of a chairman. Mr. G. Crow declined the position on account of health reasons, and Mr. E. Jefferis was elected to the position.

SERVICES APPRECIATED.

Mr. Ballantine said he regretted Mr. Crow was unable to accept the position, a position he had carried out for a number of years with credit to himself and the Society, and he considered a minute should be placed in the books recording the wonderful work Mr. Crow had carried out and the appreciation of members. He moved a motion accordingly, which was seconded by Mr. Johnston and carried.

Mr. Jefferis then took the chair.

CRICKET ASSOCIATION.

Port Curtis Cricket Association made application for the use of the grounds for the 1943-44 cricket season.—It was decided that permission be granted at a fee of £7-10/- for the season.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED.

The following committees were appointed:—

Finance: Messrs. L. B. Cameron, P. A. Friend, and A. D. Hopper.

Works: Messrs. C. H. Golding, A. Watson, and G. Crow.

NO SHOW.

It was decided that under the present circumstances no arrangements be made to hold a show this year, or until such time as the committee decided otherwise.

TOKEN OF APPRECIATION.

Mr. Jefferis considered that a little present should be made to the Secretary (Mr. Easterby) as a token of appreciation of the work he had carried out in an honorary capacity.

HONORARIUM OF £5/5/.

Mr. Watson moved that an honorarium of £5/5/- be made to Mr. Easterby. Seconded by Mr. Joseph.

Mr. Easterby said he appreciated the gesture, but he hoped the motion would be defeated.

Mr. Watson: We should acknowledge the work carried out by Mr. Easterby in an honorary capacity, and thus show our appreciation.

Mr. Ballantine, in supporting the motion, said £5/5/- was little enough.

The motion was then put and carried.

The next meeting of the committee was fixed for the first Friday night in February next.

NEW GUINEA MILITIA.

Now on leave for the first Christmas among their people since 1940 are some members of one of Queensland's most famous Militia battalions. They were with the first troops to go to Port Moresby, and many of them have been in New Guinea since.

In the leave drafts arriving almost daily in Brisbane are many men who have served nearly two years in the New Guinea jungle. It is a long stretch, but most of them look remarkably fit.

COMFORTS FUND

SUCCESSFUL TOY STALL

Receipts £102/5/10

A very successful function took place on Friday last, when the Gladstone branch of the Comforts Fund conducted a toy stall at the A.C.F. rooms, Grand Hotel buildings.

A large assortment of toys were offered for sale, and both the quality and quantity of the articles on display were indeed a credit to the convenors (Mesdames C. Chapman and W. Keller), and to the band of willing helpers who always work hand in hand with the convenors for the success of all functions.

For weeks prior to the date of the function the convenors worked day and night to ensure the success of the stall, and as a result of their efforts and the patronage of the public, the Joint Appeal Fund will be augmented by the sum of £102/5/10, a really magnificent effort.

THE RAFFLES.

The doll made and dressed by Mrs. J. Worthington and Mrs. J. Picton was won by W. A. Lenz, and the teddy bear (made by Mrs. W. Keller) by M. Pitt, Off Lane.

NORTH QUEENSLAND SEATS

Hermit Park Labour

Failing unity between the Queensland Labour movements and the unofficial Labour, the Hermit Park branch of the A.L.P. decided to run candidates at the forthcoming State elections.

On the motion of Alderman F. Aiken the meeting resolved to thank the Queensland Trades and Labour Council for its efforts to bring about unity in the Labour movement, and asked the Council to endeavour to convene a conference of the Q.C.E., and executive of the Trades and Labour Council, with the object of bringing about unity in the Labour movement.

Failing such unity the Hermit Park A.L.P., with a desire to prevent anti-Labour candidates from winning North Queensland seats, would run its own candidates.

GERMANY'S FORCES DOOMED

KNOCK-OUT PLANNED

Increasing Attacks

Britain, the United States, and Russia agreed at the Teheran Conference on plans for the destruction of the German forces.

The scope and timing of the operations, which will be undertaken from the east, the west, and the south, have been arranged.

The leaders of the three nations assert that no power on earth can save the German forces from destruction under the relentless and increasing attacks.

FINAL BLOW SOON.

The final Allied blow on Germany is about to fall, reports the Exchange Telegraph special correspondent near Teheran. Never before in the whole course of the war have the Allied leaders shown such complete confidence in the operations to come against Germany.

The three greatest Allied leaders (Churchill, Stalin and Roosevelt) have drawn up blue prints not only for the final terrific assault on Germany, but also for the peace to come.

The talks revealed one vital thing, the complete understanding existing between the combined Allied chiefs of staff.

The three great leaders made it plain by their demeanour that there now was no chance of major reverses, and that the war in Europe was near an end.

Thomas Stanley Hammond, manager of the Associated Tobacco Co., was attacked with an iron bar, thrown from his car to the road, and robbed of £1000 at Dandenong on Monday afternoon.

His assailants were two young men whom he had given a lift.

Hammond pleaded with them not to leave him helpless and bleeding, and persuaded them to drive him to Murrumbeena.

ALLIED MARRIAGES

CARE URGED

Serious Plight of Young Wives

Senator Dorothy Tangey, who is on her way to Canberra to interview the Federal Attorney General (Dr. Evatt) on behalf of Australian girls who had been deserted by their American soldier husbands, said when passing Adelaide: "I would urge girls contemplating marriage with Allied soldiers to look closely into the legal position before committing themselves.

"Because of the law of domicile many of the girls were unable to obtain either divorce or maintenance orders in this country.

"I have been amazed at the number of Australian-American marriages that have foundered. In Perth eight or nine girls came to see me, and others rang me up. Not one of them was more than 24, and some had been younger than 18 when they married and had had to obtain their parents' consent to do so.

"They had seen little of their husbands. One girl had known hers for only three days. Some had babies, and were without maintenance of any sort from their husbands."

Senator Tangney explained that under the present law of domicile these young wives could obtain redress or divorce only if they went to America, or if they could afford to pay the fees of an American solicitor to act in America on their behalf.

The law was made before such a situation was envisaged, but she believes that a National Security regulation could overcome the difficulty.

"Most of these unhappy marriages were contracted before June, 1942, when the American laws respecting the marriage abroad of their service personnel were tightened up," she said.

There were faults on both sides, Senator Tangney added, and it was difficult to make recriminations at this stage. In many instances she felt that parents of young girls were at fault. It seemed that education was needed for some parents as much as for the youngsters themselves.

GLADSTONE TURF CLUB.

Members of the committee of the Gladstone Race Club are reminded that a meeting of the club will take place at the Club Hotel to-morrow (Thursday) night at 8 o'clock.

TO CAN MORE CABBAGES.

Cabbages will be canned in Brisbane at the rate of approximately 10 tons a day from this week, when a second cannery will begin operations. Installation of bean and pea canning facilities is also being considered.

GROSS WASTAGE OF FOODSTUFFS

Astounding Revelation

An astounding revelation of gross wastage of foodstuffs and taxpayers' money is in the transport of 10 tons of beans from the glutted Sydney market to Melbourne, and subsequent dumping at the Melbourne City Council's tip.

The official explanation of the transaction, which was made on Wednesday last, was that the beans were taken off the glutted Sydney market after trading operations to relieve a bean shortage in Melbourne, and to prevent them from being dumped in Sydney.

Instead of being dumped on the spot they were transported 600 miles, adding 4/- a bushel to their purchase cost, and then dumped.

Officials in Canberra hesitated to declare whether the 10 tons dumped in Melbourne were identical with the 10 tons sent from Sydney, but the quantities agree, and so does the fact that both lots were contained in 750 bags.

Now the central authorities are endeavouring to find an official explanation. Originally it was stated that there had been a vegetable shortage in Adelaide, and that the beans had to be sent there from Melbourne, leaving that rising market short. Government operators then tried to relieve the Melbourne shortage.

WAR PLANTS

For Farm Machines

Munition factories which are to be closed down or converted to other war uses under the Federal Government's new scheme of production readjustment may be used to manufacture agricultural machinery.

This has been suggested to the Ministry of Munitions by the Deputy Director of Manpower (Mr. Bellemore).

Mr. Bellemore revealed this when commenting on a complaint from Mudgee that 300 workers would lose their jobs and £2000 weekly would be lost to the town in wages as a result of the decision to close down a munitions plant there and switch it to textile manufacture.

Mr. Bellemore said that no decision had yet been reached to use the plant for textiles, which required younger people to operate the machinery.

"I suggested that with a few additions of plant most of these factories could make agricultural machinery. The Munitions Ministry is now considering the suggestion," he said.

HOW TO PROTECT YOUR CLOTHING AGAINST

MOTHS AND Silverfish

Woollens, furs, blankets, carpets—the things most difficult to replace are feeding grounds for moth grubs or larvae. The moth itself does no harm, but the grubs, or larvae, that hatch out from the eggs can do irreparable damage. Washing or dry cleaning kills moth eggs.

Prevention is best. At regular intervals take all stored woollen, wool-rayon and wool-cotton garments, etc., into the open air. Shake and brush thoroughly, especially under lapels and collars. Clean cupboards, chests of drawers, using vacuum cleaner where possible.

Silverfish feed on rayon, starched linen and cotton. Books, prints and pictures are common feeding grounds. Clean bookshelves, backs of pictures and stored papers at intervals.

How to make bait cards: Bait cards may be purchased or may be made at home. Boil 3 pints of thin flour-and-water paste; add 1 oz. sugar, ½ oz. salt, 1 oz. sodium fluosilicate. Apply, hot, to both sides of cardboard; then dry, place in infested places. This bait is POISONOUS TO HUMANS.

Your Personal Post-War World

6 practical things you can do to make it a happy one

A COMFORTABLE home, good food and clothing, education for your children and a feeling of security.

Doubtless that is your idea of a personal Post-War world. How can you attain it?

Here are 6 practical things that you and your family can do:

(1) Buy and hold War Bonds to the limit of your capacity.
(2) Pay willingly your share of the taxes—even of increased taxes.
(3) Work as hard—and as long—on your job as you can so as to keep down the cost of the things or services you are producing.
(4) Provide for your own and your family's future by adequate life assurance. (Most of the money you put into Life Assurance will go into War Loans and so serve a double purpose.)
(5) Buy only what you need and make what you have last longer.
(6) Live faithfully by the rationing Rules and the Price Fixing codes.

If you do these things you will play your part in avoiding the tragedy of inflation and in making your personal Post-War world a happy one.

ITALIANS IN AUSTRALIA.

Italian prisoners of war held in Australia total 6103. This is revealed in a War Office announcement, which states that Italian prisoners of war held in the United Kingdom, the Dominions and elsewhere, number 357,630.

FEWER OLD AGE PENSIONS.

The number of persons receiving old-age pensions has decreased by 11,000 in the last 12 months. At the end of November 261,786 old-age pensions were in force in Australia. The decrease, which is the largest ever recorded for and 12-months period, is due to the re-employment of old-age pensioners resulting from the general manpower shortage.

TROPICAL SPREAD

GOOD DEMAND

Easily Converted to Butter

New developments in the manufacture of tropical butter spread, a major food discovery of the war, have opened the way to vastly increased output and have improved its taste.

It also has been found that by the addition of water and salt the spread can be converted by purchasers into butter, thus ensuring a wide market for it after the war.

Production of the spread at teh Hamilton factory of the Queensland Butter Board, which is turning out scores of tons for the armed forces in tropic zones removed from refrigeration facilities, was stepped up last week from 50 to 75 tons weekly as the result of a new formula.

With sufficient labour, 100 tons weekly can now be produced, and by the end of January the output is anticipated at 150 tons weekly. However, the aim is 200 tons, so great is the demand.

It has been idscovered that by the addition of 16 per cent of water and salt purchasers have a ready means of converting the spread into butter, equal to first quality butter.

The conversion is made by the slow addition to every 1 lb. of spread of five teaspoonsful of water in which has been dissolved a heaped teaspoonful of salt.

Allowed to stand over night, the resultant butter became firm, but it is necessary to consume it in two or three days, unless refrigeration is available.

It has been found that sea water is equally as effective for purposes of conversion.

MEAT RATIONING.

Final details of the meat rationing scheme as they affect consumers probably will be announced on January 8, but certain aspects will be made known as soon as practicable to enable the plan to operate smoothly from its inception.

Savings stamps, war savings certificates, Commonwealth loans, are vital instruments in waging the war against the powers of darkness. You have a part to play.

AFTER THE WAR

Economic Security

In the last few months there has been some evidence of a more settled national mind and a consequent clarification of national thought. People are beginning to examine more closely the shape of things to come, and to appreciate more keenly some of the problems that will follow immediately after the war.

Recent public pronouncements by our leaders, representing both main schools of political and economic thought, have reflected the vision of the future that is now coming so much more closely into focus than it was earlier in the war. It is evident that the general outline of reconstruction plans and requirements are taking shape, and that these plans are based on a clearer appreciation of the trend and goal of humanity's strivings.

The vital urgency of war has demonstrated the inadequacy of many of our economic idols, and their downfall is assured if not already accomplished. At the same time there are certain signs that our political leaders have not allowed themselves to be carried away by the glowing gospels of extremist enthusiasm which sees a social paradise springing up at the wave of a legislative wand.

These leaders, representing every shade of thought, are unanimous in believing that an improved standard of life can be attained, and they have stated their resolve to see that the employment of the nation's physical and natural resources will be directed towards the common welfare. But they also see that any improvement in our general standard of living depends eventually on the labour of men's hands and not alone on Governmental plans.

Goods and services can only be provided at the cost of someone's work, and the extent of these goods and services is limited in the ultimate by the enterprise and earnestness of the individual men and women providing them.

The war has cleared away many of the shibboleths that previously stood in the way of justice, and that impeded the progress of the ordinary man struggling upward to a state of economic security and happiness. We can look forward to the future with great hope and enthusiasm, confident that we are facing in the right direction, and that our leaders see the goal quite clearly.

But we must remember that the road is not yet made; that although the plans are ready, the labouring has yet to be done.

DRIED APPLE OUTPUT.

Dried apple production in Australia has increased more than tenfold since the outbreak of the war. For the coming season Australia will produce 4000 tons of dried apples, compared with 2000 tons last season, and 350 tons annually before the war.

REWARD FOR A HERO

DENIED RIGHT TO EARN LIVING

"Cold-Blooded Bureaucracy"

(By "Old Digger")

Last week one of the newspapers printed a small story about an Adelaide digger, badly disabled in Tobruk, who had been refused permission to sell toys which he had been making as a means of eking out the princely pension which a grateful country provides.

The department responsible was the Department of Import Procurement, administered by Mr. Beasley, and one of the mushroom shows which the Government thinks worth while retaining in the post war years.

The same paper featured the capture of Satelburg, a heart-warming achievement carried out largely by men of South Australian units.

What a contrast! On the one hand the battle-toughened, hale and hearty warriors lauded by those they are protecting, and on the other their shattered comrade being denied the right to earn a living, which he would have been so much better fitted to do had he stayed at home.

Perhaps Sergeant Derrick and his men might have paused a little in their glorious charge up the steep Satelburg slope had they stopped to think of a cobber who was finding the brave new world for which he had fought and bled, a stamping ground for bureaucrats to whom liberty is merely a word in a dictionary.

But they didn't stop, and they won't stop, until the job is done, or until a shell, bomb or bullet writes "finis" to them.

But they won't forget. They get letters from home, and this particular story will be told in many of those letters.

For this is cold-blooded bureaucracy at its worst, the type of reasoning which would withhold a rope from a drowning man unless he first agreed to sign a receipt for the rope.

There are no rights or wrongs or human factors about the reasoning of Australia's dictators. They act with the coldness of a striking snake.

For instance, the bureaucrat who rejected this digger's application saw no difference between the maimed man in Adelaide and a million pound company which might have been floated for the purpose of acquiring the entire market of toys at the expense of firms who have been diverted to essential work.

According to the Digger, the reason given by the department for not granting his application was that it did not see fit to allow new manufacturers to make capital out of the downfall of other firms.

But, apparently, there is nothing wrong with anybody who stayed at home making capital out of the absence abroad of a soldier.

Surely, after two and a half years away from business, disabled and under constant medical treatment, this man is sufficiently handicapped to warrant even the most optimistic of people doubting whether he is likely to be a threat to firms formerly engaged in making toys, when they eventually resume their normal function.

Rather, it would be apparent to everybody but one of our brilliant bureaucracy, to whom this war shattered man represents that most hateful of all spirits—the spirit of individual enterprise and industry.

For the man who will return to civilian life, and despite disablement, set out to make a living from his own efforts, without crawling to any politician or jack-in-office, is a dangerous man to have around.

He likes independence, and if you get enough of him in the same place and at the same time, he is likely to sweep away the hordes of people who have been running the war, and will want to run the peace by regulation and control.

Which, of course, would not suit the bureaucrats and petty dictators.

CARBON PAPER

From Sugarcane Wax

Over 13,411,441 lbs. of wax of different varieties were imported into Australia in 1942. This amount included 334,175 lbs. of Carnauba wax, used in the manufacture of carbon paper and gramophone discs, 156,484 lbs. of beeswax for boot and floor polishes, and 12,00,000 lbs. of parafin wax.

Carnauba wax came from Brazil; before the Japanese war paraffin was was largely obtained from the East Indies.

The falling away of supplies of wax has forced Australia to look around for substitutes. Scientists suggested the wax of the sugarcane, and it is now being tested.

Carnauba wax, which occurs as a coating on the leaves of the Brazilian wax palm, comes off in scales when the sun-dried leaves are beaten. It is refined by melting the scales in boiling water. When cooled, the hard layer of wax is removed and further purified.

The wax is valuable for its quality of hardness, its high melting point, and its capacity for gloss and polish. Its use in the manufacture of carbon paper gives a uniform, hard shining coating when spread on paper.

Sugarcane wax occurs as a thin layer on the outside of the cane. When the cane was crushed, much of the waxy material was removed and carried away with the juice. Lime was added and, after heating for clarification, the wax was carried down with the precipitate and discarded in the filter mud and used as a fertiliser.

PROCESSING WAX.

Now the crushed cane is dried in cakes and the first wax extracted by a salvent such as benzol. This crude wax is soft and contains a fatty substance which must be separated from the pure wax. This can be done by the use of acetone. The final pure sugarcane wax is regarded as a probable suitable constituent for high grade carbon paper, while the cruder first wax can be used for polishes and for teleprinted carbon paper.

A considerable amount of carbon paper is being made under contract to the Government, and the estimated annual requirements for this trade are 15 to 20 tons annually.

It should be possible to produce sugarcane wax at a reasonably competitive price in Australia. The process is basically simple, and the only problem would be the installation of the needed plant in the raw sugar factories.

ELECTION SIGN BAN.

A ban on the display of electoral posters, imposed by the Federal Government during the Federal election campaign, will be extended to cover State elections and the referendum. State elections will be held in several States early next year, and under the posters larger than 10 x 6 inches will be prohibited.

ORIGIN

RED CROSS in Australia came into being in 1914 as a branch of the British Red Cross Society. Early in 1914 some quiet preliminary work had been done in New South Wales towards the forming of a Voluntary Aid Organisation and the promotion of classes for training, but it was not until August 13th, 1914, at a public gathering in Melbourne called by Her Excellency Lady Helen Munro-Ferguson, the wife of the Governor General of Australia, that the Australian Red Cross Society was acutally formed.

A CENTRAL COUNCIL was appointed to direct the Society, machinery was put into action to organise Red Cross in all States, in the Northern Territory, and in Norfolk Island.

LADY HELEN MUNRO-FERGUSON was appointed the first President of the Society. In each State the wife of the Governor became President of the State Division.

Very soon 2200 Branches were working throughout the Commonwealth, with a membership of 82,000 women and 20,000 men and boys.

THE WAR OF 1914-1918

During 1914-1918 more than £3,500,000 was collected and spent on Red Cross service to the Australian Forces and Empire Forces.

Items of expenditure on Red Cross work in Australia and overseas included:—

Money remitted to the Commissioners, England, Egypt and Cape Town, including special donations for prisoners of war	£979,007
Money expended in providing in Australia for sanitoriums, rest homes, invalid equipments, etc	£465,746
Money donated for and remitted to the British Red Cross Society	£253,920
Money donated for and remitted to Allied Societies	£64,530
Value of goods supplied to transports for use of sick and wounded	£103,905
Value of goods exported to Commissioners abroad	£1,266,731
Value of goods supplied to military hospitals in Australia	£462,697

The present War is making much larger calls on the Red Cross. You can helpon FRIDAY NEXT, 10th at

In Memoriam

FRY.—In loving memory of our dear father and father-in-law, who departed this life on December 9th, 1942.

We were not there to clasp your hand
Or bid a long farewell,
But the sorrow in our lonely hearts
Only the ones that mourn can tell.

(Inserted by Archie and Dot and family, Cracow.)

JONES.—In loving memory of our dearest friend and pal, Hazel Jones, who passed away on 19th December, 1942.

Just a memory fond and true
To show, dear Hazel, we think of you.

(From your loving friends, Joan, Bud, and Dave.)

CURRENT TOPICS

REFERENDUM.

The taking of a referendum next year to give the Commonwealth Parliament the powers agreed to at the constitutional conference with the the States last year was agreed to by the Federal Cabinet on Wednesday.

NEW YEAR'S EVE DANCE.

A big gala night, in the form of a New Year's dance, will be held in the Trocadero, under the auspices of the Church of England. Excellent music will be supplied, and the programme includes modern and old-time dancing.

£1 LESS FOR POTATOES.

The Commonwealth Prices Commissioner (Professor Copland) has announced a further reduction of £1 a ton in the price to growers of potatoes in Queensland. This lower price took effect on Wednesday on all potatoes delivered by road to Brisbane, or delivered to country sidings.

BUTTER PRODUCTION.

Australia's butter production for the first four months of the current year declined nearly 20 per cent on the corresponding period of the previous two years. Production for the four months ended October 31 was 43,965 tons, compared with 53,071 tons for the corresponding period last year, and 52,422 tons for the same four months of 1941.

COUNTRY PUPILS' HOSTEL.

Country school children attending State high schools, more of which are to be erected, may live in hostels provided by the Government. The Education Minister (Mr. Jones) said that many country children were now prevented from attending secondary schools because accommodation could not be obtained by them. The department was now giving close attention to the proposal.

GIFT FULLY APPRECIATED.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Gollnick, Gladstone, have made a valuable contribution of books and reference books to the Gladstone State High School library. One of the books is of historical interest to all residents of Gladstone, and it is fitting that it should be available to all students passing through the local school. The Principal of the school states that on behalf of the school he deeply appreciates such parental interest in education.

FOUREX.

Commencing on Wednesday next, December 15, a special delivery of Fourex for the Xmas season will be made to local hotels, when approximately 300 dozen bottled Castlemaine will be made available. Hotelkeepers have agreed to retail this in small quantities to regular customers at a reasonable price. Old customers are therefore asked to get in touch with their favourite hotel next Wednesday to ensure a few bottles for the festive table.

Thargomindah had the best record of Queensland towns for 4th Liberty Loan contributions. It was the third successive war loan in which it led the State.

HARBOUR BOARD

MONTHLY MEETING

Interest Payment to Treasury

The monthly meeting of the Board was held yesterday. Present: The Chairman (Mr. C. W. Macfarlan), and Messrs. W. P. Golding, L. R. Weiske, A. W. Drewe, R. S. Wilson, and the Secretary (Mr. A. D. Hopper).

The Town Council notified that Mr. L. R. Weiske had been appointed to fill the vacancy on the Board caused by the death of Mr. E.W.Crow.

The Chairman extended a hearty welcome to Mr. Weiske, who suitably responded.

Apologies were received from Messrs J. F. Donovan and C. S. Schache, who were granted leave of absence from the meeting.

POST WAR SCHEMES.

The Co-ordinator General of Public Works wrote in connection with schemes for post war development.

It was decided that the Works Committee prepare a list of proposed works for submission by the Board.

FINANCE.

Payments amounting to £448/15/- were confirmed, and accounts amounting to £228/18/- were passed for payment.

It was decided to make a remittance of £2041/16/3 to the Treasury on account of the current half year's interest.

GENERAL.

The Chairman (Mr. Macfarlan) extended the compliments of the season to members of the Board and staff.

GLADSTONE TURF CLUB

PATRIOTIC RACE MEETING

Net Profit of £247/3/9

The patriotic meeting of the Gladstone Turf Club, held on November 27, was even more successful than the previous record fixture, and when the Secretary (Mr. Connellan) presented the financial statement, duly audited by Mr. V. A. Summers, at the committee meeting last night, it disclosed that the nett profit would be £247/3/9, allowing a distribution of £35/6/3 to the seven Gladstone and Calliope patriotic bodies. Members commented favourably on the prompt finalisation of accounts and early distribution of proceeds, which has been a feature of the Turf Club's patriotic efforts.

After some discussion it was decided to ask all intending members to forward their annual subscription of £1/1/- to the Secretary or Treasurer before December 31 next, and that an annual meeting of such financial members should take place on Friday, January 7, to elect a committee and officials for 1944. The club intends to race again early in the New Year.

There was a lengthy discussion on the advisability of racing for a track improvement fund, it being pointed out that extensive improvements were necessary to the track, race rails, grandstand and committee box, some of these fixtures being in a dangerous condition.

Many members felt that the general public would realise that as the club had already distributed large amounts from patriotic meetings, the club itself was deserving of a bumper meeting to repair and improve the course and appointments. The question is, of course, bound up with the problem of taxation, and will, no doubt, be finalised at the annual meeting and subsequent business of the new committee.

It was generally agreed that the recent patriotic meetings had put racing on its feet in Gladstone and district, and had given a new lease of life to the sport of kings locally. This is due to splendid work by old members and the enthusiastic co-operation by patriotic officials, who were very active in giving fresh impetus to the club's operations.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL

Miss C. Gilmour left by the mail train yesterday for Brisbane, en route to Stanthorpe, where she will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Ogg, "Araluen."

Mrs. C. W. Ewald, after her appearances in St. Andrew's concert and at divine service at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, returned on Monday to Bundaberg. During her stay in Gladstone she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Young

POST WAR PROJECTS

Some Important Proposals

The Chairman of the Gladstone Employment Exchange Board (Mr. J. F. Donovan) writes as follows:

Acting under instructions from this Board, I am attaching a list of post war projects which are having our attention.

"I further attach copy of a report furnished by the Chief Inspector of Fruit Culture at Rockhampton (Mr. W. J. Ross), dealing with the citrus growing on lands in the vicinity of Calliope Range.

"I am directed to ask that you publish these details for the information of the public generally, and thanking you in anticipation.

GLADSTONE HARBOUR BOARD.

1. Extension of reclamation work from the present position to Barney Point, at an approximate cost of £90,000. A report on this project from a town planning expert is awaited.

2. In conjunction with No. 1 is a small scheme from Lord Street down to the present water front, and to embrace an area of approximately 8 to 10 acres.

GLADSTONE TOWN COUNCIL.

Hydro electric generating plant to supply the whole of the Dawes Range right down to and including Gladstone, and including all small towns en route.

CALLIOPE SHIRE COUNCIL.

1. The construction of the road from Calliope River Crossing to Yarwun.

2. The construction of the road from the end of the Yarwun-Targinnie main road, near the Targinnie School, to the locality where boring operations for shale oil deposits are being carried on.

3. The construction of the road from Many Peaks to the top of the Dawes Range via Green Wattle Creek.

4. The construction of the road from Littlemore to Miriam Vale via Blackman's Gap.

5. To cover test borings in the Mt. Larcom district to ascertain whether a supply of suitable water could be obtained for irrigation purposes.

6. A tentative investigation of a gorge in portion 3 parish of Radley, through which Ridler Creek runs, to ascertain if it would be suitable for the impounding of sufficient water for an irrigation and hydro electric scheme for the Boyne Valley.

7. Isolation ward for infectious diseases at the Gladstone District Hospital.

8. Cleaning of land in the shire by bulldozers of noxious weeds and animals, and for better roads to all farms, and opening of the coast line for fishing and recreation.

TRADES AND LABOUR COUNCIL.

1. New railway line from the Station to Parson's Point Meat Works.

2. Double railway line from Gladstone to Boyne Valley Junction.

3. The establishment of an aerodrome at Gladstone.

4. Complete drainage of town and reclamation of all saltpan land.

5. Opening of cotton ginnery at Gladstone.

6. Assistance to cotton growers in the Calliope Valley to be assisted from funds from the Unemployment Trust Account by way of grant or subsidy.

7. Railway line between Lawgi and Monto to be connected.

BY MEMBERS OF THE EXCHANGE BOARD.

1. Irrigation and water conservation scheme, embracing the lands on the Calliope River basin, containing approximately 300,000 acres.

2. Suitability of land in the vicinity of the Calliope Range for the growing of citrus.

3. Coal mining operations at Callide Valley and Littlemore.

4. Electricity scheme for Rockhampton, Gladstone and Bundaberg, and country districts generation point in the Callide coal fields.

5. Miriam Vale lands for the growing of tobacco.

CALLIOPE RANGE LAND.

Senior Instructor in Fruit Culture (Mr. Ross) reported as follows:—

With reference to your B/c and copy of letter sent by you to Mr. J. F. Donovan, chairman Gladstone Employment Exchange Board, Gladstone, dated 24th August last, in respect to the inspection of land in the vicinity of the Calliope Range, and its suitability for fruit growing, I have now to report as follows:—

In company with Councillor H. N. Ballantine and Mr. A. Walker (settler) an inspection of the land in question was made.

GOOD WATER SUPPLIES.

Situated at the top of the Range, about 5 miles south-west of Gladstone, and in the vicinity of Mount Seaview, the area is known as the Tableland. It was a mining field with considerable activity many years ago, but at present the three or four remaining residents are chiefly engaged in grazing pursuits.

The soils are granitic and basaltic, and in places very fertile, with good drainage, especially along the water courses, and are capable of producing good results in respect to the growing of citrus and other fruits and vegetables.

From observations made, and backed by information collected from settlers who have had long experience in the area, good water supplies can be obtained from wells and creeks in sufficient quantities to permit of small scale irrigation being practised. This water is, in most cases, of good quality, both for domestic and crop purposes.

FRUIT FARMS.

The total area considered suitable for the establishment of fruit farms is not extensive. The largest concentrated area of reasonably good land is estimated to be approximately two miles square, on which probably from ten to twelve orcharding enterprises might be established, with provision for sufficient acreage being available to each settler to permit of mixed farming being indulged in, and for the maintenance of a few horses and cows necessary for efficient working and home comforts and requirements.

SMALL FLATS.

Along both sides of the route by which the aforementioned country is at present approached there are situated on the eastern slopes of the Calliope Range a number of small alluvium flats or pockets scattered over a large area, which could be utilised for the successful growth of such crops as already mentioned.

Individually, however, these flats are small in area, ranging perhaps from 3 to 8 to 10 acres, but by the inclusion of several or more of them (according to size) in each block surveyed, reasonable prospects for successful cultural activities would be afforded each settler.

A further number of similar areas to the last mentioned are, I understand, existent further along the Calliope Range at higher altitudes, but in respect to these road facilities are not at present available.

In respect to those areas mentioned as being on the eastern slopes of the range, road facilities not at present existing to provide ingress and egress might be a little difficult in places; but by no means insurmountable.

TRANSPORTATION.

Regarding transportation of production, I have to mention that there is a rather steep and narrow, but otherwise fairly satisfactory road at present serving the Tableland area, and the nearest point of railway is Calliope, about 30 to 35 miles distant.

CLOSER SETTLEMENT.

In conclusion, I desire to suggest that in the event of further steps being taken to design a scheme for the closer settlement of these areas, a more detailed inspection involving more time and travel be organised before any definite action is taken. This would assist in the planning of areas being carried out to include considerations of facilities, such as roads, water and sufficient arable land being available for each settler.

T. & G. MUTUAL LIFE SOCIETY

SOUND PROGRESS

Bonuses Maintained

In to-day's issue an advertisement of the T. & G. Mutual Life Society appears.

For the year ended 30th September, 1943, the income of the Society amounted to £7,424,880, and the new business completed in the ordinary and industrial departments (excluding reassurances) totalled 100,450 policies, assuring £10,654,229.

The assets, which are held to meet policy liabilities, are now £42,354,744, while assurances in force increased to £111,015,786.

£3,170,147 was paid to policy holders. Over 1,600 members of the Society's staff have enlisted for war service, and the Society subscribed over £4,000,000 to war loans last year.

Bonuses have been maintained on the same scales as for last year.

The sound investment policy, with careful selection of risks, and fair dealing with its policy holders, have made the Society one of the strongest life offices in the British Empire.

AQUATIC CLUB

HANDICAP RACE

Win for Susan

(By "Harbour")

Members of the Port Curtis Aquatic Club organised a handicap race last Saturday, which was held on the Auckland Creek course, as the club was unable to secure a launch to follow up the boats for the harbour course. However, under very unfavourable conditions, a very light northerly prevailing, the race commenced at 3.15.

Seven boats faced the starter, viz: Chelsea (E. Fisher) scratch, Ace (P. Crow) 1 min., Susan (A. Wicks) and Valiant (N. Flack) 3 mins., Cutty Sark (P. Byrne) 5 mins., Memories (J. McDough), and Defiant (R. Brennan) 8 mins.

Chelsea held her lead throughout the first lap, followed by Susan, with Valiant third.

During the second lap Chelsea was overtaken by Susan, Valiant and Defiant. Cutty Sark pulled out at the completion of this lap. Maybe we'll bring some wind for the next race, Pat.

Susan held her lead to the finishing line, with Defiant gaining second honours, while Memories came from last position earlier in the race to finish third.

On the adjustment of handicaps Defiant completed the course in the fastest time, 1 hr. 26 mins.

As this was the first organised race for over a year, things went well. So, until we are able to race again, good sailing.

"USELESS"

Dingo Rifles

Complaint was made at the annual meeting of the Selectors' Association of Queensland this week that rifles made available to destroy pests were so old and inaccurate that in many cases they had proved useless.

Delegates suggested the establishment of buffer areas between sheep and cattle areas to check the spread of dingoes. It was claimed, however, that graziers in such areas should be given special concessions to compensate them for maintaining netting fences and because of losses sustained through being adjacent to dingo areas.

The meeting supported a proposal for a uniform dingo bonus of 10/- throughout the State.

Alarm was expressed at the increasing number of dingoes.

A report from the Western Queensland Local Authorities' Association showed that for the year ended March 31 7876 dingoes were destroyed in 14 Central Western and North Western shires.

Despite diminishing facilities to cope with the pest this kill was 3800 more than the previous year, and nearly 5000 greater than in 1938-39.

PENSIONS RESTORATION

Four Weeks' Back Pay

Arrangements are being completed by the Federal Treasury to pay the pensions restoration of 6d a week from the pensions pay day in the week preceding Christmas.

The decision was not made in time to enable the inclusion to be paid this week.

As the restoration will be made retrospective to the date of the cut last month, pensioners, in addition to having their pension restored to 27/-, will receive four weeks' back pay.

COMFORTS FUND

MONTHLY STREET STALL

The usual monthly street stall in aid of the joint A.C.F. and Patriotic Appeal Fund will be conducted in the Grand Hotel buildings on Friday, December 17.

The energetic convenors (Mesdames C. W. Macfarlane and J. W. Garrett) would appreciate donation of jam, fruit cakes, vegetables, sweets, or any other home manufacture or articles for sale on that date.

Donations may be left with the convenors, or at the Gladstone Cash and Carry.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

ST. ANDREW'S CONCERT

Delightful Evening

A large and appreciative audience filled the Town Hall on Friday night, December 3, at the second annual St. Andrew's concert.

After the National Anthem had been sung the Minister apologised for the absence of Mrs. C. N. Joseph, Mr. D. Smith, and Miss Beverley Williams on account of illness. He also explained that the pipers, under the lead of Mr. C. Duncan, of Rockhampton, were unable to fulfill their promise to be present on this occasion owing to their duties in various forms of national service.

The programme began with a delightful pianoforte selection rendered by Mrs. J. Busteed, who was the accompaniste for the evening. Her skilfull sympathetic execution, given with tireless patience to each item, was the firm foundation on which the whole programme was built, and made so enjoyable to the audience.

The guest artiste, Mrs. C. W. Ewald, of Bundaberg, made an early appearance on the programme, and at once captured and held the interest of the audience.

She was gowned in an old gold ripple satin evening frock, with a contrasting shoulder posy in cyclamen shade.

Her gracious unassuming personality and commanding presence were matched by her rich contralto voice. In timbre full and flawless, and in range wide and effortless, it enabled the singer to produce notes of high artistic quality. Her rendition provided pathos in gentler passages, passing easily to fervour and vigour in forte. The phrasing was delicate and well balanced, combining true tempo and rare interpretation.

The opening bracket of songs was "Dawn" and "Somewhere a Voice is Calling." This was followed at intervals by "My Ain Folk" and "Waiata Poi," "Melisande in the Wood" and "Angus MacDonald," and "I'll Walk Beside You" and "Danny Boy."

The climax of Mrs. Ewald's numbers was reached in "Homing" and "A Perfect Day," which was the best wine kept till the last.

Under the direction of Mrs. E. J. Bryan the children's party of the Sunday School repeated three items of the Children's Concert held in July—"The Doll's Dance," "Alice Blue Gown," and "Nursery Rhymes." In each item the young performers brought credit upon themselves, winning warm applause from the audience. Beris McKenzie deserves special mention for her clever rendering of a double part in the "Doll's Dance."

"The Blue Bells of Scotland" was sung by Miss Beth Miller in costume. She gave a pleasing rendition and agreeably surprised her listeners with the quality and strength of her voice.

Two popular items were performed by Miss Shirley McCray's Youth Troupe, "Gypsy Turn" and the "Naval Turn." These items never fail to please Gladstone audiences, and on this occasion the troupe excelled itself, particularly in the "Gypsy Turn." The frocking lent a realistic atmosphere to each scene, and stage management and performance were perfectly synchronised, implying long and careful preparation. Shirley herself, in addition to her part in the turns, danced the Highland Fling in national costume.

The solo "A Brown Bird Singing" was daintily rendered by Miss Esme McTaggart, and Miss Broadhurst in her solo, "Concerto for Two," demonstrated again the fine qualities of her voice, for which she is always an appreciated performer.

A playette entitled "Radio Ripples," presumably put on the "air" from 4-B.O., Benaraby, was given by four members of the Fellowship, Misses E. McTaggart and J. Perkins, and Messrs D. Rose and C. Power. This item was a solemn warning to all listeners to avoid "4-B.O., Benaraby."

The only instrumentalist on the programme was Mr. T. Rees, who appeared twice with his saxophone, and rendered brackets of numbers selected from the classics and popular airs.

Mr. Rees is well known as the master of his instrument. His numbers were received with well earned appreciation.

During the evening the youthful humourist, Max Garrett, appeared in variety turns which provoked much amusement.

The Minister sang the solo "Youth" and staged a musical competition based on the humourous song "The Egg." The winner was Miss E. McGahan.

Exquisite shoulder posies, made by Mrs. A. E. Easterby, and other floral tributes were presented to Mrs. Ewald, Mrs. Busteed, Mrs. Bryan, and Mrs. McCray.

The evening's entertainment closed with the singing of "Should Auld Acquaintance be Forgot."

The Minister proposed a comprehensive vote of thanks to the artists and other helpers, which was carried by acclamation.

A RECORD OF

SERVICE AND PROGRESS

The Annual Report for 1943 shows that the sound progress of the T. & G. has been well maintained

SERVICE—The T. & G. is a Mutual Life Society. In the forefront of its ideals it places fair dealing and service to its Policyholders. During last financial year over £3,170,000 was paid to Policyholders—more than £10,000 every working day in the year.

POPULARITY—The esteem in which the Society is held is shown by the fact that during the year many thousands of existing Policyholders, in addition to new members, purchased protection for themselves and their dependants. In all 100,450 new Policies assuring £10,654,229 were effected, while the total Assurances in force increased to £111,015,786.

SECURITY—The assets, which are held in trust to meet Policy liabilities, now exceed £12,350,000 invested in first-class securities.

WAR EFFORT—Over 1,600 members of the Society's staff have enlisted for war service. The Society has invested to the limit of its capacity in the various War Loans in Australia and New Zealand, the sum of £4,090,000 being contributed during the past year. Every premium paid and every new Policy effected strengthens the Society's support to the War Effort.

CLOTHING MATERIAL

Easing Restrictions

Easing of the restrictions on the manufacture of clothing material to enable the output of cloth to be expanded both in quality and in design will probably be considered by the production executive.

Some Federal Ministers are dissatisfied with the range of design and quality offered by wartime cloths. They say that it is much more limited than in either Britain or America, and that if present restrictions are continued Australian mills will be in a disadvantageous position to compete with other manufacturers of cloth after the war.

AMERICANS LIVING ABROAD

Must Register

Registration for U.S.A. selective service has been extended to all male civilian citizens of the United States residing abroad.

Those born after December 31, 1898, and before January 1, 1926, and not previously registered, must register on or before December 31, 1943.

Such persons residing in Queensland should communicate at once with the American Consul at Brisbane (Mr. Joseph P. Ragland) for particulars.

Heavy penalties are provided for failure to register.

WASTE PAPER COLLECTION.

After December 14 the collection of waste paper, cardboard and strawboard cannot be carried out without a license from the Salvage Commission.

Your Personal Post-War World

6 practical things you can do to make it a happy one

A COMFORTABLE home, good food and clothing, education for your children and a feeling of security.

Doubtless that is your idea of a personal Post-War world. How can you attain it?

Here are 6 practical things that you and your family can do:

(1) Buy and hold War Bonds to the limit of your capacity.
(2) Pay willingly your share of the taxes—even of increased taxes.
(3) Work as hard—and as long—on your job as you can so as to keep down the cost of the things or services you are producing.
(4) Provide for your own and your family's future by adequate life assurance. (Most of the money you put into Life Assurance will go into War Loans and so serve a double purpose.)
(5) Buy only what you need and make what you have last longer.
(6) Live faithfully by the rationing Rule and the Price Fixing codes.

If you do these things you will play your part in avoiding the tragedy of inflation and in making your personal Post-War world a happy one.

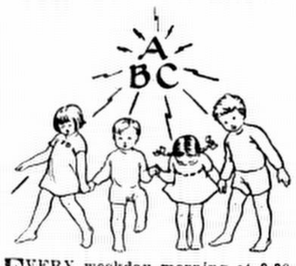
KINDERGARTEN OF THE AIR

DOES YOUR CHILD LISTEN?



EVERY weekday morning at 9.30 all over Australia children are united in one big Kindergarten. They join in the songs, enjoy the stories, interpret music and learn to observe and appreciate nature. The songs, music and play activities all have an educatonal value. Children live and learn by play, and the play activities are planned to help them to get the best out of living.

If you have not already done so, tune in to this session. Clear a space in front of the wireless and help the children to enter into the activities by joining in yourself. They like to share their pleasures and you will learn to understand something of their feelings as they gather around their unseen teacher.

The Parents' Session, at 1.30 p.m. (E.S.T.) every Sunday on the National Stations, is planned specially for you. For 10 minutes the problems that all parents have with their children will be discussed and advice given on the handling of those situations that so often confront parents.

Monday to Saturday at 9.30 a.m. (E.D.S.T.), 9 a.m. (C.D.S.T.).

WORK OF CORVETTES

Freedom of the Seas

The corvettes which Australian shipyards have been building since 1940 have made a name for themselves in the Mediterranean and Pacific, where they have been mine sweeping, patrolling, convoying, and doing anti-submarine work.

In the Mediterranean, together with British and American naval forces, they convoyed transports and landing craft in the Sicilian invasion. They had previously shared the hazards of the vital phase of the long struggle for control of these waters, and have been highly praised by the Commander in Chief of the Levant, to whose command they were temporarily attached.

When Japan came into the war a number of corvettes were in the Singapore area.

In the grim weeks that followed these little ships played a part out of all proportion to their size.

During the exodus from Singapore they escorted convoys of precious merchant ships to Java and to Australia.

The notorious bomb alley of Sunda Strait was one of their patrol grounds. They were on the job again later when Tandjog Priok Harbour was crowded with ships from Singapore.

Although these 900-tonners withstood the concentrated fury of enemy attacks during the Malayan and Netherlands Indies campaigns, not one of them was lost.

Very little has been revealed of their Pacific activities to date, but one of them acted as anti-aircraft and anti-submarine guard, a fire float, a hospital ship, and a salvage tug when the shipping in Milne Bay was raided by a hundred Japanese bombers earlier this year.

To-day scores of these little ships named after Australian country towns go about their job of maintaining the freedom of the seas around our coasts.

Savings stamps, war savings certificates, Commonwealth loans, are vital instruments in waging the war against the powers of darkness. You have a part to play.

Profit Sharing in Action

"For the past 15 years we have shared the week's profits with the employees in the manufacturing section of my engineering business," said Mr. S. G. Holland, Leader of the Opposition in the New Zealand Government, in Sydney during an exclusive interview with "Industrial News Service."

"This profit-sharing system has been most satisfactory, for it has meant a more contented staff, lower prices for goods, increased production at a lower cost, and better returns for ourselves.

"I believe that such systems as profit sharing and co-partnership contribute greatly to the bringing down of suspicion and in bridging the gap between employer and employee.

"The main reasons for the swing from Labour in the last New Zealand elections," Mr. Holland went on, "were, I think, the restlessness against the growing restrictions, and the large number of new men of a younger generation who represented the Nationalist Party. Civilians welcomed the advent of a party which had a progressive and far-sighted programme to offer them. They actually put Labour out. It was the servicemen's vote which kept Labour in office.

Mr. Holland and Mr. F. W. Doidge, member for Tauranga, have been some weeks in Australia inspecting war factories and plants in South Australia, Victoria and New South Wales.

"Undoubtedly what impressed us most," said Mr. Holland, "was our two-day tour of the Newcastle Steelworks. They are wonderful works, and one of Australia's greatest assets.

"Australia," he continued, "has many goods New Zealand needs, but Australia must find some means of letting us pay for them. In other words, she must encourage two-way trade."

PEOPLE IN LIFE BOATS

Drinkable Sea Water

British research chemists have developed a number of stills to take the salt out of salt water, and therefore make it fit to drink by people in life boats.

Three types are now in general use in life boats. One produces half a gallon of fresh water for every hour it works. It burns either briquettes or kerosene. The other two burn kerosene and produce more fresh water relative to the fuel consumed, but the advantages of the briquettes is that they can be stored in odd corners of the lifeboat and the briquette can still be used to make hot drinks or to dry wet clothes.

APPEAL FOR BOOKS AND CARDS

Help the Boys

The Australian Comforts Fund is urgently appealing for books, magazines, playing cards, or any other indoor games or sporting material for the men of the fighting forces.

The men in the front line or outposts are entitled to these amenities of life, and the Fund asks residents to do their best to supply these articles.

Mr. A. W. Young, Gladstone Cash and Carry, has kindly consented to take possession of these donations, so please forward all you can without delay, and thus help the Fund to help the boys.

ACHIEVED THE "IMPOSSIBLE"

SIR ERNEST FISK AND A.W.A.

Radio Put Australia on The Map

Australian radio history and the Great War jumped off together to a flying start.

Actually Australia had amazed the world in 1911, when the young radio operator on the Otranto, Ernest Fisk, had established communication with H.M.S. Powerful, lying in Sydney harbour, when the Otranto was two days off Fremantle. The Otranto's wireless had a limit range of 200 miles. Beyond that it couldn't go. Fisk sent his message 2000 miles! And he has been doing the impossible ever since.

Between 1911 and the outbreak of the Great War nothing much happened in Australian radio development. But war developed the industry almost overnight. A.W.A. (founded in 1913 with Fisk as general manager and director) erected a land station on Garden Island in four days, and six stations were shipped (with Fisk) aboard H.M.A.S. Melbourne for "unknown destinations."

These destinations turned out to be New Guinea and New Caledonia, and the staff and equipment sent with the young radio engineer were responsible for capturing the German radio stations there, while the establishment of watching stations saved the east coast of Australia from attacks from enemy ships.

HISTORY REPEATED.

History is now repeating itself, for Australian wireless has played a vital part in the present New Guinea campaign.

"Practically every move in New Guinea is dependent on radio," said the famous aviator, Ray Parer, in Sydney recently. He has just spent six months in New Guinea as an engineer with a U.S. service. "In fact," he added, "our present success there has been made possible by the superiority of Australian-made equipment over Japanese equipment. Our wireless is the best 'secret agent' in the world."

Establishing wireless stations in the tropics was a new experience to the young engineer, but he had already had experience of the Arctic, for in 1909 he went there on behalf of Marconi to test the possibilities of wireless communication for the Newfoundland seal hunting fleet.

This was one of the many "impossible" experiments which he carried through successfully.

A.W.A. AT WORK.

Fisk was always keen on Australia developing her own radio manufacturing industry, and Australia's big chance came in 1914, when A.W.A. was asked to supply radio equipment for every transport sailing from Australia, Hong Kong, Japan, and South Africa.

In those days wireless was still a novelty, but now it has entered our daily lives. Every hour it is used to bring aid to ships in distress, to direct naval battles, to direct civilian and military aircraft, to inform troops, and to shorten the miles between Australia and the other side of the world.

BEAM WIRELESS SERVICE.

One of Fisk's greatest achievements was the establishing of beam wireless service in the face of years of opposition from Government officials and "experts" who vowed it couldn't be done. He had been working on his experiments for some years before the opening of the service in 1927. In 1921 he was much encouraged when General Smuts asked him to discuss his experiments in Cape Town. They had met during the Imperial Conference of 1921, when Fisk was an adviser to Mr. W. M. Hughes, then Prime Minister of Australia.

South Africa, like other countries, was doubtful of this scheme for wireless communications over long distances, but after their discussion Smuts shook Fisk's hand, saying, "I'm all with you."

India soon followed South Africa's active encouragement, and in spite of almost overwhelming pressure from experts who ridiculed the scheme, Fisk went ahead with his scheme, which culminated in the opening of beam wireless communication between Australia and England in 1927.

Experts had predicted a complete failure, but although the scheme was entirely new, commercially, technically, scientifically and on the operating side, it was carried through successfully, and with a 100 per cent Australian team.

186,000 MILES PER SECOND.

Beam services provide the longest and fastest telegraphic communications in the world. They go at the rate of 186,000 miles per second, and put a girdle round the earth in less time than it takes a Melbourne Cup winner to get into his stride.

When the service was opened the previous cable charge had been 5/- a word. A.W.A. beam service opened at 1/8 a word. Rates to-day are even cheaper (1/3 a word for full rate), and press cables (telling the world to Australia, telling Australia to the world) are now only one penny a word.

The number of errors in messages sent by beam wireless is less than two in a million words, so thanks to Fisk's success in "impossible" ventures, Australia has been given quick, cheap and accurate communications.

SUCCESS ACHIEVED.

It was Mr. W. M. Hughes and Sir Joseph Cook (then Minister for the Navy) who sent the first direct wireless messages from England to Australia in September 1918. They were transmitted by arrangements with Marconi from his station at Carnarvon, in Wales, and received instantaneously by Fisk at his own experimental station at Wahroonga. He designed his own apparatus, and it was manufactured in Sydney by the staff of A.W.A.

Fisk has described the receipt of this message as one of the greatest thrills of his life.

It was certainly a day of tremendous importance for Australia, for it marked the successful conclusion of a long series of researches and the foundation of all the long distance wireless telegraph, wireless telephone and broadcasting services which to-day link Australia with the rest of the world.

Now any telephone subscriber in Australia can speak to any one of more than 35 million telephone subscribers in other parts of the world.

To-day, thanks to beam picturegram service, newspaper readers can see, within a few hours, photos of world events—the Casablanca Conference, the bombing of the Eden and Molme dams in the Rhur, the blasting of the Rumanian oilfields.

GREAT SERVICES RECOGNISED.

E. T. Fisk was knighted for his great services to Australia in 1937. In 1939 he was appointed secretary to the Economic Cabinet and Director of Economic Co-ordination, being lent to the Government by A.W.A., who continue to pay his salary. At present Sir Ernest is carrying out Government business in the United States, and will return to Australia within the next few weeks.

FAIR RENTS COURT

APPLICATIONS TO DETERMINE

Rent Reduced in Both Cases

Applications were made in the Fair Rents Court to the Acting S.M. (Mr. J. F. Donovan) by Thomas Howard and Edwin Arthur Chappell for the determination of the rent of flats known as Seivers' Flats, situated in Auckland Street, Gladstone.

By consent the applications were heard together.

Mr. Chappell and Mr. Howard appeared on their own behalf.

Mr. W. J. Sievers appeared on behalf of his wife, Mrs. E. Seivers.

THE EVIDENCE.

Lancelot Roy Weiske stated he was an auctioneer and commission agent, also an approved valuator. He was well asquainted with the property, the subject of this action. He valued the property at the request of the landlord, and found the building reasonably cool and nice sized flats, and valued the building with fixtures at £650. He considered the present rentals were quite within reason in comparison with other rentals charged for other flats in Gladstone, and this was based on relative values. He valued the furnishings at from 5/- to 6/6 each, and this was included in the rents charged, which were reasonable.

BUILDING WORTH £650.

By Mr. Chappell: The house was re-erected in 1924, but he did not know when it was erected. He was satisfied that the house was approximately 20 or more years old. He considered the building was worth £650, and a fair depreciation would be about 2 per cent. It was about seven or eight years since it was painted.

FAIR MARKET VALUE.

By Mr. Howard: He considered his valuation was reasonable, also the 5/- and 6/6 for the furniture, and that £650 represented fair market value of the house. He also considered that all flats that he controlled were within reason so far as rents were concerned.

25/- PER WEEK PAID.

Thomas Howard deposed that he was a tenant of a flat owned by Mrs. Seivers, and was an applicant to have the rent determined. The amount of rent payable was 25/- per week, and the flat was partly furnished. He valued the furnishings at £50, and all rents were paid up. He considered the value of the house to be £450, and the land to be worth £25. He knew a chap named Beale paid 25/- per week, including furniture and electric light, but the house was worth about £900, and the owner occupied part of it. The witness did not pay any rates and he considered the portion he occupied to be worth 15/- or 16/- per week, and the furniture 3/- per week.

By Mr. Sievers: He claimed that the portion of the house he occupied was worth only 15/- or 16/- per week.

VALUED HOUSE AT £450.

Edwin Arthur Chappell deposed that he was the tenant of a flat owned by Mrs. Seivers, and he was an applicant to have the rent determined. The amount of rent he paid was 23/- per week, and the flat was a furnished one. He valued the furnishings at £45/10/-, and all rents were paid up. He considered that the house was worth approximately 15/- per week, including furniture, and the value of the land at £25, and the house at £450. He did not know the rents of other flats in the locality, and he did not pay any rates.

£650 TOO HIGH."

By Mr. Seivers: He based his rental of 15/- on the valuation of the premises, after allowing deductions and 5 per cent profit in addition. He considered that £650 was too high a valuation.

FURNISHINGS VALUED AT £100.

Ethel Seivers stated that she was the owner of the flats, the subject matter of this action. She valued the land at £60 and the house at £650. Mr. Chappell paid 23/- a week and Mr. Howard 25/-. The furnishings were valued at £100, and these were included in the rental. She had been told that her rents were reasonable, and the place was painted about five years ago.

HOUSE COST £650.

By Mr. Chappell: The actual cost of the house was £650, and she considered that £5 per year was a fair expense since the place was turned into flats. The rents she was charging were reasonable.

RENTS DETERMINED.

Mr. Donovan determined Howard's rent at 16/- per week, and 3/- per week for the furniture, a total of 19/-, such rent to commence as from December 9.

Chappell's rent was determined at 15/- per week, furniture 2/6 per week, a total of 17/6, such rent to commence as from December 9.

GLADSTONE TOWN COUNCIL

NEW SANITARY DEPOT NOW BEING USED

BOYNE WATER SCHEME - PUMPING BY ELECTRICITY

The fortnightly meeting of the Council was held on Monday night. Present: The Mayor (Ald. G. G. Dennis), and Aldermen J. Deveney, M. A. Busteed, W. R. Golding, H. Anderson, R. E. Smith, R. R. Tudman, and the Acting Town Clerk (Mr. V. P. Breslin).

RAILWAYS AND WATER.

General Manager, Central Queensland Railways, acknowledged letter giving one month's notice for the discontinuance of the water supply. He proposed to reduce the draw on the town supply by taking one train per week from Barmundu, which was equal to 20,000 gallons. He would appreciate if approximately 1000 gallons weekly could be supplied to avoid coal dust being blown across on to the men when coaling engines.

It was mentioned that the department was now running two trains per week from Barmundu, and it was decided to supply the water as asked for.

APPROVED.

Department of Public Health, Brisbane, notified that the Deputy Director General, Health and Medical Services, had approved of portion 22, parish of Auckland, as a sanitary depot for the Council's use.—Received.

SITE CONDEMNED.

The Medical Officer of Health (Dr. G. J. Byrne) wrote as follows:—

"At the request of your Chairman of the Health Committee I have made an inspection of the sanitary disposal depot, and the inspection showed:—

(1) Great prevalence of flies.

(2) Infestation of the disposal trenches by maggots in many places less than one inch below the surface of the covering material.

(3) Insufficiently covered trenches.

(4) Fly infestation of the tip-truck and areas along its track.

(5) Re-using of the former disposal trenches, and the condition of the depot and its proximity to the District Hospital present a very real danger, and I must condemn the site for any further use as a disposal area.

The present site should be treated now by lime, or by other means to destroy the fly larvae at present infesting parts of the area.

Ald. Smith stated that lime was unprocurable at the present time, and it was decided that the sanitary men be asked to pick up a load of sawdust with a view to burning the fly larvae, and failing this being carried out immediately that Ald. Golding be asked to carry out the work, and that he be reimbursed for the petrol used by his truck.

NEW SITE.

Land Administration Board, Brisbane, advised that the Department of Public Health had approved of the new site for sanitary purposes, and advice had now been received from the Calliope Shire Council that the site had been inspected by the Chairman of the Council in company with the Mayor and Health Inspector, and that no objection would be raised by the Shire Council to the proposed reservation. The Council pointed out, however, that the land drained into Briffney Creek, from which, in dry times, residents of Gladstone drew water for household use, and that on the northern side of the road, down stream, a dairy was in operation.—Received.

EXECUTIVE AUTHORITY OBTAINED.

The Board advised by telegram that executive authority had been obtained to reserve portion 22, parish of Auckland, for sanitary purposes under the control of the Council as trustee.—Received.

NEW SANITARY DEPOT.

Minister for Health and Home Affairs (Mr. E. M. Hanlon) wrote pointing out that the adequate maintenance of public health played a very important part in the nation's war effort. An outbreak of epidemic disease would immobilise large numbers of the fighting services and the civil population engaged in war and food production and other associated avenues, as well as causing high mortality, which would divert the people's attention from the paramount thing, which was the maintenance of the war effort. He placed these factors before the Council with confidence that it would proceed at the earliest possible moment to place Gladstone's sanitary conditions on a plane befitting the wartime as well as peace-time importance of the town to the State. He would appreciate early advice as to the action the Council proposed to take in the matter.

It was decided to inform the Minister that action had been taken to establish a new sanitary depot, and it was now being used.

ACTION TAKEN.

Gladstone Hospitals Board wrote expressing appreciation of the abandonement of the old sanitary depot, following its condemnation by the Government Medical Officer, and the Council was asked to take immediate steps to cover the infested area as recommended by the Medical Officer. The Council was also asked to take steps to prevent the unauthorised use of the area as a dumping ground for rubbish, etc., particularly by shopkeepers.

To be informed that action had been taken in accordance with the views expressed in the letter.

SANITARY CONTRACT.

Department of Public Health, Brisbane, wrote relative to the sanitary and refuse contract, and intimated that the draft contract submitted met with the approval of the department.—Received.

BOYNE RIVER WATER SCHEME.

Minister for Public Works (Mr. H. Bruce) notified that the draft documents prepared for the letting of a contract for the construction of a water supply main, the Boyne River water supply scheme, had been approved of by him.—Received.

AUCKLAND HILL PARK.

Chamber of Commerce drew attention to the state of the grass in Victoria Park, which was considered to be a rather serious fire risk. In view of the amount of work which the Council had carried out in the park, it was hoped action would be taken to afford the necessary protection.

To be informed the Council would attend to the park as soon as convenient.

HOSPITAL PRECEPTS.

Gladstone Hospitals Board advised that the precept for the current year amounted to £288/6/6, the first precept of £48/1/1 being due on December 1. The contributions from the component Local Authorities for the current financial year were as follow:—Gladstone Town Council, valuation £107,125, precept £288/6/6; Mirlam Vale Shire Council, valuation £263,943, precept £710/8/9; Calliope Shire Council, valuation £355,389, precept £956/10/6.—Received.

CEMENT FOOTPATH.

R. Corones, Niagara Cafe, Gladstone, made application to have a cement footpath for an approximate distance of 92 feet running along the west side of the Cafe, commencing at Tank Street and facing Off Lane. This, he said, would be a useful public facility and an improvement to the street. He was agreeable to pay half the cost, and if the Council was not agreeable to share half the cost, he asked to be advised as to what portion it would bear.

To be informed that the Council was not prepared to entertain the proposal at the present time.

TRANSFER OF LAND.

Messrs. Kellett & Joseph, solicitors, Gladstone, wrote as follows:—

"We asknowledge receipt of your letter of the 30th ultimo, requesting advice as to whether your Council had power to transfer certain lands to the control of the South Gladstone and Barney Point Progress Association for park and library purposes.

"Your Council cannot transfer this land to the Association itself, as such an Association has no power to hold land. The Association, however, could appoint trustees, and your Council could transfer the land to these trustees.

"The trustees would complete a declaration of trust, setting out the trusts upon which the land is to be held and power could be retained for the Association to alter the trustees as they think fit.

"As this suggestion is for the benefit of the town, we would be prepared to do the necessary work for out of pocket expenses only. If, therefore, your Council decides to proceed with the matter you might inform the Association accordingly."

It was decided to forward a copy of the letter to the Association.

ERECTION OF SEWER.

Messrs. Kellett & Joseph, solicitors, Gladstone, wrote as follows:—

"We acknowledge receipt of your letter of 30th ultimo, requesting advice as to who would be responsible for the cost of the erection of a sewer to carry the overflow from the town dam through certain private properties, if your Council should see fit to construct such a sewer.

"In our opinion, the cost of the construction of such a sewer would have to be borne by your Council, and we can see no powers whereby any part of the cost could be passed to the owners.

"Of course, the Health Acts and regulations, and the Local Government Acts give powers of abatement of nuisances, but we do not consider that such powers would extend to compelling any person to erect a sewer.

It was decided that the matter be considered as a post-war job.

PUMP BY ELECTRICITY.

Ald. Busteed moved his notice of motion that the pumping from the Boyne River to the town of Gladstone be done by suction gas be rescinded.

The motion was seconded by Ald. Anderson.

The question as to whether the pumping should be carried out by suction gas or electrical energy was fully discussed some time ago at a Council meeting from every point of view, and reported at some length in these columns.

Ald. Busteed said that to pump by any other means than by electricity would be to retard the Boyne River scheme.

Mayor Dennis again contended that it would be more economical to pump by suction gas than electric current, and every alderman knew that pumping from the Power House had not been satisfactory for a long time. On the charges for wood, Water Engineer Mortley, of the Irrigation and Water Supply Department, had admitted that it would be 45 per cent cheaper to pump by suction gas.

On a vote being taken the motion was carried, and it was decided to revert to the original scheme, and carry out the pumping by electricity.

ENGINEER'S REPORT.

The Engineer (Mr. E. W. Phillips) reported that since last meeting he had pumped for 643½ hours, using 12,477 units. The electric pump was off for one week during repairs and drying out, etc., and since installing again the pump had run continuously for one week, and so far appears satisfactory.

The report was adopted.

GENERAL.

It was decided to instruct Mr. W. J. Reinhold, consulting engineer, to order the electric plant for the pumping.

Following accounts were passed for payment:—General £961/9/4, water £861/2/1, electric £363/16/3, and after all accounts had been paid the credit balance will be £8200/9/2.

Electric Light Authority

INFORMATION ASKED FOR.

Trades and Labour Council (Gladstone branch) asked to be furnished with the following information:—

What is the interest rate charged on the loans acquired by the Town Council, and which would be included in the Council's Electric Authority indebtedness of £22,754?

The cost of generating electricity in Gladstone, per unit, and any additional cost which might be involved between the actual generating and delivery to the meter of the consumer.

The annual repayment of interest and redemption on the Council's indebtedness of £22,754.

The total number of units consumed annually, or for the last twelve month period, say 30/6/43, for each of the following:— Domestic, commercial (lighting), commercial (power), shop window lighting.

As it was desired to place this information before members at their meeting on December 17, it would be appreciated if the information could be made available by that date.

Mr. J. V. Vallis, Gladstone, asked to be notified of the cost price of units generated and delivered at terminal points.

PRESSURE OF WORK.

In regard to both requets the Acting Town Clerk (Mr. Breslin) intimated that owing to pressure of work and shortage of staff, he would be unable at present to supply the information.

It was decided to notify the Trades and Labour Council and Mr. Vallis that owing to pressure of work in the office it would be impossible to supply the information at the present time.

SHIFT ENGINE DRIVER.

Mr. H. C. Mingay, of Monto, who was appointed shift engine driver at the Power House, has accepted the position, and is expected to commence duties on December 22.

APPRENTICE ELECTRICIAN.

Five applications were received for the position of apprentice electrician at the Power House, and they were referred to the Lighting Committee to make a selection.

TENDERS.

Seven tenders were received for the supply of certain poles for the Power House, and it was decided to refer them to the Lighting Committee with power to accept.

GENERAL.

Mayor Dennis stated this would be the last meeting this year, and he took the opportunity to extend seasonal greetings to the Aldermen for their assistance and co-operation throughout the year, and to the staff for the work carried out under most trying conditions. He also paid a compliment to Mr. Macfarlan for his excellent and impartial reports, and wished him the compliments of the season.

Eleven o'clock had passed when it was decided to call it a day.

GLADSTONE P.O.W.

During the week several letters and cards have been received from Gladstone boys P.O.W. in Japanese territory. Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Moore received another welcome card from Lieut. Clive Moore, which stated: "Don't worry, unwounded, fit and well, sport and entertainment plentiful, clothing scarce, looking forward home cooking." Mr. and Mrs. W. Walters had a card from their son Darcy, which stated: "Am unwounded, health fair, good spirits, no need worry, thinking of you always." Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Barker, Fowler Street, received a card from their son, Gunner H. O. Barker, which advised that he was well and in good health. Most of the cards were dated last February. The Publicity Officer (Mr. Connellan) would be pleased to have any further advices from Gladstone and district boys who have written home. Often the names of other P.O.W's. are mentioned, and this news is appreciated by their relatives.

FLY MENACE

VERY BAD AT PRESENT

Inspection of Breeding Places

At the Council meeting, held on Monday night, the Health Inspector (Mr. P. F. Browne), reporting in regard to the fly menace, stated that the pest was very bad at present. The extent of the infestation was very heavy around the Hospital, sanitary depot, and slaughtering houses.

Complaints had been received of fly breeding on the tip at the saltpan also. Uncovered refuse will breed flies plentifully, but the tip is well covered at present.

Inspections of the three slaughter houses showed that flies were very bad around these places, especially around the boiling-down pots, bones, hides, and other scraps waiting to be treated.

The ingester from the paunches showed fly larvae at all three places. Regarding the disposal of the ingester, from inquiries it was learnt that this is often taken into town and used for fertilising gardens. If this is correct the practice should be promptly stopped.

It was generally agreed at all three slaughter houses that this was the heaviest fly infestation known at the premises. These places also carry sheep and pigs, which are part of the business. Sheep attract flies, and badly kept pig pens also add their quota.

There can be no doubt that the fly infestation is the worst experienced so far to my knowledge.

Whether the removal of the sanitary depot will have the desired effect in eliminating the fly nuisance from Hospital Hill remains to be seen, and only time can satisfactorily answer this quetiosn.

The next fly season will definitely supply the answer.

There is a hold-up in the making of fly-proof cabinets, owing to hinges being unobtainable at present. About twenty cabinets are cut out for assembly, but so far no hinges have come to hand.

Ald. Golding drew attention to the slaughter houses, as mentioned in the report, and the Health Inspector (Mr. Browne) stated the Stock Inspector (Mr. Hardy) would be making an inspection to-morrow (Tuesday).

The report was adopted.

MEAT RATIONING

MEETING AT ROCKHAMPTON

1 lb. a Day Demanded

A meeting was called at Rockhampton on Sunday by the unions operating within the railway service to deal with the proposed meat rationing scale.

Mr. B. O'Brien (District President of the A.R.U.) moved the following resolution: "While this meeting agrees with the general principle of meat rationing as one of the inevitable sacrifices of the people's was against Fascism, we at the same time consider there are serious injustices in the proposed scheme of meat rationing that must be removed in the interests of the people's war effort."

The mover said that an improvement in the proposed scale would be necessary if railwaymen were to be expected to maintain the same war effort for which they had been responsible to date. He was at a loss to know how the authorities arrived at the conclusion that 2¼ lbs. were adequate for railwaymen when it was agreed that 6 to 7 lbs. was necessary for C.C.C. workers.

Mr. V. Cooper (President of the Workshops Federation) said he did not agree that a section of essential workers should be discriminated against. If a higher scale was considered necessary for C.C.C. workers, similar consideration should be extended to railwaymen. Two and a quarter lbs. was inadequate for Australia, and was less than the quota allotted prisoners in Queensland gaols. Rice, dried fruits, etc., had disappeared from the worker's table, and these, if availabl, could have been used as substitutes for meat where obtainable. The flat scale placed those on laborious work in the same class as those on light work. The inability of the available manpower to handle the record number of cattle in the country to-day was said to be one of the reasons for rationing. This aspect should therefore be taken in hand by the authorities.

Mr. F. Campbell (District Secretary of the A.R.U.) contended that they would have to accept the general principle of rationing as a necessary part of their effort in the war to smash Fascism, but this did not mean that they should blindly follow any moves along such lines when put forward by the authorities. Australia has a very serious food problem to deal with at the present moment, and they had to face up to the realities of the position. Some 12,000,000 people were now being fed by the efforts of a section of the working community, who amounted to probably half of those who provided for our peacetime population of 7,000,000. The meeting's intentin should not merely be to give the Federal Government an opportunity of removing the anomalies in the proposed scale, but to indicate quite definitely that they intended to see that such anomalies were removed. The Prime Minister had indicated that "every aspect of the question was very carefully considered," but railwaymen would find it hard to agree that this had been done.

The resolution was carried unanimously.

Mr. G. T. McBryde moved: "That this meeting of railway workers demands a minimum ration of 1 lb. of meat per day to each railway worker, as well as the same amount to the worker's wife, housekeeper, etc., and in the event of our demand not being granted we are only prepared to work one day in the week for each pound of meat allowed. That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the State Premier, the Prime Minister, and the member for Capricornia."

Mr. McBryde said he believed it would be a physical impossibility for railway and other manual workers to carry on with 2¼ lbs. per week. They had certain citizen rights, and should demand to be granted those rights. Railwaymen were "soldiers behind the lines," and should be considered as such for the purpose of meat rationing. The people of Central Queensland were at a disadvantage geographically in the matter of food supply, and this point should be brought well under the notice of the Federal Government.

Mr. R. Thomson (Secretary of the Guards' Association), in seconding the motion, said that his 30 odd years' experience on the road as a guard fitted him to speak with some authority as to how the proposed meat ration scale would affect all running men—guards, drivers, firemen. The authorities had no idea whatever as to how such workers would be affected. He considered the authorities should have taken the workers into their confidence and sought their advice before establishing the ration scale.

Mr. A. Baunach (representing a number of maintenance gangs on the North Coast section) said that he had forwarded a signed statement from maintenance men, who were all working 9½ hours a day, indicating their inability to carry on on 2¼ lbs. of meat a week. The Prime Minister's reply merely indicated that it was not the Government's intention to improve the proposed ration scale even for such workers.

The motion was carried unanimously.

Attention was drawn to the number of steers to be seen at rodeos at Rockhampton and elsewhere.

Mr. W. Vaggs (Railway Job Committee, Comet), moved "That we request the Federal Government to make a full inquiry into the alleged withholding of cattle from the market by owners."

The motion was carried unanimously.

Mr. P. Ward (Secretary Traffic Union), moved "That the committee of representatives of the several unions which organised this meeting remain in existence to deal with matters arising out of representations made from the meeting, and decide on action to be taken failing satisfaction being obtained."

The motion was carried unanimously.

Mr. O'Brien moved: "That the Trades and Labour Council be requested to investigate the position in the event of certain butchers shops in suburban and country areas closing down because of the advent of meat rationing, and should it be found necessary, action be taken to protect the interests of civilian workers in those areas by making representations to the responsible authority to provide the necessary facilities for meat distribution in those areas."

The motion was carried unanimously.

AUSTRALIA
is a Food Arsenal of the Allied World!

Australia has a key role in the global strategy of the war—to produce and send away greater quantities of food than ever before.

Part of this food must go, not to increase but merely to maintain the slender rations of the British people. Part must go to feed a giant Pacific offensive. Part must go to the Allied forces in the Mediterranean area.

A great united national effort is needed to meet our food commitments. We are all in duty and honour bound to produce more and consume less.

HOW YOU CAN HELP

1 If you have a garden, start a vegetable plot now. It pays.
2 Keep a few fowls—they'll supply you with eggs and an occasional chicken to supplement your meat ration.
3 Avoid waste. Cook only enough for one meal. Plan your meals for the best nutriment value.

AMATEUR SWIMMING

GOOD TROPHIES PRESENTED

Future Competitions Keen

No finer gesture could be made than that of Mr. and Mrs. Starmer senr. in presenting a trophy to be known as the Garth Starmer Memorial Trophy, to be presented at the conclusion of this swimming season to the competitor with the most points.

This means that the best all-round improved and most consistent swimmer will naturally be the winner. Garth, by the way, was a very keen swimmer.

Swimming is proving a popular sport, and the donation of special trophies without the asking by several business houses and sportsmen around the town and district is much appreciated by swimmers.

These donors are catering for all classes of swimmers, whether senior or junior, and every man, boy or girl has an equal chance of winning under the handicap conditions existing.

In future it is the club's intention to have every new swimmer, either name his time for the distances nominated, or the club timekeeper will take his time at his or her request, and by so doing it will assure a fairer go to the new swimmer and also to the other competitors.

Mr. Ringuet or Mr. Groundwater will be only too pleased to meet a swimmer at the baths and take his time.

To-morrow night's swim will be the last before Christmas, and the next will take place on January 6.

This last swim before Christmas promises to be a particularly good night, with the usual sprints, dives, and a special underwater long dive is also on the programme, so the public should see some human submarines.

An effort is being made to announce a special attraction for this night. Look into the small advertisement column for later advices.

NOTES.

(By "Whisper")

It takes a good sport to take a beating, and I was pleased to see all the swimmers toe the mark without a drop out. I must say this for the swimmers, that no matter if they feel they might not be justly treated, they should toe the mark without a murmur.

Naturally, there must be a few discrepancies, but Mr. Janson has them ironed out, and promises a finish with all on the finishing mark, and no chance of dark horses leaving the others standing.

The Rockhampton trip should bring you along boys, and as the selection of this team will be made from the first two swims in January. I do not think your committee will spare any effort to make this a worthwhile trip, and every swimmer outside of the chosen team can nominate in the open events.

Scotty, Force and Phillips junr. did dish out the good stuff in comedy turns, and the crowd really appreciates this.

Your Personal Post-War World

6 practical things you can do to make it a happy one

A COMFORTABLE home, good food and clothing, education for your children and a feeling of security.

Doubtless that is your idea of a personal Post-War world. How can you attain it?

Here are 6 practical things that you and your family can do:

(1) Buy and hold War Bonds to the limit of your capacity.
(2) Pay willingly your share of the taxes—even of increased taxes.
(3) Work as hard—and as long—on your job as you can so as to keep down the cost of the things or services you are producing.
(4) Provide for your own and your family's future by adequate life assurance. (Most of the money you put into Life Assurance will go into War Loans and so serve a double purpose.)
(5) Buy only what you need and make what you have last longer.
(6) Live faithfully by the rationing Rules and the Price Fixing codes.

If you do these things you will play your part in avoiding the tragedy of inflation and in making your personal Post-War world a happy one.

IN FRONT LINE AREAS

Comforts Dropped By Parachute

From the battle fronts of New Guinea and other Pacific Islands comes the exciting and pleasing news that comforts are being dropped to the men in front line areas by parachute (writes the General Secretary of the Australian Comforts Fund, Miss Winifred Brennan).

You will be interested to know, too, that the A.C.F. have now four Commissioners in New Guinea, and that an A.C.F. picture Unit was showing films in Lae within a week of its capture.

The A.C.F. followed our men into Salamaua within 48 hours of their entry.

We think you will agree with us that never at any time in the history of the Fund has there been such need to keep our boys supplied with comforts on account of the unhealthy tropical conditions under which they have to live.

We have many men to service there now, so we will all need to continue our work for them, and if possible, do more, and at the same time obtain the help of fresh members to increase our output.

Can you, in the year that lies ahead, not only equal your fine record of the past four years, but beat it by creating a new one?

A.C.F. A NECESSITY

Women Play Noble Part

On behalf of the Executive of the Australian Comfort Fund the General Secretary (Miss Winifred Brennan) has extended to all members and helpers a happy and peaceful Christmas.

She goes on to say:—

"The happy relationship that exists between A.C.F. branches and headquarters is extremely stimulating, and helps us all to try to carry on the service which we all know has now become a necessity.

"Truly, the women are playing a noble part in this struggle; not only are they absorbed in their household duties, which in these days of rationing have become most burdensome, but many women have had added to their cares their husbands business affairs, and the control of farms, etc.

"With these extra responsibilities, however, they still find time for the A.C.F., and undertake sewing, knitting, collection of money, conduct of raffles in order that comforts may go forward in quantities necessary for equal distribution to all members of the Services.

"I am confident that as long as the war lasts, the enthusiasm and thoughtfulness that has inspired so many of our people over the past four and a quarter years to give so much of their time in an honorary capacity, may continue."

COMFORTS FUND

Affiliated Organisations

On occasions we hear that the troops do not understand the set-up of A.C.F. and its affiliated organisations.

They do not realise that all Appeals are made per the medium of the Australian Comforts Fund, and that when the Y.M.C.A. and Salvation Army representatives right up in the front line areas dispense cups of tea and biscuits, provide entertainment in the form of talkies and radio programmes, and distribute comforts in the form of cigarettes, tobacco, soap, shaving sticks, sweets, chewing gum, etc., such gifts are made possible through the Australian Comforts Fund.

Early in the war three Australian States, viz., New South Wales, Victoria and Tasmania, entered into an arrangement with the Y.M.C.A. and Salvation Army to carry out all field work and supervise the hostels and recreations centres which were established—A.C.F. providing the finance, Y.M.C.A. and Salvation Army the service.

Last year the Queensland Division adopted the same principle of working in conjunction with the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A.

QUEENSLAND PEOPLE'S PARTY

FEATURES AN OUT-STANDING POLICY

Prominence Given To Rural Development

Refreshingly frank and noval provisions are included in the policy of the Queensland People's Party, which has now been released. This, with the Constitution, which has also been adopted, make it clear that the control of the organisation will remain entirely in the hands of members, through their branches, by means of representatives on the Central Council.

STRIKING FEATURES.

There will be no domination by the executive, and definitely it will not be a "Queen Street" party, since branches will be formed in all parts of the State. The organisation will be continuous; it will not awake only at election time.

The policy will appeal to a wide section of the people, for it contains a blend of idealism with practical politics, and aims at a lofty standard of public life. This is in keeping with the attitude of the leader (Alderman J .B .Chandler, M.L.A.), who is also Lord Mayor of Brisbane.

In conformity with the spirit of the foundation, a comprehensive scheme of rural development has been included.

The objective claims an equal opportunity for every individual, and the greatest attainable measure of security, happiness and freedom.

Appropriately enough, the first plank of the policy is to foster loyalty to the throne, fealty to the Empire, and obedience to the Constitution of the Commonwealth; to protect liberty of speech, religion and association, and to uphold the law. Naturally, the organisation will wholeheartedly assist [illegible] of the war. The drafting of a scheme of specific priorities for the preferential employment of members of the Fighting Forces, "who by choice or compulsion surrendered themselves and their energies unreservedly to the prosecution of the war."

Provision is also made to promote stability of employemnt for the worker, and to tide him over periods of involuntary unemployment; also to encourage industry by the recognition of the principle of adequate reward and assistance of fair effort, whether by employer or employee.

On industrial relations the policy is most interesting. It upholds the principle of Industrial Courts in Commonwealth and State spheres for the fixation of wages and conditions of employment and the settlement of disputes. It will preserve their authority and protect these Courts rigorously and vigorously against all challenge, and will endeavour to develop a spirit of friendliness and co-operation between employer and employee. A crusade will be waged against class consciousness and its professional propagandists.

The policy also proposes to nurture the principle of trades unionism by supporting compulsory membership of industrial unions and recognising the legitimate working rights of representatives and officials of all employer and employee organisations; and to endorse the principle and practice of collective bargaining.

It is specifically set out that the organisation recognises the rights of all sections of the community to organise lawfully for the protection of their freedom and the furtherance of their just claims; also that compulsory industrial unions are a corollary of Industrial Courts, and are essential to ensure just and equitable conditions of employment, to prevent industrial disputes, and further the cause of industrial peace.

SOCIAL WELFARE AND EDUCATION.

Considerable effort will be made by the party to enable every family to own its own home, complete with modern conveniences to eliminate drudgery. This naturally should lead to the elimination of the sub-standard [illegible] and to [illegible] State, co-ordinated to the post-war design of the Commonwealth, or developed independently in the absence of any constructive or satisfactory Federal projects in Queensland.

Expansion of the population by immigration and the encouragement of larger families is proposed as a corollary to a White Australia policy.

Quick, smooth and efficient transportation is visualised by a system of adequate transport facilities by co-ordinating road, rail, sea and air communications in a network covering all communities in the State.

In the interests of the early expansion and establishment of secondary industries in Queensland, the organisation will urge and work for the continuance of uniform taxation throughout the Commonwealth. It will encourage the expansion of the secondary industries already operating, and will seek the establishment of new industries, where the economics of the post-war period and the commercial soundness of the propositions justify them, so as to widen industrial activity and create employment in Queensland.

Worthy of note is the fact that the policy looks towards the encouragement of secondary industries in country centres, especially where there are the raw materials and the means for treating them; and also to co-ordinate primary and secondary industries to the best advantage of the State, in the matter of locations, facilities, supplies, services, etc.

"With these ideals to guide us, and with our course clearly charted by this policy," adds the organisation, "the Queensland People's Party seeks the assistance of the people that we all may move steadily forward to prosperity, security, freedom and happiness."

The constitution makes provision for the establishment of branches in any part of the State; for a central council of delegates from the branches; for an executive and office-bearers, with a time limit on office so as to ensure a constant supply of new blood; an annual convention of delegates to shape policy, etc., and for selection of Parliamentary representatives by members or branches.

The organisation plan provides for a membership fee of 5/- a year, but donations to the funds may be made to any amount.

The constitution, policy and organisation plan were endorsed by a large and enthusiastic public meeting at the Albert Hall, Brisbane; so that the organisation is now on its way to play an important part in elections in Queensland.

QUEENSLAND PEOPLE'S PARTY

FEATURES AN OUTSTANDING POLICY

Prominence Given To Rural Development

Refreshingly frank and noval provisions are included in the policy of the Queensland People's Party, which has now been released. This, with the Constitution, which has also been adopted, make it clear that the control of the organisation will remain entirely in the hands of members, through their branches, by means of representatives on the Central Council.

STRIKING FEATURES.

There will be no domination by the executive, and definitely it will not be a "Queen Street" party, since branches will be formed in all parts of the State. The organisation will be continuous; it will not awake only at election time.

The policy will appeal to a wide section of the people, for it contains a blend of idealism with practical politics, and aims at a lofty standard of public life. This is in keeping with the attitude of the leader (Alderman J .B .Chandler, M.L.A.), who is also Lord Mayor of Brisbane.

In conformity with the spirit of the foundation, a comprehensive scheme of rural development has been included.

The objective claims an equal opportunity for every individual, and the greatest attainable measure of security, happiness and freedom.

Appropriately enough, the first plank of the policy is to foster loyalty to the throne, fealty to the Empire, and obedience to the Constitution of the Commonwealth; to protect liberty of speech, religion and association, and to uphold the law. Naturally, the organisation will wholeheartedly assist in the prosecution of the war. The principles of democracy will be preserved, to assure the economic and social freedom of the people.

INDIVIDUAL ENTERPRISE.

Readers will be specially interested in the section which upholds the principle of individual enterprise and the rights of invention and production, in such manner as to protect the national interest while according each citizen due reward of his genius and/or labour.

This provision is based on the great and useful part which individual enterprise has played in developing the world's resources, in stimulating production and invention, and in bringing a better standard of living and comfort to the people. Continuation of this system is advocated, but under proper safeguards and control to prevent exploitation and ensure proper and equitable distribution of goods and services for the people's use.

This is the Queensland People's Party's reply to socialisation and other "isms."

In view of recent criticism, it is worth notice that the policy of the new party will be to challenge all or any differential treatment of Queensland by the Commonwealth Government, so as to prevent the neglect of Queensland interests. Just and equitable consideration of the State's needs on the same basis as those of other States will be sought, as envisaged by the sponsors of Federation.

In this connection the policy will uphold the principle of government by legislation and oppose all attempts at government by regulation. The organisation will resist encroachments by bureaucracies, and insist on the supremacy of the elected Parliament in all matters of government.

INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS.

The policy provides for the reabsorption into civil life of returning servicemen and women, with social and economic security. It proposes to assign to a competent authority the drafting of a scheme of specific priorities for the preferential employment of members of the Fighting Forces, "who by choice or compulsion surrendered themselves and their energies unreservedly to the prosecution of the war."

Provision is also made to promote stability of employemnt for the worker, and to tide him over periods of involuntary unemployment; also to encourage industry by the recognition of the principle of adequate reward and assistance of fair effort, whether by employer or employee.

On industrial relations the policy is most interesting. It upholds the principle of Industrial Courts in Commonwealth and State spheres for the fixation of wages and conditions of employment and the settlement of disputes. It will preserve their authority and protect these Courts rigorously and vigorously against all challenge, and will endeavour to develop a spirit of friendliness and co-operation between employer and employee. A crusade will be waged against class consciousness and its professional propagandists.

The policy also proposes to nurture the principle of trades unionism by supporting compulsory membership of industrial unions and recognising the legitimate working rights of representatives and officials of all employer and employee organisations; and to endorse the principle and practice of collective bargaining.

It is specifically set out that the organisation recognises the rights of all sections of the community to organise lawfully for the protection of their freedom and the furtherance of their just claims; also that compulsory industrial unions are a corollary of Industrial Courts, and are essential to ensure just and equitable conditions of employment, to prevent industrial disputes, and further the cause of industrial peace.

SOCIAL WELFARE AND EDUCATION.

Considerable effort will be made by the party to enable every family to own its own home, complete with modern conveniences to eliminate drudgery. This naturally should lead to the elimination of the sub-standard or slum areas. Property owners and vested interests will be compelled to accept their obligations to bring about this reform.

Another important proposal is the establishment of community centres, with provision for social, cultural, health and recreational services in each centre.

Health occupies great prominence in the policy. Health services expansion will be advocated, and an endeavour will be made to educate the public on health precautions, so that prompt steps may be taken to combat disease, whether personal or endemic.

Some stress is laid on the necessity to decentralise hospital and medical services in city and country. The policy envisages extension of the existing hospital services, new clinics, and separate maternity hospitals where possible.

EDUCATION FACILITIES.

Liberalisation of the present education system is proposed, to provide the greatest opportunity for scholars' self-development and self-improvement; by increasing and improving the educational facilities; and by raising the school leaving age by progressive steps and by a comprehensive revision of the curriculum for primary and secondary schools to provide for a wide range of course, including a common core of cultural subjects, together with such differentiation of courses as will cater for differing aptitudes, interests, needs and abilities. Special attention will be given to special training for life and citizenship and a deeper appreciation of the arts, and for training in a wide use of leisure.

PRIMARY AND SECONDARY INDUSTRIES.

The policy contemplates the development of primary and secondary industries, the latter both in cities and in the country. It is intended to develop a bold, vigorous plan for the utilisation of the agricultural, mineral and other natural resources of the State, co-ordinated to the post-war design of the Commonwealth, or developed independently in the absence of any constructive or satisfactory Federal projects in Queensland.

Expansion of the population by immigration and the encouragement of larger families is proposed as a corollary to a White Australia policy.

Quick, smooth and efficient transportation is visualised by a system of adequate transport facilities by co-ordinating road, rail, sea and air communications in a network covering all communities in the State.

In the interests of the early expansion and establishment of secondary industries in Queensland, the organisation will urge and work for a continuance of uniform taxation throughout the Commonwealth. It will encourage the expansion of the secondary industries already operating, and will seek the establishment of new industries, where the economics of the post-war period and the commercial soundness of the propositions justify them, so as to widen industrial activity and create employment in Queensland.

Worthy of note is the fact that the policy looks towards the encouragement of secondary industries in country centres, especially where there are the raw materials and the means for treating them; and also to co-ordinate primary and secondary industries to the best advantage of the State, in the matter of locations, facilities, supplies, services, etc.

"With these ideals to guide us, and with our course clearly charted by this policy," adds the organisation, "the Queensland People's Party seeks the assistance of the people that we all may move steadily forward to prosperity, security, freedom and happiness."

The constitution makes provision for the establishment of branches in any part of the State; for a central council of delegates from the branches; for an executive and office-bearers, with a time limit on office so as to ensure a constant supply of new blood; an annual convention of delegates to shape policy, etc., and for selection of Parliamentary representatives by members or branches.

The organisation plan provides for a membership fee of 5/- a year, but donations to the funds may be made to any amount.

The constitution, policy and organisation plan were endorsed by a large and enthusiastic public meeting at the Albert Hall, Brisbane; so that the organisation is now on its way to play an important part in elections in Queensland.

GALA DANCE.

All arrangements in connection with the Boxing Night dance arranged by Mesdames J. Royston and E. Linnane have been finalised. A special feature will be the four-piece band, which will render old-time and modern hit numbers. A confetti battle, Monte Carlo, and a lucky door number should help to make the night an enjoyable one. All roads should lead to the Empire on Boxing Night.

RED CROSS SOCIETY

P.O.W. SCHEME

"German Food Uneatable"

Highlight of P.O.W. news during the week was the arrival in Australia of 158 A.I.F. repatriated prisoners of war, including our own Len Cowan. It is only 53 days since some of the men left their German prison camp, where they had been for over 2½ years. They all agreed that the German food was uneatable, especially for the sick.

Typical German rations were mint tea in the morning (wicked stuff), soup once a day, 7ozs. poor black bread daily, 1oz. margarine once or twice a week, 1oz. German honey, 4 medium sized potatoes daily, vegetables, and a little meat of doubtful freshness.

Red Cross parcels, which arrived regularly, kept the men alive.

What a thrill this must give the Gladstone ladies and scouts who regularly each week collect for these parcels. It is the intention of the local P.O.W. organisers to get Len Cowan along later to lecture and tell the people of Gladstone of his experiences.

£103 FOR MONTH.

Contributions to the street scheme continue to be very satisfactory, the hon. organisers, Rev. Phillipson and Messrs. Summers and Connellan, reporting that £103/3/- had been banked for the 28 days ending December 13.

New collectors in Miss Lily Watson, Miss Peg Bruce and Mrs. W. A. Malpas, are assisting the scheme. Mrs. Malpas has taken over Bonar Street, at the extreme end of the town.

Mrs. Ellingson has returned, and is doing the outer portion of Auckland Street again. During her absence Scouts Winter, Baxter and Murray kept the street alive.

Mrs. Eggstein has kept two books at her store for those residents who were canvassed by Mesdames Bayntum, Watson and Ricketts, and Misses Hadgraft and Liddicoat. Although collections to date have been a little disappointing, it is hoped that residents in the outlying parts of Toolooa Street, Stasia Lane, and other areas on the Bundaberg Road will realise that on account of the scattered location of dwellings it is impossible to arrange the usual weekly or fortnightly call. These residents are asked to hand in their weekly amounts to Mrs. Eggstein's store, where they will be collected by Mr. Connellan.

Miss Gloria Turner has taken over Mrs. Geo. Phillips' book for Yaroon Street during the latter's absence.

Donations during the month included £1 from Mrs. N. H. Farmer, per Mrs. F. Johnstone, Barney Point.

STREET AND TOY STALLS

Canteen Orders for the Boys

At the last monthly meeting of the Gladstone branch of the A.C.F. there were plesent: The President (Mrs. C. W. Macfarlan), the Hon. Treasurer (Mrs. A. D. Hopper), the Hon. Secretary (Mrs. W. J. Garrett), and Mesdames J. Turner, W. Richards, Carron, and J. Worthington. Apologies were received from Mesdames C. McTaggart, H. C. Smith, W. Buettel, F. F. Pope, J. M. Stanfield, and C. Chapman.

Accounts amounting to 18/6 were passed for payment.

KNITTING AND SEWING.

The convenors of the Knitting and Sewing Circle (Mesdames R. Jones and J. Worthington) reported that a bag had been packed for despatch to headquarters, containing 53 pairs of socks, 14 prs. pyjamas, 108 handkerchiefs, 48 mess bags, and 16 washers.

A case of books and magazines has also been packed.

STREET STALL.

The convenors of the November street stall reported a net profit of £55.

TOY AND GIFT STALL.

The convenors of the toy and gift stall (Mesdames C. Chapman and W. Keller) reported a very successful day's sale of toys, etc., amounting to £102/5/10.

The Fund thanks all kind friends and members for their very loyal support to this effort.

CANTEEN ORDERS.

It was resolved that canteen orders be sent to all their boys serving overseas, and in isolated parts of Australia. An appeal is made for relatives and friends to send in the names and numbers, etc., of their boys.

NEXT STREET STALL.

There will be no street stall in January, the next being held on Friday, February 18, 1944.

RECESS.

It was decided to go into recess from Friday, December 17, until January 21, 1944.

GENERAL.

This being the last meeting of the year, the President (Mrs. Macfarlan) wished all members the compliments of the season.

PRISONERS OF WAR

ART UNION DRAWING

Date Extended January 31

The date for the drawing of the War Loan Art Union has been extended to January 31, 1944, the plain facts of the matter being that for some reason or other the sales have lagged, and the short extension will permit of a final drive.

AMBULANCE BRIGADE

216 CASES ATTENDED

Cars Travelled 979 Miles

Mr. A. T. Power presided over the monthly meeting of the Brigade, and there were also present: Messrs. A. S. Fry, W. O'Reilly, H. N. Ballantine, and W. V. Coase (secretary). An apology was received from Mr. W. Ross.

The Chairman read the report of the auditor, and said it was most satisfactory.

The Chairman wished members the compliments of the season.

The Chairman moved that seasonal greetings be extended to the Superintendent, Bearer, Hon. Bearers, Ladies' Committee, and also to those who had assisted the Ambulance during the year. Seconded by Mr. O'Reilly and carried.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

The Superintendent (Mr. W. V. Coase) reported that during the month of November the Brigade attended 43 accidents, 150 transports, 23 office cases, total 216 cases.

The cars travelled 979 miles during the month, and visited the following places for cases: Meat Works 3, Parmundu, Rockhampton turn-off, Calliope 2, Many Peaks, Golembil Rd., Marrawing, Nagoorin, Many Peaks Rd., and Toolooa.

MUTUAL LIFE SOCIETY

Sound Progress

Melbourne, December 16.

The 67th annual meeting of the Society was held to-day. The Chairman (Mr. J. T. Thompson) said that as nearly 1700 of the staff had been released for war service, thus disturbing normal activities, the issue of 100,450 policies, ordinary and industrial, assuring £10,654,229, and the completion of accident department new business assuring £2,427,106 were satisfactory results.

The income had grown to £7,424,880, an increase of £317,545. £3,170,3[illegible] was paid to policyholders, £2,130,912 being paid in maturity claims. Expenses were substantially lower than for the previous year. £100,000 had been transferred to the General Contingency Fund.

The funds increased by £2,681,349. Mr. Thompson drew an analogy between the Society's business and that of a superannuation fund which is comprised of a number of members who co-operate for their mutual protection and provision of mutual benefits at retirement or death. In each case the funds are held for the purpose of meeting liabilities to the members while they belong solely to the members. A life society is not a wealthy institution. The funds of this Society, £40,889,551, required for meeting claims, are held in respect of over 1,200,000 policies, the average amount per policy being very small.

More than £10,000,000 had been subscribed to war loans, £4,090,000 being contributed last year. The Board is prepared as a contribution to post-war rehabilitation, to embark on a housing scheme on a large scale. Members will expect to have first claim on the funds when the time is opportune for the Society's plans to be put into operation.

A further reserve of £185,000 had been made for unforeseen contingencies, and the possible consequences of the war, while bonuses on the same scales as for 1943 had been approved. These bonuses will be credited in the Society's records to participating policies, and will commence to operate from 1st January, 1944.

The Chairman, after extending the sympathy of the Board to the relatives of members of the staff who have been wounded or killed in active service, expressed appreciation of the efficient services of both the field and indoor staffs.

GALA DANCE.

All arrangements in connection with the Boxing Night dance arranged by Mesdames J. Royston and E. Linnane have been finalised. A special feature will be the four-piece band, which will render old-time and modern hit numbers. A confetti battle, Monte Carlo, and a lucky door number should help to make the night an enjoyable one. All roads should lead to the Empire on Boxing Night.

RED CROSS SOCIETY

P.O.W. SCHEME

"German Food Uneatable"

Highlight of P.O.W. news during the week was the arrival in Australia of 158 A.I.F. repatriated prisoners of war, including our own Len Cowan. It is only 53 days since some of the men left their German prison camp, where they had been for over 2½ years. They all agreed that the German food was uneatable, especially for the sick.

Typical German rations were mint tea in the morning (wicked stuff), soup once a day, 7ozs. poor black bread daily, 1oz. margarine once or twice a week, 1oz. German honey, 1 medium sized potatoes daily, vegetables, and a little meat of doubtful freshness.

Red Cross parcels, which arrived regularly, kept the men alive.

What a thrill this must give the Gladstone ladies and scouts who regularly each week collect for these parcels. It is the intention of the local P.O.W. organisers to get Len Cowan along later to lecture and tell the people of Gladstone of his experiences.

£103 FOR MONTH.

Contributions to the street scheme continue to be very satisfactory, the hon. organisers, Rev. Phillipson and Messrs. Summers and Connellan, reporting that £103/3/- had been banked for the 28 days ending December 13.

New collectors in Miss Lily Watson, Miss Peg Bruce and Mrs. W. A. Malpas, are assisting the scheme. Mrs. Malpas has taken over Bonar Street, at the extreme end of the town.

Mrs. Ellingson has returned, and is doing the outer portion of Auckland Street again. During her absence Scouts Winter, Baxter and Murray kept the street alive.

Mrs. Eggstein has kept two books at her store for those residents who were canvassed by Mesdames Baynton, Watson and Ricketts, and Misses Hadgraft and Liddicoat. Although collections to date have been a little disappointing, it is hoped that residents in the outlying parts of Toolooa Street, Stasia Lane, and other areas on the Bundaberg Road will realise that on account of the scattered location of dwellings it is impossible to arrange the usual weekly or fortnightly call. These residents are asked to hand in their weekly amounts to Mrs. Eggstein's store, where they will be collected by Mr. Connellan.

Miss Gloria Turner has taken over Mrs. Geo. Phillips' book for Yaroon Street during the latter's absence.

Donations during the month included £1 from Mrs. N. H. Farmer, per Mrs. F. Johnstone, Barney Point.

MR. R. J. MACKAY

Transferred to Townsville

Mr. R. J. Mackay, Sub-Collector of Customs, Gladstone, has received advice of his transfer to Townsville, where he will take up a responsible position.

Mr. Mackay has been stationed at Gladstone for nearly six years, carrying out his important duties (through most difficult times) with credit to himself and the department.

During his stay at this port Mr. Mackay has proved himself to be a most highly efficient and courteous officer, and his many friends while regretting his departure, join in congratulating him on his promotion.

Mr. Mackay, who is a member of the Gladstone Bowling Club, is a keen and enthusiastic bowler, and during his stay here endeared himself to a large circle of friends.

Mr. Mackay commenced yesterday a three weeks holiday, which will be spent at Mackay in company with his good wife. However, he will return to Gladstone prior to leaving for Townsville to take over his new duties.

Mr. J. A. Watson, A.F.I.A., of Rockhampton, will succeed Mr. Mackay at Gladstone.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL

Mrs. A. McMillan left by flying boat on Monday for Townsville, after spending a holiday with her mother, Mrs. W. J. Prizeman, Auckland Street, Gladstone.

Mrs. G. Hughes, of Gladstone, has left for Calen to attend the wedding of her neice, Miss Patricia Gurren, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gurren, to Gunner J. McIntyre, R.A.A.F., which will take place at Calen on December 22.

COMFORTS FUND

STREET AND TOY STALLS

Canteen Orders for the Boys

At the last monthly meeting of the Gladstone branch of the A.C.F. there were present: The President (Mrs. C. W. Macfarlan), the Hon. Treasurer (Mrs. A. D. Hopper), the Hon. Secretary (Mrs. W. J. Garrett), and Mesdames J. Turner, W. Richards, Carron, and J. Worthington. Apologies were received from Mesdames C. McTaggart, H. C. Smith, W. Buettel, F. F. Pope, J. M. Stanfield, and C. Chapman.

Accounts amounting to 18/6 were passed for payment.

KNITTING AND SEWING.

The convenors of the Knitting and Sewing Circle (Mesdames R. Jones and J. Worthington) reported that a bag had been packed for despatch to headquarters, containing 53 pairs of socks, 14 prs. pyjamas, 108 handkerchiefs, 48 mess bags, and 16 washers.

A case of books and magazines has also been packed.

STREET STALL.

The convenors of the November street stall reported a net profit of £55.

TOY AND GIFT STALL.

The convenors of the toy and gift stall (Mesdames C. Chapman and W. Keller) reported a very successful day's sale of toys, etc., amounting to £102/5/10.

The Fund thanks all kind friends and members for their very loyal support to this effort.

CANTEEN ORDERS.

It was resolved that canteen orders be sent to all their boys serving overseas, and in isolated parts of Australia. An appeal is made for relatives and friends to send in the names and numbers, etc., of their boys.

NEXT STREET STALL.

There will be no street stall in January, the next being held on Friday, February 18, 1944.

RECESS.

It was decided to go into recess from Friday, December 17, until January 21, 1944.

GENERAL.

This being the last meeting of the year, the President (Mrs. Macfarlan) wished all members the compliments of the season.

PRISONERS OF WAR

ART UNION DRAWING

Date Extended January 31

The date for the drawing of the War Loan Art Union has been extended to January 31, 1944, the plain facts of the matter being that for some reason or other the sales have lagged, and the short extension will permit of a final drive.

An appeal is now launched, asking for subscribers prepared to take whole books of tickets £2, or half books £1 (twenty tickets to a book). Subscribers, including those who have sold complete books, will be acknowledged through the press. Offers will be taken by the Secretary (Mr. V. A. Summers), P.O. box 117, or 'phone 163.

The Art Union, by publicity and subscription, assisted the Fourth Liberty Loan, and its part now is to assist the prisoners of war. The business houses, who donated the prizes, have made the major contribution.

It is hoped the present appeal may be well supported. All you have to do is to make an immediate remittance to the Secretary and your tickets will be to hand by return mail.

A.L.P. MEETING.

At a well attended meeting of the A.L.P. Ald. H. Anderson presided. Mr. L. R. Weiske spoke on his appointment to the Harbour Board, and stated he would always do his best for the benefit of the Harbour and interests of the public generally. A discussion took place on the question of the sanitary and rubbish dumps. These have now been removed to more suitable places. The branch, it was stated, owes a debt of gratitude to Drs. Skinner and Byrne for their work in connection with the matter. The Potato Controller is to be requested to make a better distribution of potatoes. The Town Council is to be asked what would be the position in the event of a fire while the water was turned off. Who would be responsible? As this was the last meeting for the year the Chairman concluded by wishing all present the compliments of the season.

AMBULANCE BRIGADE

216 CASES ATTENDED

Cars Travelled 979 Miles

Mr. A. T. Power presided over the monthly meeting of the Brigade, and there were also present: Messrs. A. S. Fry, W. O'Reilly, H. N. Ballantine, and W. V. Coase (secretary). An apology was received from Mr. W. Ross.

The Chairman read the report of the auditor, and said it was most satisfactory.

The Chairman wished members the compliments of the season.

The Chairman moved that seasonal greetings be extended to the Superintendent, Bearer, Hon. Bearers, Ladies' Committee, and also to those who had assisted the Ambulance during the year. Seconded by Mr. O'Reilly and carried.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

The Superintendent (Mr. W. V. Coase) reported that during the month of November the Brigade attended 43 accidents, 150 transports, 23 office cases, total 216 cases.

The cars travelled 979 miles during the month, and visited the following places for cases: Meat Works 3, Parmundu, Rockhampton turn-off, Calliope 2, Many Peaks, Golembil Rd., Marrawing, Nagoorin, Many Peaks Rd., and Toolooa.

SEASONAL GREETINGS.

This being the last meet for the year the Superintendent wished the Chairman, committee, bearer and hon. bearers a merry Xmas and a prosperous New Year.

In company with the Chairman he visited Benaraby for the sports, part proceeds going to the Ambulance, which will amount to approximately £30.

The report was adopted.

MR. FORDE'S REPRESENTATIVES

Gladstone Visited

Major H. V. Howe, military secretary, and Mr. R. J. Gibbons, private secretary to the Deputy Prime Minister (Mr. F. M. Forde), have completed a three day visit to Gladstone and district, after receiving numerous deputations, interviews, etc., principally with industrial bodies.

Several interviews dealt with man power problems and applications for releases from the Army for primary and essential industries.

Messrs. Darling, Vock and Caterson, officers of the A.M.I.E. Union, dealing with industrial objections to meat rationing, pointed out the unnecessary waste of meatworks by-products. They stated that pigs' heads, trotters, neck bones, tripes, and sheep's brains were being dumped into pots for fertiliser prod[illegible] loss was substantial, from ave[illegible] 1400 cattle and up to 2000 sh[illegible] killed each week in season.

MUTUAL LIFE SOCIETY

Sound Progress

Melbourne, December 16.

The 67th annual meeting of the Society was held to-day. The Chairman (Mr. J. T. Thompson) said that as nearly 1700 of the staff had been released for war service, thus disturbing normal activities, the issue of 100,450 policies, ordinary and industrial, assuring £10,654,229, and the completion of accident department new business assuring £2,427,106 were satisfactory results.

The income had grown to £7,424,880, an increase of £317,545. £3,170,[illegible] was paid to policyholders, £2,130,912 being paid in maturity claims. Expenses were substantially lower than for the previous year. £100,000 had been transferred to the General Contingency Fund.

The funds increased by £2,681,349. Mr. Thompson drew an analogy between the Society's business and that of a superannuation fund which is comprised of a number of members who co-operate for their mutual protection and provision of mutual benefits at retirement or death. In each case the funds are held for the purpose of meeting liabilities to the members while they belong solely to the members. A life society is not a wealthy institution. The funds of this Society, £40,889,551, required for meeting claims, are held in respect of over 1,200,000 policies, the average amount per policy being very small.

More than £10,000,000 had been subscribed to war loans, £4,090,000 being contributed last year. The Board is prepared as a contribution to post-war rehabilitation, to embark on a housing scheme on a large scale. Members will expect to have first claim on the funds when the time is opportune for the Society's plans to be put into operation.

A further reserve of £185,000 had been made for unforeseen contingencies, and the possible consequences of the war, while bonuses on the same scales as for 1943 had been approved. These bonuses will be credited in the Society's records to participating policies, and will commence to operate from 1st January, 1944.

The Chairman, after extending the sympathy of the Board to the relatives of members of the staff who have been wounded or killed in active service, expressed appreciation of the efficient services of both the field and indoor staffs.

CALLIOPE

Ambulance Dance

The monthly Ambulance dance and euchre was held at Calliope last Saturday night, and in spite of weather conditions the function was largely attended.

Dancing, as usual, was kept going in full swing by Hon. Bearer G. Curran, who acted as M.C. Miss M. Archay played excellent dance music, and was assisted by Mr. Don Cameron and Miss B. Rideout, who played the extras.

Monte Carlo was won by Mrs. C. Brown and Mr. W. Holmes, and the spot one-step by Mrs. Michel and Mr. Jack Myine.

Euchre was again in the capable hands of Mr. Sam Dickenson, and the lady's prize was won by Mrs. Tom Wright and the gent's by Mr. J. Kerocos.

Groceries (raffled) was won by Mrs. Cameron, of Dan dan, with ticket No. 1237, and the water melons by Miss M. Archay, of Calliope, with ticket No. 1655. These were donated by Mr. W. Watt, of Nagoorin.

Raffle ticket selling was in the hands of Hon. Bearer A. R. Barker and Mr. Joe Bensted junr.

On behalf of the Brigade the M.C. thanked the people for their assistance at the dances held at Calliope during the year, and hoped they would continue to come along next year. He wished them all a merry Xmas and a prosperous New Year.

The next dance will be held at Calliope on Saturday night, January 8.

CRICKET

PASTIMES-VALLEYS MATCH

Notes in Passing

(By "Player")

Last Sunday, on the local "battlefield," we saw Pastimes and Valley play a very up-and-down game.

Pastimes won the toss and sent Valleys to the wicket, and they in turn scored 110, Lester 30 and Otto (a junior) 20 being the best scorers. The best Pastimes bowlers were K. Ross, 3 for 25, and G. Beale, 3 for 17.

Pastimes retaliated with 89. Top scorers being Campbell 22 and Beale 22. Best Valley bowlers were Ryalls 7 for 34, and Hadgraft 1 for 14.

Clohessy and Curran opened, and after a rather good start Curran was bowled by Stitt. Go forward to them, Tim, not back.

Otto then joined Clohessy, and the scoring improved, Otto showing that he can hit a ball and play it with the full face of the bat. Do not walk away from them, Snow; stand up to them.

Clohessy then went l.b.w. Fred, please keep your legs away from the wicket, and use your bat to stop them with.

Mark Lester gave a good exhibition of batting, and showed he can play a good leg shot.

Young Jones, another junior, then came in, but did not like slow bowling, and was out for 1.

Benny Ryalls followed, and after scoring 6 departed, being caught by Stitt.

Cliff Schmidt arrived, and scored 2, and was then out. Short and sweet, Cliff.

Joe Jefferis equalled Cliff's score. He tried hard to lift Beale out of the ground, missed, and was out l.b.w.

Vic. Smith scored 7, and then went the way of his partners.

An ex-Valley player of yore in Jack Hadgraft then came in, and was unconquered for 18. Nice whack, Jack, after such a long absence from the game.

Pat Johnstone took centre, then "duck" for dinner. Pat, your average is slipping.

Of Pastimes' batting:

Ross and Campbell opened, and after scoring 4 Ross was bowled by Ryalls, and looked rather surprised when it happened.

Tanner was next, and made 6. I thought he was out when caught by Ryalls, but the umpire said "nay."

Jack Busteed was not at all comfortable, and was out for 2.

Gilbert Beale joined Campbell, and went on his merry way, and then lost his captain, run out.

Tom Costello then set to with a will, but after scoring 13 was dismissed.

Dave Joyce was next, and after scoring 5 was run out.

Cyril Stitt put his legs in front of one, and left after getting 7.

Cec. Jefferis came in, walked out to one from Ryalls, and Joe Jefferis did the rest.

Tom Duncan scored 1, and was then bowled by Hadgraft.

Allen Edwards was undefeated for none, and all were out for 89.

The second innings of Valleys was more or less a sort of practice to my mind, but we saw some good batting, especially young Otto, who showed that Gladstone has junior cricketers of ability, if only they could be taught a few things.

Valleys, in their second attempt, scored 131, which gave them a lead of 152 with an hour to play.

Pastimes then got going, and compiled 110 for the loss of two wickets at stumps. Ross, 53 not out, and Costello 44, were top scorers.

On the day's play some comment is necessary.

Why do captains who win the toss always send the opposition to bat? On turf I can believe it: on concrete I cannot.

Bad fielding and catching are still bad factors. One would think that some players are too frightened to bend to field a ball, while others try with one hand. Some use their feet, but remember, your hands are still the safest.

When will captains name one player to go for a catch, not two or three, and then they all stop waiting for the other to take it. Good batsmen don't give too many chances, so grasp every chance you can.

Good returns to the wicket mean a lot to the keeper, and perhaps a wicket, as was shown last Sunday.

Another factor that can be improved upon is the running between the wickets. Too much indecision. One man calls, and one man only. Watch your partner, not the whole field, when running.

I believe the Association is trying to get a game with Rockhampton over the Xmas holidays, but will let you know about that later. So adieu until next week.

CRICKET

PASTIMES-VALLEYS MATCH

Notes in Passing

(By "Player")

Last Sunday, on the local "battlefield," we saw Pastimes and Valleys play a very up-and-down game.

Pastimes won the toss and sent Valleys to the wicket, and they in turn scored 110, Lester 30 and Otto (a junior) 20 being the best scorers. The best Pastimes bowlers were K. Ross, 3 for 25, and G. Beale, 3 for 17.

Pastimes retaliated with 89. Top scorers being Campbell 22 and Beale 22. Best Valley bowlers were Ryalls 7 for 34, and Hadgraft 1 for 14.

Clohessy and Curran opened, and after a rather good start Curran was bowled by Stitt. Go forward to them, Tim, not back.

Otto then joined Clohessy, and the scoring improved, Otto showing that he can hit a ball and play it with the full face of the bat. Do not walk away from them, Snow; stand up to them.

Clohessy then went l.b.w. Fred, please keep your legs away from the wicket, and use your bat to stop them with.

Mark Lester gave a good exhibition of batting, and showed he can play a good leg shot.

Young Jones, another junior, then came in, but did not like slow bowling, and was out for 1.

Benny Ryalls followed, and after scoring 6 departed, being caught by Stitt.

Cliff Schmidt arrived, and scored 2, and was then out. Short and sweet, Cliff.

Joe Jefferis equalled Cliff's score. He tried hard to lift Beale out of the ground, missed, and was out l.b.w.

Vic. Smith scored 7, and then went the way of his partners.

An ex-Valley player of yore in Jack Hadgraft then came in, and was unconquered for 18. Nice whack, Jack, after such a long absence from the game.

Pat Johnstone took centre, then "duck" for dinner. Pat, your average is slipping.

Of Pastimes' batting:

Ross and Campbell opened, and after scoring 4 Ross was bowled by Ryalls, and looked rather surprised when it happened.

Tanner was next, and made 6. I thought he was out when caught by Ryalls, but the umpire said "nay."

Jack Busteed was not at all comfortable, and was out for 2.

Gilbert Beale joined Campbell, and went on his merry way, and then lost his captain, run out.

Tom Costello then set to with a will, but after scoring 13 was dismissed.

Dave Joyce was next, and after scoring 5 was run out.

Cyril Stitt put his legs in front of one, and left after getting 7.

Cec. Jefferis came in, walked out to one from Ryalls, and Joe Jefferis did the rest.

Tom Duncan scored 1, and was then bowled by Hadgraft.

Allen Edwards was undefeated for none, and all were out for 89.

The second innings of Valleys was more or less a sort of practice to my mind, but we saw some good batting, especially young Otto, who showed that Gladstone has junior cricketers of ability, if only they could be taught a few things.

Valleys, in their second attempt, scored 131, which gave them a lead of 152 with an hour to play.

Pastimes then got going, and compiled 110 for the loss of two wickets at stumps. Ross, 53 not out, and Costello 44, were top scorers.

On the day's play some comment is necessary.

Why do captains who win the toss always send the opposition to bat? On turf I can believe it: on concrete I cannot.

Bad fielding and catching are still bad factors. One would think that some players are too frightened to bend to field a ball, while others try with one hand. Some use their feet, but remember, your hands are still the safest.

When will captains name one player to go for a catch, not two or three, and then they all stop waiting for the other to take it. Good batsmen don't give too many chances, so grasp every chance you can.

Good returns to the wicket mean a lot to the keeper, and perhaps a wicket, as was shown last Sunday.

Another factor that can be improved upon is the running between the wickets. Too much indecision. One man calls, and one man only. Watch your partner, not the whole field, when running.

I believe the Association is trying to get a game with Rockhampton over the Xmas holidays, but will let you know about that later. So adieu until next week.

PREFERENCE TO SOLDIERS

A Hollow Mockery

(By "Returned Soldier")

One of the Victorian delegates to the Labour Party's Federal Conference is Mr. P. J. Clarey, M.L.C. and trade union big shot.

In fact, he is such a big shot in union circles that he was invited to say a few words over the Australian Broadcasting Commission's network.

He utilised his time in an attack on preference to returned soldiers. Preference to returned men was a pernicious thing, he said, because in a properly ordered community there should be jobs for everyone.

What he did not mention was the fact that, while unions condemned preference to returned soldiers they wholeheartedly endorsed preference to unionists.

That doesn't sound quite right, does it?

Now, if the unions are not prepared to throw overboard preference to trade unionists, why should they attack preference to returned soldiers?

There are a good many of us returned from this war and the last who feel that preference is a hollow mockery in the form that it has been practised up to date. We are willing to take our chance of getting a job.

But we are not willing to have preference to unionists put into practice as a move to keep us out of jobs.

Particularly, as many of the unions are not admitting new members now, and many more will have closed their books before the war ends.

There are 800,000 people in the services, and a very great percentage of them are not unionists. This cannot be denied, because on present figures, which are greatly inflated by war work, there are only a million unionists in Australia.

And most of them are in civilian jobs.

We see no reason why they should be given preference over servicemen for jobs after the war.

released for war serivce, thus disenough for everybody after the war, then let Mr. Clarey and the other union and political bosses toss out union preference, and let the unionist take his chance for a job on his ability.

But if they don't think the jobs will go round, then let them come right out into the open and say that, in their opinion, a man who pays his union dues and strikes when he is told, is more worthy of a job than the man who has fought for his country. That would at least be honest.

They can't have it both ways.

Feature—to concentrate his resources in greatest strength for striking where the enemy is weakest. Thus is complete victory in the field possible to any commander.

This is the fundamental rule of military strategy on the sea, in the air, on land.

Thus the positive role of intelligence fundamentally is to collect information about the enemy, pass it on to the commander, who will then decide where and when to strike.

Behind every military victory on land, sea, and air, is a story of information gained which enabled the commander to surprise the enemy, attack him with superior forces, and to defeat him.

This is as true of the Coral Sea, of the Midway Island, and the Bismarck Sea battles as it is of Kokoda, Buna, Gona, and Alamein.

It must not be supposed that the merits of surprise as an essential element of victory are known only to the commander on our side.

Enemy commanders also have grasped the idea, and so every enemy commander also employs an Intelligence Service whose possitive role is to collect information about our resources and our intentions, so that he, the enemy commander, can surprise and defeat our forces, and thus earn the blessing of the Son of Heaven.

Thus we have a continuous battle of wits going on between the Intelligence Services of the combatants, each service striving to obtain information about its enemy, and each striving likewise to prevent the enemy Intelligence Service gaining this information. And that is the negative, but no less important function of intelligence, to prevent the enemy getting this information.

This article, being the first of a series, is more by the way of an introduction to those to follow.

In the following articles you will be told something as to how intelligence operates, illustrated by facts.

...re 6 practical things that you and your ...do:-

(1) Buy and hold War Bonds to the limit of your capacity.

(2) Pay willingly your share of the taxes—even of increased taxes.

(3) Work as hard—and as long—on your job as you can so as to keep down the cost of the things or services you are producing.

(4) Provide for your own and your family's future by adequate life assurance. (Most of the money you put into Life Assurance will go into War Loans and so serve a double purpose.)

(5) Buy only what you need and make what you have last longer.

(6) Live faithfully by the rationing Rules and the Price Fixing codes.

If you do these things you will play your part in avoiding the tragedy of inflation and in making your personal Post-War world a happy one.

TELLING THE ENEMY.

KEEPING INFORMATION AWAY

"Loose Lips Lose Lives"

(No. 1)

This, and other similar articles to follow, has been compiled by Military Intelligence, A.M.F. They are being published with the hope that the public, whose co-operation is so necessary in so many directions of this war effort, may be encouraged to greater deligence in thwarting the enemy's search for information.

All the illustrations are based on fact. They are more than that, they are facts. In some cases, names, places, times or other circumstances have been altered in the telling, to protect innocent people from possible injury: and in other cases similar alterations have been made so that the enemy may not be presented even in these articles with easily acquired information.

For the reader may be assured that at some future time during this war, despite the vigilence of our Intelligence Service, a copy of these articles will have been translated into Japanese, and will have been read diligently by bespectacled Intelligence Officers sitting behind desks at Tokyo.

A commander in the field without an Intelligence Service would be like a blind boxer in the ring; his opponent could prance around him with impunity and would be able to deliver the knock-out blow when and where he wished.

The positive role of Intelligence is to be the eyes, ears and other senses of the Commander, collecting and presenting to him in logical form every scrap of information that can possibly be obtained about the enemy.

The essence of a Commander's plan can always be resolved to this simple feature—to concentrate his resources in greatest strength for striking where the enemy is weakest. Thus is complete victory in the field possible to any commander.

This is the fundamental rule of military strategy on the sea, in the air, on land.

Thus the positive role of intelligence fundamentally is to collect information about the enemy, pass it on to the commander, who will then decide where and when to strike.

Behind every military victory on land, sea, and air, is a story of information gained which enabled the commander to surprise the enemy, attack him with superior forces, and to defeat him.
